BIG COAL STRIKE IS OVER AT LAST

GLACE BAY MINERS RETURN TO WORK AFTER TEN MONTHS OUT OF THE MINES.

A Settlement Is Made—Men Were Anxious to Get to Work Again and United Mine Officials Advised.

Halifax, N.S., April 29.—After ten months' strike, followed by military rule, with disorders, assaults, and suffering, the miners of the Dominion Coal Company at Glace Bay will return to work.

This was decided on at a meeting of the men held at the offices of the mine workers in Sydney, at which representatives from all the locals of the United Miner Owners still in Cape Breton. The men are going to work unconditionally.

After discussing the situation from every point, and realizing that they had nothing to gain by longer remaining out, the men took a vote on the question of whether they should go to work or continue on strike. This resulted in the majority of the representatives of the locals voting to return to work at once.

A LOCAL LADY IN CALIFORNIA EARTHQUAKE.

Miss F. Stevenson, daughter of Mr. Jas. Stevenson, ex.M.P., of this city, has been a guest at the Hotel del Coronado, Coronado Beach, California, for the past few months. Yesterday, relatives of this young lady, received letters from her, conveying the intelligence that "We have had another earthquake. This is the second within the past few weeks." The young lady goes on to say that she was awakened by a trembling, shaking sensation. In her letter she says, "There are only about one hundred guests left in the hotel, and the place seems deserted. I am looking anxiously forward to when I leave for New York, next week." Of course, judging by local standards, it is rather funny to speak of "only a hundred guests left in the hotel. Still, it is easily explained when it is noted that the Hotel del Coronado is the largest in the world.

Miss Stevenson leaves next week for New York and hopes to arrive shortly and spend the summer in Peterborough, where there are no earthquakes and the temperature is not 101 in the shade as at Coronado Beach. Miss Stevenson is not infatuated with the "glorious climate" of California, when that "glorious climate" includes bi-monthly earthquake, and fruit that does not possess as much flavor in a bushel as Canadian fruit conveys in a peck, and where the luxuriantly flowering roses and other flowers have no more scent than a dipper full of Otonabee River water.

The splendid work of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is daily coming to light. No such grand remedy for liver and bowel troubles was ever known before. Thousands bless them for curing constipation, sick headache, billiousness jaundice and indigestion. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. John Finlay Convalescent.

Mr. John Finlay, ex-M.P., who has been very ill for several weeks past, we are pleased to learn, is recovering. On Tuesday he was able to be down stairs for a short time, and if he continues to improve, will be able to be about in a short time. Mr. Finlay's numerous friends throughout the country will be pleased to hear of his convalescence.

Vicious Dog is Exiled.

It seems that at least one dog has escaped from the Medes and Persian bylaw passed recently against the too frequent canine. At the police court an Elm street resident, was charged with keeping a dog that the complainant said had bitten him in the right hand. Three teeth marks constituted exhibit A. Medical aid was called in after the attack. Other witnesses claimed that the dog was vicious and had bitten a child. The owner must send the pet out of town today. It was remarked by a police court habitue that 'Tis a ——— good thing hydrophobia has not opened the ball in Peterborough or there would be some mighty scared folks."

PROMINENT MAN RELATED HERE, DIES IN TORONTO.

Mr. R. L. Davidson Passes Away After a Long Illness—Funeral in Toronto.

A Proposition That Should Appeal to Investors.

We call the attention of investors to the advertisement of the above company, to be found elsewhere in this issue. It is a clean-cut proposition, and one that should appeal to capitalists. There is, we believe, a great future before the company, and those who get in now, at the low rate at which the stock is being sold, will have the best of it. That the stock will speedily advance, there is scarcely any doubt.

NINE PERSONS PERISHED IN BIG HOTEL FIRE AT CORNWALL

AWFUL MORNING TRAGEDY IN BUSY FACTORY TOWN 170 MILES EAST OF PETERBOROUGH.

Major Beattie, London, Has Narrow Escape—Are Now Recovering the Bodies—Partial List of Dead—Thrilling Rescues by Courageous Citizens—Loss is Quarter of a Million.

Cornwall, Ont., April 29.—For the second time in about thirteen months Cornwall has had a fatal hotel fire.

At an early hour this morning the Rossmore Hotel and several adjoining properties were totally destroyed and it is feared that at least nine lives were lost in the conflagration, along with over $200,000 worth of property.

BURNED VERY QUICKLY.

The fire started somewhere about 3 a.m., and spread very quickly. Just how it started cannot be ascertained as yet, and may never be. The night clerk claims that when he made his hourly rounds he discovered a fire and the smoke drove him from the kitchen. It spread far and fast, as he ran through the corridors rousing the sleeping inmates. One of these, F. Birchard, of Cornwall High school staff, ran out and rang the fire alarm.

The local brigade turned out promptly and made a desperate fight, but the flames had got too great a start on them and the hotel was soon a roaring furnace. The firemen made a great effort to save the adjoining buildings, but with poor success for a while, but the fire is now under control.

Three score persons slept in the Rossmore House last night. Of these twenty were regular boarders, twenty were transient guests, mostly commercial men, and sixteen were employes, besides Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ross and Mr. and Mrs. John Ross.

Hairbreadth escapes were very numerous and funny, fifteen people clad as a rule in their night robes, reached terra firma by means of the ropes with which every room was equipped.

THOSE MISSING AND PROBABLY DEAD

Those who are missing and probably dead, so far as can be ascertained, are as follows:

Charles Gagne, teller in the Bank of Montreal, a native of Levis, Quebec, who came to Cornwall from Danville, Quebec, a few months ago And a Cornwall girl named White.

Ben Fielding, an accountant in the Sterling Bank. He was a native of Liverpool, England, and came here from Toronto about nine months ago.

Charles C. Gray, Managing Director of the Ivys Modern Bedstead Company.

Mrs. C. C. Gray, and two children.

William Holmes, porter, late of Montreal.

Ernest Buller, bell boy.

Mrs. W. Taylor Archibald, an aged invalid, who has been a boarder at the Rossmore for half a dozen years.

Decided Not to Grant Extension of Time

Last night the License Commissioners met in Inspector Stewart's office and transacted business. Considerable interest was manifested in the outcome of the meeting as it was thought that the extension of the time limit to these hotels out of might be extended, however there will be no further extension.

To Be Paid to Bank of Nova Scotia.

At the meeting of the License Commissioners last night, it was decided that in future all license fees from the hotels of this city, shall be paid into the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Awful Cruelty to Jews

New York, April 29.—The Jewish Daily News today received advices to the effect that 2,500 Jewish families are expelled from Kieff, Russia. This is being done by government sanction. Panic stricken men, women and children are being dragged from their beds and thrust out of the city destitute. Heavy escorts of brutal soldiery are driving the refugees on foot to the settlements whence they came to Kieff.

Dare-Devil French Aviator to Fly From Paris to London

London, April 29.—Conqueror and vanquished, Louis Paulhan and Graham White, are the heroes of London today. The dare-devil Frenchman, at a luncheon at the Hotel Savoy, received the $50,000 prize, donated by Lord Northcliffe, which he won by his great 186 miles' flight from London to Manchester. White at the same time received the hundred guinea (8725), cup donated as a consolation prize because of his magnificent attempt to wrestle victory from defeat.

Both men on the appearance on the street today were given ovations that a Caesar might envy.

Louis Paulhan, who a few years ago was a penniless clown in a little provincial French show—half circus—half vaudeville—today appeared before a gathering of the foremost sportsmen, as the man who accomplished the daring flight in the history of aviation.

It became known today that Paulhan is going to attempt a trip even more hazardous than the Manchester one. He is ambitious to fly from Paris to London.

The Frenchman has figured on the course, and has decided that the 260 mile trip can be made in eight hours allowed a two-hour rest at his only halting place, Boulogne, where the fuel would be replenished. Besides this flight, the crossing of the channel by Louis Bleriot would drop into comparative insignificance, that 23 mile journey then being remarkable only for its priority.

In this Paris to London journey, Paulhan would be striving for no prize save that of the honor.

"EVEN IN YOUTH" NEVER STRONG"

Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches and and sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those dull feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and healthful. Well I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in cleaning up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvellous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, the wife of Capt. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all others, men and women, can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the aeystem in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold in yellow boxes. 25c. All dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

$30,000 FOR SEWERAGE AT SOUTH END OF TOWN

The City Board of Works met in business session last night, with a full complement of members present.

The city engineer asked for $19,000 to expend on roads and bridges this year; but the board cut this figure down to $16,000 as their estimates would not allow of an expenditure above that amount.

The engineer estimated the cost of providing adequate sewerage for the south end of the town at $30,000 and this amount was acquiesced in by the board.

Is the Dog By-Law Legal or Not?

The Legal Committee of the City Council met in full strength last night, with Chairman Ald. Gillespie presiding.

The 57th Band will receive $25 for their services on Saturday last. This was decided on on motion of Ald. Phelan, seconded by the mayor

Ald. Turner asked that the dog by-law be enforced. His documentary evidence showed that 75 per cent. of the general consensus of opinion was ranged on his side. He asked that the city advertize for a dog catcher and premises to constitute a dog pound.

City Solicitor Hall doubted that the leash clause could be enforced.

Ald. Phelan did not think the city could legally compel a citizen to pay license for a dog and to keep it in control of leash.

Ald. Turner argued that the sooner the dog bylaw is enforced the better for the city. The bylaw is a reasonable measure. He would like to see the measure tested in the police courts.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That tenders be asked for a dog catcher and a suitable pound.

The mayor thought the bylaw a very unreasonable one.

Ald. Gillespie characterized the council as weak in passing the bylaw and not providing for its enforcement.

The matter was left in abeyance for the aldermen in session on Monday night to thresh out.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

INS AND OUTS.

Everything appears to indicate that the T.A.S. has been having the time of its life.

Some one remarked to The Times the other day that if Chief Howard is also made chief of the police force, it will not prove fatal to the men on the force. Perhaps not, but they would just as soon be killed as scared to death.

Some boys accidentally hit the editor of The Times with a rubber ball as he was passing along a street where the lads were practising baseball, but he merely laughed. There is nobody more amiable than the editor of this g.f.j., when things are going his way.

We can all agree, however, that the local Conservative party has a fine future behind it.

A baby in Quebec has learned to talk fluently at the age of seven months. No sex is mentioned, but this g.f.j. is prepared to bet $365,000 that it is a girl.

Dr. Locke, before the Canadian Club a few nights ago, remarked that married soldiers are the bravest. Perhaps war does not seem much of anything to them.

The Examiner says that spring openings in connection with the millinery business helps trade generally. Yes, women usually enjoy dropping into a spring opening.

Get your ear down and listen to that fluttering sound. It is the straw hat trying to break through and get out.

The License Commissioners met last night to consider giving the "cut-off" hotelmen an extension of time in which to dispose of their stocks.

THE BLOW WOULD HAVE KILLED AN OX

Cold Blooded Murder was Certainly Committed—Old Man's Skull was Crushed In

Hamilton, April 29.—That the inquest at Stoney Creek tonight in the death of Elijah Pinton, the prominent old farmer, who was found cruelly murdered near his home on Tuesday morning, will be productive of sensational developments the authorities intimate is almost certain. They seem to have something they are holding back. Just what it is they will not say, but it will probably be made known tonight.

The evidence, that will be awaited with the most interest is the report of the autopsy which will likely show that Pinton was dealt two terrible blows and probably struck a third time, and the story of Reeve Millen, who is a very close friend of the family. Mr. Millen was a pallbearer at the funeral this afternoon. Tonight he is expected to repeat the conversation he had with the murdered man the day before the tragedy. This, the authorities seem satisfied from hints Mr. Millen has dropped, will help them to establish a motive for the crime.

BLANK WARRANT READY.

There is reason to believe that the police will have a blank warrant ready in the event of anything developing at the inquest tonight to justify an arrest. The authorities frankly admit that developments of a most important nature may be looked for shortly.

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for Diarrhoea dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible, and so says every one that has used it. Sold by all dealers.

Canada's Forces More Up to Mark

London, April 29.—The reason given why Lord Kitchener did not visit Canada is that the Dominion forces are farther advanced on the accepted model than those of the Australian Commonwealth. It is stated the Hon Commonwealth. It is stated that a few points of training remain to be settled after consultation with Sir John French, whose advice will be unofficial.

Lord Crewe speaking at the Press Fund dinner said that unless there could be a regular daily interchange of opinion, not merely on the great events, but on everyday events, between Britain and the overseas dominions, he did not believe anything like a real union of empire could be ever achieved. It was not the privilege of the press to play the first principal part in bringing about this means of union.

Knights of Pythias Convention.

The Legal Committee of the City Council were asked last night to appropriate $50 towards entertaining the Knights of Pythias when convenienging in this city from July 12th to July 16th, and to furnish them a hall in which to meet on that occasion.

The delegation were advised to consult the Board of Education as to whether they could be accommodated with a room in the Collegiate Institute or not. The question of a money grant will be considered later.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will clear the sour stomach, sweeten the breath and create a healthy appetite. They promote the flow of gastric juice, thereby inducing good digestion. Sold by all dealers.

THREE-QUARTER CENTURY ANNIVERSARY AT ST. PAUL'S.

Tomorrow the first Sunday in May and a week from tomorrow will be celebrated in St. Paul's Presbyterian church in Peterborough. This celebration is due to the fact that this is the seventy-fifth anniversary of that place of worship.

Tomorrow the Rev. Robert Johnson, D.D., of Montreal, will occupy the pulpit. In the afternoon a special service will be conducted for the children, and will be addressed by Dr. Johnson. On the evening, May 2nd, a public meeting will be held, at which representatives from the different ecclesiical bodies of the city will give addresses. It is also expected that some of our public men, including Judge Huycke and a representative of the council, will speak. On Wednesday evening, May 4th, the choir will give a sacred concert in the church. They will be assisted by Mr. A. L. E. Davies, basso, and Mr. Hollingshead, tenor. A program of much musical merit has been prepared. A week from tomorrow communion will be observed at the morning service.

A week from next Monday a social will be held from six to eight o'clock in the evening after which a public meeting will be held when former members of St. Paul's will give addresses bearing on by-gone days.

HORSE DISTEMPER.

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares Nerviline is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline. Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P.E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat s welled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I NERVILINE tried different remedies, but was unable CURES to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering QUICKLY till I started to use Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in cows and horses, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 25c., five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.

So many things happened during the last week of the session at Queen's University that the mere enumeration of them makes a formidable list. The announcements of the medical results on Friday night was followed Satyrday by the list of graduates in Arts, Science and Theology. On Sunday the Rev. Herbert Symonds, D.D., of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, preached the sermon to the graduating class. On Monday the full lists of all classes in Arts and Science were posted. The standard required this year was slightly higher than before and more rigidly enforced. Of the 80 who applied for the degree of B. A., no less than 17 failed and about 20 per cent. of the first and second year students failed in the majority of their classes. In spite of the higher requirements, the list of graduates is larger than in previous years, except in Medicine, where only 30 obtained their coveted M. D. In Science one man obtained the M.Sc., and 40 the B.S.c. In Arts there were 66 B.A.'s, 23 MIA.'s and one Ph.D! In Theology 8 got their testamur.

It is noticeable that a large proportion of those graduated are from outside the Province of Ontario. Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, the Prairie Provinces, and British Columbia are all represented. Of those who come from Ontario an increasing number are from west of Toronto.

The valedictories on Tuesday were interesting and highly enjoyable. Most of the speakers took advantage of the occasion to point out how certain professors could improve their methods of teaching. Doubtless the staff will profit by this advice. The Convocation on Wednesday was the usual brilliant academic display of many-colored hoods and gowns — green, purple, yellow, crimson and white hoods on the sober black gowns of fantastic cut. The services this year were notable for the installation of Sir Sandford Fleming K.C.M.G., as Chancellor for the eleventh time. He has already served ten periods of three years. Immediately after Convocation the audience walked across the campus to see Sir James Whitney lay the corner stone of the new Chemistry building, presented by the Ontario Government.

Undoubtedly the most important work of the week was the part not open to the public, the meetings of the University Council, Trustee Board and Commission of the General Assembly. The Council refrained from discussing any further the question of Queen's and the Church. The Trustees by a vote of 19 to 4 and the Commission by a vote of 11-7 decided to accept in its entirety the report of the sub-committee of Trustees and Commission appointed in December. If the details of this report are approved by the General Assembly at Halifax in June, Queen's will be legally as technically free from denominationalism as she has been in spirit.

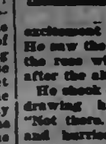
Chapter 10



FIVE miles through the dark, under the bronze lessen, expectant stars. The car was on the broad curve now with the road bent to their left above the river to pass the skeleton railroad bridge. But Harry knew neither place nor time. He was conscious only of motion—swift, swallow-like, irresistible—this and the racing picture in his brain stenciled on the blur of that closed around him. Th excitement of the other's demeanor. He saw the faint glow in the corner of the rose window. Were there thieves after the altar plate?

He shook off the eager hand that was drawing him toward the window. "Not there. Come this way," he said and hurried toward the porch. He tried the chapel door. It was fast. He had a key to this in his pocket. He inserted it with caution, opened the door noiselessly and went in, the street preacher at his heels.

What the bishop saw was photographed instantaneously on his mind in fiery, indelible colors. It ate into his soul like hot iron into quivering flesh, searing itself upon his memory. The evangelist of the pave had been horrified, shocked to word and action; the bishop was frozen, inarticulate, impaled. For any evil in Hugh Stires he was prepared—since the forgery. But Hugh's companion now was the man whom he himself had ordained and anointed by the laying on of hands with the chrism of his holy ministry. An irrepressible exclamation burst from his lips.

With the sound both men at the table started to their feet. Hugh, with a single glance behind him, uttering a wild laugh, leaped the railing, dashed through the study and vanished into the night. Harry, as though suddenly turned to stone, stood staring at the accusatory figure, with the eager form of the evangelist behind it.

To the bishop it seemed the attitude of guilt detected.

What was Harry Sanderson thinking as under that speechless regard he mechanically gathered the scattered cards and lifted the little cross and the unopened bag of double eagles from the table? Where was the odd excitement, the strange exaltation, that had possessed him? The spindles in his brain had stilled, and an algid calm had succeeded as abrupt as the quiet, deadly assurance with which his mind now saw the pit into which his own feet had led him.

He blew out the candle, replaced it carefully in its altar bracket, made shift to wipe the wax from the table and slowly, half blindly and without a word, went into the study.

The bishop came forward, drew the key from the inside of the study door, closed it and locked it from the chapel side. Harry did not turn, but he was actually conscious of every sound. He heard the door shut sharply, the harsh grate of the key in the lock, and the second came to him like the last sentence—the realization of a soul on whom the gate of the good closes forever.

In the dark silence of the chapel Hallelujah Jones smote his thin hands together approvingly as he followed the bishop to the outer door. There the elder man laid his hand on his shoulder.

"Let him that thinketh he standeth," he said, "take heed lest he fall! Let not this knowledge be spread abroad that it make the unrighteous to blaspheme. When you pray for your own soul tonight pray for the soul of that man from whom God's face is turned away!"

Something in the churchless evangelist bowed to the voice of ecclesiastical authority. He went without a word.

In the study Harry Sanderson stood for a moment with the cards and the bag of double eagles in his hand. Finally he put the cards and the canvas bag methodically into the safe and closed it. Then he knelt by his desk and said, clearly and aloud—to that cold, inner symbol of consciousness in his soul:

"O God, I do not know if thou art, as has been said, a lover of the good that is in the bad, and of the bad that is in the good, and a lover of them both. But I know that I am in a final extremity. I can no longer do my labor consistently before the world and before thee. If I am delivered it must be by some way of thine own that I cannot conceive, for I cannot help myself. Amen."

He rose to his feet, mechanically put on a coat that was lying on a chair—Hugh's coat, but he did not notice this—and [illegible] passed out to the street. The motor car stood there. He took his place in the forward seat and threw on the power.

Rushing joyously, Rummy, the brown spaniel, tore out of the gate, but his master did not stop. The night adventure pastured the moving car made a frantic leap to gain his seat, was missed, and the huge armored object struck and hurled him to the gutter.

Harry did not hear the sharp yelp of pain. His head was on the lever, pushing it over, over, to its last notch, and the great mechanism responding with a leap, sped away, faster and faster, through the night.

Toronto, April 26.—After being blind in both eyes for 15 years, a skilful operation has restored her sight to Mrs. Elizabeth Hemstead, a widow, who resides at 63 Palmerston avenue.

When she was 35 years old, Mrs. Hemstead suffered from nervous troubles, which are supposed to have blinded her. Until last summer all was dark to her. Then Dr. F. C. Trebilcock, of 722 Spadina avenue, operated on one eye, and when the bandages were removed after two weeks, Mrs. Hemstead was able to see quite plainly out of it. For nine months she has been able to get around and even venture out on the streets with only one eye to give her sight.

The operation was so successful that she resolved to try to restore the sight of the other eye also, so at the Western Hospital on Tuesday, she underwent a second operation, Dr. Trebilcock again officiating. Although the bandages are yet on the eye, Mrs. Hemstead asserts that she knows the second operation is just as great a success as the first.

Mrs. Hemstead is the mother of eight children, most of them grown up. She has many friends in the city who will be delighted to hear that her sight is restored.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that sleepless, restless and despondent nights are unknown. A clear intellect, the face full and ruddy, energy returned to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man—your wife cannot be a widow. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Constantine dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair came, memory poor, etc. Nothing in the fingers nor in the dose so told me of Kennedy, though I had put all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent three many patients and continue to do so.

TAIL OF THE COMET.

Some believe Halley's comet's tail is intensely hot. But this heat must be thinly distributed, owing to the filmy character of the tail. Moreover the earth has an enveloping blanket of cool air to save it. The foundryman can wet his finger and plunge it safely into molten iron. The air blanket would act like a water jacket.

There is a chance yet that we won't touch the tail at all. The full observations have not yet been taken. The final calculations may show that the tail will miss the earth by a few thousand miles—a miscroscopical distance in space—but still enough so that we will pass the tail in blissful ignorance of its nearness.

At any rate there seems little danger of any harm to come to us of the earth. The thing to do is to hold tight, don't lose courage, and keep your eyes open. For you're likely to see thing you can tell about to your grandchildren.

On May 18 many of us earth beings will witness a sight the like of which has never before been seen by man, at least since man have kept a written history of events. On that day for over three hours we shall be viewing the sun through the great blazing head of a comet.

Of a sudden our earth, swinging through space at 65,000 miles per hour will plunge into the tail of Halley's comet, close to the neck of it. The tail will have whipped against it. The tail will have whipped against us at its own speed of 105,000 miles an hour. Thus this globe will dive through the luminous haze at a total speed of 170,000 miles an hour, 47 miles per second, the earth entirely immersing herself in the celestial mist in less than three minutes, yet so thick is the tail at the point of perforation—600,000 miles that we shall be nearly three hours and a half passing through.

What will happen? No two scientists agree in detail. They are, however, practically certain there will be no harm done to any creature of the earth, save the harm which fear does. But the superstitious are almost certain to be stricken with mortal terror during that three hours.

For those three hours will show to men the most sublime, awe-inspiring display of heavenly fireworks this earth has witnessed since space roared with the primordial flames of creation, the astronomers say.

IF SICK--WHY PAY
Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done! Now you would not willingly pay for that which you have already paid.

Then why pay for the same remedy a second time, when you can get it free?

Positively, I promise to send free to any sufferer from any disease of the stomach, liver, kidneys, blood, nerves, heart, lungs, bowels, bladder, rheumatism, catarrh, piles, eczema, or any chronic ailment, a sample of my remedy, that has cured more than Dr. Sheop's Restorative, which is sold by druggists for that by writing. Temporary relief is not a cure. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine. The kidneys must be built right, the liver must be toned right, the stomach must be made right, the nerves must be fed right, before you can be well. Then how can a dose of a few pellets, pills, tablets, or liquids cure you? Can they make new nerves, no longer than a dime almost? Can they make the kidneys, liver, stomach, bowels, bladder, blood, heart, lungs, nerves, rheumatism, catarrh, piles, eczema, or any chronic ailment, a sample of my remedy, that has cured more than Dr. Sho

The LIME JUICE CLUB

A Long Way After The Lime Kiln Club

After an interval of inactivity and oblivion, extending over a period of several years, the Lime Juice Club is once again a going concern. The president, who has been travelling incog in foreign lands, arrived home some weeks ago, and at once was set upon by hundreds of the old members who had been associated with the club in days gone by, and no quarter was given until he promised to reorganize. It is needless to say that when the fist finally went forth calling the meeting for last night, there was much enthusiasm among the old members. Mr. Croft said that he felt like a two-year-old when the joyful tidings reached him, and Brother Snowden fell over a dog and two chairs in his haste to get to the telephone to inform the mayor. Stepoff Brown was seen heading north, evidently to notify the members living in that section, including the Lakefield brethren. In a short time Hon. S. Gosslin, James Jones, Cripes Mulcahey, Sir Isaac Walpole, Hallstone Wilson and several others were summoned and arrangements completed for holding the 26th annual meeting. Notices were at once sent out, and preparations made for the great opening which took place last night.

On this occasion, as on all others in which the club takes a hand, the Hall of Wisdom was crowded to the doors. In the visitors' gallery were noticed His Worship, the Mayor, Aldermen Hicks, Morgan, Phelan, Batten and Messrs. Harry LeBrun, D. Davidson, Robert Fair, W. E. Loch, W. Bunton and many others.

DELEGATES ARRIVE.

Delegates from all parts of Canada and the United States began to arrive on Thursday morning, and when the club was called to order every Province in the Dominion, and many countries in Europe were represented. The largest delegation came from Lindsay, while Bobcaygeon had the smallest. Among the representatives were seven generals, two marquises, eighteen lords, one hundred and two knights, one hundred and twenty-six honorables and three hundred and eleven mayors and reeves. A reception committee of twenty-six active members in good standing were constantly at the railway stations, stage and steamboat landings, and as fast as the visitors arrived they were escorted to the Hall of Wisdom and treated to a iced tea.

THE ANNUAL PICNIC.

The annual picnic took place yesterday to Chemong Park, which had been kindly placed at the disposal of the club by Mr. George H. Brown. The party packed themselves in teams and rigs of every description, which had been chartered for the occasion, and a start was made for the park about 9 o'clock. Such had been the vigilence on the part of the Committee on Silence and Repose that nothing was lacking to make the trip thoroughly enjoyable. Bro. Cripes Mulcahey and Anvil McCann monopolized attention and were the admiration of the first carriage by their duets on the mouth organ, while the Lindsay brass band was employed to furnish other music and frighten the natives who might be lounging around on the roadsides.

AT THE PARK.

Arriving at the park an address of welcome was presented to the President on behalf of the Mud Lake Indians by Bros. Hopwood and Hartehorne, and was responded to on behalf of the club by Bro. Billy Brooks in a speech 27 feet long. Ice water, warm water, buttermilk, lemonade, lake water, Croft's ginger beer and Calcutt's lager was furnished in abundance while dancing was kept up at the pavilion in a manner that threatened dislocation of many ankle joints. The fancy step dancing of Bro. Danny Simons and Archie Moore in which the former excelled all previous records, helped to contribute to the general harmony. During the day, although no provision had been made for this kind of sport nine dog fights occurred at convenient intervals, while a wrestling match between Lemonade Jackson and Ginger Ale Spellman of Lakefield, in which Gingerale's heels flew around with such vigor that three dogs and a delegate from Bobcaygeon were knocked into the lake.

Climbing the greasy pole, jumping matches, foot races and boxing contests added to the pleasure of the occasion. A pair of boxing gloves furnished opportunity for Razor Baker and Hardware Bottom of Bobcaygeon to limber up a little, and during this performance Razor was knocked into the middle of next week and did not recover consciousness until over a gallon of Croft's ginger beer was wasted down his neck. The following is the official program:

Bro. Danny Simons, champion ankle-twister of the club—a history of the sugar beet industry in Peterborough with foot notes by the editor of The Review. This document can also be used for a dishcloth.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

At 5 o'clock the President's call was sounded and in a few moments all were on board for home. On the way down sport of all kinds was indulged in. Bro. Loch bid 40 without a king, and Bro. Ray went in the hole on a bid of 6, startled and amused the crowd in the first hand. In the second rig Bro. Cripes Mulcahey lost his mouth organ, which had been in the family for 36 years, and Bro. Stepoff Brown fell overboard. The mouth organ was not found, but Stepoff was, and he was pulled in the rig again, none the worse for his mishap.

THE BANQUET.

On arriving at Peterborough the crowd to a man proceeded to the Hall of Wisdom, where a magnificent banquet was in readiness. Several long tables were loaded with the following luxuries:

Pickles.
Bread	Mustard
Mustard	Bread
Pickles	Mustard
Onions	More Mustard
Cheese	More Cheese
	Pickles
	More Onions

The dessert included seven distinct dishes, while cold water, warm water and buttermilk liquidated the threests of the thirsty ones.

After the tables had been cleared of everything that could be eaten, the president arose amidst applause and proceeded to deliver his 26 annual oration. In his right hand he held the gavel of the club, while his left hand grasped a beautiful bequet of yellow, white and red roses, from the garden of Bro. Mason.

"It is with the deepest emotion that I rise to say a few words to you on this great occasion," you on this studeendous occasion," began the president, as he surveyed the vast sea of faces before him. "You are crowded together to hold our annual election and select from among you men who are to control the destinee of this great club for another year. I am told that several members have been pulling wires to secure the honored chair which I have held since our last election. While I have no objection in passing over this great honor to a worthy successor, at the same time I desire to say that I have, during my long term of office conducted the affairs of this great club as wisely as I knew how, and if again elected I will continue to do so. Most of you are acquainted with the history of this wonderful organization. Exactly a quarter of a century ago and one year on a Saturday six men and a dog met on the market square and organized the Lime Juice Club. At the next meeting there were eleven men and five dogs, and it has been going on in this way ever since, until now we possess a membership of 2012, saying nothing about dogs. During the last year in which this club was in active operation we added over 200 members to our list, absorbed 21 other societies, established flourishing branches at Lakefield, Slopeville, and other places, expelled 71 members for bad behavior, paid out $3.07 for relief, added 219 almanacs to our library and we are now running as smoothly as the Town Council. We have joined hands with the great authors, astronomers and philosophers, are O. K. with the learned professors and stand in with all the crowned heads of Europe. We have met this evening to elect officers. Bro. Frank Fairen will now pass the bean box.

THE RESULT.

Sir Richard McBride	3,200
Whalebone Weir	1
Hon. S. Gosslin	1
Jamied Jones	1
Cripes Mulcahey	9
Scattering	9

On motion of Cripes Mulcahey the election was made unanimous and the president took the chair in a well-chosen speech 27 feet long.

1st Vice-President — Bro. Annias Smith.

2nd Vice-President — Prof. Givendam Slabs.

Secretary—Sir Isaac Walpole.

Treasurer—Fortypercent Moore.

Librarian—Threeply Smith.

Keeper of the Password — Deacon Quiet.

Committees were appointed on Judiciary, Agriculture, Fisheries, Lighthouses, Earthquakes, School Sites, Cyclones, Pomology, Silence and Repose and Temperance.

THE CLOSE.

The president stated that meetings would be conducted with fair regularity hereafter, after which the balance of the business was placed in the refrigerator and the president in closing said:

"Before going out let me say that should any of the brethren desire to see the president previous to his departure from town they can call at The Times Bookstore, where I intend to spend a day looking over the fine assortment of books and novelties to be found there. In going to our homes let us remember that the man who walks in the middle of the road can't be slugged with a sand-bag, from an alley. While we part as friends, and while each should carry home a fraternal feeling, the person who walks off with my plug hat will be made to wish that he had never been born. Let us now adjeet.

"You have Asbestos enough on these properties to keep your mills running at an enormous profit for years and years" says

C. H. PARKER, Esq., of Thetford Mines, About the Asbestos Mines of

THE INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MILLS AND POWER COMPANY

C. H. Parker, Esq., is known to every Canadian interested in Asbestos. He was superintendent of the Johnson Mine at Thetford Mines, Que.,—one of the best producers of high-grade Asbestos in the Province—and knows the practical side of asbestos mining "from the ground down."

Mr. Parker was invited to visit the famous Asbestos Mines near Casper, Wyoming. This is his opinion of the property owned and controlled by the "International."

March 14th, 1910.

Gentlemen,—I have examined the asbestos mines owned and controlled by your Company situated near Casper, Wyoming.

I find that you have surprisingly rich mines and practically unlimited quantities of asbestos in your pits and many tons on the dumps mined and ready for the mills.

The quality is of the best and the percentage of fibre in the rock IS GREATER than in any of the mines which I have examined in Canada. You have Asbestos enough on these properties to keep your mills running at an enormous profit for years and years to come. As to mining and milling, I can see no reason why it cannot be done here equally as cheaply, and in some respects, more cheaply, than in Canada.

The list of machinery necessary to complete the mills will be ready, with specifications, in a few days, and I see no reason why you cannot BE PRODUCING COMMERCIAL ASBESTOS AT A GOOD PROFIT WITHIN NINETY DAYS after the absence of snow will permit operations at the mines.

Practically all the machinery necessary can be purchased in Duffer, and I will proceed to placing the orders as soon as the blue prints are out, if desired.

H. Leslie Parker, of Thetford, Canada, will come to the mines and take charge of the mining and grading of the crude fibre which you wish to ship as soon as possible to fill your orders. He is well qualified to take full charge of the mines and mills as he has been raised in the Canadian asbestos fields and has always worked in the mines.

C. H. PARKER, M. E. & H. E.,
Thetford, Canada.

The INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MILLS & POWER CO. own outright 360 acres of Asbestos property, and also have leasing arrangements on two other properties of 400 and 1,000 acres respectively—these, giving them ONE THOUSAND, EIGHT HUNDRED AND ELEVEN ACRES of what Mr. Parker says are "SURPRISINGLY RICH MINES."

The Company has already ordered the machinery recommended by Mr. Parker, as shown by this letter:

COLORADO IRON WORKS COMPANY,
Smelting Equipment, Milling Machinery,
Denver, Colorado, April 5, 1910.

International Asbestos Mills & Power Co.,
Gentlemen: 222 Boston Building, City.

In accordance with your instructions, we have accepted an order from Mr. C. H. Parker, for the fiberizing machinery for your asbestos mills. Same will be completed at the earliest possible moment. Yours very truly,
Colorado Iron Works Company, by Cady.

A SHARE

In order to raise immediate funds for milling machinery and rapid development work, a small block of stock in this company will be sold for only 10c. a share cash—par value $1, and non-assessable. Nothing is guaranteed—or even promised. But when it is remembered that No. 1 crude Asbestos costs only $16 a ton to mill and sells for $400 a ton—and that an expert like Mr. Parker says that the asbestos of the INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MINES is a very high percentage of No. 1 crude compared with most Canadian mines—this stock at 10c. a share certainly looks like an investment that will bring good returns to those who buy now.

Remember, there is only a small block of stock to be sold at 10 cents a share—only enough to meet the immediate needs of the company. We were fortunate enough to obtain some of this for our Canadian customers—and offer it at the Company's price, 10c a share. But—you must order it at once. Use the coupon, enclosing check, money or express order, or send money by registered mail. Stock will be sent you at once.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription — Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then these organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Little Local Lines

Mr. Harry Nesbitt's thoroughbred stallion will be included among those shown at this afternoon's exhibition at the Driving Park.

The citizens of Gloucester, Mass., as noted in yesterday's news, have seen a otoor "as big as a barrel," flying over their city. In their say significance in the word "barrel."

The town of Welland, Ont., has gained 233 inhabitants during last year, as shown by the assessors' returns. Nearly enough for one department of a Peterborough factory.

Yesterday a petition was circulated among the local merchants asking the License Commissioners to give the hotel men cut off from licenses, three months in which to dispose of their goods.

Mr. Geo. W. Powell has received notice of his local appointment as local agent for the London and Lancashire Life Insurance Co. On his removal from Peterborough Mr. Geo. Reid gave up the duties and position which Mr. Powell now assumes.

Dog owners are warned that dog licenses are due on May 1st. Pay up or prepare to face his worship.

Rev. Canon Davidson has received a subscription for the chimes from Venerable Archdeacon Warren of Toronto, who strongly recommends this movement.

The Brantford Expositor in a burst of political excitement insinuates that Conservatives get extension of licenses whilst Reformers are cut off. Take a political census of those on whom the commissioners' axe fell in this city and see whether politics "cut much ice."

St. Catharines, Ont., as per a paper published in that city, is kicking because beef is sold at 13 cents a pound. If one of the hungry men of St. Kitts bought a roast of beef in Peterborough he would throw several fits when the price was told him. Happy St. Catharines with her 13 cent meat.

Robt. Henderson, the unfortunate young Englishman, under sentence of death at the local county jail, seems quite indifferent to his approaching fate. He eats and sleeps well. His counsel has applied to the department of justice in an endeavor to have his sentence commuted to imprisonment.

The Finance Committee, after duly considering the subject have decided not to raise the licenses of local moving picture houses. Without impugning their decision, many citizens think that the licenses should be graded according to seating capacity. Give the smaller dog a chance in the fight.

SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

WAS CELEBRATED YESTERDAY WITH INTERESTING AND IMPRESSIVE SERVICES.

The Celebration Will Be Continued Throughout the Week—A Special Program Has Been Arranged for the Occasion.

An Interesting History From the Foundation of the Church in the Early Days Until the Present Time.

The pastor and congregation of St. Paul's yesterday celebrated the church's seventy-fifth anniversary. Rev. Robert Johnston, D.D., who was met Saturday evening at the station by Rev. Mr. Pogue, who is pastor of the American Presbyterian church of Montreal, was the preacher yesterday. At the morning service this talented and eloquent divine gave a powerful sermon, taking as his theme Christ transfigured and transformed. In his address the reverend speaker told in graphic words how Christ descending from the mountain saw and sympathized with struggling humanity. Seldom has a sermon in St. Paul's church been listened to by a more attentive or appreciative audience. During the afternoon, Rev. Dr. Johnston delivered another grand address to the boys and girls on "How Christ Makes Life Splendid."

Last night the eloquent Montreal pastor again delivered a stirring address before one of the largest audiences ever in St. Paul's church. Every available seat in the vast edifice being occupied.

HISTORY OF THE CHURCH.

The history of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, centrally located in the city of Peterborough, and overlooking her most beautiful park, is closely connected with the birth and rapid development of this busy center. Among the hardy pioneers who first took up land in the township of Smith, after voyaging from Rice Lake, and landing where the River Otonabee is now spanned by the C. P.R. bridge, was William Dixon, whose descendants are still connected with this church. Others followed in the persons of William Tully, John Walton, John Harvey, Alex. Morrison, John Yeats, and the Bells, Jacksons, McKibbons, Pearsons and others. These early settlers had hard work but were sturdy men who succeeded in overcoming the primeval forest and in growing wheat and other grains that had to be taken to Cobourg to grind.

Up to the year 1826 no attempt had been made to supply the spiritual wants of the local Presbyterians, but in that year Rev. John Morrice Roger, a minister of the Church of Scotland, from Aberdeen, came to Peterborough, and gathered together a small congregation on the boundary line of Cavan, near Springville. A small building was erected on the north part of lot 7, north of King street, for use of Peterborough communicants of his church. This building was only recently torn down. Next year, Rev. Mr. Roger, acting under direction of the Presbytery of Kingston, called on the heads of Presbyterian families to select from themselves those considered most fit to fill the office of elders. Messrs. Andrew Tully, John Hutchinson, M.D., John Edmison and David Hamilton were selected from Peterborough, and William Robson and Robert Thomson from Cavan. On January 22nd, 1835 these appointments were sanctioned by the Presbytery and the Kirk Session of Peterborough was authorized to conduct all competent business in the congregation. In February, 1835 the session was constituted and arrangements made for enrollment of church members and observance of the communion. On May 30th of the same year a grant was made to the church of the lot on which St. Andrew's church now stands, and next year the congregation erected a substantial stone church. This first church was built for use rather than appearance. In front of the pulpit stood the precentor's desk, from which Sandy Stewart led the service aided by a tuning fork. The pews were old-fashioned, straight backed structures with latched doors. Many members of the congregation came long distances to attend the services among these was the late Mr. Thos. Casement of Lakefield. The Sabbath school was begun in 1836 under superintendence of Mr. James Hall, an elder. Nearly all the first teachers were men.

In 1843 occurred the disruption of the Church in Scotland when the Presbyterian Church of Canada arose. Among those who concurred in this movement was Mr. Roger, representative elder for Peterborough. The session unanimously agreed with the action of their minister. Next August the local congregation, by standing vote also concurred. The congregation worshipped in the old stone building until 1857 when the Synod of the Church of Scotland formally demanded the church property.

Next Sabbath, Mr. Roger announced the decision of the Session to leave the church. The whole congregation, almost unanimously stood up in consequence, and the agent of the Church of Scotland, took possession of the building. Two years later the congregation met either in the town hall or Methodist church Sunday school. In 1859 a suitable church was erected on the present site, at a cost of $30,000. In 1875 Mr. Roger resigned on account of ill-health after 49 years' faithful service. He accepted the office of Pastor Emeritus and passed away in 1878. Mr. Roger in addition to his arduous labors in Peterborough, ministered to Springville and North Smith.

On May 6th, 1876, Rev E. F. Torrance of Montreal received a call signed by 244 members and 59 adherents which he accepted. Mr. Torrance was duly inducted on the 28th June to take charge of St. Paul's church, and was introduced to the congregation the next Sabbath. Mr. Torrance, then only 25 years of age, faithfully performed the duties of his sacred calling for 31 years.

During this time the membership increased from 369 in 1876 to 780, and the contributions from $2618 to $5600. In 1849 the title of D.D. was confirmed on Mr. Torrance by Knox College.

In 1868 attendance at the church had increased so greatly that both church and Sunday school were enlarged and remodelled at a cost of $30,000. The Ladies' Aid Society was organized in 1884 with Mrs. Alex. Smith as president. This splendid organization was enabled within a year to present the congregation with a $3000 paid for organ. The pew rents were abolished in 1895, and in 1904 the envelope system of missionary work was established. In 1901, owing partly to mission work in the South Ward, Rev. Geo. Yule was engaged as assistant to Rev. Mr. Torrance. He was succeeded by Rev. A. J. Wilson, who in turn was followed in their respective turns by Revs. B. Ketchen, W. M. McKay and A. Bright. In 1907 Knox church was made a separate charge, St. Paul's contributing the lot and building.

In 1907 Rev. Mr. Torrance resigned the pastorate and Rev Robert Pogue of Philadelphia, received a call, he being inducted in 1907. This eloquent and sincere pastor has won a high place in the hearts of his congregation and the church under his ministry has a bright future.

During the past 75 years no less than 70 elders were ordained. The first appointed was Dr. Hutchinson, a man of high personal attainments and character.

Among the office bearers for 1910 are the following:

Elders—James A. Hall, J. D. Collins, J. M. Rogue, Richard Hall, William Madill, Thomas Hall, John Simpson, G. Gillespie, E. Mahood, J. Coyle Brown, W. J. Stacey, John Hutchinson, Robert Harrison, H. Premier Laurier's Tour to Extend to the Yukon

Victoria, B.C., April 30.—Assurance has been received from Ottawa by prominent British Columbia Liberals, that the Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, will visit the Pacific Coast, probably going through to the Yukon also, in July or August.

The first minister will be accompanied on his western tour by Hon. Mr. Graham, and possibly by Mr. Fielding. After visiting Nelson, Kamloops, New Westminster, Vancouver and Victoria, it is expected that the veteran premier will go north to make the acquaintance of the people of Prince Rupert, Dawson and Stewart.

The tour arrangements of the premier are taken as strongly confirmatory of the report that the government intends to go to the electorate during the coming autumn, and will make an especially strenuous endeavor to win British Columbia from its Conservatism.

Great Britain Annexes The Heard Island

Durban, Africa, April 30.—Advices received here state that Heard's Island, in the South Indian Ocean, which was discovered by Captain Heard, an American, in 1853, was annexed on behalf of Great Britain on March 24 by a party aboard the Durban whaler, Magnora.

A cairn was erected supporting the Union Jack, under which the declaration of annexation was signed.

SOUR RISINGS FROM STOMACH.

These Who Experience Fulness and Pain After Meals, Stomach Disorders and Indigestion, Should Read Below.

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require larger doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. Today I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

Refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, sold in yellow boxes, 25c. All dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

The splendid work of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is daily coming to light. No such grand remedy for liver and bowel troubles was ever known before. Thousands bless them for curing constipation, sick headache, biliousness, jaundice and indigestion. Sold by all dealers.

DIED AT ST. JOSEPH'S.

Mr. Robert Baxter Passed Away as Result of Accident.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Baxter, will learn with regret that he died in St. Joseph's Hospital at six o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased, whose home was at 68 George street south, was taken to that hospital in the Dan Spence ambulance last week in a critical condition as a result of an accident last Wednesday. It seems that Mr. Baxter was blowing out a lamp when it exploded. The flaming oil burnt him terribly about the face and chest, and Dr. Greer on Saturday feared for the worst. Particulars as to the funeral arrangements will appear in tomorrow's issue.

WILL ADVERTISE FOR CHIEF OF POLICE.

Commissioners Will Ask in Toronto Papers for Applications to May 20th.

The Police Commissioners, composed of Messrs. Judge Hoycke, Police Magistrate D. Dumble, and his Worship Mayor Morrow, met Saturday afternoon to consider the appointment of a new chief of police, to succeed the late George I. Roasel. After expressing sympathy over the death of the late lamented Chief Roasel, the matter of a new chief was discussed. As the meeting was a private one little of the arguments and suggestions made are accessible. The Times, however, has reason to suppose that the name of Officer Newhall was before the meeting and that at least one of the commissioners favored his nomination. The commissioners, however, after full discussion of the matter decided to advertise in the Toronto papers for applications for the now vacant position of chief constable. Applications for this situation will be considered up to May 20th. It is understood that the commissioners were unanimous in giving first consideration to applications from outside the city. Of course with the men available in Peterborough, there is no certainty as yet that the job will go to an "outside" man.

EXHIBITION SUCCESSFUL.

Splendid Show of Bulls and Stallions at the Driving Park.

The Bull and Stallion Show at the Driving Park Saturday afternoon was a grand success and more than exceeded the expectations of its promoters. Seldom has a finer lot of high grade cattle and horses been seen in Peterborough of late. The attendance was very satisfactory, many hundreds paying the trifling admission fee of ten cents. The weather, which threatened rain during the morning, fortunately favored the show, the sun shining brightly and the temperature rising. The arrangements for the exhibition were perfect, and the animals were well handled. Mr. H. S. Maahard, V.S., of Smith's Falls, a veteran at judging horses and cattle, made his decisions which were universally satisfactory. Among the horse awards for first place were:

J. F. Staples—Clydesdale.
J. B. McColl—Thoroughbred Hackney.
J. Brown—Percheron.
F. Sullivan—Coach horse.
Nesbitt and Colborne—Standard.

The exhibition was attended by many farmers from the nearby townships.

LAWYER AFTER NEWS.

Wants to Know What Former Peterborough Lady is Paid on the Stage.

Saturday morning a lawyer from outside the city called at the Princess Theater, seeking information as to a lady who some weeks ago assisted in a vaudeville act in this popular place of amusement. The lady referred to appeared under the stage name of Watson of the high-class musical team of Richards and Watson. It seems that a year ago, this lady who is known in Peterborough, her maiden name being Darke, was injured in a railway accident near North Bay. It is possible that litigation may follow as a result of the accident, for damages to Mrs. Watson. The lawyer referred to was in the city to ask questions and to ascertain what the lady was paid for her stage performances or in other words to find what she lost during the time she was laid up as a result of the accident.

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY.

Presented to the Mother of the Late J. J. Irwin.

At a meeting of Court Stanley No. 7080, A.O.F., a committee consisting of Messrs. Geo. R. Record, H. J. Hanwell and S. Adlam were appointed to draft and present to Mrs. Curtin and family, a resolution of sympathy. This was done on Saturday last. The following is the resolution:

To Mrs. Curtin, mother of the late Bro. J. J. Irwin, and family:

We, the officers and members of Court Stanley, No. 7080, A.O.F., desire to express to yourself and family our sincere sympathy in this your hour of sorrow. Your late son was very highly esteemed by us as a friend and brother, who lived a true and blameless Christian life. We shall not soon forget him, but shall mourn his departure from our midst.—We can best offer our consolation to you by pointing out that we believe he has gone to a better home prepared by our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, in whom the weary heart and sorrow worn soul shall find eternal rest, and we know that our loss and yours is his gain, and although family and fraternal ties are broken here our prayer is that we shall all meet in the heavenly home where there is no more parting, for in heaven we shall meet to part no more.

Signed on behalf of Court Stanley No. 7080, A.O.F., Geo. R. Record, H. J. Hanwell, S. Adlam, committee.

STILL COMPLAINING OF RESTRICTIONS

BRITISH BOARDS SAY IT'S GOING TO WORK HARDSHIP ON EMIGRANTS' FAMILIES.

A Repeal is Demanded—George Gooderham and Family Sail—Other News From the Old Land.

London, April 30.—The following statement has been published in reference to Canadian emigration regulations: "The Central Unemployed Body will suffer a setback in its work of emigration to Canada. This is one of the Government organizations working under agents of the local government board. The new regulations, unless repealed, must necessarily have the effect of destroying one of the best sections of its labors in preventing people from joining their relatives and friends. Over 300 cases now in the office will be affected. Also there are emigrants sent off so recently as Wednesday for whom landing permits have been supplied even by Obed Smith, himself.

"What will happen in the case of assisted emigrants still at sea, who are not going to farm work is difficult to say, though of course it is hoped by all parties that the modus vivendi may be found to prevent what otherwise might almost amount to a scandal amongst emigration agencies.

A HOUSE WEDDING.

Miss Jean Higgins Became the Bride of Mr. A. H. Willet.

A quiet but pretty house wedding was celebrated Saturday morning when Miss Jean Higgins was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. A. H. Willet at her home, 1043 Water street. Rev. E. A. Pearson performed the marriage ceremony and the young couple were unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Willet left on the 11.45 C.P.R. train during the morning for New York and Atlantic City. On their return they will reside in North Bay.

SO ENDS BATTLE OF THE BUDGET

A GREAT PERSONAL TRIUMPH FOR LLOYD GEORGE, THE CHANCELLOR.

Land Tax Sure to Stay—Even the Tories Would Not Abolish It If They Get Back.

London, April 30.—The House of Lords Friday night passed the final stages of the Finance Bill without a division, and it has now become the law of the land. So ends the battle of the budget, a long-drawn-out, fiercely contested contest, which will be remembered in Great Britain for generations to come. Victory rests, where, in the main, Parliamentary victories, in spite of all the boasted merits of debate, usually do rest—on the side of the big battalions.

And the victory is Mr. Lloyd George's in quite a peculiar sense. He has battled for it manfully, and at times almost desperately, in Parliament and out, why, even inside the Cabinet itself. The budget may have its defects—and it is an undeniable fact that even Liberals in high places can be found who view it with suspicion—but he believed in it with his whole heart. Mr. Lloyd George is a keen, even a bitter party man, but his sincerity is beyond dispute; and there are many among the more generous of his political opponents who will not grudge him his hour of personal triumph—a personal triumph which is none the less, even if he succeeded, as the Unionist press is proclaiming with confident unanimity that it will be by party defeat at the next election.

EX-PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

May Succeed Governor Hughes of New York.

Governor Hughes of New York, goes to the United States Supreme Court in succession to the late Mr. Justice Brewer. It is not surprising that President Taft has chosen the governor for this signal honor. But some surprise is expressed in the American press because Mr. Hughes has accepted it. There was a general impression that the political activity of Mr. Hughes would lead him in due course to the Republican nomination for the presidency. Perhaps as a lawyer, he finds his highest professional ambition satisfied, for there is no more honorable or eminent judicial body than the Supreme Court at Washington.

The appointment has raised two questions among the curious. What attitude will the new judge take towards the oil and tobacco trusts now pending? What effect will the Governor's retirement have in the State House at Albany.

It is generally admitted that Mr. Hughes is no demagogue, that he is not prejudiced against modern industrial tendencies. He does not believe that a corporation sins merely because it is a corporation. For, that reason Socialistic Radicals in the Republic affect to be in the dumps over the appointment. Still they should know that the judge is honest, fair-minded, and thoroughly familiar with law. So far as he is concerned the trusts and the consumers alike should get even treatment.

The condition at Albany is less encouraging. Ever since his election for the first time as governor, Mr. Hughes has fought the Republican machine, which was rotten with corruption. The climax came only a few months ago with a story of the bribery of a State Senator, and the super climax was a statement by the superintendent of insurance to the effect that bills had been killed passed at the nod of a fire insurance clique. Against the venal politicians Governor Hughes waged a relentless war, and seemingly burned their villages. Perhaps the work has been efficiently done, but, in any case, a strong man will be needed at Albany for some time yet. There is a hint that Mr. Roosevelt may accept the governorship. Undoubtedly he would be elected. That would settle the great American problem of what to do with an ex-president.

A SUMMER RESORT.

Point au Baril, on C.P.R., for Fun, Fishing and Fine Scenery.

The C.P.R. with their proverbial enterprise have issued a beautifully colored and concise folder displaying clearly the location and manifold attractions of "Beautiful Point au Baril. This ideal summer resort is located on Georgian Bay, 638 feet above the sea level on the C.P.R., within six hours' ride from Toronto. Here is the spot for the tired man or woman of the city who wants a total divorce from conventionality and the grind of social life. The scenery is beautiful beyond compare and the air is tonic in its ozone. Islands of every size and shape make monotony impossible. For the disciple of Isaac Walton are black bass, maskinonge, pike, pickerel and other fish waiting to bite. The boat and launch service is of the finest and cheap. Canoe trips can be arranged for. Guides, both white and Indian can be secured. There are already three fine hotels, the Bellevere, Ojibway and Skerryvore and also boarding houses. Point au Baril station is on the Sudbury line of the C.P.R., and can be reached by standard coaches, cafe-parlor and sleeping cars. For particulars apply to Mr. W. McIlroy, C.P.R. agent, Peterborough.

Thousands of Stolen Diamonds

New York, April 29.—Thousands of stolen diamonds and a rare Hungarian opal are being hunted for today by some of the most discreet members of the municipal detective force on orders from headquarters to recover the gems at any cost, but to keep the facts about the robbery secret.

Where and when the jewels were stolen is not publicly known, but although the police have succeeded in keeping secret those factas, as well as the name of the owner of the lost jewels, it is generally understood that the social position of the woman who was robbed is one of the highest in this country and in Europe, and that she was one of those prominent in the quieter and more exclusive circles which formed a part of the Drexel-Gould wedding.

The many friends of Mr. Jack English will regret to learn of his serious illness, caused from a bad attack of blood poisoning. Mr. English is an engineer on the Grand Trunk Railway, and is well known in Peterborough, having served some time on the railway in this city.

Men Have Been Out Since the First Day of April

Operators in Pittsburg District Sign the Wage Scale

Pittsburg, Pa., April 30. — It's "back to the mines" for the 400,000 men woo have been on strike since April 1st.

Coal operators in the Pittsburg district signed the wage scale, the mooted powder question was settled in a satisfactory manner, and the miners' strike ended shortly after midnight, with a two years' agreement effective at once under the high est wage ever paid in this district.

The struggle came to an end through the resourcefulness of President Thomas L. Lewis. From 10 o'clock yesterday morning until midnight, with only brief lapses intervening, arbitrary methods kept the joint operaters and executive miners board conference in an uproar.

It was a complete triumph for President Lewis as every obstacle was put in the way to prevent settlement of powder dispute, and he met every effort toward adjusting every grievance at issue.

The wage scale carries a horizontal raise of 5.55 in all classes of labor in and around the mines. The powder adjustment makes it necessary for the operators to provide the explosives at the same cost as the black powder.

A touch of rheumatism, or a twinge of neuralgia, whatever the trouble is, Chamberlain's Liniment drives away the pain at once and cures the complaint quickly. First application gives relief. Sold by all dealers.

PREPARE FOR LUMBAGO!

If You Have "Nerviline" Handy One Rubbing Will Cure the Pain.

Thousands Use "Nerviline."

The "strike" of lumbago is like a bolt of lightning—you never know when it is coming or where it is going to strike. Probably the one certain thing about Lumbago is the fact that it can be cured by Nerviline—the only liniment that penetrates deeply enough to reach the congested cords and muscles.

LETTER NO. 4675

"Years ago I strained my back and suffered considerably with weakness over the spine," writes Darius P. Millan, a well-known farmer, residing near Kingsville. "Then lumbago attacked the weak spot, for days at a time, I would have to lie up in bed bed, unable to move or turn. Liniments, poultices and hot applications failed to bring the desired relief, and I was in despair of ever getting really well again. I at last decided to test "Nerviline." I got five bottles from the drug store and had it rubbed on three times a day. The stiffness and pain left my back quickly, and by continuing Nerviline I was completely cured of Lumbago."

This is similar testimony to that of nearly five thousand Canadians who have written unstinted words of praise to the manufacturers of Nerviline. For the cure of lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia and rheumatism there is no liniment with one-fifth the pain-relieving power of Nerviline!

Refuse any substitute. Large 25c. bottles of Nerviline, or five for $1.00 at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE COMBINES BILL.

In the discussion on the Combines bill, Mr. King said that there would be less dependence upon the criminal penalties imposed by the bill than on publicity. He also said that the government would consider the report of the investigating board, and would, in certain cases, use its administrative powers to put an end to the combine. For instance, the benefit of the protective tariff might be withdrawn where a combine existed, or a patent used for monopolistic purposes might be treated in a similar way.

This principle might be usefully extended to other cases. Public service corporations are dependent upon the government and parliament for grants of money and land, subsidies and far-reaching powers. These privileges are given for the public benefit, otherwise they could not be justified. It is therefore the right and the duty of those in authority to insist that the condition of the grant is fulfilled and the corporation compelled to serve the people.

Representatives of these corporations are in constant attendance at the legislative centers of Canada, and are continually seeking new powers through legislative or administrative action. All these requests should be considered in the light of the kind of service that is being given to the public. As new powers are given new duties should be imposed, and the record of service examined.

Mr. King is to be congratulated not only upon his bill, but upon his clear exposition of the principles involved in the legislation. He has shown that he can not only frame a measure, but defend it and carry it through the House in the face of opposition and criticism. We judge also that he will not be satisfied with seeing the law on the statute book, but will watch its operation, and take care that it is effective. If experience shows any defects in the mode of enforcement, these can be remedied. But it seems to be framed on the right lines, and it will also be a great mistake for the friends of any monopoly to assume that its provisions can be evaded.

"It cured me," or "It saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures. Sold by all dealers.

Satan Sanderson

Author of "Hearts Courageous," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

pictures came and went—the last revel of the saints when he was Satan Sanderson, Hugh sneering at his calling, Jessica facing him with unbandaged eyes, Hallelujah Jones preaching on the street corner.

Something in Harry's brain seemed to snap. A tiny shutter, like that of a camera, fell down. His hands dropped from the steering wheel, and, swaying in his seat, he began to sing in a voice made high and uneven by the speed of the car:

"Palms of victory!
Crowns of glory!
Palms of victory I shall wear!"

He sang but the three lines, for suddenly the car left the road, the inflated tires rebounded from the steel ridge of the railroad track, the forward axle caught an iron signal post, and the great motor car, its shattered lamp jingling like a gong, its pistons thrusting in midair, reared on two wheels, hurling its occupant out like a pebble thrown from a sling, half turned mid, leaving a trail of sparks like the tail of a rocket behind it, plunged heavily over the rim of the bluff into the river.

A moment later the deep black waters of "the hole" had closed above the mass of sentient steel. The swift current had smoothed away every trace of the strange monster it had engulfed, and there by the side of the track, huddled against the broken signal post, his clothing plastered with mud and grime, motionless and with a nasty cut on the temple, lay Harry Sanderson.

A long, saturating peace, a deep and drenching darkness, had folded him. Dully at first, at length more insistently and sharply, a rhythmic pulsing sound began to annoy the quietude. K-track, k-track, k-track—it grew louder; it grew more momentous and material; it irritated the calm that had wrapped the animate universe. As though from an immeasurable distance he heard a low, continuous roar and now and again through the roar nearer voices.

Harry awoke. His mind awoke, but his eyes did not open at once, for the gentle swaying that cradled him was pleasant, and the muffled clack and hum soothed him like opium. He opened his eyes. It was daylight. He was lying on dusty boards that rattled and vibrated beneath him, the floor of an empty freight car in motion. A small brown dog, an abject, muddied and shivering morsel, was snuggled close to his side. It whined as if with joy to see his eyes opened, and its stubby tail beat the floor.

Harry turned his head. Two men in dingy garments were seated on the floor a little distance away thumbing a decrepit pack of cards over an empty box. He could see both side faces, one weather beaten and good humored, the other crafty—knights of the road.

The sudden movement had sent a momentary twinge to his temple. He put up his hand. It touched a coarse handkerchief that had been bound tightly about it. The corner hung down. It was soiled and stiff with blood. What was he doing there? Where was he? Who was he?

It came to him with a start that he actually for the moment did not know who he was—that he had ridiculously slipped the leash of his identity. He smiled at his predicament. He would lie quietly for a few moments, and it would come. Of course it would come!

Yet it did not come, though he lay many moments, the fingers of his mind fumbling for the latch of the closed door. He had waked perfectly well, all save the slight cut on his temple, and that was clearly superficial, a mere scratch. Not a trouble or anxiety marred his soul. His mind was as clear and light as a lark's. Body and brain together felt as if they had never had a serious ache in the world. But all that had preceded his awakening was gone from him as completely as though it had had no existence.

Stealthily he rose to a sitting posture and, with a frown of humorous perplexity, took a swift and silent inventory. He scanned his clothing. His coat was threadbare and, with mud, oil and coal dust, was in a more disreputable state. His wristbands were grimy, and one cufflink had been torn away. He had no hat.

He bethought himself of his pockets and went through them methodically one by one. They yielded several dollars in coin, a penknife and a tiny gold cross, but not a letter, not a scrap of paper, nothing to serve him. The gleam of a ring on his finger caught his eye. He rubbed away the dirt and carefully examined it, wondering if the stone was real. His hand was slightly cut and swollen, and the circlet would not come off, but by shifting it slightly he could see the white depression made by long wear. The setting was an odd one, formed of the twisted letters H. S. Those naturally should be his initials, but there he stopped. He repeated to himself all the names he could think of, beginning with S, but they told him nothing.

He looked himself over again carefully, reflectively. He put out his hand and laid it on the spaniel's head.

Its rough tongue licked his fingers. It held up one fore paw mutely and lamely. He drew the feverish, dirty little creature into his lap and examined the limp member. It was broken.

"Poor little beggar!" said he under his breath. "So you've been knocked out too!" With his knife he cut a piece from the lining of his coat and with a splinter of wood from the floor he set the fractured bone and wrapped the leg tightly. The dog submitted without a whimper, and when he set it down it lay quietly beside him watching him with affectionate canine solicitude.

"I wonder who we are, you and I?" muttered Harry Sanderson whimsically. "I wonder!"

The players looked around. One of them nodded approvingly.

"Right as a trivet!" he said. "I made a pretty good job of that cut of yours. Here you much?"

"No," said Harry. "I'm obliged to [illegible] for the attention."

A Settlement Is Made—Men Were Anxious to Get to Work Again and United Mine Officials Advised.

Halifax, N.S., April 29.—After ten months' strike, followed by military rule, with disorders, assaults, and suffering, the miners of the Dominion Coal Company at Glace Bay will return to work.

This was decided on at a meeting of the men held at the offices of the mine workers in Sydney, at which representatives from all the locals of the United Miner Owners still in Cape Breton. The men are going to work unconditionally.

After discussing the situation from every point, and realizing that they had nothing to gain by longer remaining out, the men took a vote on the question of whether they should go to work or continue on strike. This resulted in the majority of the representatives of the locals voting to return to work at once.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

PARKER MUST STAND TRIAL.

Not Much New Evidence Was Submitted in the Tweed Murder Mystery.

Tweed, April 29.— Robert Parker, must stand his trial for the murder of William Masters, the man who died from a rifle bullet on April 9th last. For the third time the town Hall was crowded to the doors yesterday to hear the evidence in respect to that tragedy. Parker, who has been confined in Belleville jail, was brought up and sitting beside his counsel, Mr. Carnew, of Belleville, heard the charge of murder read.

PARKER QUITE UNCONCERNED.

Parker did not have the manner of a man very seriously concerned in the matter, but followed pretty closely the stories of the many witnesses With practically few exceptions the witnesses were the same as in the inquest; and the evidence the same. It was shown that trouble had existed for a long time between the men, and their families, and a number of witnesses testified that Parker had made threats against Masters and his boys. His strange disappearance on the day of the tragedy and the many conflicting stories he told as he went about the district before surrendering himself were strongly brought out. That he was seen on the fatal morning in a place suspiciously near the place of shooting, was sworn to by more than one witness.

WOUND NOT SELF INFLICTED.

There seemed to be no doubt that Masters was shot, and that the wound was not self-inflicted. One of the new witnesses, Mrs. Margaret Caul, a widow of Stoco, swore that Parker passed her on the bridge that morning going south with a gun. Magistrates Bowlby and Wray committed Parker to the county jail to await his trial.

Facing Both Ways.

Because Mr. Chamberlain and the Unionist party favor the adoption of moderate protective duties in Great Britain, the Globe dubs them revolutionaries and fiscal anarchists. Is not this the height of insincerity from a newspaper that consistently supports a protectionist government at Ottawa? Surely the British people have as much right as Canadians or Americans to defend their own industries, and furnish work for their own unemployed.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

[illegible]

Why I am willing to send you a full treatment of Dr. Shoop's Restorative entirely at my own risk, and why I do not believe you can afford to neglect my offer!

[illegible]

Just write the word for me in a letter or on a postal, and the full treatment will be sent you entirely free, by return mail. Then use it according to the plain directions. And if, after you have used it for the full time, you are not entirely satisfied that it has done you more good than anything you ever used before, simply write me that fact, and I will not ask you a penny for it. Not a penny. Not a penny. Your word shall be sufficient. I will take your own statement, and I will not even ask you to return the empty bottles. I will pay the druggist myself for what you have used.

Isn't that fair enough? Isn't it plain enough? Isn't it liberal enough? Don't you believe I mean exactly what I say? Don't you believe I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician that my treatment will do you good? Don't you believe I am willing to take your word? Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp. Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

Family is Grateful.

Mrs. Austin and family wish to express their appreciation of the kindness shown them by the members of Court Stanley No. 7660, A.O.F., in the bereavement which they were recently called upon to bear in the death of a son and a brother, Mr. J. J. Irwin.

Two Funds Open at St. John's.

Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's church at the morning service remarked that there were now two funds open to the congregation, viz., the chimes and the missions. He intimated that in a choice between the two the more important was that of the missions. The chimes fund now has reached in the neighborhood of $2000 or more.

Charged With Stealing Chicks.

This morning the four youths locked up on Saturday on a charge of stealing chickens, will appear before his worship. It seems that complaints have become common to the police as to chicken "lifting." Chickens are being stolen in both the city and surrounding country The thieves gather in the chickens and, later on, garner many shekels from credulous housekeepers. This should be put a stop to.

Local Engineer Has Narrow Escape.

Samuel Stenson, an employe at Mann's lumber and cheese box factory, had a narrow escape from serious injury Saturday morning. He is employed as engineer, and was working with the driving pulley, when the engine started quickly and pulled him under the wheels. A. Allison, an other employe, heard his cries, and hurrying to his assistance, succeeded in pulling Stenson away from his dangerous position. The right arm was slightly injured.

Fireman at the Driving Park.

Chief Howard, with his usual forethought, had a member of the fire brigade at the driving park, supplied with a Babcock extinguisher. This arrangement was made to prevent danger from fires that might be caused by boys or by cigar or cigarette stubs being thrown carelessly about among the straw and hay. He recognized that as many valuable animals were present at the Bull and Stallion exhibit a serious loss might easily transpire.

Idyl Wylde' New Proprietor.

Mr. Clarence Cook of the Idyl Wyld Hotel, was in the city on Saturday, and called at The Times sanctum. Mr. Cook has taken possession of the Idyl Wyld Hotel this season and has had the beautiful grounds surrounding it fixed up and beautified. Picnickers and others will find this beautiful spot on the shores of Rice Lake better than ever adapted to their summer outings. The Otonabee Navigation Company have arranged for a boat service to this spot for the summer. Mr. Cook is also manager of the Lakeview House at Harwood, about two miles from Idyl Wyld.

Field Crop Competition.

Editor of The Times.

Dear Sir,—For the past three years directors of Agricultural Societies, which have taken part in the Standing Field Crop Competitions, conducted by this branch of the Department of Agriculture have confined their entries to oats, wheat and barley. To those agricultural societies that have not yet selected their crop for this year's competition, I would strongly suggest, that, where alfalfa has, even in a small way, been grown, it be the crop selected in view of the magnificent returns obtained from it wherever given a fair trial. The farmers of Kansas have taken the advise of their Department of Agriculture and increased the acreage of alfalfa from 36,000 to 1,000,000 in a few years. Instead of impoverishing the land it enriches, it, its roots going down from five to twenty feet, drawing moisture beneath the soil and supplying nitrogen and mineral plant food to the surface. From two to four crops can be cut in a season and the plant attains the height of from ten to twenty inches. This crop runs from three to six tons to the acre, and it makes splendid feed for all kinds of live stock.

I would ask your co-operation in encouraging the farmers to grow alfalfa, which will prove a veritable gold mine to all concerned. In order to encourage societies to enter this crop liberal arrangements have been made by the department, full particulars of which will be furnished on application to me.

I am, herewith, enclosing you a short description of the cultivation and uses of alfalfa, which I am confident is one of the most valuable crops that can be grown.

Thanking you for your valuable assistance in the past, I remain,

Faithfully yours,

J. LOCKIE WILSON.

Might Miss the Comet.

Several citizens were heard yesterday morning whilst leaving the entrance of a prominent local church, to declare that they were going to watch for Halley's comet, which Dr. Marsh of Springville, announces was to be visible to the naked eye Early this morning. One of those present expressed his desire to see the comet but feared that after the sermon just heard, he would probably sleep through. It is to be presumed his meaning was that he would be kept awake until a late hour thinking over the discourse and then unfortunately fall asleep in the wee sma' hours.

Mr. James Montgomery, proprietor of the Montgomery House, formerly the Cavanagh House, has purchased the license formerly held by Mr. Laroque of the Montreal House.

The county judge was a victim of a runaway horse on Saturday afternoon. Fortunately his honor sustained no personal injury, but had to go home along Aylmer street without a hat.

Mr. Billum Wailey, it is understood, will address the Lime Juice Club at their next session. His subject will be "Chicken Lifting and the High Price of Beef."

Today is the first legal day for trout fishing this spring. It is to be predicted that a large number of local sports will his themselves to the woodland streams today and return tonight with eleven million mosquito bites for each trout captured.

It looks as though Pacer Wallace of Peterborough and Cobalt, will put on the gloves in a contest with Dave Belland of Quebec, who is now in the city. It seems that Dave is out with a challenge, and Pacer will accommodate him for fun or the long green.

Mr. W. H. Gooderham, president of the Toronto Exhibition, has written to England to get the Grenadier Guards Band for next autumn. If he wants an attraction we could (?) send him the first dog caught in Peterborough, and also the 10,000th, that is if they will only postpone the show for a century or two for dog No. 1.

RAILWAY SUBSIDIES.

Notice of the Annual Railway Subsidy Resolutions.

Hon. G. P. Graham gives notice of the annual railway subsidy resolutions, but this year they are all revotes. In all forty-four votes are proposed, and on the basis of $3,200 a mile the total will amount to $6,862,400, but there is small probability that ten per cent. of this amount will ever be called for. The distribution gives fifteen votes to the Maritime Provinces, thirteen to Quebec, five to British Columbia, and the balance to Ontario. The Ontario votes are: To the St. Mary's and Western Ontario Railway Co. for a line of railway from Embro to Exeter, not exceeding thirty-six miles. To the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway Co. for three lines of railway not exceeding in all one hundred and ninety-four miles. We call the attention of investors to the advertisement of the above company, to be found elsewhere in this issue. It is a clean-cut proposition, and one that should appeal to capitalists. There is, we believe, a great future before the company, and those who get in now, at the low rate at which the stock is being sold, will have the best of it. That the stock will speedily advance, there is scarcely any doubt.

"You have Asbestos enough on these properties to keep your mills running at an enormous profit for years and years" says

C. H. PARKER, Esq., of Thetford Mines, About the Asbestos Mines of

THE INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MILLS AND POWER COMPANY

C. H. Parker, Esq., is known to every Canadian interested in Asbestos. He was superintendent of the Johnson Mine at Thetford Mines, Que.,—one of the best producers of high-grade Asbestos in the Province—and knows the practical side of asbestos mining "from the ground down."

Mr. Parker was invited to visit the famous Asbestos Mines near Casper, Wyoming. This is his opinion of the property owned and controlled by the "International."

March 14th, 1910.

Gentlemen,—I have examined the asbestos mines owned and controlled by your Company situated near Casper, Wyoming.

I find that you have surprisingly rich mines and practically unlimited quantities of asbestos in your pits and many tons on the dumps mined and ready for the mills.

The quality is of the best and the percentage of fibre in the rock IS GREATER than in any of the mines which I have examined in Canada. You have Asbestos enough on these properties to keep your mills running at an enormous profit for years and years to come. As to mining and milling, I can see no reason why it cannot be done here equally as cheaply, and in some respects, more cheaply, than in Canada.

The list of machinery necessary to complete the mills will be ready, with specifications, in a few days, and I see no reason why you cannot BE PRODUCING COMMERCIAL ASBESTOS AT A GOOD PROFIT WITHIN NINETY DAYS after the absence of snow will permit operations at the mines.

Practically all the machinery necessary can be purchased in Denver, and I will proceed to placing the orders as soon as the blue prints are out, if desired.

H. Leslie Parker, of Thetford, Canada, will come to the mines and take charge of the mining and grading of the crude fibre which you wish to ship as soon as possible to fill your orders. He is well qualified to take full charge of the mines and mills as he has been raised in the Canadian asbestos fields and has always worked in the mines.

C. H. PARKER, M. E. & H. E.,
Thetford, Canada.

The INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MILLS & POWER CO. own outright 350 acres of Asbestos property, and also have leasing arrangements on two other properties of 460 and 1,000 acres respectively—thus, giving them ONE THOUSAND, EIGHT HUNDRED AND ELEVEN ACRES of what Mr. Parker says are "SURPRISINGLY RICH MINES."

The Company has already ordered the machinery recommended by Mr. Parker, as shown by this letter:

A SHARE

In order to raise immediate funds for milling machinery and rapid development work, a small block of stock in this company will be sold for only 10c. a share cash—par value $1, and non-assessable. Nothing is guaranteed—or even promised. But when it is remembered that No. 1 crude Asbestos costs only $18 a ton to mill and sells for $400 a ton—and that an expert like Mr. Parker says that the asbestos of the INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MINES is a very high percentage of No. 1 crude compared with most Canadian mines—this stock at 10c. a share certainly looks like an investment that will bring good returns to those who buy now.

Remember, there is only a small block of stock to be sold at 10 cents a share—only enough to meet the immediate needs of the company. We were fortunate enough to obtain some of this for our Canadian customers—and offer it at the Company's price, 10c a share. But—you must order it at once. Use the coupon, enclosing check, money or express order, or send money by registered mail. Stock will be sent you at once.

TAIL OF THE COMET.

Some believe Halley's comet's tail is intensely hot. But this heat must be thinly distributed, owing to the filmy character of the tail. Moreover the earth has an enveloping blanket of cool air to save it. The foundryman can wet his finger and plunge it safely into molten iron. The air blanket would act like a water jacket.

There is a chance yet that we won't touch the tail at all. The full observations have not yet been taken. The final calculations may show that the tail will miss the earth by a few thousand miles—a misereoscopical distance in space—but still enough so that we will pass the tail in blissful ignorance of its nearness.

At any rate there seems little danger of any harm to come to us of the earth. The thing to do is to hold tight, don't lose courage, and keep your eyes open. For you're likely to see thing you can tell about to your grandchildren.

On May 18 many of us earth beings will witness a sight the like of which has never before been seen by men, at least since men have kept a written history of events. On that day for over three hours we shall be viewing the sun through the great blazing head of a comet.

Of a sudden our earth, swinging through space at 65,000 miles per hour will plunge into the tail of Halley's comet, close to the neck of it. The tail will have whipped against it. The tail will have whipped against us at its own speed of 165,000 miles an hour. Thus this globe will dive through the luminious haze at a total speed of 170,000 miles an hour, 47 miles per second, the earth entirely immersing herself in the celestial mist in less than three minutes, yet so thick is the tail at the point of perforation—600,000 miles that we shall be nearly three hours and a half passing through.

What will happen? No two scientists agree in detail. They are, however, practically certain there will be no harm done to any creature of the earth, save the harm which fear does. But the superstitious are almost certain to be stricken with mortal terror during that three hours.

For those three hours will show to men the most sublime, awe-inspiring display of heavenly fireworks this earth has witnessed since space roared with the primordial flames of creation, the astronomers say.

THE DOG BY-LAW IS STILL IN FORCE

But Council will Meet in Committee of the Whole to Re-open the Question

The dog bylaw is really now in force, but the city fathers are taking no action to push the measure. In fact the whole bylaw had been referred back to the Committee of the Whole Council for re-opening. The council are divided as to whether the leash clause can be enforced. But Ald. Turner sticks to his guns and contends that what is considered a good measure for other communities is also a good and practicable one for Peterborough. It may be, he says, considered a harsh one to some people for a time, like the bicycle bylaw was at first; but eventually it will be recognized as a right move in the interests of the community as a whole. He has no wish to force his bylaw against public opinion, and invites ayes and nayes on the question through the press.

The council chamber was tolerably well filled with dog enthusiasts last night, when it was understood that the question would be reopened.

IS A DOG CATCHER WANTED?

Ald. Gillespie started the ball rolling in submitting the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Legal and Reception Committee beg leave to report as follows:

1. That the petition of the grocers for an early closing bylaw was referred to the acting chief constable and the city solicitor for examination and reports and that it appears that the petition is not signed by three-fourths of the occupiers of grocers shops.

2. We recommend that the 57th Regt. Band be paid $25 in recognition of their services on the occasion of the visit of his excellency the governor-general on April 23rd.

3. We recommend that applications be asked for the position of dog catcher and for a dog pound.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Previously in the evening Dr. King had asked council to rescind the leash clause. "If we have to tie up our dogs," he said," the town will soon be overrun with mangy animals."

Ald. Turner here took the floor in support of his bylaw, which he characterized as just the measure required to abate a considerable nuisance. He represented, he contended, a deputation much larger than the one present, and quoted influential names, such as Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, Dr. Boucher and others, who endorsed the measure.

Other towns have passed similar bylaws, while Owen Sound will not permit dogs to be at large even on leash or chain. He was willing to obey the law and his dog had been on a chain since last Saturday.

Ald. Morgan replied that twenty people, including business men, mechanics, and even men of money had on Sunday last expressed to him their strongest disapproval of the bylaw. They were willing to pay the tax, or even a higher fee, but not to submit to the leash clause. "Let the poor dogs out," he exclaimed, "to get the fresh air, and not be chained up, like Ald. Turner's dog in a barn to act as a cheap night watchman."

Ald. Turner here contended that Ald. Morgan and others ought to be ashamed to be so selfish as to wish to maintain a dog at another man's expense in the way of a crying nuisance. He then turned to his worship and said he thought that he, as chief magistrate, should see that the bylaw is enforced.

The mayor replied that he would see that any measure passed by a majority of his colleagues was fully enforced.

Aldermen Phelan and Graham here moved that clause three of the report be referred back to the Committee of the Whole Council.

Voting was here proceeded with until it was discovered that clause three applied to a dog catcher and pound, and had nothing to do with the question in dispute.

Ald. Duffus enlarged upon the unmitigated nuisance so many dogs make of themselves, but said he was not in favor of enforcing the leash clause if anything else could be substituted to abate the nuisance. He thought that the city's bylaws had thought that had the city's bylaws been rigorously enforced heretolore there would not have arisen so much trouble over this one. If this bylaw was to live he wanted the council to take active measures to enforce it.

After considerable further discussion on the vexed question, the council, on motion of Aldermen Phelan and Graham referred the bylaw back to the Committee of the Whole Council. In the meanwhile the dog bylaw is in force until it is rescinded.

PRIZES AWARDED.

Farm and Dairy Awards Given for Best Farms in the County.

The competition held under the management of the Farm and Dairy Co. for the best farm in the county of Peterborough for the year 1909, has been completed, and the following have been awarded prizes:

1st prize, a silver cup, donated by Hon. J. H. Stratton, M.P., was won by G. A. Brethen, of Norwood.

2nd prize, a silver tea service, donated by Ald. Gillespie, vice president of the company, was won by J. K. Moore & Son; 3rd prize, a chafing dish, donated by the company, was won by J. H. Garbutt; 4th prize, a chafing dish, donated by the company, was won by F. Birdsall, of Birdsall.

Besides the local competition there is also another one for the Province of Ontario. The names of the winners will appear later.

The prizes for the local competition are now on exhibition in the south window of Mr. Robert Neil's shoe store.

A DAY TOO SOON.

Hector Baker Pays Fine of $10 for Drinking Whilst Blacklisted.

Hector Baker, who has, more than once, not only "looked on," but sampled, intoxicating beverages, has been on the "black" or proscribed list. On Sunday Baker was in a state that conveyed tangible evidence that the black list, although gotten out with most commendable zeal and intent does not always effect its purport. Baker was under "the influence." Yesterday in the police Court which was presided over by Magistrates Simon Armstrong and Ex-Mayor Rush, Hector pleaded guilty to the soft impeachment of having indulged. He now has, in consequence, ten days in which to raise the fine imposed for his disregard of the black list orders.

Peter McCrae pleaded guilty to having supplied Baker with the liquor and a fine of $25 was imposed, the alaternative being thirty days in jail. The fine was paid.

ANNIVERSAY PROGRAM.

Events in Order This Week at St. Paul's Church.

Although a full list of the proceedings in connection with St. Paul's church 75th anniversary, was given in yesterday's issue of The Times, this event is of great importance and a resume of the program will be of general interest.

Tomorrow evening, the choir, assisted by distinguished singers from out of town, will hold a sacred concert.

Friday evening at eight o'clock preparatory service will be held, before the special anniversary communion, which will be observed next Sabbath.

HALLEY'S COMET SEEN.

Mr. Collier Describes How, Where and When Citizens May See the Comet.

Mr. H. B. Collier, president of the local center of the Royal Astronomical Society, is probably the first member of the society to accurately locate Halley's comet. The following instructions furnished by Mr. Collier, will enable anyone to discover it.

The comet appears to be a pale yellow hue with bebulous matter or glowing cloudy matter, with a slight tail, and stretching away from the sun.

The large square of "Pegasus," composed of four fairly large, bright stars, will be readily joined in the east. The lower star of this square is known as "Theta Pegasus." On a line half way between this and the brilliant planet Venus, the comet will be found, just alongside the star, Omega Pisces.

Mr. Collier saw the comet yesterday morning about four o'clock with opera glasses. Having observed it through the glasses he then saw it with the naked eye, and could distinguish it quite plainly.

No Extension of Time for Hotel Keepers

A petition was received from a number of ratepayers asking that the council recommend that the License Commissioners grant a three months' extension of time to the seven hotel keepers and the one wholesale liquor dealer whose licenses expired on April 30th.

Aldermen Buller and Bradburn were in sympathy with the petition, and thought the hotel men should have time in which to clean up. They accordingly moved that the council recommend to the commissioners that two or three months' extension of time be granted.

Ald. Morgan did not think they needed any extension of time in which to clean up; there were hotel men who had not a drop of liquor on their premises Saturday night.

Ald. Hicks was in favor of a two months' extension of time. But he had been advised that under the license law the commissioners had no other recourse than to close up the hotels refused a license on May 1st. The bylaw should have had a rider providing for extension.

The city solicitor advised that the bylaw would not permit of any extension.

Ald. Batten moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the matter be left in the hands of the License Commissioners.

The vote on the amendment resulted in a tie, and the mayor cast his vote in favor of the amendment. Consequently the council will make no recommendation to the commissioners.

GIRL IN P.E.I. AGAIN IN HYPNOTIC SLEEP

She Creates Fresh Delusion in the Minds of All Around Her—They Imagine They Hear Laundry Machinery and See Lights Such as She Lived Among in the City

Charlottetown, P.E.I., May 2.—Margaret Cheverie, of New Zealand, P.E.I., whose strangemanifestations of psychological phenomena created much wonder and excitement upon the people of that neighborhood some time ago, has broken out in a fresh spot, so as to speak. It will be remembered that this girl some months ago caused such excitement by her strange actions that many of the people in that section of the country imagined that she was possessed of the devil.

Her powers of causing delusions upon the sense of hearing were so great that people could not sleep on account of the noises which they imagined they heard. These "noises" could be heard for miles away, and there was no cessation of them until the girl was taken away from her home and placed in the Hospital for the Insane.

Here she remained for several weeks, during which time there was not a symptom of anything out of the ordinary about the girl, and the little village where she lived lapsed back again to the old-time quietude.

As she did not develop any signs of actual insanity while in the Insane Hospital, it was thought best to put her to work in the laundry, where under the eye of the medical superintendent a good opportunity would be afforded to study the case.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

COUNCIL WILL INVITE TENDERS FOR SEWERS

$30,000 By-Law for Sewers to be Submitted to the Ratepayers on May 30th —Beautifying Central Park

The city fathers met in regular monthly session last night. There were present: His Worship Mayor Morrow, Aldermen Hicks, Duffus, Duncan, Morgan, Buller, Bradburn, Gillespie, Metheral, Graham, Batten, Turner, Phelan.

CARE OF CENTRAL PARK.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams addressed the council with a view to getting the city to agree to a joint management of the Central Park on the part of the three bodies concerned—the city, the 57th Regiment and the School Board.

He asked that the City Council appoint three members to meet with three members of the Board of Education and the regiment, and discuss some plan of unity in beautifying the park.

Ald. Gillespie moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan,—That this matter be referred to the Board of Works to appoint a sub-committee....Carried.

OPEN AIR MEETINGS.

Mr. Mulligan, of the Gospel Hall, asked that his organization be granted permission to hold open air meetings in the Central Park after church Sunday evenings. This request was granted.

SCEPTIC TANK WANTED.

Mr. J. C. Shook asked that in the bylaw for sewers an appropriation be made for a sceptic tank to take care of the sewerage from Waterford and Harvey streets, south of Dublin street.

It is estimated that this work would cost $1,200.

Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That this matter be referred to the Board of Works.—Carried.

In this connection Ald. Hicks submitted that the sceptic tank asked for, would have to receive the approval of the Provincial and local boards of health.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

Mr. Denham, superintendent of the Quaker Oats Company, addressed council, and said that the C.P.R. people asked for a resolution of council granting permission to lay their tracks across the old government reservation for a roadway along the river front, from Hunter to Simcoe street, which is now city property. This request is in furtherance of the Quaker Oats extension of railway sidings to facilitate the proposed expansion of their already big business.—Referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

The Otonabee Power Company's request for permission to erect additional poles was referred to the Board of Works.

Messrs. D. O'Connell and W. H. Denham wrote, on behalf of the Board of Trade, that they had succeeded in raising considerably over $2,000—and it is expected that the subscriptions will reach $3,000—towards defraying the expenses of an industrial commissioner, and asking that the city deposit its cheque for $2,000 with Mr. Peter Campbell, the Board of Trade's treasurer.. $2.000 is the city's share of the cost of maintening an industrial commissioner.

Ald. Morgan remarked that he would like to see the Board of Trade put up their money before the city issues a cheque for $2,000.

Ald. Duffus moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn,—That this matter be referred to the Finance Committee with power toact.—Carried.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Police Commissioners' recommendation that Mrs. Rousel be paid the late chief's salary up to June 30th, was unanimously granted.

Mr. Geo. W. Robinson's application for appointion of librarian in the new public library was referred to the Board of Works.

The Dickson Company's protest against the proposed closing of Mill street was referred to the Board of Works.

DAY LABOR vs. CONTRACT.

The Board of Works recommendation that tenders be asked for sewer construction met with opposition.

Ald. Phelan could see no reason why the city should change the system of building sewers from day labor to contract labor. He had never heard one complaint during the last three years of sewers built by day labor.

He thought that before making the board's suggested change, the question should be thoroughly looked into. Besides considerable saving had been effected by day labor.

Ald. Graham,—"The sinly sewer that is not satisfactory—that on Romaine street—was done by day labor."

Ald. Hicks had no fault to find with day labor. As to cheapness it must be borne in mind that during the last few years sewer pipe had been phenomenally cheap. But comparing day labor with contract labor the latter had been found to be more satisfactory on the whole. Then in asking for tenders the engineer also figures in the work, thus giving a basis on which to consider tenders. And, Ald. Hicks argued, it is worth something to know before hand to know what the work is going to cost the property benefitted.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Buller,—That clause three be amended to read that sewer work be done by day labor as during the last few years.

Ald. Metheral—"We have good contractors here, let them figure on the work. I find other cities are saving thousands of dollars by doing their public work by day labor.""

Ald. Phelan here contended that the roads are left in better condition when sewer work is done by day labor.

Ald. Phelan's motion was here put to vote and lost. The report was accordingly adopted as read, and tenders will be asked for sewer construction.

Tenders Wanted for Isolation Hospital

At last night's council meeting Ald. Duncan submitted the following report:

Gentlemen.—Your Property Committe beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That the plans for a building for an isolation hospital prepared by W. Blackwell be approved, and that this committee be authorized to advertise for tenders and let the contract.

2. That the chairman and Ald. Graham be instructed to have the King Edward Park ploughed, leveled and seeded, and trees set in it.

3. That the chairman interview the Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., with a view to having the old drill shed in the East Ward removed and the site converted into a park.

Ald. Duffus objected to the clause re isolation hospital. He said scarlet fever and diphtheria patients should not be treated in the same building, as there is no recovery for one catching both diseases at the same time.

Ald. Duncan replied that the two classes of patients would be separated by a solid brick wall.

Ald. Buller contended that the proposed building at a cost of $10,000 or $12,000, with equipment, would be too big an undertaking. A cheaper structure would answer all purposes.

Ald. Hicks offered that the city should go to smaller expense for a building that could be closed up at times. He suggested that a couple of modest $2,000 buildings would meet all requirements.

Ald. Duffus agreed with Ald. Hicks and added that the more expensive the building the more would be the cost of its maintenance.

Ald. Duffus moved, seconded by Ald. Buller,—That clause one be referred back to the Property Committee to report.

Ald. Duncan took exception to this as also did Ald. Bradburn. The matter had been in the committee's hand a year now. Let the council now take definite action. The vote on the report resulted in a tie, and his worship cast his vote in favor of the report's adoption as read. Consequently tenders will be asked for building the hospital.

A GENERAL'S OPINION.

Lord Kitchener Says England is Not Decadent.

Lord Kitchener says that England is not decadent, that her sons are as good as ever and as full of heart and that she is quite able under God to determine her own destines. Coming from so able a general this view should not only carry weight in Britain but make other peoples who have been discounting England's power, stop and think.

There are many clear thinkers and splendid writers in the British Isles who imagine that unless England adopts much more progressive policies her strength will gradually decay and in a century her sun will set as did that of Greece and Rome. These students of public matters may be entirely correct so far as they are able to gather information but their experience must necessarily be limited. Kitchener, on the other hand, has established a reputation as one of the greatest living generals, as a man with sufficient force of character to back up any opinions he may hold. His life study of Britain's army both at home and overseas should qualify his speech. When he declares, therefore, that England's sons are as stout of heart as ever and as able to defend their possessions the pessimist must reconsider his prophecy.

SUMMER RESORTS DRY.

No Intoxicants This Summer for Guests at Bobcaygeon.

On Monday the villages of Bobcaygeon and Haliburton go into the "dry" column or in other words become local option centers.

It will be remembered that in January last these municipalities voted on a local option bylaw, and the measure was carried in both places by substantial majorities.

No intoxicating liquors can be sold in these places after today and the bars in the three hotels effected will therefore dispense soft drinks.

There is only one hotel in Haliburton, and it is understood that the present occupant will continue in the business.

Bobcaygeon has two hotels, the Thompson House and Hunter House, and the proprietors of both hostelries are making preparations to meet the new conditions, and expect to have a very busy season catering to the commercial and tourist trade. —Lindsay Post.

RAILWAY SUBSIDIES.

Notice of the Annual Railway Subsidy Resolutions.

Hon. G. P. Graham gives notice of the annual railway subsidy resolutions, but this year they are all revotes. In all forty-four votes are proposed, and on the basis of $3,200 a mile the total will amount to $8,-862,400, but there is small probability that ten per cent. of this amount will ever be called for. The distribution gives fifteen votes to the Maritime Provinces, thirteen to Quebec, five to British Columbia, and the balance to Ontario. The Ontario votes are:—To the St. Mary's and Western Ontario Railway Co. for a line of railway from Embro to Exeter, not exceeding thirty-six miles. To the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway Co. for three lines of railway not exceeding in all one hundred and ninety-four miles. To the Algoma Central and Hudson's Bay Railway Co. for three lines not exceeding in all two hundred and seventy-five miles. I consider it the best remedy for a cold sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. ANOTHER UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

About the year 1879, there was launched a new universal language known as Volapuk which provoked some little ferment among those who are too apt to think that where there is a saving of time, mental or educative effects are not of so very much account. And eight years after, this same notion of saving time—brought a second universal language into the field under the name of Esperanto. Neither of these has, however, found a place as yet on our school courses; though at one time it looked as if Esperanto, from the ease with which classical scholars could acquire proficiency in reading it, would eventually become a medium of speech among the nations, in the interest of trade. Instead of fourteen thousand words, as Volapuk started with, Esperanto has only two thousand; and, as things are, the former has only a few votaries, whereas the latter still counts its students by the thousand. This year, however, a professor of the University of Copenhagen has promised the world a third universal language which he proposes to have go by the name of "Ido," and which he claims is perfection in its way. The inventors of these various speech-utilities forget that a language is an evolution, not an invention; and that there is no end to the number of inventions that may spring up to obviate inconvenience in our trading enterprises. Nor should it even be forgotten that there are already three choice evolutions on hand as mother tongues in the world, namely, our English, French and German, any two of which can be acquired readily enough from the groundwork of any one of the three as the mother tongue of the learner. These three languages are on our school and college curricula, and with the three of them learned, or even only two of them acquired—French and English—there is not much trouble in getting a hearing in any nation in the world.

Satan Sanderson

By HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES,
Author of "Hearts Courageous," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1908, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

Looks as though you've been on the road long enough to know better. We stopped to tank there, and we picked you up, you and your four legged mate. Must have been a bit squiffy, eh?"

He drank thirstily

He winked and took a flask from his pocket. "Have a hair of the dog that bit you?" he said.

Harry took the flask and, wiping the top on his sleeve, uncorked it. Something in the penetrating odor of the contents seemed to cleave through far mental wastes to an intimate, though mysterious, goal. He put it to his lips and drank thirstily.

As the burning liquid scorched his throat a recrudescence of old impulses surged up through the crust of more modern usage. The Harry Sanderson of the new, remorseful, temperate life, of chastened impulses, of rote and rule and reformed habit—the rector of St James—had been lost on that wild night ride. The man who had awakened in the freight car was the Satan Sanderson of four years before.

Chapter II

SINCE that tragical wedding day at the white house in the aspens Jessica had passed through a confusion of experiences. She had always lived much in herself, and to her natural reserve her blindness had added. As a result her knowledge both of herself and of life had been superficial. The first bitter shock of her catastrophe seemed to burn up in her the very capacity for further poignant suffering, and she went through the motions of life apathetically.

Change of scene and the declining health of David Stires occupied fortunately much of her waking thoughts. After the first few months of travel he failed steadily. His citric acid moods were forgotten, his harsh tempers put aside. Hour after hour he lay in his chair, gazing out from the wide sun parlor of the sanitarium on the crest of Smoky mountain, whither their journeying had finally brought them. He had never spoken of Hugh.

In time her fiercer pain had dulled, and her imagination, naturally so importunate, had begun to seize upon her surroundings. In the summer season the sanitarium had few guests, and for this she was thankful. Dr. Brent, its head, rallying her on her paleness, drove her out of doors with good natured severity, and when she was not with David Stires she walked or rode for hours at a time over the mountain trails. Breathing in the crisp air of altitude, her spirits grew more buoyant. She fed the squirrels, listened to the pert chirp of the whisky jack and the whirring drum of the partridge or sat on a hidden elevation which she named "The Knob," facing across the shallow valley to the south.

The knob overlooked a little grassy shelf a few hundred feet below, where stood a miner's cabin, with wood grown gravel heaps near by, in front of which a tree bore the legend painted roughly on a board, "The Little Paymaster Claim."

Her interest had opened eagerly to these scenes. The solitudes soothed, and the life of the community below, frankly primitive and uncomplicated, attracted her. Between the town of Smoky Mountain and the expensive sanitarium on the ridge a great social gulf was fixed. The latter's patrons for the most part came and went by the narrow gauge road that linked with northern junction. The settlement far below was only a feature of the panorama for which they paid so well. Even Dr. Brent, who had perched this place of healing where his patients could breathe air fresh from the Pacific and cooled by the snow peaks, knew it chiefly through two of its citizens—Mrs. Halloran, the capable, bustling wife of the proprietor of the Mountain Valley House, the town's single hostelry, who brewed old fashioned blackberry wine and cordials for his patients, and Tom Felder, a young lawyer whom he had known on the coast before ill health had sent him to hang out his shingle in a more genial altitude.

The latter sometimes came for a chat with the physician, and on one of these calls Jessica and he had met. She had liked his keen, good humored face and waving, slightly graying hair. She had met him once since on the mountain road, and he had walked with her and told her quaint stories of the townspeople. He had taken her to Mrs. Halloran, whose heart she had won by praise of her cherry cordial.

"It brings back my boyhood," David Stires said to her one afternoon, tapping the bottle by his wheel chair. "Somehow this has the old taste."

"It is nearly gone," she said. "I'll get another bottle. I am going for a ride now. I think it does you good."

"Before you go," he said, "fetch my writing case, and I will dictate a letter."

She brought and opened it with a trouble at her heart. For the request showed his increasing weakness. Until today the few letters he had written had been done with his own hand. Thinking of this as she waited, her fingers nervously plucked at the inside of the leather cover. The morocco flap fell and disclosed a slip of paper. It was a canceled bank draft. It bore Hugh's name, and across its face in David Stires' crabbed hand, written large, was the venomous word "Forgery."

The room swam before her eyes. Only by a fierce effort could she compel her pen to trace the dictated words. Hugh's misdeed, evil as it was, had been to her but an abstract crime. Now it suddenly lay bare before her, a

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. If you are sick, I don't want you to send me a penny. Not one cent of my own money, simply for your word. All I ask is to have you tell me you will take the $5 from Dr. Shoop's, continue only until entirely well and then pay me. Isn't that fair enough? Isn't that exactly what you would do for me? Isn't it the honorable and reasonable way to do business? Isn't it the only way you can be sure that you get only what you want? Isn't it the only way you can be sure that you get only what you want? Gambling

The efforts put forth in Parliament lately to place a check upon gaming (wagering) of various kinds, to which men resort for recreation, has led to much discussion all over the country, chiefly in the towns and cities where clubs afford facilities for card-playing, of which the villager and the cultivator of the soil have but little idea. Apart from the clubs, men to the number of 6 to 10 arrange to meet at one another's houses once a week, and in addition to the play regale themselves with most of the luxuries in vogue where the club membership runs into the hundreds. In all civilized countries and even in China and Japan the adult population is much addicted to play. The French have always been very fond of it, and cards were first invented or introduced for the King's (Chas. VI.) amusement in France towards the close of the XIVth century.

The modes of play vary in different countries. In France, instead of having whist (or bridge, its derivative) like English people and their descendants, and "draw poker" like our southern neighbors, they prefer the games which, while quite as dangerous as the now prescribed "Blind Hookey," are scarcely more complex or intellectual than "odd or even" and the vulgar "pitch and toss." So far as mere betting foes. French gamesters sometimes show more intelligence; but however ingenious, they seem to be less collected than Englishmen and less shrewd and less audacious than Americans. They become more excitable over cards, like Italians, and without the deep-seated wiliness which makes the Levantines and Chinese such irresistible sharpers. In the fashionable French circles gaming has always assumed much simpler and speedier forms; naturally when the chief object is to gamble rather than to play at cards for the cards' sake. In the 18th century it was pharo and hombre, in the last century it was ecarte, lansquenet and baccaret; the last named became somewhat the vogue in England some years ago. But rouge-et-noir, whenever tolerated in France, proved more fascinating than all other modes combined. Monte Carlo has been its chief habitat of latter years. Horse-racing is more popular in England and in Canada, in France it is but little favored.

In the last two generations gambling in France hassed through various stages. When rouge-et-noir was abolished at Frascati near Rome and at the Palais Royal in Paris, an era of private play was established. The plucking of "pigeons" was practised in boarding-houses where there were always a few colonel and majors at the table, and in bourdoirs inhabited by hospitable ladies, who were singularly lucky when they took a hand at lansquent or vingt-et-un. Then there were the parties in the particular cabinets,"—such as were provided for one of our Ministers of the Crown when visiting in Montreal in former days—attached to restaurants where younger gentlemen present would begin by pouring claret or champagne out of the window, and end by inditing I. O. U.'s. It is averred that at all times there is plenty of this sort of play in the centres of the civilized world, but in Paris it flourished more especially in the old "flush" days of the once respectable Cafe Anglaise and the Maison d'Or, and was one of the chief amusements of "gilded" people during the Empire and the days of our own National Policy. "Plunging" was the order of the day, and many a venturesome broker and his customer—to say nothing of railway ventures—had to bite the dust and bide the advent of better times.

National Mining & Tunnel Company

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp, Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer.
Leadville, Colorado, January 15, 1906.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

Normal Students in the Rain.

Some of the Normal Students were out yesterday at Stewart's Settlement displaying their abilities as pedagogues. When they arrived home in a bus at the post office corner in the steady down pour of rain these budding teachers looked like a dream, after a Welsh rarebit supper, or what Mr. Noah and sons might have resembled at the conclusion of the flood, when Noah after taking soundings had found Mount Ararat. The students however, seemed cheerful and nothing daunted by their experience.

City Should Follow Woodstock.

The city of Woodstock has firmly decided to have all dogs there muzzled, and under lock and key. They have had a rabies infected dog in that town. Now it is betting dollars to cancelled postage stamps that in Peterborough, as compared with Woodstock, dogs are as numerous as gentlemen in a theater audience with a full head of hair on in proportion to those bald or wearing wigs. Still the ten thousand dogs of all kinds of descent and parentage in Peterborough still destroy gardens, frighten children, and make night hideous with their Wagner sonata discords seven days in the weeks. It is time that the "grave and reverend seigniors" who control the city's destiny get a dog catcher busy and eliminate a few thousand of the stray (or other) dogs that make a walk through our streets a menace to life or pleasure.

Halley's Comet has been seen in Peterborough. It is to be hoped that this vision of the celestial wanderer will inspire local merchants to lower the price of beef.

The regular meeting of the Charlotte street Ladies' Aid Society, will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The hour is changed in order that the men may be able to take tea with their wives.

Notwithstanding the heavy and incessant downpour of rain yesterday afternoon the Princess Theater was well filled by an audience which came to see Kiralfy Bros., great interpretation of Jules Verne's great work "Michael Strogoff, Courier to the Czar."

Manager Pinchin, of the Otonabee Navigation Company, Peterborough, who was in Lindsay Thursday, securred the services of Captain Elliot for the season on the Manita, which will run between Lindsay and Sturgeon Point.—Lindsay Post.

There was a marked difference in the growth of grass in the local parks yesterday. As our literary horticultural editor remarked, "The chlorophyl action, superinduced by the prevailing moisture accelerated the color action." Then he was hit with a hot slug.

Mr. F. D. McKay, Toronto, general manager of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, was in the city on Saturday.

Today, tomorrow, and the day after include the last opportunities for seeing the splendid exhibit of water colors at the Nordheimer Piano show rooms.

Mr. Billium Wailey is said to be busily engaged in gathering facts and hunting up references preparatory to his coming speech befc a the Lime Juice Club on "Chicken Lttig and the High Price of Beef." The Times will give an exclusive report of this meeting.

Although yesterday, in Peterborough was marked by a continuous downpour of rain, things were "dry" in a more marked degree, in several spots where formerly "the wets" would have congregated. These places were the hotels closed down recently qy the License Commissioners.

The Helping Hand of Dr. Hamilton's Pills Will Cure in a Few Weeks.

"Foundry work compels men to work in the winter in very cold shops," writes Tunis T. Bolter, a well-known mechanic in Hamilton. "I contracted a very severe cold a few months ago which settled in my back and kidneys. I suffered constant pain, and in bending over my work and in heavy lifting, the pain at time was excruciating. My digestion got all out of order, doubtless because the kidneys didn't work right. My wife had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills as a family medicine and I took her advice and started them also. To my great delight a few doses helped me so much it was proof I was using a true remedy. Natural action of the kidneys was brought about, burning and aching ceased, and the back-lameness gradually disappeared. I no longer fear my work. I feel strong and robust, and with such a remedy as Dr. Hamilton's Pills at hand I will probably never again be sick. I advise every working man to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

No other medicine will regulate the system and maintain health like Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take something else on which he makes more profit. Sold in yellow boxes 25c. Prepared by The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

VOL. XXXIII NO. 103 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO WEDNESDAY MAY 4 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

A NEW STEEL MILL

SPLENDID STRUCTURE OF THE SIMONDS COMPANY.

This Progressive Company, Which Has a Large Canadian Business to Build Splendid New Factory.

The general public in Fitchburg, Chicago and Montreal will be instantly interested in the announcement herewith made that the Simonds Mfg. Company, the well known steel makers and manufacturers of saws and knives, have recently purchased a tract of some 65 acres of land in Lockport, N.Y., which they will at once develop for occupancy by a new steel mill which will carry every possible equipment of the best type for the manufacture of steel for use in their several plants. It is at once a sign of the times and an additional confirmation of the old proverb that "nothing succeeds like success." The initial investment in this new plant will not be less than a quarter of a million dollars.

The first and original plant, to review the company history a bit, was organized 76 years ago in Fitchburg, Mass., then a little New England village, but possessing that skill of artisanship that has made New England famous throughout the world, and which still keeps her in the forefront of the procession in spite of all the stupendous competition the middle states and middle west have developed.

The Fitchburg plant grew and prospered and less than a decade ago a wonderful new plant was erected and the old ones discarded. The new plant has since been enlarged and is already feeling the strain of the demand upon it.

The Chicago plant, the steel mill was erected that the proper business advantage might be taken of labor, plant was added a few years ago to coal markets, etc., and the Montreal serve the demands for the Simonds products in the Canadian lumbering operations and in other directions. But vast as this equipment all is, it has not been enough and the Lockport plant will be planned on lines to meet immediate demands and to provide for a long future growth.

There were four determining factors in the choice of the New York location—labor, power, land and water combination that would, for the last two, answer the purpose, first of a site served by proper manufacturing and residential opportunities, and second by suitable land and water transportation facilities.

It would be supererogation to discuss the advantages Lockport offers for the securing of labor of all degrees and sorts for such a plant. On the item of power, the electric service direct from Niagara Falls assures the flexible power the company desires and its adaptability to the peculiar needs of a steel plant makes it still more attractive and available.

On the matter of land there was acreage enough at hand for immediate purchase and use, with opportunity yet at hand for further enlargement in good time. On the transportation side the plant will lie between the New York Central and Erie Railroads, and will have direct tract connection with both and a private siding a mile long for the company's special use. Furthermore, the Erie Canal runs directly along the Simonds property and delivery from its 1,000-ton barges meets another requirement of selection.

A half hour electric schedule connects the plant with all local points in Lockport as well as furnishing service to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, and the International Electric Railway service of the Erie will establish a special Simonds station. Incidentally it is interesting to note that after the completion of the new Detroit tunnel, the Michigan Central through trains and the New York Central's twentieth century limited will pass directly by the Simonds works.

There will be built at once fifty houses for the company's employees on the best lines that can be found for dwellings of the type desired and the settlement will be brought up-to-date in point of perfectness of equipment and every provision made for the health and pleasure of their employee-tenants. This is in line with the Simonds policy, so well known, in its co-operating relations with its employees. It is proper to say, in a word, that at the Fitchburg plant the company maintains a club room, recreation room, baths, gymnasium, and medical service for its many hundred hands. The company has also established a complete pension system for its employees in their several plants, office forces and operatives both.

These considerations determined the location of the new plant. Its availability for shipment of steel to its three extensive manufacturing plants is obvious from its relatively medical location with reference to them all. The Simonds Steel Plates will be made at Lockport and shipped as stated. The company has completed its contracts for construction and the new plant will be in operation by October first. The Chicago mill which has been making steel exclusively for the Simonds saws and knives, has been proven all too small to meet the demands of the last few years which have increased by leaps and bounds. The Lockport mill will have a capacity many times that of the original Chicago mill.

Speaking of all these matters in a more intimate and personal way a representative of the Simonds Mfg. Co.'y., said to-day:

"Progress along manufacturing lines is to-day based on quality and service. As good as our service was it was proving inadequate. To win, therefore, that fullest measure of success which we believe we merited demands attention equally to the goods we manufactured, the conditions under which they are produced and the way we treat our customers. The public demand to-day is for the very best of anything that can be produced. The best, it is needless to say, can be made only under proper, i.e., the best conditions. Part of these conditions means affording workmen the greatest advantages in return for increasingly faithful service. It means regulating the physical or purely mechanical features of the establishment in a way that will promote the greatest harmony.

"Not only to maintain but also to improve the quality, which has made all of the Simonds products pre-eminently conspicuous the world over, has been our aim in the preparation of the new plant, the development of which, we are certain, will attain the results we have in view. These results, pertain both to the manufactured product and to the welfare of the people, whose skill, energy and zeal primarily make these results possible. The consideration of all these things has brought the company to the undertaking it now has in hand.

"It therefore, only remains to be seen how well our plans will be realized. Our confidence properly comes from our past successes. We feel, and more than that, we know, that giving still better service to already satisfied buyers of the Simonds saws knives, files and other products, will win that approval which will make us see to it that our work is well done. There will be a satisfaction of untold value in itself in knowing, also that our men whether in office or factory, or on the road, will put whole hearts into their work, will take pride in their company, and will help fulfil a motto which it has pleased us to try since the beginning of our company to live up to "Simonds Saws and the Best."

Given by the Pupils of Miss Gumpricht.

The recital given by the pupils of Miss Wilhelmina F. Gumpricht, A.T.C.M., A.O.C.M., graduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music in the Murray street Baptist Sunday school last night speaks volumes for that talented teacher, and exemplified her most pleasing tact of tuition, it being justly expressed by the almost perfect performance of her pupils in the various difficult numbers.

The recital bespoke complete success in musical circles for those taking part, and Miss Gumpricht must be highly pleased with the meritorious performance of her pupils last night, who furnished a most delightful evening's entertainment to those who were favored with the opportunity of attending the recital.

R. A. DUTTON SELLS OUT.

Mr. J. H. Fanning Has Purchased Business of Local Grocer.

Mr. R. A. Dutton, the George St. grocer, yesterday sold out his business, and will leave this month for Toronto where he will reside in future. Mr. Dutton has recently been out to the Pacific Coast seeking a location there. However, he decided to remain in Ontario. A short time since, whilst in Toronto, Mr. Dutton purchased a new two storey brick structure in the west end of that city at the corner of Lucas and Roncevalles avenue. Mr. Dutton, it is understood paid a good stiff price for this property, but owing to the rapid expansion of the city westwards, he considers he got a bargain. He yesterday told a Times' representative that had he bought this, or a similarly situated property he would have made over a thousand dollars owing to the rapid increase in real estate values. The property, which Mr. Dutton will occupy as a grocery store is near High Park, a residential part of the city, where stores are only allowed on one side of the street. His new store is a double one of modern make.

The purchaser is Mr. James M. Fanning, who has been with Mr. E. E. Mason for some years, and will at once take a place in the store to get acquainted with the location of the goods, etc. Formal transfer of the store will be made on the 16th of this month. There is no doubt but that Mr. Fanning, who has a wide circle of friends in this city, and who is a thoroughly posted and practical grocery man will make good in his new venture.

Crosses Ocean for One Day Visit.

London, May 4.—"Six thousand Miles for a Glimpse of Broadway" would be an appropriate title for the piece in which Miss Pauline Chase, the popular English actress, made her debut to-day when she sailed for New York on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. Miss Chase will arrive in New York next Tuesday, staying a few hours for the purpose of attending the Actors' Fund Fair, and sailing on the Mauretania the next morning on her return to England. The actress is taking along with her a number of photographs and autographs of leading English players and other celebrities, which she intends auctioning for the benefit of the fund.

SERIOUS FIRE IN PORT HOPE

PROMINENT BUSINESS BLOCK WIPED OUT WITH LOSS OF $75,000.

Port Hope, May 3.—Fire broke out about 2 o'clock this morning in the Deyell block, and before the flames could be subdued, practically the entire block was destroyed, and all that now remains of what was one of the prominent landmarks are the four walls. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

Among the stores and offices destroyed are J. P. McKenney's grocery; N. L. Hamly's stationery and fancy goods; Harry White's law office; Col. H. A. Ward, K.C., law office; the Canadian Northern Railway offices; the Hope Township offices, and the Masonic Lodge room, Hope and Ontario lodges.

By a peculiar freak of the fire, Mitchell's drug store, threatened every minute, escaped fairly well, the building being absolutely gutted around and above this portion. The water damage, however, has destroyed the contents.

Mr. A. Vickery, a Dublin University man, surveyor for the C. N. Railway, was asleep in the rear of the C.N.R. offices at the time, and barely escaped with his life, being almost over come with smoke.

FAMILY FOOD.

Crisp, Toothsome and Requires No Cooking.

A little boy down in N. C. asked his mother to write an account of how Grape-Nuts food had helped their family.

She says Grape-Nuts was first brought to her attention in Charlotte, where she visited.

"While I was there I used the food regularly. I gained about 15 pounds and felt so well that when I returned home I began using Grape-Nuts in the family regularly.

"My little 18 months-old baby shortly after being weaned was very ill with dyspepsia and teething. She was sick nine weeks and we tried everything. She became so emaciated that it was painful to handle her and we thought we were going to lose her. One day a happy thought urged me to try Grape-Nuts soaked in a little warm milk.

"Well, it worked like a charm and she began taking it regularly and improvement set in at once. She is now getting well and round and fat as fast as possible and ain Grape Nuts.

"Sometime ago several of the family were stricken with la grippe at the same time, and during the worst stages we could not relish anything in the shape of food but Grape-Nuts and oranges, everything else nauseating us.

"We all appreciate what your famous food has done for our family."

ARE SCIENTISTS RESPONSIBLE?

Coroner Gray to Hold an Inquest This Morning in Township of Smith.

This morning, Coroner, Dr. Gray, will take street car to Jackson Park and walk thence to the place in Smith, where little James Robert Baillie died Monday night at his parents' home. It is alleged that the boy had been ill for the past fort. night or so with a severe cold and that his parents, as reported, are Christian Scientists. Dr. Gray will this morning empanel a jury and investigate the cause of the little fellow's death. The boy, it might be said passed away suddenly Monday night.

His father, on Monday night, applied to Dr. Greer for a burial certificate, but was refused one. The latter reported the case to Dr. Grey, who at once made an investigation. He decided that an inquest was necessary. A post mortem examination will be held to ascertain the cause of death. Dr. Greer having been appointed to perform R. High County Constable Cochrane was sent to inquire into the case.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

THE DOG BYLAW.

Novel Idea to Test Public Opinion on Matter.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—It seems that there is some doubt in the minds of the council whether the dog bylaw as passed by the council meets with the views of the citizens in general. I personally have no desire to suggest a regulation which will not meet with the approval of the citizens by a substantial majority. In order, therefore, to get a definite voice from the people, I suggest that everyone take an interest in the matter and vote either for or against the bylaw by sending a card, letter or telephoning to the different city papers, who will publish a list of voters for and against the bylaw, so that the council may have an intelligent opinion of the citizens generally. If this appeals to you as being a means to assist the council, I would suggest that the voting be left open for one week.

Yours sincerely,

At this season, scores of people, girls and women especially, find their faces marked with pimples, dark spots, eruptions, etc. The skin needs attention, needs renovating after the trying winter season. Just think what it has had to go through!

You have been out in rain and sleet and snow. You have been perspiring from skating, or some other exertion. Then you have stood to "cool off." You have spent hours of the day indoors at a temperature equal to summer heat. Then you have covered up your skin, except your face, and gone out into a temperature away below zero! No wonder that the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

Zam-Buk is a skin food. Smear it lightly over the spots, the eruptions, the sallow patches, at night, and notice how quickly your appearance improves. As the rich, refined, herbal essences sink deep into the tissue, the hard scurvy-like patches are removed. The cuticle is softened. The cells beneath are stimulated to healthy operation. The pores resume their work properly. Better color results. The cells of the skin being purified by Zam-Buk's stimulating balm, become transparent; the blood beneath is able to impart its proper coloring to the tissue, and the delicate bloom of health replaces the sallowness and pallor of disease.

A few days of Zam-Buk treatment will transform a "muddy," speckled, spotty complexion into one of attractiveness and prettiness.

Use Zam-Buk for sores, certain skin troubles, such as eczema, psoriasis, boils, ulcers, festering sores, ringworm, scalp sores, sores on the body due to blood poisoning, etc. Mothers will find Zam-Buk [illegible] for baby! She has all classes.

Prove the Presence of Rheumatic Virus, Which is Cured Quickly by Nerviline—Rub It In.

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruit that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hiccoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed; I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

WEDNESDAY MAY 4, 1910.

SOUTH AFRICA'S NATAL DAY.

Seven years ago the Boer war, today, or to be exact, May 31, a new united South Africa, a colonial confederation under the British Crown, a union consummated by the joint efforts of the rival African leaders, whose minds have ripened and broadened by the bitter experience of division, Cape Colony,, Natal, the Transvaal, and Orange River Colony on that day will become one, a federation embracing a population of six million souls, of whom about one-fifth are Europeans or whites.

When United South Africa is spoken of as a confederation, it differs from the Canadian conception of that form of political union in that it will, like Great Britain, be a unitary State. In South Africa there will be no limitations upon the power of the Union parliament imposed in the interests of subordinate bodies. Apart from theoretical restrictions implied in the ultimate supremacy of the Imperial government this parliament will be a sovereign body. Pretoria is to be "the seat of the Government of the Union" and Cape Town 'the seat of the Legislature." This means that the clerks of the government departments in Pretoria will bring their papers down to the seaside during the two or three winter months when the parliament holds its session under the august shadow of Table Mountain. The parliament is to be composed of the King, the senate, and the House of Assembly, an important point being that the Senate cannot amend money bills. In case of a disagreement with regard to one of these the two Houses may sit and vote together. Cape Colony is the only State in which the natives can now have the franchise, and they can hereafter be deprived of it by a two-thirds majority of the two houses sitting together. These union sessions of senate and assembly are especially interesting in view of the deadlock between Lords and Commons in England. The old colonial legislatures are swept away by the union, elected provincial councils taking their place, etc., tirse to have power to levy direct taxes, to borrow money with the Union government's consent and to control elementary education.

The evidence of Hugh's sin! That paper must remain, as the sin that made it, remained, the sign manual of her dishonor and loss. The man whose hand had penned its lying signature was the man she had thought she loved. By that act he had thrust himself from her forever. Yet he lived. Somewhere in the world he walked in shame and degradation beyond the pale of honorable living, and she was his wife! She was his wife! Though she called herself Jessica Holme, yet in the law his name and fame were hers.

"Look at that steady hand now, an' her hair as red as glory!" said Mrs Halloran, gazing admiringly from the doorstep where she had been chatting with Tom Felder. "Ye needn't stare her gray eyes out, though, or she'll up at the jooiry shop to buy ye a ring to shame ye fer jest hankerin' and sayin' nothin'!"

Felder laughed as he crossed the street, raising his felt hat gallantly to the approaching rider. Mrs. Halloran was a privileged character. It was not Michael Halloran who kept the Moonlin Valley House popular! The old woman hurried to the curb and tied the horse as Jessica dismounted.

"How did ye guess I made some time this day?" she exclaimed. "Sure, I ye drink it yerself, my dearie, them cakes is all th' trademark I need!" She led the way into the little carpeted side room, by courtesy denominated "the parlor." "I'll go an' put it up in two shakes," she said. "Sit ye down an' I'll not be ten minutes." So saying, she bustled away.

ride. A door opened from the room into the office. It was ajar. She stepped close and looked in.

A group of miners lounged in the space before the front windows—familiarly referred to by its habitues as "the amen corner"—chatting and watching the passersby.

Suddenly she clapped her hand to her mouth to stifle a cry. A name had been spoken—the name that was in her thought—the name of Hugh Stires. She leaned forward, listening breathlessly.

"I wonder where the young blackleg's been," said one, peering through the windows. "He'd better have stayed away for good, I'm thinking. What does he want to come back for, to a place where there aren't three men who will take a drink with him?"

Jessica looked about her an instant wildly, guiltily. She could not be mistaken in the name. Was Hugh here, whither by the veriest accident she had come—here in this very town that she had gazed down upon every day for weeks? Was he? No, no; it could not be! She had not heard aright. But she had an overwhelming desire to satisfy herself with her own eyes. From where she stood she could not see the street. She bethought herself of the upper balcony.

Swiftly she crossed to the hall door, threw it open and ran hastily up the stair.

Chapter 12

AS the man who had been the subject of the observations Jessica had heard had been less absorbed as he walked leisurely along on the opposite side of the street he would have noticed the look of dislike in the eyes of those he passed. They drew away from him, and one spoke—to no one in particular and with an oath offensive and fervid. But weather beaten, tanned, indifferently clad and with a small brown dog following him, the newcomer passed along, oblivious to the sidelong scrutiny. He did not stare about him after the manner of a stranger, though so far as he knew he had never been in the place before.

But Harry Sanderson now was not the man who had ridden into oblivion in the motor car. The rector of St. James' was in a strange eclipse. Mentally and externally he had reverted to the old Satan Sanderson of the brilliant, flashing originality, of the curt risk and daring. The deeply human and sensitive side that had developed during his divinity years was in abeyance. It showed itself only in the affection he bestowed on the little nameless dog that followed him like a brown, shaggy shadow.

He was like that old self of his, and yet if he had but known it he was wonderfully like some one else, too—some one who had belonged to the long ago and, garbled past that still eluded him; some one who had been a part also of the life of this very town till a little over a month before, when he had left it with dread dogging his footsteps!

Curious coincidences had wrought together for this likeness. In the past weeks Harry had grown perceptibly thinner. A spare beard was now on his chin, and the fiery sun that had darkened his cheeks to ruddy had lightened his brown hair a shade. The cut on his brow and healed to the semblance of a thin red birthmark.

Fate—or God—was doing strange things for Harry Sanderson!

In the nomad weeks of wind and sun, as the tissues of the brain grew slowly back to a state of normal action, the mind seized again and again upon the bitter question of his identity. It had obtruded into clicking leagues on steel rails, into miles afoot by fruit hung lanes, on white Pacific surf roads under cedar branches, on dusty highways. It had stalked into days of labor in hop fields, work with hand and foot that brought dreamless sleep and generous wage; into nights

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do me out of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this my remarkable offer?

Just tell them that there have been cases of paralysis, of locomotor ataxia, that have been cured, even in the last stages of helplessness and unconsciousness, and it is true.

And, then, for shame, shamely house of its shameful diseases and its popularity.

For 30 years it has been the standard remedy for stomach, kidney and bladder ailments everywhere in America.

When the nerves—nerves or controlling nerves of those vital centres begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's restorative plant has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought them nerves and centres back to health again.

I do not claim the Stomach, nor ailments of the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the centres of those ailments—the failing, faltering, unable or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When those nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I can be the only physician able to say to the discouraging sick, "Try my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and this remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me free as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped it, sounds just reasonable by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take me as a friend to a sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist in whom you can conveniently go for the Restorative.

But first, ask me for the order, for all drugs must be ordered to give the Restorative.

Simply write: "Now and Save all Others." Postpaid. Tomorrow is now coming. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

BRIGHTENING THE TOWN.

The following new scheme for lighting the streets of Owen Sound might be tried in Peterborough. It would no doubt make the streets look very pretty in the summer time. A despatch from Owen Sound says:

"A new scheme for lighting the main street will be tried by the Municipal Electric Light Department here. The plan is to light the main business block by lines of incandescent lamps strung across the street. A sample arch is already in commission and is attracting a lot of attention. The idea is to have similar arches erected one hundred feet apart, with cross arches at each corner. To do the two blocks of Second-ave. east between 8th and 10th-sts. would require thirteen arches. They would be lighted every night until eleven o'clock, when the are lights would be turned on. This service, 365 nights a year, averaging three hours a night, could be handled at a cost of about $6,-800. The sample arch is a simple affair, consisting of a cable stretched between the poles and carrying the lamps hung two feet apart, with other lamps fixed to the side of each pole. The effect is good, both as to appearance and attractiveness, as a lighting factor. It is also looked upon as a good advertisement for the town."

National Mining & Tunnel Company

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp. Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer,
Leadville, Colorado, January 15, 1909.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

NERVOUSLY DEPRESSED.

A Case of Rapid Cure.

"Only for a few weeks did I experience the misery of duodenal indigestion," explains Miss Packhard, the well-known school teacher of Burtonville, "but it taught me the need of conserving one's nervous strength. I am a teacher, and at the close of the schoo, year imposes a great strain upon those teaching advanced work. The trouble first manifested itself by occasional diarrhoeas, especially if new vegetables were used, then heart burn and feelings of depression followed two or three hours after meals. At first my physician said he feared structural changes in duodenum, liver and pancreas. Happily a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I had to use in one of the many severe attacks of constipation, which occasionally developed, proved this view was incorrect. But it shows how bad I was. Well, Dr. Hamilton's Pills caused natural evacuations and permitted the inflamated condition, causing all the trouble to subside. Perseverance finally removed the cause which I am sure was in the liver and lower bowel, and by school opening September I was actually well enough to work effectively."

Botanist Did Not Know Poison Ivy.

A few days ago a young lady with a large circle of acquaintances in the city, who takes great interest in botany was showing a number of children some botanical specimens she had gathered in a local wood. This expert in botany explained in jaw-rupturing words the various specimens she lectured on. As she showed them a pretty creeper, one of the children sitting before the seat of knowledge, fairly absorbing the technical description of the plants, suddenly paled, and starting from her seat, remarked, "Why, Miss ——, that is poison ivy, the nasty plant that poisoned my hands and face last June." Now the story in its main details are absolutely correct. June is the month in which poison ivy exudes the most venom.

VOL. XXXIII NO. 103 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO THURSDAY MAY 5 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

INQUEST ON LITTLE JAMES A. BAILLEY

Deceased Had No Medical Treatment---R.J. Todd Gave Absent and Present Treatment to the Boy

If human life is to be regarded as sacred by humanity in general, if helpless children and sick people are to be given the aid of science towards recovery a coroner's inquest held yesterday morning in the county demonstrated the advisability of the Ontario Government passing some legislation protecting the sick over and above what is now on the statutes.

Coroner Dr. Grey at 10.30 yesterday morning, accompanied by a stenographer, went to the prettily situated home of Mr. James Bailley, about a mile from Jackson Park. Here he was met by County Constable Geo. Cochrane, who had arranged the preliminaries for an inquest to be held on the body of the poor little five-year-old boy, James Alfred Bailey. This boy, whose body lay on a bed covered with a snow white counterpane, died on Monday, after three weeks' illness during which time no physician, or even trained nurse was called in to try and relieve the little sufferer. In fact no one, but the broken-hearted mother, and R. J. Todd, the Christian Scientist, as far as yesterday's evidence at the coroner's inquest showed, treated him.

When the poor little lad died, Dr. Greer, very properly refused to issue a burial certificate as no physician attended the deceased. Coroner Dr. Grey decided that an inquest was necessary. Hence his visit to the home of the afflicted parents.

The coroner explained the necessity of an inquest when the following jury was sworn in:

George Simpson.
John Lee.
Jos. Drennan.
Wm. Foster.
W. J. Tully.
Clifford Hancock.
W. Steineraus.
Geo. S. Walton.
Thos. McIvor.
John Fraser.
Bert J. Mahood.
David Mahood.
S. J. Dickson.
Frederick McCann (Foreman).

The first witness called was Mrs. Matilda Bailley, mother of the deceased. This lady, evidently of intelligence above the average, said her son was nearly five years old. He first fell ill about three weeks ago with a cold. The first symptoms were cold in the head and sore throat. She thought it was just a slight cold like her other, or other children get. The deceased was her youngest and fifth child. The second day he was feverish and hot. On the third day of his illness she was not much alarmed and did not think it necessary to call in medical aid. On the fourth day the boy was feverish and his head and throat were swollen; both sides of his neck were swelled. He complained of pain when swallowing milk. On the first day of the boy's illness she called in Mr. R. J. Todd, but Todd did not come that day so she had him give the boy an "absent treatment." By "absent treatment" she meant prayer. Todd told the daughter of the witness who went to Todd's house, that he would give an "absent treatment." This was Todd's treatment. Todd did not take the boy's temperature or feel his pulse. He did not recommend any other treatment further than silent prayer. In answer to a juryman, Mr. McIvor, witness said Todd did not kneel when giving treatment but sat in a chair. Todd depended on what witness told him about the boy's condition. Juryman Foster asked witness, "When Todd called at the house did he look at the outside of the boy's throat when the boy would not let anyone look at its interior?" "No!" The witness then gave a catergorical line of answers as to the boy's condition from day to day. Todd told her on Monday last that he thought the boy would getter better. In the afternoon the boy got worse and died about 4 p.m. Todd did not warn her that the boy would die. The only marked hesitation shown by the witness was when the coroner asked: "What are Mr. Todd's charges for these treatments?" Mrs. Bailley replied, "I have not asked him, but I would not expect Todd to come out here for nothing. I expect to pay him $5 a week. If we feel able to pay him we will do so. I have sent down $1 at various times for "absent treatments."

Coroner Grey then noted the necessity for postmortem examination and appointed Dr. Greer to act. It was moved by Juryman Foster that Dr. Eastwood assist Dr. Greer. — Carried.

The inquest was then adjourned to meet again at eight o'clock in the County Council chamber on Friday, May 6th.

Five Thousand People are Reported Killed

Victoria, B.C., May 4.—Five thousand are reported to have been killed in the South Sea Islands by a hurricane on March 26, according to word brought here today by the liner Makura. Fiji and Caledonia bore the brunt of the storm, the damage exceeding $1,000,000. But few houses were left standing and many boats were wrecked. The German cruiser Cormorant was badly battered.

Novel No Cure, No Pay Plan.

One need almost marvel, when they know about the plan that is being launched here in our vicinity, and which gives to the sick a chance to receive medicine, and only be obliged to pay for such medicine as actually brings substantial relief from sickness and suffering. To positively give to the sick, medicine "free, if it fails" is indeed an innovation most unusual and also most liberal. And yet it is a fact that Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. is launching just such a plan in our community. The doctor's traveling representative, Mr. C. A. Wood called at The Times office yesterday and has authorized us to in the future, publish his No help, No pay plan. Dr. Shoop aims to make it known to every living man, woman and child, that his prescriptions are all backed by an absolute guarantee that help must come to the sick or else the medicine is positively free. He contends that medicines of real genuine merit and worth can actually stand on just such a basis. And besides, he declares that a remedy that can't take the position that Dr. Shoop's does, isn't worthy of the confidence and support of the people. The doctor's enterprise is, to say the least, both novel and fair in the extreme. We shall watch developments and predict that our readers will also take a keen interest in the Doctor's articles to be published.

OUR GREAT HERITAGE.

According to official statistics published by the Regina Government, the Province of Saskatchewan last year grew 208,000,000 bushels of grain on about seven million acres of land. This result was obtained from less than thirteen per cent. of the estimated arable acreage in the Province south of the 55th parallel. If the same rate of productivity is maintained Saskatchewan is capable of growing 1,600,000,000 bushels were all the fertile land brought under the plow and devoted to grain. As a producer of wheat Saskatchewan now stands first amongst the Canadian producers and only two American states exceed its output. (It is noteworthy that in 1909 Saskatchewan yielded nearly one-eighth as much wheat as the whole of the United States and more than one-tenth as much oats as the entire republic. The net return to the farmer from these and all other Saskatchewan field crops was just under $132,000,000. When all the land in the Province is under cultivation and mixed farming becomes general, Saskatchewan's agricultural industry should yield from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 annually.

Getting the Umpire's Goat.

Have you heard the newest baseball song hit? If not next Sunday's New York World has a musical treat in store for you. "Let's Get the Umpire's Goat" is the title of the song by Nora Bayes and Jack Norworth, of the "Jolly Bachelors" company.

This is the baseball season, so everybody will recollect what a hit "Casey at the Bat" made. "Let's Get the Umpire's Goat" promises to make a still greater one. By special arrangements with the publishers, the complete words and music of this song will be published next Sunday in the New York World. Order in advance.

Drainage Demonstration.

The Ontario Agricultural College is emphasizing the value of drainage again this summer, for which purpose drainage demonstrations are being held in many parts of the Province. On Wednesday, May 11, at the hour of 2 o'clock one of those demonstrations will be held on the farm of Mr. Geo. Berry, concession 3, lot 26, Cavan Township. This meeting should be of special interest as some difficult places to drain, are involved. Besides the discussion of the particular problems of Mr. Berry's farm there will be a demonstration of methods of finding the fall over a ditch, determining the grade, digging, true to grade, etc. Those of our readers interested in drainage should not miss this meeting. Anyone wishing information about the drainage work should write Prof. W. H. Day, O.A.C., Guelph.

Crosses Ocean for One Day Visit.

London, May 4.—"Six thousand Miles for a Glimpse of Broadway" would be an appropriate title for the piece in which Miss Pauline Chase, the popular English actress, made her debut to-day when she sailed for New York on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. Miss Chase will arrive in New York next Tuesday, staying a few hours for the purpose of attending the Actors' Fund Fair, and sailing on the Mauretania the next morning on her return to England. The actress is taking along with her a number of photographs and autographs of leading English players and other celebrities, which she intends auctioning for the benefit of the fund.

A GRAND ENTERTAINMENT.

Successful Sacred Concert in St. Paul's Church.

Last night, in part celebration of the 75th anniversary of St. Paul's church, a large and brilliant audience gathered in that popular church. A grand sacred concert was given, that proved to be, not only a fitting reminder of the splendid history of this church during three-quarters of a century but a rare musical treat.

The regular fine choir was augmented to fifty voices and in the choruses a grand volume of sympathetic harmony filled the sacred edifice.

THE PROGRAM.

An exceptionally good program was presented, one that would have delighted the most carping musical critic. Miss Helen Davies, so well known as a sweet and harmonious vocalist, was first heard to great advantage, the large choir assisting in Gounods "Gallia." Mendelssohn's aria "O God Have Mercy," by Mr. Davies followed. The choir rendered in a most delightful way Greig's "Ave Maris Stella," this was unaccompanied, and the fine blending of human voices, gave a musical treat to be remembered. The choir, also unaccompanied, in equal form rendered Gounod's "By Babylon's Wave." Miss Davies also gave, in her clear, sweet soprano voice Haydn's "With Verdue Clad," as a solo, and with Mr. Hollingshead a duet entitled, "Say Watchman." Mr. Hollingshead as a solo gave "If with all your hearts." His liquid tenor voice was eminently adapted to the grand rendition he gave to this masterpiece of music. To discriminate as between those who so delighted the audience would be invidious. It is sufficient to say that never has a large audience heard any musical event with more unanimous approval and enjoyment.

TOM FINTON NOT PUT ON TRIAL

HIS CASE WAS REMANDED AND CURIOUS PEOPLE WERE DISAPPOINTED.

Inquest on Today— Many of the Neighbors are Subpoenaed to Give Evidence in the Case.

Hamilton, May 4—By securing a further remand today without having him appear before a magistrate, the authorities disappointed crowds of curious people who had gathered at the police court in Hamilton and around the Town Hall Dundas, expecting to see Thomas Finton, who was taken into custody a week ago today, on the nominal charge of vagrancy. He is really held as a material witness in the mysterious murder of his aged father, Mayor Moss of Dundas, signed the remand, and sent it to Governor, Ogilvie early this morning.

Although Crown Attorney Washington has announced that Tom Finton will not be called as a witness tomorrow at the inquest, it is understood that Fintop will be present, so that he can go on the stand of his own accord if he so desires.

"We have subpenaed many witnesses, chiefly neighbors," said Chief Twiss today. "Just how many we call depends on how they stick to the stories they have told us. We will likely close the inquest tomorrow, if we can get the one witness we are after."

Who this witness is the chief refused to say.

ROOSEVELT TO DINE WITH KING

HE WILL ALSO ATTEND THE STATE BALL AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE.

Some are Disappointed— His Approved List of Engagements a Blow to Some Ambitious Ones.

London, May 4—Scores of ambitious hostesses in London were disappointed today when the tentative list of the social engagements in Col Roosevelt's honor was announced. Many of the society leaders in the city had bid for the honor of entertaining Roosevelt, and their disappointment is made the greater by the report that the following program was approved of by the colonel himself.

He will dine with King Edward and attend the State ball at Buckingham Palace. He will be dined by Ambassador Reid, and attend a ball that Mrs. Reid will give for Miss Roosevelt at Dorchester House. He will attend a luncheon to be given by the corporation of London at Guild Hall.

After his Oxford lecture Roosevelt will be the luncheon guest of the Pilgrim's Club. He will be Lord Curzon's guest at Basingstroke in Hampshire, the guest of former Attache Arthur H. Lee of the British Embassy in Washington at Fareham, Whitelaw Reid's guest at both Dorchester House and West Park in the country, Foreign Minister Sir Edward Grey's guest in Northumberland, and finally he will make a short stay with Northrup MacMillan who entertained him at Nairobi. This completes his social program.

The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its marvelous curative properties. Tight, tickling or distressing coughs, quickly yield to the healing, soothing action of this splendid prescription—Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children, as well! Containing no opium, chloroform or other harmful drugs, mothers should in safety always demand Dr. Shoop's. If other remedies are offered, tell them No! Be your own judge! Sold by all dealers.

Man Accused of Three Marriages

Bowmanville, May 4.—William Easley, Herrington, laborer of Boston Mills, Peel county, was arrested the week before last and brought here, charged with bigamy by Sarah Lockhart of this town. Remands have been made from time to time to permit Chief Richard Jarvis, who caused the arrest, to obtain the necessary papers from the Provincial Secretary's department where the records of marriages are registered. Herrington came here as an apple buyer for an eastern firm in 1900, and was married to Sarah Lockhart, December 25th of that year. They lived together for some months, when rumors were floating around that he had a wife by a previous marriage. Herrington not long after left Bowmanville. A child was afterwards born from this marriage.

The evidence produced today goes to show this string of marriages to Herrington's credit. All three women concerned being still alive.

January 1, 1895, to Florence Clarke, Brighton.

December, 24, 1900, to Sarah Lockhart, Bowmanville.

January 17, 1907, to Mary Sims, Lindsay, all of whom have one or more children.

The witnesses today were Sara Lockhart, Rev. Wm. Jolliffe, and High Constable Richard Jarvis.

Certificates from the Provincial secretary's department were also put in as exhibits, certifying to the three seperate marriages.

Barrister R. Russell Lowcombe, K. C., appeared for the defence, but submitted no evidence.

Magistrate Hussey considered the evidence justified a committal and sent Herrington to Cobourg for trial at the next assizes. The court room was crowded ad the defendant is well known in this town and through out the district.

Two Big Steamers in Collision at Sea

Providence, R.I., May 4. — The steamer Santurce, Capt. Folker, of the United States and Port Rican Navigation Company, which was badly damaged in collision off Cape Cod during a dense fog last night, with the oil tanker Ligonier, reached Provincetown, Mass., today, and was beached. She was partly filled with water, and it is feared that her cargo of sugar will be a complete loss.

There was another triumph for wireless telegraphy following last night's smash. The Santurce arrived in Boston three days ago from San Juan, Porto Rico, and left there late last night for New York. Because of the heavy fog, which made navigation unusually dangerous, Capt. Folker laid his course well outside of Cape Cod.

Shortly before midnight the lookout sighted another steamship near the big freighter, and gave the alarm, but before either captain could change his course, the vessels were in collision, the unknown striking the Santurce almost amidships.

BOWS CRUSHED IN.

There was scurrying on both craft and they hove to in the fog. The unknown reported, through a megaphone that she was the oil tank steamer Ligonier, Capt. Cates, bound with a cargo of crude petroleum from Port Arthur, Texas, to Beverly, Mass. Her captain said his bows were crushed, but that all of the damage was above tge waterline. Capt. Folker had his collision bulkheads closed at the first impact, and this this saved the Santurce. She was making water fast, however, and Capt. Cates offered to take off the crew. One boatload was transferred, but Capt. Folker, his chief engineer, mates and fire and engine room crews, refused to abandon the ship Folker simply asking that the Ligonier call help by her wireless and stand by until morning.

The British Empire and the United States

Commenting upon Sir Richard Cartwright's opinion that a combination between the British Empire and the United States might bring about world wide peace, the Mail and Empire recalls a discussion which took place last year. It was represented by the London Spectator that no war against the British Empire, the United States would stand by the latter power, and therefore Germany would think twice before beginning hostilities. In the United States, however, the Spectator's idea was not accepted. It was pointed out that there is a large German population in that country, and that there would be grave difficulties in the way of an Anglo-American alliance against Germany. Hence argues the Mail and Empire, Sir Richard's view is at present outside the realm of practical statesmanship.

It is not likely that a formal alliance could be made at the present time. An immediate formal alliance is not necessary. There is no reason why we should be impatient to gather the fruit so long as we know that the tree is growing. Compare the present relations between the British Empire and the United States with those which existed during the Civil War and for some years afterwards, and an immense improvement will be perceived. Compare the present tone of the press of the United States in discussing Canada with its tone even twenty years ago, and a similar change will be noted. A feeling is growing that war between the British Empire and the United States would be out of the question—that it would be calamitous to both and a crime against humanity.

While this means growth in friendship, it does not mean combination against Germany or any other power. What Sir Richard Cartwright says is that in view of the British Empire and the United States, "there is no force or combination of force on earth that dare treat lightly or that dare disregard their commands," were they disposed to insist on the preservation of reasonable peace and reasonable disarmament among the nations of the world. To understand this it is necessary to bear in mind not only the present strength of the Empire and the Republic, but their possibilities of expansion. The growth of the United States, of Canada, of Australia, will increase their relative power in the world, and enhance the force of their example.

No one can deny that the continent of America is dominated by ideas radically different from those of Europe. This continent is not free from war, nor from preparation for war, but it does not live in that nervous fear of war which prevails throughout Europe. And as America must grow relatively much faster than Europe, the ideas of international relations prevailing in the new world must gain at the expense of those of the old world.

The truth is that in spite of the great armaments of Europe the world is growing away from war. There is less talk of its glories and more of its burdens.

BRILLIANT SCENE AT PROROGATION

Farewell Presentation to His Excellency on His Final Appearance in Parliament —The Prorogation Speech

Ottawa, May 4. Bright and clear skies with sunshine tempering a somewhat chilly atmosphere made pleasant weather conditions for the closing this afternoon of the second eventful session of Canada's eleventh Parliament. The prorogation was characterized by all the wonted constitutional ceremonial, and while many members and senators left for home by the morning trains, the most of them remained for the closing.

BIG DEMANDS FOR TICKETS.

It was more of a social event than is usual, the demand for tickets being exceptional. The fact that this is the last session of Earl Grey's tenure as governor-general and today was his final appearance in Parliament, lent interest to the event. Many visitors in the city for the Horse Show were conspicuous on the floor and in the galleries.

THE MILITARY SPECTACLE

His excellency drove up in state from Government House at three o'clock, escorted by a detachment of the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards. Drawn up in front of the main block was a guard of honor from the G.G.F.G., while the arrival of the vice-regal party was signalled by a salute from the Nepean Point battery. After the House had been summoned to the Chamber of the Senate and the Royal assent given to the legislation awaiting it, his excellency delivered the prorogation speech.

ADDRESS TO HIS EXCELLENCY

The bar was then removed and the Commoners being admitted to the Senate enclosure the farewell address of parliament was presented to his excellency in English by Speaker Kerr and in French by Speaker Marcil. Earl Grey replied in both languages.

THE PROROGATION SPEECH

The prorogation speech was the customary affair. His excellency expressed his pleasure in releasing the two Houses from their arduous duties, and after thanking them for their "liberal provisions for the public service," wished them every prosperity and the Divine blessing.

MISS HALLIHAN'S BENEFIT.

Concert to Be Held in Grand Opera House on Tuesday, May 17th.

As noted in a recent issue of The Times it has been decided to give a complimentary benefit concert to Miss Lavinia Hallihan, whose grand voice was so much admired in the Geisha performance.

The commendable idea has now come to a head and the concert is to be held in the Grand Opera House on Tuesday, May 17th. A program of more than ordinary excellence will be presented.

PLANNING FOR A SANE FOURTH

THIRTEEN MAYORS IN CONNECTICUT FAVOR GREAT PLAY FESTIVAL THAT DAY.

Stop Use of Explosives—Sixty-Three Cities Decide on Tableaux and Other Quiet Celebrations.

New York, May 4. The most important move in the campaign for an improved celebration of Independence Day has been made by Governor Frank B. Weeks of Connecticut, in calling together the mayors of the chief cities of his State to devise plans for a safe, sane and glorious celebration.

The meeting was held in Hartford, and was attended by the mayors of 13 cities. All possibility of ill effects from the hoodoo number 13 was dispelled by the number being increased to 14 by the presence of the governor himself.

The mayors were enthusiastic over the governor's plan of making the celebration a great play festival, thus substituting for the customary dangers and din a program of parades, tableaux, declamations, music, drill and games. Coupled with this will be restrictions on the use of explosives, and in the evening a display of fireworks provided by the municipality.

Public opinion is now fully convinced of the folly, abuses, cost and neglected opportunities of the prevailing observance of our national holiday, and is quite ready to support definite and aggressive action for a better Fourth of July.

Cities are awakening to the large possibilities July Fourth affords for an expressive, instructive and joyous festival. The few that tried the new scheme last year have been increased to 63 cities that are now known to be definitely planning sane celebrations. They are of such varying size and location as New York City; Derby, Conn.; Racine, Wis.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Kalamazoo, Mich.; Denver, Col.; Boston, Mass.; San Francisco, Cal.

GOVERNOR WILL NOT INTERFERE

BIG BATTLE WILL GO ON JULY 4—GOVERNOR GILLETT'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

To Select Referee — Will Likely Be Jack Welch—Canards Vigorously Denied.

Omaha, Neb., May 4.—Governor Gillett of California, in passing through here en tour to Washington, said he would not interfere with the Jeffries-Johnson fight, scheduled to take place July 4th at Emeryville, Cal.

TO SELECT THE REFEREE.

San Francisco, May 4.—Although the national agitation against the big fight is growing greater every day, the promoters and the principals in the scheduled Jeffries-Johnson battle declare that they are not in the least apprehensive of the battle being called off.

Sam Berger, manager of Jeffries, George Little, Johnson's manager, Johnson himself together with Tex Rickard, and Jack Gleason, the promoters, are gathered here to settle the question of a referee. They express confidence that the agitation over the death of Tommy McCarthy at the hands of Owen Moran will die out before the Independence Day battle.

The selection of a referee is scheduled to take place here late this afternoon. Johnson still insists that he will have no one in the ring but Jack Welsh. While Jeffries may be willing to accept Welsh, he will certainly not do so in a hurry, for he cannot see why the big black is so set on having Welsh as the third man in the ring.

Rickard yesterday posted an additional $30,000 on the stake, making $50,000 now up. The money will be forwarded at once to Bat Masterson of New York, the stakeholder. The other $50,000 will be posted on July 2.

Two denials came from the opposing factions yesterday. Sam Berger denied the report that there is to be a shake-up in the Jeffries training camp that there are too many old men at Ben Lomond, and not enough young blood.

"Nothing in the yarn," said Berger. "I have enough helpers, and just the right kind of men."

Jack Johnson denied a story to the effect that he had agreed a friend in Chicago not to post a bet that the fight would take place July 4th as scheduled. "I never sent any such message," declared the negro.

NERVOUSLY DEPRESSED.

A Case of Rapid Cure.

"Only for a few weeks did I experience the misery of duodenal indigestion," explains Miss Puckhard, the well-known school teacher of Burtonville. "But it taught me the need of conserving one's nervous strength. I am a teacher, and at the close of the schoo, year imposes a great strain upon those teaching advanced work. The trouble first manifested itself by occasional diarrhoeas, especially if new vegetables were used, then heart burn and feelings of depression followed two or three hours after meals. At first my physician said he dfared structural changes in duodenum, liver and pancreas. Happily a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I had to use in one of the many severe attacks of constipation, which occasionally developed, proved this view was incorrect. But it shows how bad I was. Well, Dr. Hamilton's Pills caused natural evacuations and permitted the inflamated condition, causing all the trouble to subside. Perseverance finally removed the cause which I am sure was in the liver and lower bowel, and by school opening in September I was actually well enough to work effectively."

See if your symptoms are like those above described—if so, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will cure. Price 25c per box, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

An interesting sketch of Earl Carrington, who will likely be the next Governor-General of Canada, appears in May Busy Man's.

Perhaps it is his sincere kindness and spontaneous geniality that constitute Lord Carrington's chief assets as a person in the public eye. In the House of Lords many a tedious debate is enlivened by his welcome merriment; on the country platforms and at National Liberal Club banquets his jests are inimitable. Apart from the serious viewpoint of his mission—and not for a moment is that serious purpose abandoned—perhaps his special function is that of softening the asperities of provincial Radicalism, and of convincing disappointed aspirants after social fame that a peer may really be a good fellow. In his young days when he proved himself to be one of the most charming and pleasant young men of the court, Lord Carrington was chosen to accompany the King, thence Prince of Wales, on his famous tour through India. And there, on all sides, he made hosts of friends.

In 1885 when the Earl was sent out to be Governor of New South Wales, he found the prevailing tone of Australian statesmen was one of mingled dislike and contempt for all that pertained to Downing Street, and also that they were apt to vent their dislike of the Colonial Office upon the Governors. Without the too apparent effort Lord Carrington won all hearts in Sydney, the popularity thus gained becoming a standard to which recent Governors have been expected to conform. He was long remembered as the most successful representative of the crown who had ever been sent out to Australia.

of less savory experience in city politicians, where a self-forgotten man gamed and drank recklessly, audaciously, forbiddingly. Who was he? From what equation of life had he been eliminated? Had he loved anything or anybody? Had he a friend, any friend, in the world?

The man of no memories gave no heed to the men on the street, who looked at him askance. He sauntered along unconsciously, his hands thrust deep in his pockets. With a casual glance at the hotel across the way he entered a saloon, where a score of patrons were standing at the bar or shaking dice noisily at the tables ringed against the wall. The bartender nodded to his greeting, the slightest possible nod. The dog which had followed him into the place leaped up against him, its fore paws on his knee.

"Brandy, if you please," said the new arrival, and poured indolently from the bottle set before him.

The conversation in the room had chilled. To its occupants the man who had entered was no stranger. He was Hugh Stires, returned unwelcome to a place from which he had lately vanished. Moreover, what they felt for him was not alone the crude hatred which the honest toiler feels for the trickster who gains a living by devious knaveries. There was an uglier suspicion attaching to Hugh Stires! A blue shirted miner called gruffly for his score, threw down the silver and went out, slamming the swing door.

The newcomer regarded none of them. He poured his glass slowly full, sipped from it and, holding it in his hand, turned and glanced deliberately about the place. He looked at everybody in the room, suddenly sensible of the hostile atmosphere, with what seemed a careless amusement. Then he raised his glass.

"Will you join me, gentlemen?" he said.

There was but one response. A soiled, shambling figure, blear, white haired and hesitating, with a battered violin under its arm, slouched from a corner and grasped eagerly for the bottle the bartender contemptuously pushed toward him. No one else moved.

The new arrival looked smilingly at the soiled figure beside him, a fragment of flotsam tossed on the tide of failure. "I erred in my general salutation," he said. "Gentility is, after all, less a habit than an instinct." He lifted his glass—to the castaway. "I drink to the health of the only other gentleman present," he said, and tossed the drink off.

A short and a truculent shuffle came from the grandstand men. Their faces were dark. Tom Felder, the lawyer, entered the saloon just in time to see "Big" Devlin, the owner of the corner dance hall, rise from a table, rolling up flannel sleeves along tattooed arms. He saw him stride forward and, with a well directed shove, send the shambling inebriate reeling across the floor.

Then the lawyer saw an extraordinary thing. The emptied glass rang sharply on the bar, the arm that held it straightened, the lithe form behind it seemed to expand, and the big bulk of Devlin went backward through the doorway and collapsed in a sprawling heap on the pavement.

"For my part," said an even, infuriate voice from the threshold, "I prefer but one."

The face the roomful saw now as they pushed to the outer air and which turned on the flocking crowd bore anything but the slinking look they had been used to see on the face of Hugh Stires. The smile that meant danger played over it. There were both calculation and savagery in it. It was the look of the man to whom all risks are alike, to whom nothing counts. In the instant confusion every one there recognized the element of hardihood dumfounded. Here was one who, as Barney McGinn, the freighter, said afterward, "hadn't the sand of a sick coyote," boarding a bully and the most formidable antagonist the town afforded.

The prostrate man was on his feet in an instant, wiping the blood from a cleft lip, and peeled off his vest with a vile epithet.

"That is incidentally a venturesome word to select from your vocabulary," said the even voice, a sort of detonation in it. "You will feel like apologizing presently."

Devlin came on with a bull-like rush. The lawyer's eye, shrewdly gaging the situation, gave the slighter man short shrift, and for several intense seconds every breath stopped. Those seconds called up from some mysterious covert all the skill and strength of the old hard hitting Satan Sanderson, all the science of parry and feint learned in those bluff college bouts with the gloves with Gentleman Jim.

It was a short, sharp contest. Not a blow broke the guard of the man whose back was to the doorway. On the other hand, Devlin's face was puffed and bleeding. When for a breath he drew back, gulping, a sudden glint of doubt and fear had slipped beneath the blood and sweat.

The end came quickly. Harry stepped to meet him, there was a series of swift passes—then one, two lightning-like blows, and Devlin went down white and stunned in the dust of the roadway.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

Toronto, May 4.—By the judgment handed down by Mr. Justice Riddel this morning, Mrs. Isabella Knox of Peterborough, receives the share in her late husband's estate, willed by him to their daughter, Jessie May Knox, since deceased and will ed in turn by her to her mother. The widow is co-executrix with David Knox, who disputed the daughter's right to will her share to the mother until she had attained her 25th year. His lordship held that while the daughter would not under the father's will enter into possession of her share until reaching her 25th year, she had power to dispose of it in her will.

National Mining & Tunnel Company

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp. Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer,
Leadville, Colorado, January 15, 1909.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

PULPITS IN ARMS AGAINST FIGHT

CLERGYMEN IN PHILADELPHIA CALL BATTLE A DISGRACE.

But Preparations for the Great Encounter are Still Going on in San Francisco.

Philadelphia, May 3.—Philadelphia Methodist ministers are endeavoring to start a nation-wide protest against the Johnson-Jeffries fight in California on July 4th. At the weekly meeting of the Methodist Preachers' Association a resolution was adopted which says:

"Resolved, that the permission of this fight can be regarded as nothing less than a national disgrace and calamity to the moral life of our people; that the Philadelphia preachers' meeting protest aginst the permission of this fight, and that we invite the ministers of all denominations in the State of Pennsylvania and in other States to stir up their people and unite with us in a protest to the Governor of California against the permission to conduct this fight."

PRESBYTERIANS UP IN ARMS.

San Francisco, May 3.—The San Francisco Church Federation has decided to enter the campaign against the Jeffries-Johnson fight. It was announced that as soon as the matter was in proper shape it would be laid before Attorney-General Webb and Governor Gillette with a request for official action to prevent the encounter.

The Presbyterian Ministers' Union also expressed its disapproval of prize fights. A committee was appointed to draft a communication to Governor Gillette protesting against the big fight.

ARRANGEMENTS GOING ON.

San Francisco, May 3.—Preliminary arrangements for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, prescribed by the articles of agreement, are being rapidly disposed of, and unless the anti-prize fight movement, accelerated by the Tommy McCarthy ring fatality, assumed proportions alarming to the promoters of the big contest no hitch is anticipated.

This was a busy day for Promoters Rickard and Gleason, and for the managers of both fighters, the business on hand being the depositing of $30,000, the second installment of the fight forfeit and a conference relative to the selection of a referee.

But for the absence of bank officials from the city, the promoters, it was said, would have attended to vaults pending the formal transfer the forfeit matter yesterday. The gold coin was put in the bank today. It was planned to record the transfer by photographs of the gold, the pictures to be preserved as souvenirs.

Another Opperetta at Conservatory.

That the Peterborough Conservatory of Music is a live institution, with a talented and energetic man at its control, needs no telling. However, a further demonstration of this fact, it might be noted that "The Isle of Jewells," operatte in which 150 children will take part, will be given here, in the ball on Friday evening, May 13th.

Dr. Marsh Corroborates Mr. Collier.

Dr. Marsh of Springville, yesterday morning had a fine view of the comet, verifying the observation made a day or two ago by Mr. Collier. He has received a telegram from Harvard College Observatory, saying that Prof. Campbell, director of the Lick Observatory, California, states that the bright sodium "D" line has been photographed in the spectrum of Halley's comet, by one of the staff.

Way Open to Lake Simcoe.

The steamer Otonabee of the Otonabee Navigation Company, will now be enabled, by reason of increased depth of water to sail on her majestic way to Lake Simcoe. This, which was formerly impossible, has been made possible as the new lock at Rosedale is just about finished, and the work of hanging the lock gates is now in progress. This will be a great convenience to those taking this trip during the coming summer.

Little Local Lines

Yesterday morning an inquest was held on the body of the little boy, James Alfred Baillie, at the home of the parents of the deceased.

Dr. Grey, Sherbrooke street, the county coroner, a few days ago purchased a fine house on Gladstone avenue, Toronto. It is understood that the price paid was about $3,000.

It is about time the government pass legislation to prevent children, the insane or sick people from being debarred from medical treatment by Christian Scientists. At least so remarked an intelligent farmer at the inquest in the township of Smith yesterday morning.

The multi-millionaire, J. P. Morgan, is reported as being very ill. Few citizens of Peterborough, and no newspaper men, display symptoms of illness from their aggregated millions.

Dr. Amy's horse took a 2.08¼ trip without its owner's orders yesterday afternoon. It seems that whilst the doctor was passing a rig on Hunter street, a wheel of the buggy he was seated in fell off, and the doctor's horse ran away.

"This is My 64th Birthday."

Eugenie Marie de Guzman, Countess of Teba, who was Empress of the French during the reign of her husband, Napoleon III., was born in Spain, May 5, 1826. Her father was the Count de Montijo, an officer in the Spanish army. Her mother was an English lady of large fortune and the future empress received much of her education in England. In 1851, the Countess Teba, as she was then known, paid a lengthened visit to Paris, and was distinguished at the brilliant entertainments given at the Tuileries. Two years later her marriage with the Emperor was celebrated with much magnificence at Notre Dame. The life of the Empress Eugenie after her marriage was comparatively uneventful until the outbreak of war between France and Germany, when she was appointed regent, during the absence of the Emperor. Immediately after the revolution in Paris, on Sept. 4, 1870, she escaped to England, which has been her home ever since. The royal couple made their home at Chislehurst, where the Emperor died in 1873. Six years later further sorrow came to the ex-Empress when her only child, the Prince Imperial, was killed whilst fighting with the British army in the Zulu war.

MR. WHYTE'S PREDICTION.

Mr. William Whyte, 2nd vice-president of the C.P.R., in an interview, stated that he expected 125,000 American farmers to enter Canada and take up land this year. He estimated that each of these newcomers would bring in $1,000. In the course of his interview he stated that within five years the Province of Saskatchewan would be producing more wheat than the State of Texas, and in 15 years the Province of Saskatchewan would be growing more wheat than the whole of the United States. With in 15 years the United States will be importing wheat. These statements, made by such a well-known authority as Mr. Whyte, mean that Canada's future as a grain growing country possesses almost unlimited possibilities. Milling companies which extend operations by the erection of large mills at the present time, and take advantage of such an increase in our output of wheat, should offer an attractive field for investment.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organ must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

OBITUARY.

The Late Mr. Edward McIlvena, of Apsley.

There passed away in the village of Apsley on Friday, April 22nd, 1910, one of the oldest and respected residents of the township of Dummer in the person of Mr. Edward McIlvena, who was born in the County of Antrim, Ireland, in the year 1815, being 95 years of age at his death. The deceased came to Canada in the year 1853 settling in the village of Warsaw.

He was married in 1850 to Eliza Ann Upton, the children of this union being three sons and one daughter, two of which still survive him and are Mr. Jas. McIlvena, of Apsley, and Mr. Edward, of Bolivar, N. Y.

Shortly after coming to Canada his first wife died. In 1857 he married a second time to Caroline Mary Davis, who predeceased him nine years ago, the children of this union being Mrs. Jos. Cooper and Miss Eliza, both of Warsaw, and Mr. John, of Cobalt.

From the time of his settling in Warsaw he conducted a general black smith business in that village until 1901, when he disposed of his premises, which are situated on the front street, to Mr. Albert Helps. He then took up residence with Mrs. Jos. Cooper until a year and a half ago, when he went to reside with Mr. Jas. McIlvena, his son, of Apsley, at which place he died.

In religion he was a Methodist, in politics a Conservative. He was the oldest Orangeman in the district of East Peterborough, having joined the order in the City of Belfast, Ireland. After coming to Canada he became a member of L.O.L. No. 284 the members of which attended his funeral, in a body from his former place of residence with his daughter Mrs. Jos. Cooper, to St. Mark's church and thence to Warsaw cemetery for interment of the remains.

The community extends to the bereft friends sincerest sympathy in the loss of beloved father ripe in years.

THE LAWMAKERS.

Outcry Against Legislation to Make People Better.

Whenever efforts are made by the churches or kindred organizations to have laws placed on the statute books to restrict the liquor traffic, gambling or similar evils there is certain to go up in some quarters an outcry against attempts to make people good by legislation. The outcry frequently comes from men whom wiser counsels might be expected. Closely examined and followed to the last analysis the claim of these men becomes in effect the assertion that parliaments should not be concerned with the morals of the people.

Such an assertion presented in the baldness of its actuality, would not be assented by even many of these men themselves, to say nothing of the great majority of the citizens. It is evident on a moment's thought that parliaments ought to be very earnestly concerned with the morals of the people. Assemblies of the people's representatives in Canada must be earnestly concerned with other than the mere material things. The construction of a Transcontinental or of a Valley Railway, the building of wharves or roads, the tariff or the administration of crown lands, are all things of great importance.

But material things are not alone of importance. There are matters of higher character that should receive the most careful attention from the law-makers. A people whose ideals are not reasonably high, who do not lay stress upon right, will not long be dealing with great material works. Even the man who is an infidel or a skeptic, if of ordinary intelligence, cannot fail to understand at least the record of history. The nations that showed flagrant disregard of right went down to failure. Material prosperity does not come where there is disregard of right in the matter of morals or ethics. If wrong-doing is allowed to go unchecked the whole fabric of national life will suffer, suffer in a measure in keeping with the character of the wrong-doing and the extent to which it is tolerated.

Laws have been found necessary against murder and theft and assault and scores of other acts. They are necessary against the liquor traffic and against many other evils. That they must be reasonable laws goes without saying.

By-Law Number

A By-Law to provide for the borrowing of $30 000 to pay for the construction of a sewage and drainage system for the South Western section of the City.

Passed the ..... day of .....1910.

WHEREAS in order to provide for the proper sewage and drainage of the south-western section of the City it is necessary to purchase land and to construct and equip a pumping station; construct a sewer on George Street between the said pumping station and Westcott Street; to reconstruct the Romaine Street sewer and the sewer leading from the King Edward school, including the necessary manholes and branches; clean out a portion of the Aylmer Street sewer and do other work in connection with and required for the proper and efficient working of the same and also to reconstruct the box drain on the west side of Park Street between Rink Street and Townsend Street; to repair and extend the box drain on Rink Street, to provide a gate valve for the overflow from the sewer at the north side of the George Street bridge; to build a new flushing chamber on the south side of said bridge; to construct a storm drain on Romaine Street; to construct the necessary catch-basins required in said works and to do other work in connection with and required for the proper and efficient working of the same, and the proper sewage and drainage of the said district and it has been estimated that the cost of said works will amount to the sum of $30,000 which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-Law, and it is intended that the whole cost thereof should be borne by the municipality at large.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $30,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount to be charged on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised Assessment Roll, being the roll prepared in the year 1909, for the year 1910, is the sum of $8,636,293, and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates, but including the debt of $432,000 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks, is the sum of $1,009,119.18 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $1350 to be raised annually for a period of twenty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this By-Law to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $1007.46 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at the maturity thereof, such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due making in all the sum of $2357.46 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

1. This By-Law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $30,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust, and to be made payable within twenty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty first day of December in each year, and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust or at such other place as the Council of the said City may by resolution appoint.

3. There shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the municipality, the sum of $1,350 for payment of the interest on the said debt and the sum of $1007.46 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof, making together the sum of $2357.46 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

4. The proceeds of the said debentures when sold or so much thereof as may be required for that purpose shall be applied in payment of the cost of, incidental to and connected with the construction of the said sewage and drainage works.

5. As the proposed expenditure for which the said debt will be contracted may extend over a series of years, and it will be undesirable to have large portions of the moneys in hand unused and uninvested, the said debentures may be issued in instalments of such amounts (not exceeding in the aggregate the total amount for which provision is made in this By-Law) and at such times as the exigency of the case demands, but so that the whole shall be issued within five years and the first installment within two years after the passing of this By-law.

Some Persons

feel bright and ambitious a part of the day; and then listless and dull
Most of these people are coffee-drinkers. They can not account for their whimsical moods and don't realize they are doing anything to cause them. But take a look at the case in the light of science as applied to physiology.

Ever study the way coffee acts on the brain and nervous system?

"Caffeine," says a scientist, "is a drug found in coffee and tea and is classed among the habit-forming drugs, like whiskey, morphine, cocaine, etc.

"It acts as a so-called heart stimulant first—but the reaction later shows that it is in reality a paralyzant—weakens the nerves and partially paralizes them

"Caffeine causes a short period of excitement of the nervous system—a delusory effect.

"But this is followed by the inevitable depression of spirits, dullness of intellect and sometimes dizziness."

That's what coffee does, in part.

On the other hand, thousands of people have learned to distrust coffee and have found in well-made POSTUM a beverage which tastes similar to coffee but has none of the harmful effects of coffee,

If you would feel clear-headed and well all the time, drop coffee and begin using POSTUM. But—be sure you read directions on pkg. POSTUM must be made right (well-boiled) to bring out the real food value. Thousands of people have found it. You can do the same and it is quite a pleasant discovery—that

VOL. XXXIII NO. 104 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO FRIDAY MAY 6 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

HOUSE OF REFUGE TO COST $20,000

CITY TO GIVE $10,000 AND FREE SITE, THE PROTESTANT HOME BOARD THE REMAINDER.

City Committee and Protestant Home Board Reach an Agreement, But Special Legislation is Necessary.

The House of Refuge Committee of the City Council met last night. There were present Chairman Ald. Morgan, and Aldermen Buller and Bradburn, and Mr. J. B. McWilliams a member of the Protestant Home Board.

A resolution from the Protestant Home Board was read to the effect that if the city will make a grant of $10,000, and provide a free site, the Protestant Home Board will build a not less than $20,000 House of Refuge and furnish the same, providing the City Council will levy a seperate rate upon the Protestant ratepayers for the upkeep of the institution. All inmates to be sent to the home by the Charity Board, and the city to have three representatives upon the Protestant Home Board.

This resolution was considered by the committee to be a good proposition, and if definite action can be taken on the foregoing lines the city will provide a site on the Hillier farm, which is city property, and the committee and Mr. J. B. McWilliams will look over the ground today.

It will be necessary, however, before going any further in the matter to get the assurance of legislation to permit of Protestant ratepayers being taxed for the maintenance of their poor, and the Roman Catholics being taxed seperately for any of their indigents sent to the House of Refuge by the city.

With this end in view Ald. Buller moved that Mr. J. B. McWilliams or Dr. Halliday, representing the Protestant Home Board, Rev. Father McColl, representing the Roman Catholic citizens, and the City House of Refuge Committee interview Premier Whitney as to whether it will be possible to secure the necessary legislation to carry out the foregoing project.—Carried.

T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., will be requested to arrange for an interview with Premier Whitney. Mr. Hanna and the secretary of the department.

YOUNG FILIBUSTER SPENT TWO YEARS IN "BLACK HOLE"— RELATES THRILLING EXPERIENCE

New York, May 5.—George Vice, a young filibuster, reached New York today, liberated from the "Black Hole" of Bahia, Brazil. He was snatched from death through the efforts of his mother, Mrs. Leona Vice of Hackensack, N.J. Her pleas won the intervention of the United States Government for the filibuster party and led to their release after being captured in a plot against Brazil. Vice having ended two years' imprisonment, landed today from the steamer Vasari.

On November 1st, 1907, the expedition left New York under the leadership of Sebastian Magali. The capture of the city of Oura Preto was the first object of the filibuster chief, but the expedition was surrounded, and after two days of fighting captured.

Davies Grean, one of the expedition who had been a lieutenant in the American navy, was killed after shooting a Brazilian policeman. Three of the filibusters were wounded among them Vice. Two of the American were freed several months ago and reached New York safely. Vice, who is only 23, was the last held in prison. For months his life was despaired of, but he managed to pull through.

INDIAN BABE WAS SUFFOCATED

CORONER WAS OF OPINION IT HAD BEEN STRANGLED TO DEATH.

Was Dead in a Valise—Young Squaw is Under Arrest, But in the Hospital.

Brantford, Ont., May 5.—Lizzie Hill, an unmarried Indian girl, aged 18 years, was detained here yesterday pending an investigation into a case of alleged infanticide, which was discovered in the afternoon at a home on Hawarden avenue, this city where the girl was engaged as a domestic.

Early Tuesday evening the girl retired to her room, complaining that she was not feeling well. In the morning, however, she resumed her household duties.

Yesterday the body of a baby girl was found hidden in an old telescope valise, which the girl brought with her. Corozer Ashton was immediately notified and Drs. Palmer and Marquis were called to perform an autopsy.

The girl when questioned admitted giving birth to the child at 9 o'clock but stated that it was dead. The results of the doctors' autopsy, however, did not confirm this story, and the girl was placed under arrest, being removed in the meantime to the hospital. A jury was empanelled, and an adjournment was made for a week. The child's neck bore marks of discoloration, and it was the opinion of the coroner that strangulation had caused its death.

The girl came into the city recently from the reserve, two miles east of Burtch's Corners.

Great Men From Peterborough.

Toronto World: Peterborough is a great city, said a prominent financial man yesterday. See the number of men it has sent out who have achieved national prominence. And he named among others Senator George A. Cox, E. R. Wood, J. W. Flavelle, Hon. J. R. Stratton and the inimitable George Stevenson.

Dominion Day.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, of the Canadian Club, has received a copy of the Moncton, N.B. Times, in which is a report of a similar club there. The New Brunswickers propose to make Dominion Day more of a national holiday and have it celebrated in a more generally patriotic manner throughout Canada.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

G.T.R. Conductor Saw Comet.

Mr. H. Lavoni, the Grand Trunk freight conductor on the Belleville train caught a fine view of the comet yesterday morning at 3.15. He states that it was clearly visible without the aid of opera glasses, and was of a yellow shade, with a tail of white hazy matter and quite long.

Lindsay Town Clerk Censured.

The town clerk of Lindsay who was charged by the Citizens' League Committee with tampering with the voters' lists, was on the carpet before the town councillors. The result was that the clerk was exonerated from the charge of "Wilfully-tampering with the lists," but was censured by the mayor and the council for being careless, and he was warned to be very carful that a re-currence of like events will not occur again in the future.

Arranging for Godfrey's New Shop.

Workmen yesterday began alterations on the barn just to the east of the Munro House. As noted in a former issue of The Times, Mr. Munro has taken over the store in the hotel building now occupied by Godfrey's harness shop and will add this space when vacated, to his hotel. Mr. Godfrey is to carry on his business in the building for many years used as a barn in the Munro House yard, immediately fronting on Hunter street. The staff of workmen already referred to are altering this building so as to make it into a shop. The building will not be bricked but covered with sheet iron. This ought to be a good stand as many farmers make their headquarters at the Munro House.

TERMS OF SALE OF SURPLUS WATER POWER TO C. G. E. IS SATISFACTORY TO CO. AND CITY

WATER COMMISSIONERS AND COMPANY'S REPRESENTATIVES MET YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AND DISCUSSED FORM OF AGREEMENT.

The Negotiations Are Now Practically Concluded, and There Is Not Much Chance of Any Hitch Occurring—A Popular Deal Has Been Consummated.

Mr. Frederick Nicholls, general manager of the Canadian General Electric Company; S. A. Patterson, K.C., the company's solicitor; Mr. E. G. Patterson, the company's local manager; Messrs. T. F. Matthews, W. H. Moore and W. H. Hill, Water Commissioners; Mr. Henderson, superintendent of the water works, and City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall met in the City Hall yesterday afternoon to discuss a carefully prepared draft of the agreement under which the C.G.E. will purchase the surplus water power at the water works dam. The city's interests are fully guarded and the form of agreement is satisfactory to both parties. Our citizens may rest assured that the matter is now practically settled and that no hitch will occur in any further proceedings that may be necessary before the agreement is legally signed.

BOYS BEFORE THE BEAK.

Willie Sullivan Gets Three Years in Industrial School.

A juvenile session was held yesterday morning in the police court before his Worship Magistrate Dumble, when five young boys answered to thirty-one charges of theft.

Willie Sullivan, well known in the police court, was charged with seven charges of theft, and the magistrate found it necessary to give him a term, not exceeding three years in St. John's Industrial School, Toronto. Sullivan was let out on suspended sentence in the year 1907, on a charge of stealing a watch.

Willie King was given a week in order to make good for the articles taken.

Norman Hurl and James Jordan, jr., seemed to have gone into business in the chicken line without attending to the preliminary necessity of owning the foul they sold. Louis Anthony, taken by his worship for a dago, was an accomplice. His job was, on account of his size to get through fence openings. Both County Crown Attorney Wood and Magistrate Dumble gave the boys some heart to heart advice that will probably make them shy at even a pin feather.

Astronomical Society Meet.

The regular Royal Astronomical Society meeting, which was to have taken place yesterday evening, has been postponed for a few days in order to prepare for "A Night in the Skies." The lecture will be given by Rev. Dr. Marsh, and will be illustrated by lantern slides. The attention of the public is drawn to the visibility of the comet.

TIRE WAS UP.

It Was Quit Coffee or Die.

When a woman is brought to the edge of the grave by poisoning from the drinking of ordinary coffee day by day, and is then made a well woman by leaving it off, her experience is worth something to others that are poisoned in various ways from the same habit.

A New Haven, Conn., woman says: "Four years ago my life hung on a very slender thread with liver, kidney and heart trouble, and a very severe form of rheumatism. I was confined to bed with hands, wrists, feet and ankles so badly swollen that they bore no resemblance to parts of the human body.

"I had frequently sinking spells from heart weakness when I was thought to be dead. My Doctor, one of the directors of the State hospital, a very successful man in his profession, told me to stop drinking coffee and use Postum, as he said coffee was the primary cause of my trouble.

"I took his advice at once and also discontinued medicines. Slowly the swelling disappeared, and the rheumatism left me: the sinking spells became less frequent, and I got out of bed and around the house. I was completely cured but it took some time.

"For the past three years I have been a perfectly, strong healthy woman, sleep well, with good appetite, good color, active, and energetic.

"It is a great pleasure to testify for Postum which has made me a well woman again. I have many friends here and in other parts of the state who are using Postum regularly, and I know to their very great benefit."

KING EDWARD SEIZED WITH SUDDEN ILLNESS--UNABLE TO MEET QUEEN

London, May 5.—King Edward was suddenly stricken with a new attack of illness today and was unable to meet Queen Alexandria when she arrived from the continent this afternoon. Though it was given out that his illness was only a slight indisposition, the fact that he was unable to leave his room caused alarming rumors throughout the city.

The King's health has given much anxiety for many months. It was hoped however, that his recent sojourn of several weeks at Biarritz — where he took a longer sojourn than usual—would prove of lasting benefit. On his return he showed no change for the better, inspite of the seven weeks under care of doctors.

Throat trouble, which has bothered him recurrently since his illness just before he was crowned, has never been overcome and has weakened his constitution.

THE KAISER SAYS THAT BEER IS CAUSING GERMANY TO FALL BEHIND

Berlin, May. 5.—The Kaiser warned a son of Prof. Erhardt, who is a freshman at Freiburg University, and a member of the students' corps in which the agility to drink great quantities of beer is one of the chief qualifications. The Kaiser said the beer habit was injuring not only the individual students but the German nation, with the result that both were falling behind foreigners, particularly Englishmen and Americans. The latter took a more sensible view of drinking by youths. The attitude of the Kaiser is commended by thoughtful people, including many students, but is treated with ridicule by adherents to bibulous traditions.

TWO THOUSAND LUMBERMEN WILL BE TAKEN TO BRITISH COLUMBIA

Nelson, B.C., May 5.—Two thousand men will be brought to the interiorof British Columbia by mountain lumbermen from the timber districts of Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick. Their families will come later and all are expected to become permanent residents of the Kootenay.

This was decided at an important conference with the East Kootenay mill men at Fernie. Five hundred of the men are expected within thirty days, and the rest will be brought out as soon as they can be gathered. It is thought that the project will be continued and that within the next few years at least five thousand men will be brought under lumbering auspices. The lack of men is seriously hampering lumbering operations and many of the Hindus are leaving.

John O'Brien's House Destroyed by Fire

Mr. John O'Brien, who resides just outside the city limits, over the Monaghan boundary line, has had another link added to his chain of misfortunes, when his houses and nearly all the contents were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon about four o'clock. The origon of the fire is not known.

Besides the house being destroyed a number of farming implements were destroyed. This is the third fire Mr. O'Brien has had, and only a few weeks ago he lost his little girl, who was run over by a train, and a little over a year ago a son was killed by a freight train.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien have the sympathy of the community in their misfortunes.

DEPARTMENT OF MINES SENDING OUT EXPEDITIONS FOR GOLD, SILVER, AND COAL—FIVE PARTIES ARE OUT

Toronto, May 5.—Five important parties will be sent out next week by the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, to make a thorough exploration of the mineral deposits in five districts where reports of valuable finds have recently been made. There are the coal fields about the Metagami River, the Porcupine gold district, the gold region surrounding Sturgeon Lake, northwest of Lake Superior, the Port Arthur silver district and Lake of the Woods and the Seine River, in both of which gold has been found lately. The expedition to the Metagami coal fields will act independently of the one to be sent out by the T. & N.O. R. Commission. The party going into the Porcupine will be larger than the others, as a speedy report has been considered advisable. In the Lake of the Woods district, the government has received information that the old mining activity will be revived and a number of the mines re-opened. The government mining engineers will test not only these old mines but new districts surrounding them.

The reports of those mining men may have an important bearing on the mineral development of the Province and may open up new areas hitherto almost unsuspected.

Men began yesterday to remove a number of houses on Albert street that would interfere with extending the machine shop. No time will be lost in preparing for building operations. The machine shop is to be greatly enlarged as well as the office building. Further additions and improvements are also to come under the half million dollars expenditure.

WHAT THE COLONIES ARE TO BRITAIN

Donald Armour Says Their Prosperity Rests on Permanent Tie---What Canada Realizes

London, May 5.—Donald Armour, the eminent Canadian surgeon and son of the distinguished jurist presided in a most acceptable manner at the Canadian Club dinner last night. He said that Canadians were a nation within the Empire, and realized that the privileges and burdens of a nation were inseparable. They had received the power to arrange their own tariffs, yet were determined to give a preference to the Motherland. If they claimed control of their own naval and military forces, they, at the same time were determined that these should always be available for the defence of the Empire. Canadians more than ever believed that the prosperity of the colonies depended upon permanent connection with the Motherland.

Sir G. Reid, Australian Commissioner, who was the chief guest, said "Providence formerly relieved us of the necessity of caring for the Empire, but the time has come to give Providence a rest. Our strength consists in reinforcing yours. Regulation to the effect that only the local governments could decide whether the local forces should participate in an Imperial war would, if danger appeared, become waste paper. (Great cheering).

Mr. McMaster, M.P., warned the colonies that if the anti-Lords proposal carried, the Commons could, though highly improbable, abolish those contributions which are regarded by the dominions beyond the seas as the palladium of their liberties. The maintenance of British connection should not depend on the will or temporary whim of a single chamber.

MINISTER WHO TESTED ZAM-BUK.

Read His Deliberate Opinion.

Rev. P. F. Langill, "The Manse," Carp, Ont., writes: "Some considerable time ago I began using Zam-Buk with a view to testing it thoroughly. I am troubled with eczema, which is always worse in the early part of winter, and seems to leave me about spring. I tried Zam-Buk immediately my hands started to break out, and am pleased to say that it checked the disease, which is more than I can say for anything I have ever tried before. We now have Zam-Buk in the house continuously. The children use it for scratches, cuts and any skin disease, and I carry a small sample box in my pocket. One evening I happened to look in where an old man had met with a accident a week before, and had lost a finger nail. His wife was dressing the wound. I dressed it with Zam-Buk and left the sample box with them for the next dressing. I have has now the same high opinion of seen the old gentleman since, and he has now the same) high opinion of Zam-Buk as myself and family have.

"On another occasion a farmer called at "The Manse," and I noticed a rag on his finger. Enquiring about the injury, I learned that he had somehow taken a piece of flesh off, and the wound had started to fester, He was afraid it would turn to blood-poisoning. I gave him a third of a box of Zam-Buk and he applied it. A few days later I saw him, and he said "That's great salve of yours, my finger is now doing fine."

This is a Scotchman's opinion; it has taken a good while to convince him, but he wanted to make sure of Zam-Buk's merit before endorsing it. "It is well worth recommending."

This is exactly the kind of testimony we most appreciate. Test Zam-Buk! Don't go by hearsay! You will find it gives the best results in all cases of eczema, ringworm, festering sores, piles, cuts, burns, face sores, eruptions, and all skin injuries and diseases. All drug gists and stores, 50c box or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, but refuse cheap and harmful substitutes and imitations.

GOOD PRICE FOR LICENSE.

New Oxford Seems to Be in General Demand Among Would-be Hotel

A newspaper reporter is impelled to call at all kinds of places from the residence of a popular preacher the local hotels to Italian boarding houses. Yesterday a Times representative had occasion to call at two or three of the local hotels. Here some, if not much, of the talk was about the Oxford Hotel on Simcoe street. In conversation, those talking referred constantly to the Oxford Hotel. It will be remembered that Mrs. Bowman the proprietress, was told by the License Commissioners to sell her license. The concensus of opinion as gathered yesterday by the Times man was that several offers had been made to Mrs. Bowman. Among the names mentioned was Mr. Laroque, formerly proprietor of the Montreal House. It is no secret that Mr. Laroque, by strict attention to business and observance of the law has accumulated a nice hunch of money. Rumor yesterday said that as high as $6000 had been offered for the Oxford. Now that the houses in Peterborough have been so materially reduced, the owner of a license has in his, or her possession a tangible commercial asset worth a large sum of money.

Toronto, April 28.—After being blind in both eyes for 15 years, a skilful operation has restored her sight to Mrs. Elizabeth Hemstead, a widow, who resides at 63 Palmerston avenue.

When she was 35 years old, Mrs. Hemstead suffered from nervous troubles, which are supposed to have blinded her. Until last summer all was dark to her. Then Dr. F. C. Trobilcock, of 720 Spadina avenue, operated on one eye, and when the bandages were removed after two weeks, Mrs. Hemstead was able to see quite plainly out of it. For nine months she has been able to get around and even venture out on the streets with only one eye to give her sight.

WOMAN OUTLAW DEAD IN CABIN

San Francisco, May 5.—Kate Bender, the famous axe-woman of the notorious Bender family, of Cherryvale, and the only member of that murderous sextette to escape the vengeance that their numberless crimes inspired, was found dead in her cabin at Rio Vista, Cal., early Tuesday morning. Her cold form, from which life passed on April 16th, would doubtless have gone into the grave under the name which had shrouded the identity and early life of the foremost murderess in the criminal annals of this country, had not an old man, who has known her for eleven years, broken his silence today.

With this old man's story comes the first details that have ever been made public of how the woman made her escape 40 years ago from the Kansas roadhouse, where an infuriated mob, after slaying her father, mother and three brothers, searched in vain for the leading character in Cherryvale's drama of blood.

Under the name of Mrs. Katha Peters, the murderess lived in a small white house on the Sacramento river, about a mile from the center of the village. She was twice married, her first husband, as she told it, being lost at sea, and the second she said, died. Since then her home has been a house of mystery and strange acts. Her companions gone, Kate Bender lived practically alone for the past month. It was not remarked when she did not appear daily and no one thought it strange that in the last week she had not been seen since April 18th. A change phrase dropped by "Happy Jack" Collins, who had been in Kate Bender's employ from 1899 to 1909 revealed the secret of the woman's identity.

"One night in the winter of 1899, she called me into her bedroom," said Collins. "She had been ill for several weeks with pneumonia and it looked bad for her.

"'My whole story is there,' she said. 'I am Kate Bender. After I learned that we were about to suffer for the numerous murders that we had committed and that I could do nothing to save the other members of my family, I changed my clothes, and fled from the sod house. I got away in the night and dashed to the railway station. I did not know where I was going to go, but when I arrived at the depot I found that a transcontinental was to be along for Chicago. I bought a ticket and got aboard.

"I did not know what to do when I reached Chicago. The papers were full of the story of the murders of my family and a reward had been offered for my capture. I had hoped that my absence would not be discovered—hoped that the numerous other bodies would hide my disappearance, but it was not so, and I was at my wit's end.

"I was afraid that any moment a detective would grab me. I took a car to the shore of Lake Michigan. I thought that I could not escape and I wanted to kill myself rather than have the law do it.

"While I was walking along the beach I saw a sail boat. I did not know about sailing a boat, but I jumped in and pushed her off. It was only a small boat and I had no trouble with it.

"Out in the lake I found that I couldn't make the boat go as I wanted. I drifted around and was carried way out. The next morning a passing lake steamer picked me up. They asked me several questions. They asked me if I could cook. I told them yes.

"I made good as a cook and they were pleased with me and I stayed with them until we reached Buffalo, N.Y., and then I took a train for New York City."

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Gained Instantly By Applying

NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of 'Nerviline' earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. P Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a hay loft to the barn floor and sprained my right ankle and left wrist. They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city, and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

THE THIRD DEGREE.

Harper's Weekly, commenting on the "Third Degree," says it was once the duty of a constable who arrested a man for murder to warn him that any statement he might make could be used against him. He was then left alone with freedom to consult his counsel. All this, in the United States, is now changed. The newspapers tell from day to day how the accused has been forced to look on the body of his victim, how the head inquisitor has shaken his fist in his face and shouted at him, "You killed this man!" A group of detectives and reporters has noted the effect. From time to time it is proclaimed that the accused is breaking down, that his mind is giving way under the stress put upon him, and that the police will have his confession by morning.

During all this time the man has not been indicted; the grand jury has not examined the case; no trial has been held before judge and jury. All the safeguards which the law was supposed to provide are swept away; yet not a clause of the constitution has been altered, not a section of a statute has been repealed, no new statute has been enacted. A momentous and radical change has been effected simply by the police and the detectives taking the law into their own hands.

While these practices are permitted it is clear that the powers of legislatures and courts are seriously impaired. A law cannot be made or repealed or altered without compliance with conditions intended to secure carefulness and to prevent injustice. But when the third degree is practised a new law is virtually made by the mere will of a policeman. A judge who presides over a trial must be a trained lawyer, and have an impartial mind and the capacity for sifting evidence. Under the third degree the place of the judge is usurped by a policeman or detective who may have no knowledge of the laws of evidence, and who is not likely to have an impartial mind. The jury in a criminal trial is carefully selected, and persons likely to be biased may be rejected. There is no such safeguard when the third degree is practised.

The constitution of the United States declares that cruel and unusual punishments should not be inflicted. If this protection is intended even to condemned persons, the use of torture for the purpose of electing confessions is surely forbidden. Yet the use of torture has been revived apparently at the mere will and pleasure of the police. It is freely stated that the persons under arrest are deprived of sleep in order to force confessions, a practice which for ingenious cruelty is hardly surpassed by the rack and the thumb-screw. President Taft and his Cabinet are mainly lawyers, and are supposed to be sticklers for legality. Here is a case where legality is in accord with common sense and humanity, and where a champion of legality could score a triumph by insisting upon the safeguards of justice.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Satan Sanderson

By HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES,
Author of "Hearts Courageous," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

something in that face, in that intense look, that seemed to cleave the gray veil that swathed Harry Sanderson's past.

Only an instant the gaze hung between them. It served as a distraction, for other eyes had raced to the balcony.

The clamoring voices were suddenly hushed, for there was not wanting in the crowd that instinctive regard for the proprieties which belongs to communities where gentlewomen are few, in that instant Felder put his hand on the arm of the staring man and drew him to the door of the hotel.

"Inside, quickly!" he said under his breath, for a rumble from the crowd told him the girl had left the balcony.

He pushed the other through the doorway and turned for a second on the threshold.

"Whatever private feelings you may have," he said in a tone that all heard, "don't disgrace the town. Fair play, no matter who he is! McGinn, I should think you, at least, were big enough to settle your grudges without the help of a crowd."

Chapter 13

THE man whose part the lawyer had taken had yielded to his touch almost dazedly as the girl disappeared.

"That was a close squeak," said Felder to him. "Do you realize that? In five minutes more you'd have been handled a sight worse than you handled your man, let me tell you!"

The man of no memories smiled, the same smile that had infuriated the bar room—and yet somehow it was more difficult to smile now.

"Is it possible," he asked, "that through an unlucky error I have trounced the local archbishop?"

Felder looked at him narrowly. Beneath the sarcasm he distinguished unfamiliarity, aloofness, a genuine astonishment. The appearance in the person of Hugh Stires of the qualities of nerve and courage had surprised him out of his usual indifference. The "tinhorn gambler" had fought like a man. His present ,sang froid was as singular. Had he been an absolute stranger in the town he might have acted and spoken no differently. Felder's smooth shaven, earnest face was puzzled as he answered curtly:

"You've trounced a man who will remember it a long time."

"Ah!" said the man addressed easily. "He has a better memory than I, then!"

He gazed over the heads of the silent roomful to the simmering street, where Devlin, with the aid of a supporting arm, was staggering into the saloon in which his humiliation had begun. "They seem agitated," he said. The feeling of embarrassment was passing; the old daring was lifting. His glance, scanning the room, set itself on a shabby, clear figure in the background apologetic, yet keenly and pridefully interested. A whimsical light was in his eye. He crossed to him and, reaching out his hand, drew the violin from under his arm.

"Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast," he said, and, opening the door, he tucked the instrument under his chin and began to play.

What absolute contempt of danger, what insane prompting possessed, can scarcely be imagined. Felder looked for a quick end to the folly, but he saw the men in the street even as they moved forward waver and pause. With almost the first note it had come to them that they were hearing music such as the squeaking fiddles of the dance halls never knew. Those on the opposite pavement crossed over, and men far down the street stood still to listen.

More than the adept's cunning that had at first tingled in his fingers at sight of the instrument was in Harry Sanderson's playing. The violin had been the single passion which the old Satan Sanderson had carried with him into the new career. The impulse to "soothe the savage breast" had been a flare of the old character he had been relieving, but the music, begun in bravado, swept him almost instantly beyond its bounds. He had never been an indifferent performer. Now he was playing as he had never played in his life, with inspiration and abandon. There was a diabolism in it. He had forgotten the fight, the crowd, his own mocking mood. He had forgotten where he was. He was afloat on a fluctuant tide of melody that was carrying him back, back, into the far-away past toward all that he had loved and lost.

"It's 'Home, Sweet Home,'" said Barney McGinn. "No, it's 'Annie Laurie.' No, it's—hanged if I know what it is!"

The player himself could not have told him. He was in a kind of tranced dream. The self made music was calling with a sweet insistence to buried things that were stirring from a long sleep. It sent a gulp into the throat of more than one standing moveless in the street. It brought a suspicious moisture to Tom Felder's eyes. It drew Mrs. Halloran from the kitchen, wiping her hands on her apron. It called to a girl who crouched in the upper hall with her miserable face buried in her hands, drew her down the stair to the office door, her eyes wide with a breathless wonder, her face glistening with feeling.

From the balcony Jessica had witnessed the fight without understanding its meaning. A fascination she could not falmely had glued her eyes to the struggle. It was he—it was the face she knew, seen but once for a single moment in the hour of her marriage, but stamped indelibly upon her memory. It was no longer smooth shaven, and it was changed, evilly changed. But it was the same. There was recklessness and mockery in it and yet strength, not weakness. Shunned and despised as he might be—the chief actor, as it seemed to her, in a cheap and desperate barroom affray, a coarse affair of fisticuffs in the public street—yet there was something intrepid in his bearing, something splendid in his

Cart Wheels.

One would doubtless rather have money in the form of silver dollars than have no money at all. But why should anyone have to choose? Summer is approaching, would Mr. Fielding really enjoy carrying half a pound or so of metal in his pocket for hours and hours on a hote day. Surely we can do something better when we are beginning to mint our own coins that imitate the mistakes that have been made in other countries. A dollar coin would be convenient enough if it were no heavier than a twenty-five cent piece. Perhaps it could be tolerated if it were as big as a half dollar, but that is surely the limit of reasonable weight in a coin.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for that which you knew would not help you. Then why pay for something until positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's remedies can do for the sick. I say to you that you may obtain health first returned. I will be representative with a signed and sealed guarantee to pay you for results.

I positively promise to do this, and will ask you "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely to be free if it fails". Let others do the same—let them prescribe by.

If you need more counsel, more light, more vigor or more vim, you may write me. Let me know and note the immediate improvement. Then use Dr. Shoop's Restorative for the time and see Dr. Shoop's Restorative do the rest. Let the stomach, heart, or kidneys from the stomach may stimulate the blood or nerves, for that is wrong. Your organ I counsel and patient's help to restore. The tablets below will best tell you how I can accomplish.

These books also tell of a "false strength" or "nerve," no longer than a flame through the body that nerve, until it fails, and then comes to the heart its power, its tone, its normal action or impulse.

These books with me can tell you and explain these to those who are sick and ailing. Of the stomach, and kidneys, weak hearts, lungs, weak or failing brain nerves. All of them have all why I am able to say, "It is Dr. Shoop's Restorative".

This is why I say "Take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to have my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also what book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours and without charge.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is only worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind. To-morrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 11, Racine, Wis.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more excellent reputation than does this famous Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

MOTHER GETS THE MONEY.

Willed to Her Daughter and By Her to the Mother.

Toronto, May 4.—By the judgment handed down by Mr. Justice Riddel this morning, Mrs. Isabella Knox of Peterborough, receives the share in her late husband's estate, willed by him to their daughter, Jessie May Knox, since deceased and willed in turn by her to her mother. The widow is co-executrix with David Knox, who disputed the daughter's right to will her share to the mother until she had attained her 25th year. His lordship held that while the daughter would not under the father's will enter into possession of her share until reaching her 25th year, she had power to dispose of it in her will.

PULPITS IN ARMS AGAINST FIGHT

CLERGYMEN IN PHILADELPHIA CALL BATTLE A DISGRACE.

But Preparations for the Great Encounter are Still Going on in San Francisco.

Philadelphia, May 3.—Philadelphia Methodist ministers are endeavoring to start a nation-wide protest against the Johnson-Jeffries fight in California on July 4th. At the weekly meeting of the Methodist Preachers' Association, a resolution was adopted which says:

"Resolved, that the permission of this fight can be regarded as nothing less than a national disgrace and calamity to the moral life of our people, that the Philadelphia preachers' meeting protest against the permission of this fight, and that we invite the ministers of all denominations in the State of Pennsylvania and in other States to stir up their people and unite with us in a protest to the Governor of California against the permission to conduct this fight."

PRESBYTERIANS UP IN ARMS.

San Francisco, May 3.—The San Francisco Church Federation has decided to enter the campaign against the Jeffries-Johnson fight. It was announced that if the city matter was in proper shape it would be laid before Attorney General Webb and Governor Gillette with a request for official action to prevent the encounter.

The Presbyterian Ministers' Union also expressed its disapproval of prize fights. A committee was appointed to draft a communication to Governor Gillette protesting against the big fight.

ARRANGEMENTS GOING ON.

San Francisco, May 3.—Preliminary arrangements for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, prescribed by the articles of agreement, are being rapidly disposed of, and unless the anti-prize fight movement, accelerated by the Tommy McCarthy ring fatality, assumed proportions alarming to the promoters of the big contest no hitch is anticipated.

This was a busy day for Promoters Rickard and Gleason, and for the managers of both fighters, the business on hand being the depositing of $30,000, the second installment of the fight forfeit and a conference relative to the selection of a referee.

But for the absence of bank officials from the city, the promoters, it was said, would have attended to vaults pending the formal transfer the forfeit matter yesterday. The gold coin was put in the bank today. It was planned to record the transfer by photographs of the gold, the pictures to be preserved as souvenirs.

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp. Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer.
Leadville, Colorado, January 15 1910.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I would soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first glimpse of health. From the very first I could see they were different from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I felt much better, the sluggish action gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned and sleep remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

BY-LAW NUMBER 1491

A By-Law to Fix the Assessment of the William Hamilton Company, Limited

Passed the 6th day of December, 1909.

Whereas The William Hamilton Company, Limited, has represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough that the business of the said Company as manufacturers of engines, boilers, mill machinery, etc., has been carried on in Peterborough by the said Company and its predecessors for many years, and during that time the owners of the said business have received no advantages from the Municipality, by-way of reduced taxes or bonus, and that the said Company is the only manufacturing concern in the said City in its own particular line, and has to compete with manufacturers in other places, who have received and are now enjoying Municipal assistance by way of exemption from taxes or fixed assessment and other advantages, making it difficult for the said Company to meet such competition, and has applied to the said Council for a fixed assessment on the real estate and plant of the said Company in the City of Peterborough, and the said Council has agreed thereto, and to pass a by-law for that purpose subject to the confirmation thereof by the Legislature.

The Corporation of the City of Peterborough by the Council, thereof, therefore enacts as follows:

1. This By-law shall take effect upon and only upon the confirmation thereof by the Legislature of the Province of Ontario and upon the William Hamilton Company, Limited, agreeing not to oppose the construction of any sewers or sidewalks as local improvements abutting or fronting on the property in section 2 hereof mentioned or any part thereof, that the said Council may desire to construct under the provisions of The Municipal Act relating to local improvements.

2. The assessment of the following lands in the City of Peterborough owned, occupied and used by the said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, and being:

First—That part of Lot Number Sixteen, south of Murray Street and west of George Street more particularly described as follows: Commencing at the north-east angle of said lot—thence westerly along the northern limit of said lot one hundred and eight feet and eight inches — thence southerly at right angles to the said northern limit forty-six feet and six inches—thence easterly parallel to the northern limit of said lot one hundred and eight feet and eight inches more or less to the eastern limit of said lot—thence northerly along said eastern limit forty-six feet and six inches more or less to the place of beginning.

Secondly—That part of lot number thirteen north of Murray Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point in the eastern limit of said lot where the south side of the creek intersects the same—thence northerly along the said eastern limit fifty-five feet more or less to north side of said creek—thence westerly along said creek to Rubidge Street—thence southerly along Rubidge Street ninety-three feet more or less to the south side of said creek and thence easterly along said creek to the place of beginning.

Thirdly—All that part of lot number fourteen north of Murray Street and west of George Street lying south of a line drawn from west to east, twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of the Midland Railway Track.

Fifthly—All that part of lot number fifteen, south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, lying south of a line drawn from west to east twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of the Midland Railway Track.

Seventhly—All those parts of lots numbers sixteen and seventeen, south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, lying south of a line drawn from east to west, twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of Midland railway track.

Eighthly—That part of lot number eighteen, north of Murray Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point on the west side of Downie Street where the south side of the creek intersects the same—thence westerly along said creek to the western limit of said lot—thence northerly along said western limit, forty-seven feet more or less to the northern limit of said lot—thence easterly along said northern limit of said lot to Downie Street and thence southerly along Downie Street, one hundred and fifty-three feet more or less to the place of beginning.

Ninthly—that part of lot number eighteen south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point in the western limit of said lot, one hundred and thirty-two feet distant southerly from Mc Donnel Street — thence southerly along said western limit, sixty-eight feet more or less to the southern limit of said lot—thence easterly along said southern limit to Downie Street—thence northerly along said Downie Street, sixty eight feet more or less to a point one hundred and thirty-two feet from McDonnel Street, and thence westerly parallel with the southern limit of said lot to the place of beginning, together with an allowance for road nine feet wide, more particularly described in Registered Instrument Number 1737 for the Town of Peterborough. And that part of Downie Street extending from Murray Street northward to the line of the Grand Trunk Railway and the north forty-six feet of Murray between Reid Street and Downie Street, while used exclusively for manufacturing purposes, or the part so used for manufacturing purposes, and the buildings, plant, machinery and fixtures thereon, and the business assessment thereof on which taxes are to be levied, shall be fixed and remain fixed while the same are so used and while at least an average of seventy-five hands are employed therein for at least ten months of each year, at the sum of $10,000 for a period of ten years from the first day of January, 1910, and the return and oath of the assessor of assessors in respect thereof, shall be amended accordingly, but the same shall for school purposes be and remain liable to assessment and the payment of school taxes and rates to as full an extent, as if this by-law had not been passed and the assessment for school purposes and the school rates and taxes shall be made, levied and collected thereon in accordance with the provisions of the general law in that behalf and the said lands shall also be liable for all frontage and local improvement assessment, rates and taxes that are now or may hereafter be charged against the same, and any dwellings erected on the said lands and the land appurtenant to any said dwellings shall not be included in the fixed assessment hereunder, but such dwellings and land while used as such, shall be assessed as provided by the Assessment Act then in force; provided however that if the said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, shall at any time within the said term of ten years fail or neglect to operate and carry on the said manufacturing establishment, and therein to employ at least an average of seventy-five hands during at least ten months in each year, then such fixed assessment shall cease, and the taxes and rates of the said lands, buildings, plant, machinery and fixtures and on the business assessment thereof shall be and become payable to the same amount and in the same manner as if this By-law had not been passed; provided always that if the failure to carry on the said business is due to strikes or destruction of the buildings, plant, machinery or fixtures by fire or tempest the time during which the said business shall so cease to be carried on in consequence of such strikes or destruction of the buildings, plant, machinery or fixtures (not exceeding in either case one year) shall not be taken as a failure or neglect to carry on the said business, so as to disentitle the said Company to such fixed assessment.

3. The said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, shall, prior to the first day of March in each year, file with the City Clerk, a statutory declaration, made by an officer of the Company, who shall therein state his knowledge of the facts, proving that the said Company has complied with and is observing all the terms, conditions and provisions of this By-law, and on neglect of the said Company to furnish such declaration it shall be prima facie taken that such terms, conditions and provisions have not been performed, observed and kept, and the said fixed assessment shall cease, and the taxes and rates shall be and become payable to the same amount and in the same manner as if this By-law had not been passed.

H. RUSH,
Mayor.
S. R. ARMSTRONG,

"You have Asbestos enough on these properties to keep your mills running at an enormous profit for ears and years" says

C. H. PARKER, Esq., of Thetford Mines, About the Asbestos Mines of

THE INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MILLS AND POWER COMPANY

C. H. Parker, Esq., is known to every Canadian interested in Asbestos. He was superintendent of the Johnson Mine at Thetford Mines, Que.,—one of the best producers of high-grade Asbestos in the Province—and knows the practical side of asbestos mining "from the ground down."

Mr. Parker was invited to visit the famous Asbestos Mines near Casper, Wyoming. This is his opinion of the property owned and controlled by the "International."

March 14th, 1910.

Gentlemen,—I have examined the asbestos mines owned and controlled by your Company situated near Casper, Wyoming.

I find that you have surprisingly rich mines and practically unlimited quantities of asbestos in your pits and many tons on the dumps mined and ready for the mills.

The quality is of the best and the percentage of fibre in the rock IS GREATER than in any of the mines which I have examined in Canada. You have Asbestos enough on these properties to keep your mills running at an enormous profit for years and years to come. As to mining and milling, I can see no reason why it cannot be done here equally as cheaply, and in some respects, more cheaply, than in Canada.

The list of machinery necessary to complete the mills will be ready, with specifications, in a few days, and I see no reason why you cannot BE PRODUCING COMMERCIAL ADBESTOS AT A GOOD PROFIT WITHIN NINETY DAYS after the absence of snow will permit operations at the mines.

Practically all the machinery necessary can be purchased in Denver, and I will proceed to placing the orders as soon as the blue prints are out, if desired.

H. Leslie Parker, of Thetford, Canada, will come to the mines and take charge of the mining and grading of the crude fibre which you wish to ship as soon as possible to fill your orders. He is well qualified to take full charge of the mines and mills as he has been raised in the Canadian asbestos fields and has always worked in the mines.

C. H. PARKER, M. E. & H. E.,
Thetford, Canada.

The INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MILLS & POWER CO. own outright 350 acres of Asbestos property, and also have leasing arrangements on two other properties of 460 and 1,000 acres respectively—thus, giving them ONE THOUSAND, EIGHT HUNDRED AND ELEVEN ACRES of what Mr. Parker says are "SURPRISINGLY RICH MINES."

The Company has already ordered the machinery recommended by Mr. Parker, as shown by this letter:

COLORADO IRON WORKS COMPANY,
Smelting Equipment, Milling Machinery,
Denver, Colorado, April 5, 1910.

International Asbestos Mills & Power Co.,
222 Boston Building, City.

Gentlemen:

In accordance with your instructions, we have accepted an order from Mr. C. H. Parker, for the fiberizing machinery for your asbestos mills. Same will be completed at the earliest possible moment. Yours very truly,

Colorado Iron Works Company, by Cady.

In order to raise immediate funds for milling machinery and rapid development work, a small block of stock in this company will be sold for only 10c. a share cash—par value $1, and non-assessable. Nothing is guaranteed—or even promised. But when it is remembered that No. 1 crude Asbestos costs only $150 a ton to mill and sells for $400 a ton—and that an expert like Mr. Parker says that the asbestos of the INTERNATIONAL ASBESTOS MINES is a very high percentage of No. 1 crude compared with most Canadian mines—this stock at 10c. a share certainly looks like an investment that will bring good returns to those who buy now.

INQUEST RESUMED ON JAS. ALFRED BAILEY

COUNTY CROWN ATTORNEY WOOD WAS PRESENT, AND A.P. POUSSETTE APPEARED FOR MR. TODD.

Suggested Sending for a Physician—Knew Body Could Not Be Buried With Only Christian Science Attendance.

The inquest held Tuesday afternoon in the township of Smith, on the little boy James A. Bailley, was resumed last night in the County Council chamber. Coroner Dr. Grey presiding. The jury, whose names were published in Wednesday's Times, paid close attention to all the evidence.

County Crown Attorney Wood was present. Mr. A. P. Poussette appeared for Mr. R. Todd.

The first witness called or rather re-called, as she gave evidence at the first meeting of the inquest, was Mrs. James Bailley, mother of the deceased. Mrs. Bailley said that on last Monday when the boy got worse she sent for Mr. Todd, the Christian Scientist. When the boy seemed worse Todd suggested sending for a physician. Coroner Gray asked, "Did you know that if the boy died without a physician in attendance, but under Christian Scientist treatment, you could not get a burial certificate. Answer, I knew, before the boy died, I could not get a certificate for burial if he died under Christian Science treatment. The witness said she had belonged to the Christian Scientists for about 15 years. Todd never felt the boy's pulse nor took his temperature. She said that Todd had treated the boy before and he had got better. She sent for Todd on Monday last because the boy seemed worse. In reply to questions put by both Crown Attorney Wood and the coroner, "How do you know that Todd was praying when he sat in the chair?" Witness hesitated a long time, and would only say, "I know." In reply to Mr. Wood's pointed question, she could not say how she knew he was praying.

When the bell on St. John's church began to toll ont the sad news that his majesty the King was dead. County Crown Attorney Wood suggested that the meeting adjourn.—Carried.

Dr. Gray told the jury that the exudate from the throat of the deceased had been sent by Drs. Greer and Eastwood to Dr. Amyott of the Provincial Government, Toronto, for analysis, and that Dr. Amyott would be present at the next meeting. The inquest was then adjourned until Friday next at 8 p.m.

THE CITY BOARD OF WORKS MET IN SESSION LAST NIGHT

Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine and Plumbing Inspector Peter Thompson, Will Each be Recommended an Increase in Salary of $100 per Year.

The City Board of Works met in business session last night. There were present; Mayor Morrow, Chairman Ald. Hicks, and Aldermen Phelan, Graham, Metheral, Gillespie.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the C.P.R. be given permission to cross Simcoe street, along the government reservation, with sidings into the Quaker Oats Company's premises, providing the city is secured a right of way to the water's edge; and that if this concession is not given the city that the city solicitor be instructed to apply to the Railway Commission for permission to cross said tracks.—Carried.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That the Railway Commission be notified that gates are necessary at the Aylmer street crossing of the C.P.R., and as the danger is caused entirely by the railway company, the city does not think that it should be called upon to contribute in any way toward the maintenance of such protection.—Carried.

Mr. Poquette asked the board to grade Patterson street, and to furnish approaches to two new houses he contemplates building.

Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That the city engineer investigate these matters and report to the board.

The Grafton Company asked permission to erect an illuminated sign outside their premises on George St. The proposed sign would be larger than the bylaw permits. The chairman was authorized, to investigate this matter, and also to report on the question of collecting fees for illuminated signs.

The chairman, Aldermen Gillespie and Metheral were appointed a committee to act in conjunction with the School Board and the 57th Regiment in the matter of beautifying and maintaining Central Park.

Ald. Phelan and Gillespie were authorised to interview Mr. Larmonth in regard to the city maintaining a foot way over the old London street bridge.

Ald. Metheral moved, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That W. G. Dixon's deposit of $10, with his estimate for street watering be forfeited, his tender not having been the lowest.—Carried.

Regarding the Misses Dickson's protest against the closing of Mill street, to facilitate expansion of the Quaker Oats Company's business, the committee were advised that Mill St. never was city property. In consequence of this the matter was left in abeyance.

Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, assistant to the city engineer, and Mr. Peter Thompson, plumbing inspector, both asked for an increase of salary.

Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That Mr. Peter Thompson be given an increase of $100 a year.—Carried.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Gillespie,—That Mr. Quartermaine be granted an increase of $100 per year.—Carried.

Mr. Patterson's request to remove two trees in front of his premises was referred to the engineer.

The matter of a septic tank in the vicinity of Harvey street, was laid over till another meeting.

PRAYERS FOR THE KING.

Impromptu Service in St. John's for Our Dead and Also Coming King.

Last night Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St. John's church, was visibly affected when the sad news of the King's death became known. At the earliest moment possible the bell of the church was tolled and kept tolling. At 9 o'clock an impromptu service was held in the church attended by about fifty people. The rector gave a short address descriptive of the sorrow of the people over this sad intelligence, and conveying a well founded hope that the new King would be of equal worth. A commendatory prayer was offered for the new King as well as for him who has gone. "Nearer my God to Thee" was sung and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Canada's Millions Mourn

HIS LATE MAJESTY, THE KING OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND AND EMPEROR OF INDIA

His Majesty, the King of Great Britain and Ireland, and Emperor of India, is dead. He succumbed to double pneumonia, at Buckingham Palace, London, England, at 11.45 yesterday morning, surrounded by all members of the Royal family.

The sad news was received in Peterborough at 8.45 last evening. The City Board of Works, then on the point of adjournment, at once arranged for the tolling of the fire bell. The bells of St. John's and St. Luke's churches also tolled in sympathetic notes. Peterborough Lodge of Free Masons was in session at the moment the regrettable news reached this city. Many members of Corinthian Lodge were present, as the officers of the latter were working the degrees. The sad news was the signal for immediate adjournment, but not until a resolution of earnest sympathy was adopted and signed by representatives of both lodges. His late Majesty the King, was the supreme head of all the Masonic bodies in the British Empire.

VISITED PETERBOROUGH.

Forty years ago, when on a tour of Canada, his late Majesty, then Prince of Wales, then a young man of some 28 or 29 years of age, visited Peterborough, and was entertained at a grand ball given in his honor in Ashburnham across the river, now known as East Peterborough.

AN INFLUENCE FOR PEACE.

The world at large will mourn the loss of his late Majesty, King Edward the Seventh, who stood for peace, first, last and always. No royal head who ever reigned was so successful in bringing together the nations of the world in harmonious relationship as was Britain's late King. He engineered an entente between Great Britain and France, whose enmity stood unbroken but for one occasion—the Crimean war—for ages. He secured an alliance with Russia, Britain's recognized natural enemy and keenest competitor in the Far East. His close relationship to Emperor William of Germany, and his natural diplomatic genius undoubtedly postponed the day when Europe's mightest naval and military powers will engage in deadly struggle for world-wide supremacy. In fact, throughout his whole life as King, he loyally fulfilled his pledge to his dying mother, Queen Victoria, of beloved memory, to exercise his royal influence to preserve the peace of the world. As King and Emperor of the magnificent Empire upon which the sun never sets, he shone resplendent as an instrument for universal weal. There is not a court in Europe in which he was not connected in blood relationship; there is hardly a state in the world upon which his magnetic influence was not exercised in the interests of the brotherhood of man. His untimely loss is deeply felt by all his loyal subjects as a personal bereavement, and his memory will ever remain green in the hearts of millions of people who have with heart and voice on all public occasions sung "Long Live the King."

The Death of His Majesty

FATAL CABLEGRAM

London, May 7.—King Edward passed away at 11.45 (5 o'clock Canadian time), surrounded by the Royal household.

London, May 6.—(Bulleting. — All members of the Royal family summained to the palace.

London, May 6.—"Well, it is all over, but I think I have done my duty."

These words fell from the lips of King Edward VII. in a conscious interval late this afternoon.

His Majesty's condition is declared critical by the attending physicians. Gloom has settled over the city and Provinces following the issuance of tonight's distressing bulletin.

London, May 6.—The following bulletin was issued at 6 p.m. at Buckingham Palace:

"The King's symptoms have become worse during the day, and his Majesty's condition at this hour is critical."

"(Sgd.) Laking, Reid, Powell, Dawson and Thomson."

London May 6.—Canada's loyal millions will learn with profound regret that King Edward's condition is far more serious than reported. The latest report is that the King is unconscious.

The Canadian Associated Press has heard that a cabinet minister expressed the fear that his Majesty may not survive the night.

The Prince of Wales has not left the palace during the day. Among the visitors at the palace this afternoon were Lords Denman, Kitchener, and Strathcona. Notwithstanding the long standing friendship between these men and the King, they were not admitted to the sick room.

London, May 6.—Canadian Associated Press has heard that one of the King's doctors, when telephoning to his private house, said the King was rapidly sinking.

While the doctors' bulletins do not admit it; it is known that they fear the King's illness will develop into pneumonia, which, at his age, 69, and in his weakened condition, might prove fatal.

STEAMER MANITA.

Has Been Thoroughly Overhauled and Made as Good as New.

Capt. S. R. Pearson, of the Otonabee Navigation Co., Ltd., has been in charge of a gang of men overhauling the steamer Manita for some weeks at the company's yards in Ashburnham. The boat has been entirely replanked and has now a practically new hull. A splendid new electric light plant is now being installed which will not only light the boat throughout but will include a powerful searchlight and will enable her to travel as well by night as by day. The searchlight will also enable passengers to enjoy the scenery at night. Capt. Pearson, a most capable officer will be in charge of the Manita during the coming season and is taking great pride in having this trim little steamer put into first-class shape. In addition to the new hull, the machinery has been completely overhauled and the boat is now being painted. The Manita will be launched on Tuesday next and will leave for the north about May 16th. She will ply between Lindsay, Sturgeon Point, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Cobocconk during the coming season.

Capt. Elliott, of Lindsay, a gentleman thoroughly acquainted with these inland waters, will be second in command. This steamer is assured of a large patronage for the summer.

TAKE OFF THE FAT WHERE IT SHOWS.

Most women suffer much humiliation because of great quantities of fat, so located that no matter how they dress, everybody sees that they are abnormal. This is the day of the slender figure, and fat women are simply not tolerated either in business or social affairs. Women may not know it, but men when they see a fat woman pass them on the street or in public places, make all manner of sympathetic remarks about her. They do not mean to be unkind or to seem unmanly, but it is natural for a man to dislike fat on a woman where fat shows the most there is where it must be removed, and as quickly as possible. This season's dresses seem to be made for the fat woman's misery and the slender woman's delight. They expose all the charms of woman and her ugliness as well. Exercise and diet will not remove fat. This has been proved. The famous Marmola prescription which has met with such phenomenal success and has so many of our society women as its sponsors, is now being sold in tablet form to meet the demand of the public for this style of treatment. These little tablets go into your system just like food. They stop the stomach and digestive apparatus from producing fat and reduce the fat upon the body at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are harmless and can be carried in your purse and even taken afterward, you have indulged in a hearty meal away from home. They are sold at all drug stores at 75 cents a case, or if you prefer you may write the Marmola Company, 1192 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

THE WEATHER.

Fine and moderately warm.

$70,000 Fire in the Village of Norwood

In the early hours of yesterday the fire fiend ran rampant in the busy little village of Norwood. The business portion of the village was burnt to the tune of some $70,000. The fire broke out about midnight in the rear of the stores on the west of Colborne street, and spread rapidly down Colborne and Peterborough streets, wiping out the Reynolds block, the King hotel, the Hatton & Wood property, occupied by Mr. J. L. Squire and Mr. Fred Anderson, and the dwelling house of Mrs. S. Elliott. The cause is unknown.

The Pearce, Ackerman, Williams, and Union Bank blocks were saved with difficulty, as well as the livery barns adjoining Spring street.

The Misses H. and E. Farrell, who live in the second story of the Reynolds block, narrowly escaped being burned to death.

All telegraph and telephone communication was cut off except by telegraph at the C.P.R. station. The Presbyterian church caught fire but was saved. Much damage was done to plate glass in stores across the street from the burned buildings. It is estimated that the various losses were about sixty per cent. covered by insurance.

And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

A TERRIBLE SEISMIC UPHEAVAL KILLS MANY IN COSTA RICA

San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, May 6.—A large part of Cartago, Costa Rica, was destroyed Wednesday night by a powerful seismis movement. Details are very meagre as the telegraph wires have been levelled between San Jose and Cartago. The operators at the latter place were killed.

It is known that at least 500 persons are dead and many hundreds injured. Scores of buildings were thrown down, among them the Palace of Justice, erected by Andrew Carnegie. The wife and child of Dr. Bocazegra, the Guatemalan magistrate to the Central American Arbitration Court, have been killed. Panic reigns, as the earthquake continues.

San Jose has also been shaken, some of the buildings being damaged, but no deaths are reported in that city. Some were slightly injured.

Earth shocks were also felt at several points in Nicaragua near the Costa Rican frontier. Reports reaching here state that there is much suffering and destitution at Cartago consequent upon the disaster.

Cartago is one of the most ancient cities in America. It was founded by the Spaniards in 1522 on a plain southeast of the active volcano Irazu, and was at one time a place of considerable importance. In 1823 it had about 30,000 inhabitants, and until 1841, when it was all but destroyed by an earthquake, it was the capital of the province. In 1903 its population was 4,300.

BADLY BITTEN BY DOG.

Norman Seymour Attacked by Ex-Ald. Johnston's Collie Dog.

Last night about eight o'clock a marked proof that Peterborough has too many dogs was given when little five-year-old Norman Seymour, brother of Mr. Charles Seymour of the C. L. & P. Co., came nearly having his eye torn out on his own doorstep by ex-Ald. Johnston's collie dog. It seems that the little fellow was playing about his own doorstep at 943 Aylmer street, when, it is alleged, without provocation this collie sprang at him and clinched its canine teeth together through the boy's cheek just below the eye. Medical aid was summoned and it is hoped that the boy will recover soon from the attack. He came very near losing his sight.

HORSE DISTEMPER.

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares Nerviline is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline. Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P.E.I. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat a welled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I NERVILINE tried different remedies, but was unable CURES to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering QUICKLY till I started to use Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in cows and horses, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 25c., five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE NEW IMMIGRANTS.

The problem of turning half a million new people every year into thorough Canadians is not one to be easily solved. Those who came from the United States with the intention of making this country their permanent home may be trusted to adapt themselves as speedily as possible to their new sociological and institutional environment in their own and their children's interests. They will have to bear their full share of the cost of administering the public service, and they will lose no time in fitting themselves by naturalization for exercising their full share of control over public affairs, both municipal and Provincial. Those who come from Great Britain do not as a rule need naturalization, and they can at once lawfully participate in the work of governing the country. The greatest difficulty always has been and always will be how to Canadianize the European foreigner.

The most potent means of effecting the assimilation of foreigners is the general use of the English language, and to do the people from Europe justice they are eager to learn it for the practical purposes of every day life. The children learn it from their fellow pupils and their teachers at school, and the parents learn it from the children at home. Those who use the same language at play and at work leave themselves exposed to a great many influences that operate imperceptibly to instill into them the same aspirations and develop in them the same ideals. In order to know about the country they like in they must learn to read about it, and this they do with unusual rapidity.

The public school education, even when it is not by any means perfect, is useful as a culture medium for the development of the foreigner's general intelligence. It makes his new environment more interesting to him and gives him something to think and talk about. If Canadian history were always wisely taught him by the inductive and topical methods he would gradually form fairly correct conceptions of the extent of the Dominion, of its varied productions, of its transportation systems, of the racial elements of its population, and of its political and social institutions.

The churches are doing much to effect the Canadianization of the immigrant population of the West, and they will yet do more. As settlements formerly new grow old they become after a time self-sustaining and ultimately able to help those that are now the new ones. Much has been accomplished in this way, but for a long time the bulk of the cost of maintaining missions must continue to rest on the people of the eastern Provinces. There can be no doubt about the civilizing influence of these centres of religious energy. On the whole there is no justification for a pessimistic view of the situation, but it does not follow that there should be any relaxation of the precautions against the influx of "undesirable" immigrants.

Prompt relief in all cases of throat and lung trouble if you use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pleasant to take, soothing and healing in effect. Sold by all dealers.

To Jessica, standing with hands clasped, the music seemed the agony of remorse for a past fall, the cry of a forlorn soul, knowing itself cast out, appealing to its good angel for pity and pardon. Hugh had often played to her, lightly, carelessly, as he did all things. She had deemed it only one of his many clever, amateurish accomplishments. Now it struck her with a pang that there had been in him a deeper side that she had not guessed. Since her wedding day she had thought of her marriage as a loathed bond, from which his false pretense had absolved her. Now a doubt of her own position assailed her. Had loneliness and outlawry driven him into the career that had made him shunned even in this rough town, a course which she, had she been faithful to her vow "for better, for worse," might have turned to his redemption? God forgave, but she had not forgiven. Smarting tears scorched her eyelids.

For Harry Sanderson the music was the imprisoned memory, crying out strongly in the first tongue it had found. The slumbering qualities that had stirred uneasily at sight of the face on the balcony awoke. Who he was and had been he knew no more than before, but the new writhing self-consciousness, starting from its sleep with almost a sense of shock, became conscious of the gaping crowd, the dusty street, the red sunset and of himself at the end of a vulgar brawl, sawing a violin in silly braggadocio in a hotel doorway.

The music faltered and broke off. The bow dropped at his feet. He picked it up fumblingly and turned back into the office as a man entered from a rear door. The newcomer was Michael Halloran, the hotel's proprietor, short, thickset and surly. Asleep in his room, he had neither seen the fracas nor heard the playing. He saw instantly, however, that something unusual was forward and, blinking on the threshold, caught sight of the man who was handing the violin back to its owner. He clinched his fist, with a scowl, and started toward him.

His wife caught his arm.

"Oh, Michael, Michael!" she cried. "Say nothing, lad! Ye should have heard him play!"

"Play!" he exclaimed. "Let him go fiddle to his side partner, Prendergast, and the other riffraff he's run with the year past!" He turned blackly to Harry. "Take yourself from this house, Hugh Stires!" he said. "Whether all's true that's said of you I don't say, but you'll not come here!"

Harry had turned very white. With the spoken name—a name how familiar!—his eyes had fallen to the ring on his finger—the ring with the initials H. S. A sudden comprehension had darted to his mind. A score of circumstances that had seemed odd stood out now in baleful light. The looks of dislike in the barroom, the attitude of the street, this angry diatribe, all smacked of acquaintance, and not alone acquaintance, but obloquy. His name was Hugh Stires! He belonged to this very town! And he was a man hated, despised, forbidden entrance to an uncouth hostelry, an unwelcome visitant even in a barroom. He turned to Felder and said in a low voice to him, not to the hotel keeper or to the room ful:

"When I entered this town today I did not know my name or that I had ever set foot in it before. I was struck by a train a month ago and remember nothing beyond that time. It seems that the town knows me better than I know myself."

He turned quietly and walked out of the door. Pavement and street were a hubbub of excited talk. The groups parted as he came out, and he passed between them with eyes straight before him.

As he turned down the street a fragment of quartz thrown with deliberate and venomous aim flew from the saloon doorway. It grazed his head, knocking off his hat.

Tom Felder had seen the flying missile, and his leaped to the center of the street with rage in his heart. "If I find out who threw that," he said, "I'll send him up for it, so help me God!"

Harry stooped and picked up his hat and as he put it on again turned a moment toward the crowd. Then he walked on down the middle of the street, his eyes glaring, his face white, into the dusky blue of the falling twilight.

Chapter 14

THE scene in the hotel office had left Jessica in a state of mental distraction in which reason was in abeyance. In the confusion she had slipped into the little sitting room unnoticed, feeling a sense almost of physical sickness, to sit in the half light, listening to the diminishing echoes of the spilling crowd. She was wind swept, storm tossed, in the grip of primal emotions. The surprise had shocked her, and the strange appeal of the violin had disturbed her equipoise.

The significant words of awakening spoken in the office had come to her distinctly. In their light she had read the piteous puzzle of that gaze that had held her motionless on the balcony. Hugh had forgotten the past—all of it, its crime, its penalty. In forgetting the past he had forgotten even her, his wife. Yet in some mysterious way her face had been familiar to him. It had touched for an instant the spring

As she sprinted through the transient twilight, past the outrage of the town and into the somber mountain slope she struck the horse sharply with her crop. He who had entrapped her, who had married her under the shadow of a criminal act, who had broken her future with his, when his whole bright life had crashed down in black ruin—could such a one look as he had looked at her? Could he make such music that had wrung her heart?

All at once the horse shied violently, almost unseating her. A man was lying by the side of the road, and muttering to himself. She forced the unwilling animal closer and, leaping from the saddle, ran to him.

Cart Wheels.

One would doubtless rather have money in the form of silver dollars than have no money at all. But why should anyone have to choose? Summer is approaching; would Mr. Fielding really enjoy carrying half a pound or so of metal in his pocket for hours and hours on a hote day. Surely we can do something better when we are beginning to mint our own coins that imitate the mistakes that have been made in other countries. A dollar coin would be convenient enough if it were no heavier than a twenty-five cent piece. Perhaps it could be tolerated if it were as big as a half dollar, but that is surely the limit of reasonable weight in a coin.

OUR FOREST PRODUCTS.

The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has just issued its eighth bulletin, entitled "Forest Products of Canada, 1908." This gives the result of the first year's work by the branch in the collection of statistics regarding the annual production in Canada of lumber, pulpwood, poles and other wood products. The figures have been compiled by Messrs. H. R. MacMillan and G. A. Cutches.

These statistics have been compiled from answers to circulars sent out by the branch to manufacturers in the different wood-working industries. While it is not claimed that they are complete, yet the figures they give seem to be the most comprehensive yet published.

The work was new, both to the manufacturers and to the officials of the forestry branch, and mistakes have no doubt occurred in it. The work is to be continued, however, and increasing familiarity with the work—both on the part of the manufacturers and that of the branch will doubtless bring about greater accuracy and completeness in the returns.

The total value of the production of lumber, lath, shingles, cross ties, poles and pulpwood during the year was $67,425,044.

National Mining & Tunnel Company

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp. Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer,
Leadville, Colorado, January 15, 1909.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

The LIME JUICE CLUB

A Long Way After the Lime Kiln Club

Bro. Cripps Mulcahey has been alluded to in the proceedings of the Club as an individual of severest countenance and sweetest repose. Having to go to Roebuck's grocery for a bottle of horse-radish and to Bro. Mason's for a quart of beans, he decided not to return home previous to putting in an appearance at the lodge. As a consequence he was on hand half an hour ahead of the usual time, and was left in charge of the hall while the janitor prospected up the alley to see if any of the store clerks had been reckless enough to leave a dry-goods box out in the cold. Bro. Mulcahey filled his pipe and had a smoke and in a moment of emotional insanity he dropped the red-hot slag into his coat-tail pocket. Combustion and ignition followed and when the janitor returned the unfortunate member was skipping over stools and benches like a boy getting away from a delegation of hornets. There was a strong smell of smoke and fire, but Brother Mulcahey had no time to relate particulars. He sat down in the water-pail, but it was waterless. He rolled over and over on the floor, but the smell grew stronger. It was not until Bro. Anvil McCann, of Douro, Jackpine Bryce, Keene, Guinea Cunningham and half a dozen other members had come and chased the excited and suffering member into a corner and collared him that it was discovered that he was on fire.

When Bro. Mulcahey started for home he was a saddler man. He had an old coffee sack thrown carelessly over his back to give him the appearance of a Roman brigand. The incident was duly announced by the President as he came in, and when the meeting opened the old man said:

"Let this lesson sink deep into your heart. Do not cultivate sarcenseos. Sereneness will wade through a mudhole all the year round when half an hour's work will bridge it. Do not be tranquil. The tranquil man is either a great villain or too lazy to keep up with the procession. Avoid absent-mindedness. It may do in a great man, but when it comes down to poor folks like us, one case of absent-mindedness will knock our credit at the grocer's or butcher's higher than a kite. (Wild cheers by mistake from Bro. Mervin, who was promptly fined $400 and costs.) Avoid sweet repose. The man who can shut out this busy world and the sound of its machinery at the early hour of seven o'clock in the evening, can't have any money lent out on a chattel mortgage, and has no axe lying around the wood pile for any one to steal. Lastly, the world never has any pity on the man who burns off his own coat-tails. Let us now proceed to business."

A PIER GLASS.

Smokestack Young, had been looked upon as a deep thinker and a wise philosopher. Great was the astonishment, therefore, when he slowly arose and offered a resolution to the effect that the sum of $25 be voted from the treasury for the purpose of purchasing a pier glass for the ante-room in the Hall of Wisdom. The motion was not supported, and the silence for the next sixty seconds was so deep that the cracking of Bro Dividam Slab's toe joints sounded like the explosion of distant musketry. The President looked down on Bro. Young in a cold-blooded way, and finally replied:

"Bro. Young that motion is only 16 degrees of longitude out of order, but it betrays a reckless disregard of the eternal fitness of things that almost paralyzes me. When this great club imagines that it has become so pretty, the various members so fitted up with vanity that the business of the Dominion of Canada must go to pot while we grin at ourselves in a looking glass, it will be time for us to disband. You have evidently become soft on the top of your head. But for believing this to be the case, I would fine you as high as $28,000 and costs. Sit right down, Brother Young, and the less you say between now and the New Year, the better it will be for you."

ARE WE DEGENERATING?

Bro. John Mervin, turned over a letter to the club which had been written to him from the Natural History Department at Ottawa, asking if it was the opinion of the Great Lime Juice Club that the human race was gradually but surely improving. As for himself, he thought he could see a great improvement even in the last year. Last year all his neighbors dumped their ashes, garbage and dead cats in his back yard without the slightest thought of his feelings or rights. This year he had even left his clothes line out two dark nights in succession and found it was there in the morning.

Sir Isaac Walpole could see more improvements. He thought the average mind was dipping deeper into the sciences. He had been asked during the week how the moon influenced the tides and what caused earthquakes.

Bro. Givendam Slabs was also glad to bear testimony. He knew a man who used to pass nearly all his time learning a pup dog to jump over a broom-stick and stand on his head. That same man sat down on a wash-tub in the back yard one day and invented a stove-handle which could also be used as a glass-cutter, paper-knife, potatoe-masher, rolling pin, tack-hammer, can-opener, bowie knife and cork-screw.

Bro. Anvil McCann didn't want to take up the valuable time of the meeting, but desired to add his testimony as well. The improvement most noticeable to him was in social etiquette. A year or two ago, if he lifted his hat to a woman looking out of a third-storey window, she seemed to regard him as some dime museum freak, and look around for a cabbage head to heave at him. If he made a call at a friend's house, from three to five dogs would rush at his legs, and the lady of the house would ask him to sit down in the kitchen the same so that she could wash and talk at the same time. There was a great change in all except the dogs, and he wanted to express his deep gratification that such was the fact.

"Well, the secretary will answer that we can see an improvement," remarked the President. "It may not be a great big one, but there is plenty of time left, and no occasion to make haste."

MORE HONORS.

A letter was read from Bro. Hilarious Jones, of Bobcaygeon, stating that the new scow which one of the large vessel owners of that burg is proposing to build, is to be called "Dick McBride," in honor of the President of the Lime Juice Club.

The Secretary was instructed to return the thanks of the Club in carmine ink, and to forward by the same mail a horse chestnut which the President had carried in his pocket for 16 years for luck.

"Gentlemen," said the President, as he picked up a bundle of letters marked Important, "I have often asked during the past years if members of this club who are laid up with a sore heel are entitled to the benefits of relief fund. I have never till to-day been quite satisfied on this point, but now I am about to decide it. If a man falls sick, that's sickness and he can't help it. If he breaks his leg that accident is sent by Providence. If he gets hit on the head by an icicle, that's luck. But the man who deliberately sits down and lets a sore heel fasten its jaw upon him is either too lazy to breathe or too smart to belong to this club. I therefore desire right here that any and all claims for sore heel relief filed with the secretary will be used to kindle the fire."

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS.

"Before we disclose this meeting I feel it my duty to make a few remarks," said the President as he rubbed a cramp out of his left leg. "When you come to size mankind up in all the details, the result is something to make you feel miserable.

"In my time I knew a poet whose verses brought tears to my eyes and made my heart buldge out, and yet that poet left snow on the sidewalk for the public to wade through, and he sat cross-legged in a crowded street car and spit tobacco all over the floor.

"I have known a philanthropist to send off his check to an orphan asylum, and send coal and flour to deserving but destitute families, and on that same day he would give his hired man a twenty cent piece for a quarter, and charge the hired girl for breaking a tea cup.

"I have known a statesman whose influence could make or unmake a party—whose speeches were read and re-read—whose dignity in public was that of an iceberg—I have known such a man to climb up the alley fence and wrangle with an ash peddler who had taken two bushels and a half of ashes and wanted to pay for only two bushels.

"I have read the writings of an author who seemed to feel a sympathy for the whole world, and yet I saw that same person threaten the arrest of a five-year-old boy on the street who asked him for alms.

"I have read the writings of a man who claimed to sit on the high pedestal of complacency and look down upon the turmoils of the world without a shade of annoyance. I have met that same person in the alleys at night with a lighted candle in hand to look for a five-cent piece which his child lost, and the way he took on about that trifle was enough to burst the boiler of a twenty horse power engine.

"We are all hypocrites. We are two sided. We have got one face for the public and one for private life. To sum us all up and boil us all down, we are all poor creatures and a mighty long way off from anything like perfection. Pile Driver Riley will now unbar the door and the meeting will fall asunder for one week."

INS AND OUTS.

A reporter on one of our evening contemporaries says that he wrote his best articles on an empty stomach. Evidently a tatto artist.

The city by-law prohibiting dogs running at large is not a howling success.

Some time ago it was said that the city police force was likely to undergo a rigid investigation. But rumor did not say whether it would be by searchlight or dark lantern.

A well known business man, who is a liberal advertiser, remarked to The Times that advertising costs money. Of course it does, but it is cheaper than going out of business.

His Honor, Police Magistrate Dumble, generally gives those that come before him, some good advice before letting them loose. He told a drunk the other day when he had enough to take sarsaparilla. This advice is all right, but the trouble is, when a man of that kind has enough he couldn't say sarsaparilla.

It was remarked to The Times the other day that some of our aldermen are growing very stout. No wonder when they swallowed the Canadian General's proposition.

A cashier in a Montreal bank recently handed out a $1000 bill in mistake for a $10 bill. These bills of larger denomination should be made distinctly different from smaller ones. This great family journal has warned its cashier to exercise this greatest care in taking in and paying out $1,000 bills. It is always best to be on the safe side.

A $250 Blaze Yesterday.

A minor fire broke out at two o'clock yesterday morning when the roof of a frame house at the corner of Chamberlain and Park streets, was destroyed. The house was occupied by Mrs. Hartley. The house is a frame building and the roof was entirely burned. The loss was estimated as about $250. The brigade worked a couple of hours on the blaze. The family was fast asleep at the time the fire broke out. A C.P.R. freight, with Engineer Wanless in charge, was passing at the time and the whistle was blown repeatedly. This failing to arouse the family he went over and woke them up.

Disease of The Kidneys Brought on By Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Made a Well Man of Me.

I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

Mr. George King, 403 St. Denis Ste-Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were told would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."

MR. GEORGE KING

CATARRH of the kidneys is a very much neglected disease.

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of heatitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognize the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

INTERNAL CATARRH DISCHARGES THE KIDNEYS.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

Moreover, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the catarrh and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials in our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1118 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member L.O.O.F. and National Annuity Association, writes:

"I am a well man to-day, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

NEW MONARCH PROCLAIMED UNDER TITLE OF KING GEORGE V

THE NEW KING WAS NERVOUS AND HIS GRIEF EVIDENT

Nearly Broke Down During the Ceremony When He was Proclaimed King—Proclamation Not Sent Out

London, May 7.—With his voice choking with emotion and his cheeks wet with tears, King George the Fifth took the oath as the reigning monarch in succession to the late King Edward at 4 o'clock this afternoon at St. James' Palace.

The scene presented a strange anomaly, unprecedented in its brilliance and only equalled in the grief that possessed those who witnessed the exercises by a similar occasion nine years ago, when the dead King succeeded his mother, Queen Victoria.

The King, in his speech of acceptance if such it might be called, made touching allusions to the father of which he had just been bereft and to the trying circumstances under which he was called to the throne.

The King's Voice Failed Him

He was very nervous and his voice failed him several times and tears streamed from his eyes. Once it seemed he would break down, but by a great effort he finished his faltering address. The spectators wept from grief, furnishing a strange contrast to the cheers that greeted the king as he rode to and from the palace.

The ceremony of swearing in the new King was begun by the firing of the royal salute of 101 guns which was just concluded as the king finished his speech.

The Administering of the Oath

The administering of the oath and the speech of the King were to have been followed by the reading of the royal proclamation from the quadrangle of the palace, the proclamation having been prepared by the Privy Council. Owing to the lateness of the hour, however, the proclamation was postponed until Monday morning at nine o'clock. This proclamation reads as follows:

"Whereas it has pleased Almighty God to call in His mercy our late sovereign King Edward, of blessed and glorious memory, from whose decease the Imperial Crown of Great Britain and Ireland solely and rightfully comes to the high and mighty Prince George.

"We, therefore, as Lords of the spiritual and temporal realm being here assisted by those members of his late Majesty's Privy Council, with members of other principal gentlemen of quality and with the Lord Mayor, aldermen and citizens of London, hereby with one voice consent and with tongue and heart publish and proclaim that the high and mighty Prince George, now by the death of our late sovereign of happy memory, becomes our rightful liege lord, George V., by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the British dominions beyond the seas, King, defender of the faith; and Emperor of India, toward whom we acknowledge our faith and constant obedience, and with all hearty and humble affection beseeching God, through whom kings and queens reign, to bless the Royal King George V., with long and happy years to reign over us.

"Given at the court of St. James, on this seventh day of May, 1910."

WILD MEN IN COMMONS.

Are Winning All Along the Line, Says Lord Curzon.

London, May 6.—Lord Curzon speaking at Reading, said there were wild men in the Commons who were winning all along the line and would exact the price of triumph to the uttermost farthing. There would be no termination of the struggle until both parties conferred. He suggested that "All England Eleven" of five Liberals and five Conservatives, the speaker presiding, to draft a new constitution satisfying the reasonable desires of the great majority of both sides.

A resolution was passed to put a permanent basis, inviting to the membership all pioneers over seas and at home, believing in Imperial solidarity in defence and commerce. PEACE EXTREMISTS.

London, May 6.—The address of Roosevelt in the Christiania theater, when receiving the Nobel peace prize of $40,000 dissatisfies the peace extremists. He said that peace was never the highest good unless as the hand-maid of righteousness, and was a very great evil if merely the mask of cowardice and sloth. Civilized communities, he said, cannot make arbitration treaties with some backward states until international police action is arranged. It was undesirable that any power really believing in peace should place itself by solitary action at the mercy of a rival without such belief, or any intention of action on its. Granted the sincerity of the great powers there should then be no insurmountable and naval expenditure would be a master stroke if those powers honestly bent on peace, would form a league of peace both to keep peace among themselves, and to prevent, forcibly if necessary others from breaking it. "Strive to bring about the same standard of law and honor among nations as among individuals he said.

MOTOR BOAT SINKS.

Local Merchant Had Sub-Marine Craft Without Knowing It.

A night or two ago, Mr. Banks, the enterprising sporting goods man launched his trim little motor boat near King street. The next day he went down prepared to take an outing when to his dismay the boat was found to be missing. After making the surrounding atmosphere resemble the sulphury air near the crater of Mount Vesuvius, thinking thieves had stolen the craft. A short time after, it is related, that a man in a punt gathering submerged drift wood, saw a large colored mass beneath the waves of the Otonabee. At first pontoons and wrecking companies were talked of. Still the boat was restored to the surface of the water without much difficulty or expense. It seems that the boat had been in cold storage during the winters and the seams had naturally opened sufficiently to admit water during the night. The motor boat is none the worse for turning temporarily into a submarine.

Impressive Ceremony at Warsaw Thursday

Thursday afternoon an interesting ceremony was performed at Warsaw when the Rev. Hugh Brown, M.A., late of Wyevale, Ontario, was inducted into the pastoral charge of the Presbyterian church of that village. The ceremony was of a very impressive character. The Rev. D.H. Curry, of Omemee, preached. The Rev. J. G. Potter of Peterborough, inducted the minister into the charge, and Rev. S. S. Burns of Lakefield, addressed the congregation. A reception to Mr. and Mrs. Brown was given by the ladies in the town hall.

DEFENDS HIS DOG.

Ex-Ald. Johnston Claims His Collie is Not Vicious.

In our issue of Saturday appeared a short article noting that little five-year-old Norman Seymour had been bitten in the cheek by ex-Ald. Johnston's collie dog. Now the information was furnished The Times by a near relative to the boy, who on Saturday night again affirmed the truth of the article.

Still there are two sides to this, as every other question. The worthy ex-alderman called at The Times office on Saturday relative to our article. He maintained stoutly that his dog is of kind disposition, and was never known to injure any one, let alone a child. He thought if it was his dog that bit the child it must have been the result of an accident in play. It is only justice to Mr. Johnston that enquiry made by a Times representative, corroborated his statement that the collie is question is of kind disposition and unlikely to inflict a wound in malice or through anger. The boy bitten was yesterday practically none the worse for his wound, except the small scar under his eye, which was missed by about an inch.

HAS SHOWN COURAGE OF A ROYAL RACE

London, May 7.—The Times, in an editorial says: "To the last he has shown the courage of his royal race. He continued to transact business almost to the end. The swiftness and wholly unexpected character of the blow will add to the pain it will bring not only to his own people, but to all who love peace throughout the world.

"The loss of such a Sovereign at the moment, when we stand committed to the gravest domestic crisis of our time, is a public calamity. We have, nevertheless, one consolation—the seriousness character and the wide personal knowledge of public business throughout the Empire of King George afford a strong hope that the ship of State will be wisely and firmly steered through all the dangers which menace it. We have lost a great constitutional King. He has left us a successor in whom we may confidently repose our trust."

"TIGE" TELLS OF THE EXPENSE.

That Would be Involved in the Enforcement of the Dog Bylaw.

Sir,—I might ask if the ratepayers of Peterborough have any idea as to what the expense will be in connection with the enforcement of Ald. Turner's now famous dog bylaw, that is if it proves to be law in the event of it being passed, which very much doubt.

It will be impossible to employ a dog catcher for less than $500 or $600 a year, and it would require $300 or $400 more for the annual remuneration of his assistant. The dog catching apparatus of a horse, wagon and catching net and the keeping of these would be economically estimated at $500 a year.

The maintenance of the dog pound would be a matter of $400 or $500 a year. Then the dogs would have to be kept in seperate pens at the pound to prevent fights. They would have to be properly cared for and fed and the unclaimed ones put out of existence in a humane way. For if the bylaw is enforced it is theintention of the dog owners to have the HumaneSociety appoint an inspector to see that the dogs are properly looked after.

A conservative estimate of the cost is from $500 to $2,000 a year. Could this money not have been spent to better advantage in making much needed improvements to the

OAK ORCHARD SOLD.

Captain S. R. Pearson Disposes of Valuable Property.

On Saturday last Captain S. R. Pearson of the Otonabee Navigation Co., Ltd., completed the sale of Oak Orchard, on Pigeon Lake, which he purchased about a year ago, making a handsome profit on the transaction. Oak Orchard consists of about 62 acres and is one of the most beautiful spots on Kawartha Lakes. It is understood that the purchasers, who are Americans propose to erect a fine summer hotel there. This is very much needed and there is no better location for a summer resort on Pigeon Lake. It is easily reached from Chemong or Bobcaygeon by boat, lying about half way between these points. Oak Orchard has been for many years a household word for a desirable summer outing place.

China Holds "World's Fair."

Shanghai, May 9.—According to a despatch from Nanking the national industrial exposition, for which preparations have been making for several years, will be formally opened there to-day. Twenty-two of the Chinese provinces have exhibits at the exposition, while a number of American, English, German and Japanese firms are also represented. The exhibition grounds cover an area of about 150 acres. There are sixteen large exhibition palaces, the most of them in the French and English styles of architecture. Several large foreign hotels have been erected near the grounds and it is expected that many tourists will visit the exhibition during the coming summer.

Solemn Service at St. John's Yesterday

In Memory of the Late King, Edward the Peace Maker

The service at St. John's church yesterday morning was of a memorial nature, expressive of the loyal congregation's heartfelt sorrow at the loss of their beloved sovereign, King Edward the Seventh, by whose death at 11.45 Friday night, May 6th, the Anglican Church lost its late supreme temporal head.

The altar was draped in black and the pulpit with royal purple over the national flag.

The solemn service opened up with the sentence for the burial of the dead—"I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord; he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die."

Sympathetic prayers were offered for the bereaved Queen Alexandra; King George V., his consort Queen Victoria Mary Edward, Prince of Wales and all the royal family.

For the first time in St. John's church a Dowager Queen was prayed for. The Empire has had no Dowager Queen, since the death, in 1837, of William IV.

The hymn preceding the sermon was one for the burial of the dead. After the offertory the National Anthem was played, but not sung, the congregation standing in respectful silence. In place of the usual recessional hymn the dead march was appropriately rendered by Mr. Davey, and while the organ's mournful strains filled the sacred edifice the congregation remained on their feet in sympathetic attention.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour of All Saints', officiated. Rev. Canon Davidson taking the service at All Saints' church. While no memorial sermon was preached, Rev. Mr. Trumpour prefaced his address with a passing reference to the late King, Edward the Peace Maker, whose death had come with such suddenness as to render it difficult for the mourning nation at this moment, in their hearts and minds to fully understand the extent of their bereavement. He thought it would be premature on this occasion to make extended reference to the late King's life and work. While he had all the benefits of this life, he did not escape the world's heavy discipline of trials, tribulations, pain, sorrow and perplexity. But he served his day and generation well, better that is universally known, and it has been a harder task than any of his subjects can fully realize. The reverend gentleman eulogized the dead monarch's science of statesmanship and his phenomal success in the exercise of his royal diplomacy for the peace of the world. And in the face of the constitutional crisis in England today we would feel like calling him back to again load upon him the burdens of state that had unquestionably affected his health. The pictures of his late majesty, Mr. Trumpour asserted, gave no conception of his aged features and whitened hair. Let us pray that in assuming his father's mantle of responsibility King George V. may be blessed with a double measure of wisdom and worth. Let us pray for the weeping Dowager Queen, and all members of the royal family.

The memorial portions of the morning service were repeated in the evening.

MOURNED BY THE TEARS OF A WORLD—FRANCE IS IN GRIEF

CREATED DEEP EMOTION IN FRANCE

Paris, May 7.—Premier Briand and cabinet personally called upon British Ambassador Bertie early today to express their condolences, and as soon as Foreign Minister Pinchon, who is absent from the city, reaches Paris, an extraordinary mission will be appointed to attend the funeral. President Loubet, whose exchange of visits with King Edward in 1903 resulted in the Anglo-French entente, probably will head the mission.

Most of the French papers appear with black borders today, and their editorials sound a common note of grief which may be summed up in the words of the Matin, which says: "England has lost a great king, the world a great figure and France a great friend."

M. Pichon, in a telegram to Sir Edward Grey, expressing his condolences, refered feelingly to King Edward's work for peace, "to the maintenance of which both countries are laboring in common accord."

By order of the government the flags over the Elysee Palace and other public buildings are at half mast. Many houses and shops in the boulevards in the Rue De La Paix, the Place Concords and the Champs Elysees, are flying the French and British flags entwined with crepe.

The diplomatic consequences of a change of rulers are not dwelt upon promirently, but there is no doubt that there is a popular feeling of anxiety. While the present basis of peace is regarded as secure, it is realized that Edward's personal influence so powerfully exercised in all the recent crisis in the direction of his successor. The disappearance of peace can hardly be transmitted to the monarch is likely therefore to singularly modify the position of Great Britain.

Funeral May Take Place on May 21st

ARRANGEMENTS NOT YET COMPLETED—WILL BE LAID TO REST BESIDE PARENTS.

Both Houses of Parliament Assembled But Only a Score Were Present—Jewish Subjects Mourn the Death of the King.

London, May 7.—The members of the royal household this afternoon entered the death chamber to view the body of the late monarch, which remains in the bed where he died. The features bear a peaceful expression. No plans for the funeral have been announced this evening, but May 21 is the latest date suggested. The expectation of court circles is that the body will be buried at Frogmore, nearby, where were buried the bodies of his father, mother and son.

Both houses of parliament assembled this afternoon in accordance with the ancient statute providing that they shall meet on the death of a sovereign. The session of the house of commons was purely formal and lasted only a few minutes.

Neither the speaker nor the deputy chairman is now in England and Home Secretary Churchill after briefly stating that the house had been summoned in pursuance of the statute of Queen Anne, moved an adjournment, which was taken. Only a score of members were present.

In the house of lords Lord Loreburn, lord high chancellor, took the oath of allegiance to George V., and the some fifty peers who were present did likewise.

David Wolffsohn, chairman of the International Zionist Committee, who is visiting here telegraphed this message to King George on behalf of his co-religionists:

"It is with deepest regret that we learn of the passing away of King Edward. In the name of the greatest representative organization of Jewish people I beg to offer our sincere sympathy and condolence. The Jewish people never will forget that it was under the beneficent reign of your illustrous father that the offer of territory for an autonomous colony under British protection was made as an act of recognition that ever will be gratefully enshrined in the annals of our history."

A farewell salute for the late monarch of sixty-eight minute guns for each year was fired this afternoon at St. James' Park. The salute was timed as to be concluded with the close of the formalities in connection with the proclamation of the succession of King George.

The bulk of the population of the country have donned mourning garb in some form. Men who are not wholly clothed in black are wearing black mourning scarfs or black bands about their coat sleeves. The women seen are almost without exception dressed in black. Streamers of crepe hang from the whips in the hands of the cabmen. The shop fronts bear mourning shutters.

Since earliest morning a flood of messages have been pouring into the palace from the chiefs of foreign lands. One of them received by the Queen Dowager was a sympathetic telegram from Emperor William.

A special service in memory of King Edward was held at St. Pauls this afternoon, and it was almost national in character. Despite the hurried preparations the Lord Mayor of London attended in state, while all the departments of state, the navy and the army, were fully represented. High officials in all ranks of society were in the congregation. The service was that used on the occasion of Queen's Victoria's death.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will clear the sour stomach, sweeten the breath and create a healthy appetite. They promote the flow of gastric juice, thereby inducing good digestion. Sold by all dealers.

NATIONS AND RULERS UNITE IN PAYING TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF A GREAT MONARCH.

Paris Flies Crepe-entwined Flags—French Papers Appear With Black Borders and Sound a Note of Common Grief.

Paris, May 7.—Nowhere in Europe has the passing of King Edward created deeper emotion than in France, whose he was gratefully acknowledged as the principal artisan in the present diplomatic combinations for the preservation of the peace of Europe. The French government intends to express its grief in a most marked fashion.

Premier Briand and others of the cabinet personally called upon British Ambassador Bertie early today to express their condolences, and as soon as Foreign Minister Pinchon, who is absent from the city, reaches Paris, an extraordinary mission will be appointed to attend the funeral. President Loubet, whose exchange of visits with King Edward in 1903 resulted in the Anglo-French entente, probably will head the mission.

Most of the French papers appear with black borders today, and their editorials sound a common note of grief which may be summed up in the words of the Matin, which says: "England has lost a great king, the world a great figure and France a great friend."

M. Pichon, in a telegram to Sir Edward Grey, expressing his condolences, refered feelingly to King Edward's work for peace, "to the maintenance of which both countries are laboring in common accord."

Number of Dead will Reach 2,500

Port Limon, May 7.—With the arrival of new details today, the horror of the Cartago earthquake grows. With more than 600 bodies recovered from the ruins there, a conservative estimate of the number of dead in the quake soon today placed the total at more than 2,500. In the entire town of Cartago of 12,000 inhabitants, not a building is standing whole. Slight shocks today increased the terror of the inhabitants. Several parties of rescuers have been trapped or buried by falling walls since the first great shocks.

The receipt of news that the United States would send aid was greeted rejoicingly.

HOSPITALS OVERCROWDED.

San Jose is unable to care for the injured. The field hospitals thrown up on the outskirts of Cartago are overcrowded, there are not enough tents to go around.

The troops today captured five more looters and they were summarily executed.

To Be Tried for Cairo Riots.

Cairo, Ill., May 9.—Twelve persons, among them several well known business men of Cairo, are to be placed on trial this week for alleged participation in the attack on the Alexander county jail last February, during which one man in the mob was killed and several injured by the sheriff's special duties. A popular subscription has been raised in the defence. A fine of $500 and six months' imprisonment is possible in cases of conviction.

The splendid work of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is daily coming tolight. No such grand remedy for liver and bowel troubles was ever known before. Thousands bless them for curing constipation, sick headache, biliousness, jaundice and indigestion. Sold by all dealers.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH YESTERDAY

Yesterday's anniversary services at St. Andrew's were attended by large congregations. At the morning service Rev. J. G. Potter made a fitting reference to our late King and the National Anthem was sung. The Rev. T. Crawford Brown, M.A., of New St. Andrew's Toronto, preached morning afternoon and evening. This evening at eight o'clock addresses will be given by the Rev. Robert Campbell, D.D., of Montreal; Clerk of the General Assembly; the Rev D. A. McKenzie, B.A., Moderator of Presbytery; Rev. D. A. Thomson, Clerk of Presbytery, and representatives of other churches.

At all the services yesterday, Master Wilfrid Morrison, the boy soprano assisted the choir and will again sing at the public meeting in the church tonight. A special service for the aged and infirm was held at 3.30 yesterday and was much appreciated. By special request Wilfrid Morrison sang the "Holy City" at the afternoon service. The Rev. T. Crawford Brown gave a short address, "Our Perfection Through Suffering."

Tonight at the conclusion of the public meeting refreshments will be served in the lecture hall of the church and the very interesting ceremony of unveiling the portraits of the past ministers of the congregation will take place. There will be no admission fee but a free will offering will be taken at the door.

OUR FOREST PRODUCTS.

The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior has just issued its eighth bulletin, entitled "Forest Products of Canada, 1909." This gives the result of the first year's work by the branch in the collection of statistics regarding the annual production in Canada of lumber, pulpwood, poles and other wood products. The figures have been compiled by Messrs. H. R. MacMillan and G. A. Cotsbee.

These statistics have been compiled from answers to circulars sent out by the branch to manufacturers in the different wood-working industries. While it is not claimed that they are complete, yet the figures they give seem to be the most comprehensive yet published.

Mr. Cecil Arnott, who graduated from the Royal Military College, Kingston, and has received a commission as lieutenant in the Strathcona Horse, Winnipeg, leaves on Monday to commence his duties.

A TARIFF INVESTIGATION.

The Buffalo Express makes a very reasonable suggestion in connection with the proposal to spend a quarter million dollars in tariff investigation, that Congress should show intention to make use of such information when secured. It (says of the administration's plan to begin the new fiscal year with a very comprehensive inquiry into the cost of production of the leading articles of industry;

"This is a step forward but it is not enough to excuse Congress from action on information already in its possession or within the reach of every member. It will be useless to spend money in investigating what ought to be done without some guaranty that something will be done. The adoption at once of even one bill correcting some obvious injustice in the Payne-Aldrich law would show that some practical results might be expected from the proposed investigation and the public might then be content to wait."

The pulp and paper schedule is pointed out as an example of opportunity for Congress to do something. The Express truly says that "this schedule has already been thoroughly investigated all around. The paper manufacturers whom Congress thought it was protecting have been hurt even more than the consumers and the country narrowly escaped a tariff war with Canada on account of this blunder. Why wait for another investigation before correcting it? If Congress will not, even with the results of this fully before its eyes, accept the results of the investigation already made how can anyone have confidence that it will accept the result of any other investigation?"

The sugar and beef schedules are also referred to the latter especially. "We do not need to know," says the Express, "the difference between the cost of producing beef in this country and in Argentina or Australia. It is conceded on all sides that our domestic production has fallen far below the demands of the market. We need a greater supply, whether the cost of production be less or more."

In a moment she was off and beside the prostrate form, a spasm of dread clutching at her throat at sight of the merciless blaze, the chalky pallor of the brow, the fever spots in the cheeks.

A wave of pity swept over her. He was ill and alone. He could not be left there. He must have shelter. She looked fearfully about her. What could she do? In that town, whose intolerance and dislike she had seen so actively demonstrated, was there no one who would care for him? She turned her head, listening to a nearing sound—footsteps were plodding up the road. She called, and presently a pedestrian emerged from the half dark and came toward her.

"It's Shiva."

He bent over the form she showed him.

"It's Shiva," he said with a chuckle. "I heard he'd come back." The chuckle turned to a cough, and he shook his head. "This is sad! You could never believe how I have labored with the boy, but"—he turned out his palm in a "you" see there is the temptation. It is his unhappy weakness."

Jessica remembered the yellow, milky face now. She had passed him on the day Tom Felder had walked with her from the Mountain Valley House, and the lawyer had told her he lived in the cabin just below the Knob, where she so often sat. She felt a quiver of repulsion.

"He is not intoxicated," she said coldly. "He is ill. You know him, then?"

"Know him!" he echoed and laughed—a dry, cackling laugh. "I ought to. And I guess he knows me." He shook the inert arm. "Get up, Hugh!" he said. "It's Prendergast!"

There flashed through her mind the phrase of the early hotel keeper, "His old partner, Prendergast!" Could it be? Had Hugh really lived in the cabin on which she had so often peered down during those past weeks? And with this chosen crony!

She touched Prendergast's arm. "He is ill, I say," she repeated. "He must be cared for at once. Your cabin is on the hillside, isn't it?"

"His cabin," he corrected. "A rough place, but it has sheltered us both. I am but guide, philosopher and friend."

She bit her lips. "Lift him on my horse," she said. She stooped and put her hands under the twitching shoulders. "I will help you. I am quite strong."

With her aid he lifted the swaying form on to the saddle and supported it, while Jessica led the way.

"Here is the cutoff," he said presently. "Ah, you know it!" for she had turned into the side path that led along the hill, under the gray, snake-like flume—the shortest route to the grassy shelf on which the cabin stood.

The byway was steep and rugged, and rhododendron clumps caught at her ankles, and once she heard a snake slip over the dry rustle of leaves, but she went on rapidly, dragging at the bridle, turning back now and then anxiously to urge the horse to greater speed. She scarcely heard the effusively honeyed compliments which Prendergast offered to her courage.

It seemed an eternity they climbed. In reality it was scarcely twenty minutes before they reached the grassy knoll and the cabin, whose crazy swinging door stood wide to the night air. She tied the horse, went in and at Prendergast's direction found matches and lit a candle. The bare, two room interior it revealed was unkempt and disordered. Rough bunks, a table, and a couple of hewn chairs were almost its only furniture. The window was broken and the roof admitted sun and rain. Prendergast laid the man they had brought on one of the bunks and threw over him a shabby blanket.

"My dear young lady," he said, "you are a good Samaritan. How shall we thank you, my poor friend here and I?"

Jessica had taken money from her pocket, and now she held it out to him. "He must have a doctor," she said. "You must fetch one."

The yellow eyes fastened on the bill, even while his gesture protested. "You shame me!" he exclaimed. "And yet you are right. It is for him." He folded it and put it into his pocket. "As soon as I have built a fire I will go for our local medico. He will not always come at the call of the luckless miner. All are not so charitable as you."

He untied her horse and extended a hand, but she mounted without his help. "He will thank you one day, this friend of mine," he said, "far better than I can do."

"It is not at all necessary to tell him," she replied frigidly. "The sick are always to be helped in every circumstance."

She gave her horse the rein as she spoke and turned him up the steep path that climbed back of the cabin, past the Knob, and so by a narrow trail to the mountain road.

August Prendergast stood listening to the dulling hoof beats a moment, then re-entered the cabin. The man on the bunk had lifted to a sitting position. His eyes were open, dazed and staring.

"That's right," the older man said. "You're coming round. How does it feel to be back in the old shell? Can't guess how you got here, can you? You were towed on horseback, a beauty, Hughey, my boy—a rig for beauty! I'll tell you about it if you're good."

The man he addressed made no answer. His eyes were on the other, industrious and bewildered.

"I heard about the row," went on Prendergast. "They didn't think it was in you, and neither did I." He looked at him cunningly. "Neither did Morgan, eh, eh? You're a clever one, Hugh, but the lost memory racket won't stand you in anything. You hadn't any call to get scared in the first place. I don't tell all I know."

He shoved the candle nearer on the table. "There's a queer look in your face, Hugh!" he said, with a clumsy attempt at kindness. "That rock they threw must have hurt you. Feel sort of—of—sick? Never mind. I'll show you—"

Found Wife in a Barrel.

London, Ont., May 6—Mrs. Wm. J. Clarkson, of 427 Wellington St., aged 49, committed suicide this morning by diving headfirst into a rain barrel full of water. She rose earlier than her husband and daughter and called them. They did not miss her for some time and then the husband going into the yard found her feet and legs sticking out of the barrel. The husband and a policeman worked to restore life without success. Coroner McLaren decided that it was a clear case of suicide and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The family have only been out from England a few years and melancholy due to ill health is given as the reason for the woman's deed.

Miss Lilla M. Gray, Toronto, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. Howard Waram, Weller street.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" relies upon you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its well-ordered honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

CORONER WAS OF OPINION IT HAD BEEN STRANGLED TO DEATH.

Was Dead in a Valise—Young Squaw is Under Arrest, But in the Hospital.

Brantford, Ont., May 5.—Lizzie Hill, an unmarried Indian girl, aged 18 years, was detained here yesterday pending an investigation into a case of alleged infanticide, which was discovered in the afternoon at a home on Hawarden avenue, this city where the girl was engaged as a domestic.

Early Tuesday evening the girl retired to her room, complaining that she was not feeling well. In the morning, however, she resumed her household duties.

Yesterday the body of a baby girl was found hidden in an old telescope valise, which the girl brought with her. Coroner Ashton was immediately notified and Drs. Palmer and Marquis were called to perform an autopsy.

The girl when questioned admitted giving birth to the child at 9 o'clock but stated that it was dead. The results of the doctors' autopsy, however, did not confirm this story, and the girl was placed under arrest, being removed in the meantime to the hospital. A jury was empaneled, and an adjournment was made for a week. The child's neck bore marks of discoloration, and it was the opinion of the coroner that strangulation had caused its death.

The girl came into the city recently from the reserve, two miles east of Burtch's Corners.

Mr. Thomas McGeachie of the firm of Thomas McGeachie & Son, of Trenton, is in the city on business.

National Mining & Tunnel Company

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp. Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer,
Leadville, Colorado, January 15, 1909.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Every year, owing to running and cold baths in winter, I was confined to my home for a week or a month. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I read several testimonials of cures by Dr. Shoop's Varicose Vein Remedy, so I sent for a bottle. To my delight, the first application relieved the pain. One day my home called him why I was not ready to preach, and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Dr. Shoop personally, or his physicians. I went to Racine and called at Dr. Shoop's office. Within a few days the veins disappeared entirely, and I was completely cured. My progress was somewhat slow, owing to my not being able to treat myself as often as I should have done, but I was rewarded with a complete cure. I would only save $10 a week by a consultation from Dr. Shoop personally, now I am saving that and never lose a day. I take all sufferers know of your valuable treatment."

City Building to Be in Mourning.

Our loyal and city fathers decided Saturday morning to drape the city buildings in black out of respect to the memory of the late revered King Edward VII. This is a fitting tribute. The only criticism that a carping critic might make, would be that a yard and a quarter of crepe would bury the city buildings, not of course including the aldermen.

Auto Picnic at Chemong.

On Saturday afternoon the first motor picnic was held at Chemong Park. A party of young people under the chaperonage of Mrs. Arthur Meyers, Hunter street, went out by automobile, there being four motors well filled. They included the autos of Messrs. Ackerman, Stevens (2) and Eastwood. Dancing in pavilion was enjoyed as well as dainty refreshments. All present agreed in saying that a most enjoyable time was spent.

Lakefield Liquor Case Dismissed.

Judgment was given by Judge Edmison on Saturday in the case of Mr. A. E. Tanner of Lakefield, who was charged with selling liquor to Mrs. Fletcher, on the 12th of February of this year.

After some consideration Judge Edmison threw out the case. He considered the license inspector justified in sending in the complaint, when he found the woman in an intoxicated condition.

Firemen Have Needless Run.

Yesterday afternoon at two o'clock the residents at 453 Water street, were notified by the next door neighbors that their roof was in flames. The fire station was communicated with immediately and the brigade responded with their usual promptitude. However, on arrival, Chief Howard made a thorough examination of the premises and could not find even a chimney on fire. It seems that the furnace in the adjoining house, 451 Water street, had not been lighted and among the kindling were some chips of great elm wood. This caused a dense smoke and the damp heavy atmosphere prevailing caused the smoke to descend direct on the roof giving it the appearance of being on fire. Even the lane between 453 and 455 Water street was filled with this atmosphere driven smoke.

Young's Point Lacks Sidewalk.

Mr. W. F. Brooks, proprietor of the South Beach Hotel at Young's Point, was in the city on Saturday and gave The Times a call. Whilst in the city Mr. Brooks remarked that Mr. McClelland, superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, has completed the beautifying of the grounds about Young's Point. Many flowers and shrubs have been planted that will delight the vision of tourists during the coming summer. Mr. Brooks anticipates a rushing trade at South Beach as soon as the regular boat service is begun.

Small Fire on Perry Street.

On Saturday afternoon Chief Howard and his doughty men gave the fire engine its usual monthly test. The engine was found to be in perfect condition. Streams of water, under various pressures were forced through lines of hose with good results. As this test was being made at the Charlotte street bridge an alarm of fire was rung in from box No. 14 on Perry street. The engine test was at once postponed, and the brigade made quick time to Perry street. Here a chimney on fire had set the roof of a neighboring house ablaze. A stream of water was turned on the fire promptly extinguished. The damage done was comparatively trifling; still but for the prompt and intelligent work done by Chief Howard and his men a bad fire would have ensued in a very few minutes.

Canada's Production of Lumber.

The production of sawn lumber is shown by Government figures to be in the neighborhood of 3,348,176,000 feet, board measure, per annum, valued at $34,338,036. In this Ontario leads with a production of 1,294,794,000 feet, valued at $24,298,977, Quebec being second with 690,135,000 feet of the value of $10,838,606, and B. C. third, with 647,977,000 feet, worth $9,167,106. The other provinces rank in the following order: N. B., 368,400,000 feet valued at $4,061,462; N. S., 216,625,000 feet of the value of $2,973,730; Saskatchewan, 91,166,000 feet, valued at $1,576,680; Manitoba, 56,447,000 feet, value, $907,000; Alberta, 41,382,000 feet, valued at $593,244. The total production of wood pulp is 369,679 tons, made from 482,179 cords of wood and valued at $3,931,653.

A New Appointment.

J. H. Birgis, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System, Chicago, since 1897, has been selected as General Agent Passenger Department in charge of the States of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, effective May 1st. He will represent the Grand Trunk Railway System as well as the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and the new Grand Trunk Pacific steamships. Mr. Burgis entered the Grand Trunk service May 1st, 1882, and his large experience, particularly at Chicago the recognized railway center of America, not only well qualifies him for his new position, but is an indication that the Grand Trunk intend to have their interests in the Northwestern United States thoroughly protected and developed. This announcement is important in view of the early establishment of the Grand Trunk Pacific steamship service, the "Prince Rupert" being now en route from Newcastle, England, to Seattle which will be Mr. Burgis' headquarters.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Owing to the death of the King the Belmont Club dance to have been held this evening has been postponed.

The operette "Isle of Jewels," to have been held in the Conservatory Music Hall, by 150 children and principals has been postponed, owing to the death of the King.

The chancel of St. Luke's church is draped with black and purple for obvious reasons. Special sermons were preached yesterday by the rector of a patriotic nature and eulogistic of the late beloved Sovereign.

Members of Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters will attend divine services on the first Sunday in June. A committee has arrange ments in hand.

Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, have passed a resolution of regret over the death of King Edward, and will drape their charter for three months as a mark of respect.

Mrs. Rogers, president of the Peterborough Protestant Home, is authority for saying that the board of this philanthropic institution is not prepared to spend anything in addition to the $10,000 promised for a new home.

Should the most rabid anarchist have spent a few hours sin Saturday in any place where people congregate he would have been satisfied by the general tone of conversation that the Canadians, of Peterborough, at least, were deeply moved, much grieved and evidently very sad over the death of our late beloved King.

On Saturday Peterborough acknowledged its grief over the death of King Edward by flying flags at half mast in every part of the city. Among other places displaying this emblem of mourning were the post office, the customs house, fire hall, J. D. Craig's furniture store St. John's church, The Times building, Y.M.C.A., and many others.

The Salvation Army Band played the Dead March from Saul, on the streets yesterday.

His Lordship Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto, will administer the rite of confirmation at All Saints' church tonight.

Workmen were busily engaged on Saturday rebuilding the house burnt by fire last week, occupied by Mr. O'Brien, on the Monaghan Road. The rafters are largely replaced.

As a slight illustration of the far reaching credit given to Peterborough made goods, it might be noted that on Saturday morning Mr. R. M. Roy, the Hunter street photographer, received a repeat order for large photographs from a former patron. This in itself is not worth mention except that this order came from an Englishman now living permanently at the Savoy Hotel, London, England.

THE THIRD DEGREE.

Harper's Weekly, commenting on the "Third Degree," says it was once the duty of a constable who arrested a man for murder to warn him that any statement he might make could be used against him. He was then left alone with freedom to consult his counsel. All this, in the United States, is now changed. The newspapers tell from day to day how the accused has been forced to look on the body of his victim, how the head inquisitor has shaken his fist in his face and shouted at him, "You killed this man!" A group of detectives and reporters has noted the effect. From time to time it is proclaimed that the accused is breaking down, that his mind is giving way under the stress put upon him, and that the police will have his confession by morning.

During all this time the man has not been indicted; the grand jury has not examined the case; no trial has been held before judge and jury. All the safeguards which the law was supposed to provide are swept away; yet not a clause of the constitution has been altered, not a section of a statute has been repealed, no new statute has been enacted. A momentous and radical change has been effected simply by the police and the detectives taking the law into their own hands.

While these practices are permitted it is clear that the powers of legislatures and courts are seriously impaired. A law cannot be made or repealed or altered without compliance with conditions intended to secure carefulness and to prevent injustice. But when the third degree is practised, a new law is virtually made by the mere will of a policeman. A judge who presides over a trial must be a trained lawyer, and have an impartial mind and the capacity for sifting evidence. Under the third degree the place of the judge is usurped by a policeman or detective who may have no knowledge of the laws of evidence, and who is not likely to have an impartial mind. The jury in a criminal trial is carefully selected, and persons likely to be biased may be rejected. There is no such safeguard when the third degree is practised.

The constitution of the United States declares that cruel and unusual punishments should not be inflicted. If this protection is intended even to condemned persons, the use of torture for the purpose of electing confessions is surely forbidden. Yet the use of torture has been revived apparently at the mere will and pleasure of the police. It is freely stated that the persons under arrest are deprived of sleep in order to force confessions, a practice which for ingenious cruelty is hardly surpassed by the rack and the thumb-screw. President Taft and his Cabinet are mainly lawyers, and are supposed to be sticklers for legality. Here is a case where legality is in accord with common sense and humanity, and where a champion of legality could score a triumph by insisting upon the safeguards of justice.

FARMER TELLS INTERESTING STORY.

Whether Sick or Well, in Good Weather or in Stormy, He is Obliged to Work Always.

Market people complain about prices they have to pay for farm produce. They forget that rain or shine, warm or cold, the farmer must keep at it, or else the narrow profit, his bare living, will be lost to him.

A well-known Haldimand farmer, Mr. J. P. Pelletier, writes: "For nearly three years I was in poor health. A drenching storm caught me in the fields and wet me to the skin. I got home only to find I was threatened with inflammation of the bowels. I never got over it and felt weak and heavy and my system never worked quite right. But a farmer has to work—and I found myself going daiwn hill with stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Failure seemed to follow everything. I remained wretched and sick until advised to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. It is not easy to describe the sort of feeling a sick man gets when he strikes a medicine that he can see is doing him a lot of good. I was overjoyed. Hamilton's Pills put new life into me and everything worked right. Since cured with Dr. Hamilton's Pills I haven't had a single symptom of stomach, liver or kidney trouble. I am free from headaches, languor and weakness, as strong, robust as a man could be." No better medicine for general family use than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are mild, healthful and certain to cure. Sold in yellow, 25c. boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Peruna Made a Well Man of Me.

I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

Mr. George King, 433 St. Denis Street, Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to sick men. Eight bottles made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."

MR. GEORGE KING

CATARRH of the kidneys is a very much neglected disease.

So is "cold" until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognize the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and the earlier symptoms range such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systemic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the catarrh and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the many exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

Thus Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials in our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. Samuel A. Fenton, 1139 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Assembly Association, writes:

"I am a well man to-day, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleared out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

Mrs. McLaughlin Poisoned and the Children Burned

The Second Analysis by Prof. Ellis Reveals Strychnine in Considerable Quantities in Several Organs

Toronto, May 9.—The second analysis of the body of Mrs. McLaughlin, of Uxbridge, for whose murder her husband, Archibald McLaughlin, entered upon his trial at Whitby this afternoon has revealed the presence of strychnine in considerable quantities in other organs besides the stomach. This evidence, it was learned, will be presented by the Crown to checkmate the reported efforts of the defence to suggest that the poison found in the stomach on the first analysis, was placed there deliberately after the remains were removed from the burned building.

The second analysis will also establish the fact that no poison was administered to the two children, who shared the mother's fate.

The second test was made by Prof. Ellis at the instigation of the Attorney-General's department, as the result of a hint let drop by the defence during the cross-examination of the Crown officers. The stomach of Mrs. McLaughlin had been exposed to a certain extent beforebeing sent to the analysis at Toronto, and one of the questions asked by the defence was whether strychnine might not have been administered by some one while it lay thus. The Crown's move in holding a second analysis, not of the stomach, but of other organs, with which it would be impossible to tamper, establishes the fact that poison entered the body before death, and in sufficient quantities, it will be claimed, to prove fatal. The fire, says the Crown, made the death of Mrs. McLaughlin doubly certain, and also removed the two youngest children. The traces of strychnine the Crown will claim establish the desire of McLaughlin to get rid of his wife. The fact that the poison passed into the otheror. gans is a further evidence that a quantity was used.

ANNIVERSARY CEREMONIES END AT ST. PAUL'S LAST NIGHT

Last night St. Paul's church was fairly well filled by an audience, in which the fair sex predominated. The occasion was the ending of the ceremonies in connection with the celebration of the 75th anniversary of Presbyterianism in Peterborough. Among the audience was noted his Honor Judge Roger of Cobourg. Shortly after eight o'clock the 474th hymn was sung. Rev. Mr. Hughes offered a prayer. Miss Scott next rendered a vocal selection in good voice Rev. Mr. Pogue noted that there was a long list of speakers, so he would not speak himself. for long. He said that there were a number of workers in the past and remarked the loss the congregation had sustained when Judge Roger was raised to the bench. He then called on the judge, who expressed the pleasure it afforded him to be back in St. Pauls church. He was almost afraid to say how long he had been connected with that church. When he came back to Peterborough a fortnight ago he noticed the quiet and comfortable surroundings of St. Paul's. St. Paul's has had a long and strenuous career, even in his memory. His father, who came from Aberdeenshire Scotland, was the first pastor. He himself had attended the little quiet church in Scotland where his progenitors had been ministers for generations. The judge then gave a history of his relatives in Scotland. His father came to Cobourg in 1833, as a missionary and then came on to Peterborough. The speaker's father, two years after arrival went to New York to get married. The speaker then went on to speak of the seperation of the Free Church in Scotland. His father joined the Free Church. Judge Roger gave a detailed history of the Presbyterian Church in Peterborough, but especially of St. Paul's This corresponded with the history given last week in these columns. He told incidentally of the old-fashioned tea meetings held in St. Paul's Sunday school which was attended by people of other churches. His father driving home one dark night got lost in the woods and, after unhitching the horse he drove, rode it home, the horse finding the way. Where he was lost is now the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Works. He thanked Mr. Pogue and the congregation for asking him to be present.

Rev. Messrs. Yule, Wilson and McKay were called in time and gave their experience in connection with St. Paul's. Mr. Yule knew nothing of his call as assistant at St. Paul's until he got a letter to the effect from Sheriff Hall. Through shyness he thought at the time of backing out. Still he came out after living in Peterborough for the first year of his ministry and has always followed the career of St. Paul's with deep interest. He wished the congregation every prosperity in the future. He thought too many men want the benefits of the church without assuming any responsibilities. He congratulated the congregation on its progress.

Rev. Mr. Wilson noted that this was a happy occasion, still all hearts must be sad when people think of the King lying dead across the sea. He then paid a strong tribute to the dead monarch. The speaker gave a humorous account of his taking two sermons "out of his barrel of four," when he first came to preach in Peterborough, whilst a student. The three years he spent in Peterborough were happy years. Mr. Ketcham had telephoned him in the morning regretting he could not be present. Mr. McKay expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present. During his year in Peterborough most of his work was done in the mission still he always took great interest in St. Paul's.

Among the speakers was Mr. E. H. Dobbin of the Review. Mr. Dobbin gave a very interesting and instructive address on former days in the city touching on old buildings, railroads, etc.—owing to experience and knowledge gained during his past years in newspaperdom enabled Mr. Dobbin to give not only a comprehensive but correct history of our city.

Belleville is paying marked respect to the dead. Most of her stores and business places are covered with the emblems of mourning, i.e., with streamers of black and purple.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got Their New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

THE GREATEST ROYAL FUNERAL OF THE CENTURY ON MAY 20

IT WILL BE THE MOST IMPRESSIVE ROYAL CEREMONY OF THE CENTURY.

Fifty Thousand Troops Will Line London Streets and Million Visitors are Expected to Witness the Imposing Rite.

London, May 9.—King Edward VII will be given the greatest Royal funeral of the century on May 20th. The tentative plans are announced today by officials of Edward's household, to whom the arrange ents were given in charge by King George.

From May 17th to 19th the masses will have opportunity to pay their last respects to the ruler whom they loved, while the body lies in state at Westminster Hall.

The final services will be held at St. George's chapel, Windsor.

BODY TO THRONE ROOM.

It was definitely decided today to remove the body to the throne room of Buckingham Palace, where privileged persons will have the opportunity to view it from Tuesday to Thursday of this week.

While at Westminster Hall, the body will lie in a lead coffin encased in a casket of oak made fromtimber grown on the Royal estate at Windsor.

MILLION WILL ATTEND.

The police today began thorough preparations for the great event. It is believed that fully 1,000,000 will be drawn into London by the funeral and the management of the throngs in the narrow streets of the city proper will test to the limit even the far-famed ability of London's 15,000 "bobbies." Even before the final decision of the route, bidding for places of vantage has begun, and before May 20th it is believed that the fabulous sums paid for window room or grandstand seats at the time of the late Queen Victoria's funeral will be outdone.

POINTS OF PRECEDENCE.

Many difficult points of precedence will have to be solved by those in charge of the funeral cortege and the presence of Europe's rulers will require the most delicate management to prevent slights. It was announced this afternoon that George V. and Queen Mary would greet King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway on their arrival this afternoon, taking them to Buckingham Palace.

AN IMPRESSIVE PAGEANT.

The funeral procession of Edward will, according to the plans made public today, be one of the most impressive pageants of modern history, outdoing in splendor that of his mother, Victoria.

Fifty thousand troops will line the streets, shoulder to shoulder, with arms reversed. The actual military escort of the body will consist of 2,500 picked men, selected from the various regiments.

The infantry will head the procession and then will come the cavalry, followed by the artillery and brought up by sailors and marines. Every branch of both services will be represented by the crack men of crack regiments.

TO ENFORCE PEACE.

Lack of Power to Enforce Decrees of Hague Court.

Roosevelt, when presented with the Nobel peace prize, said the chief difficulty in developing the peace work of The Hague lay in the lack of power to enforce the decrees of the court. "Each nation must keep well prepared to defend itself until the establishment of some form of international police power, competent and willing to prevent violence as between nations. As things are now, such power to command peace throughout the world could best be assured by some combination between those great nations which sincerely desire peace, and have no thought themselves of committing aggressions."

The difficulty here is that all nations avow that they desire peace, and that when they fight they are forced into war by the unrighteous aggression of the other combatant. Rarely has there been a war in which each party did not confidently appeal to the god of battles. Happily, force is not necessary to the success of The Hague movement. The existence of a tribunal, and the habit of referring questions to the tribunal, will do much to ensure peace. Two nations may have carried a dispute so far that neither of them can retreat with self-respect, but a way out of the difficulty may be found by submission to an impartial tribunal. Even the nation which considers itself the loser by the judgment will probably forfeit less than would be lost in a war, where both victors and vanquished may suffer heavily.

While it may be difficult to organize a formal alliance to prevent war, the general growth of peace sentiment will have results similar to those of such an alliance. There is undoubtedly a growing weariness of the burden of war and preparation for war. The great armaments of the present day may be the last fruits of a system that is on the decline. The world, after all, is moved by thought as well as by force, and undoubtedly the thought, the public opinion of the world, is against war today as it never was in modern history.

If Great Britain and the United States cannot enforce the peace of the world, they can at least promote peace by example. And herein lies the importance of the maintenance of friendly relations between the United States and Canada.

KING EDWARD'S HEART FAILED OWING TO SEVERE BRONCHITIS

London, May 9.—The Lancet says: "In view of the prevalence of incorrect surmises based upon the presence at the King's bedside of a well-known laryngologist, it is right to say the cause of death was cardiac failure, following upon bronchitis.

"The last hours of the late King were absolutely peaceful and painless."

Cardiac failure, of course, refers to extreme weakness and suspension of the heart. The Lancet is a medical journal of recognized authority.

The New King Wins the People's Heart

HIS FIRST ACT IS ORDERING ALL THEATERS TO OPEN IS POPULAR.

Believes Awful Strain—Step Made Because Large Number Would Be Out of Work—Masses Take Fresh Heart.

London, May 9.—King George took the first step toward winning the hearts of his people today when he issued an order partially relieving the stress caused by the death of his father.

Through the lord chamberlain he gave to the theater managers an order stating his wish that the playhouses be reopened, except upon the day of Edward's funeral. This step, according to the command, was taken because of the number of persons who would suffer through prolonged unemployment as the result of the closing of the houses.

FRESH HEART TO CLASSES.

This order gave fresh heart to the large classes. It had been feared that formalities would be strictly insisted on, to the detriment of the country's financial interests. The order, moreover, is a clever stroke on the part of the King, in approaching the people who know so little of him They want their amusements and the Royal order will win their appreciation.

ALL BLACK GOODS BOUGHT.

The drapers—or dry goods dealers—have suffered heavily in some lines, but nearly every yard of black goods of all kinds in London has been purchased, and rush orders have been sent to the mills. Many of the latter can take no more orders. The continental markets are being drawn on for their mourning goods.

QUEEN TOUCHED BY LONDON'S MESSAGE

London, May 9.—Queen Alexandra Saturday sent to the citizens of London her personal thanks for their consideration. This was conveyed in a telegram to the Lord Mayor, reading:

"Buckingham Palace, 10 p.m.—I am deeply touched by your telegram. Please coavey to the citizens of London how greatly I appreciate their sympathy at a moment when it is so sorely needed. I feel that my sorrow and grief are shared by them and by the whole nation.

"(Signed) ALEXANDRA."

The telegram was sent in response to a message sent early in the day by the Lord Mayor.

THE CHIEF SOURCE OF CANADA'S IMPORT TRADE IS THE UNITED STATES

The practice of estimating the volume of trade that crosses international boundaries as a nation's trade is general among statisticians, and while it may lead to many false deductions, it often more or less affords reliable index of commercial activity. The greater part of a nation's trade as a rule does not cross national boundaries and is in consequence never recorded by statisticiab In spite of this obvious fact much interest attaches to records of that small part of a nation's trade that makes up her exports and imports. Canada's total export and import trade for the year ending with February last was $666,749,256, as compared with $555,088,981 for the previous year and $642,726,055 for the year ending with February, 1908. These totals include coin and bullion, and there is no substantial reason for excluding them from trade statistics. Gold used in trade is as much a product of labor as iron or lead, and its yearly consumption in the arts is as a rule closely related to the yearly production. That is used as a medium of exchange does not materially affect its economic influence and does not make its extensive importation necessarily advantageous or otherwise. During the year ending with February last we imported dutiable goods to the value of $220,550,405, on which $59,439,096 was collected, and free goods to the value of $139,786,622. All these totals show marked advances compared with the figures for the previous year.

The total exports were $297,494,227, of which $2,516,364 was coin and bullion, $119,248,027 foreign produce, and 5276,419,836 domestic produce. Agricultural products and animals and their products naturally hold the leading place with a total of $142,514,279, and the products of the mine come next with a total of $30,090,371. The export of manufactures shows a steady increase during the past four years, the total for the year under consideration being $31,012,299. This does not reveal any indication of ruin or injury through the Liberal tariff policy. The record by countries shows that the chief source of our import trade is the United States, the totals for the year being $114,500,733 duitable goods and $102,340,729 free goods. Great Britain comes next with a record of $69,438,655 duitable and $23,248,247 free goods. In the record of exports by countries Great Britain is shown to be our chief customer with an aggregate of $136,088,764 in home produce and $10,100,041 foreign goods exported. The United States hold second place with $108,959,145 domestic produce and $8,883,739 foreign goods exported. These records often lead balance of trade theorists to assume that British trade is profitable while American trade is a loss, the idea being based on the notion that the difference between exports and imports is a loss or gain. There is no foundation for this notion in the experience of commerce. Our imports of coal and iron from the United States are paid for with our exports of grain to Britain. The balances are adjusted by the shipment of goods from Britain to the United States.

200 Musicians on Parade.

Cincinnati, O., May 9.—A band of 200 musicians paraded the downtown streets to-day as a preliminary to the opening of the annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians of the United States and Canada. The band headed the procession of delegates which marched to the Grand Opera House, where the business sessions of the convention are to continue through the greater part of the week. No questions of unusual importance are to come up at the convention this year, though a large amount of routine business relating to the affairs of the organization is to be transacted.

The Senate is improving. It passed the Miller bill without amendment, and the Anti-Combine bill with only slight changes.

Have you a pain—of any kind, anywhere? Stop just a minute and think it matters not whether it be womanly pains, head pains, or any kind of a pain, one of Dr. Shoop's little restorative

Proclaim Day of National Mourning

CANADIAN AUTHORITIES WILL MAKE IT COINCIDENT WITH THE KING'S FUNERAL.

Draping of Buildings — Women of Weatworth Will Start Campaign to Raise $10,000 for a Monument to the Late King.

Ottawa, May 9.—The City Council of Ottawa has presented to his Excellency Earl Grey for transmission to the royal family, a resolution of sympathy in the King's death, and at a meeting of the Board of Control today it was decided to recommend that no municipal business be transacted till after the funeral; the city buildings will also be draped.

DRAPINGS OF BUILDINGS.

Instructions have been issued to the Federal Department of Public Works for the draping in black and royal purpule of the Government buildings. The plan is now being prepared by the chief architect.

There will be a cabinet council this afternoon and a day of national mourning will probably be proclaimed co-incident with the King's funeral. Announcement will also be made of the official representatives of the Government at the funeral. Hon. A. B. Aylesworth and Hon. Sydney Fisher will likely be assigned to those duties. and it is probable that Speaker Macdonald will represent the Canadian Parliament.

SPECIAL ISSUE OF GAZETTE.

The proclamation of King George V. was issued in a Canadian Gazette extra this morning. It is in the customary official terms.

ROYAL SALUTE IN MONTREAL.

Montreal, May 9.—By order of the Quebec command one minute guns, the royal salute, were fired on the mountain top by the 2nd Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, at noon today. As soon as the guns were heard in the city below flags went fluttering to full mast head in honor of the new King, George the Fifth, for whom 21 guns were discharged. According to etiquette flags will fly at half mast again tomorrow and remain there until the funeral of the late King.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD

Special services were held in all the city churches yesterday and in the schools today. Arrangements are being made to hold commemorative services at the same time as the funeral of the late King. The city is draped in black, all the courts and business matters at the city hall have been suspended and special meetings of societies, board of trade and exchanges have been called to draft resolutions of condolence.

Eight Persons Killed Fifteen Badly Injured

Ottawa, May 9.—Eight people are dead, fifteen are injured and the property loss will total about $50,000 as a result of last night's awful explosion of the plant of the General Explosion Company of Montreal, in Hull. There were four tons of virite, an explosive more powerful than dynamite in the factory.

People over in Hull are moving about in a daze today, hardly able to realise the effects of the calamity that has visited them. The wonder however, is that the death list is not larger considering the great number of people who were exposed to the blast. Hundreds from Ottawa went to the scene of the disaster this morning. Nothing remains of the virite factory save some twisted timbers and a hole in the ground, while

KING GEORGE PROMISES TO UPHOLD CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT

"My lords and gentlemen, my heart is too full for me to address you today in more than a few words. It is my sorrowful duty to announce to you the death of my dearly beloved father, the King.

"In this irreparable loss, which has so suddenly fallen upon me and the whole Empire, I am comforted by the feeling that I have the sympathy of my future subjects, who will mourn with me for their beloved sovereign, whose own happiness was found in sharing and promoting theirs.

"I have lost not only a father's love, but the affectionate and intimate relations of a dear friend and adviser.

"No less confident am I in the universal and loving sympathy which is assured to my dearest mother in her overwhelming grief.

"Standing here little more than nine years ago, our beloved King declared that so long as there was breath in his body he would work for the good and amelioration of his subjects. I am sure that the opinion of the whole nation will be that this declaration has been fully carried out.

"To endeavor to follow in his foot steps, and at the same time to uphold the constitutional government of these realms will be the earnest object of my life.

"I am deeply sensible of the very heavy responsibilities which have fallen upon me.

"I know that I can rely upon the parliament and upon the people of these islands and my dominions beyond the seas for their help in the discharge of the ardous duties and their prayers that God will grant me strength and guidance.

"I am encouraged by the knowledge that I have in my dear wife one who will be a constant helpmate in every endeavor for our people's good."

—KING GEORGE, to the Privy Councillors.

Star of Bethlehem was Halley's Comet

Webster City, Iowa, May 9.—The Star of Bethlehem was only Halley's Comet, says the Rev. Dr. Spicer, of St. Paul's Universalist Church. Bible students say Jesus was born four years prior to the year 1 A.D. According to the present calendar, figuring back at the interval the comet is due, the reverend gentlemen finds that this heavenly visitor was due when the Star of Bethlehem was seen. The comet, like the star, appears in the east and takes a southerly course. From these deductions Dr. Spicer gives it as his belief that the star and comet are one.

A WISE BIRD.

Robin on Water Street Gets Its Mate to untie a String.

Early yesterday morning a little episode in bird life was witnessed in the yard of a Water street resident, that is worth recording. The householder has recently started a garden in his back yard. To save his recently put in plants from being torn up by Peterborough's legions of useless cats and the millions of midnight squalling tom cats, the amateur gardener covers them with flower pots, etc. Yesterday morning he saw a robin busily tugging at a brightly colored string tying the only uncovered tomatoe plant to a stake. The robin would walk round and round the plant giving a tug here and a pull there. At last the bird, cocking its head on one side seemed to study the situation for a minute or two Then it flew away returning in about five minutes accompanied by its mate. The newly arrived bird, with the less showy red breast, walked about the plants for some seconds. It then, with its beak gave a sudden pull at one end of the string which was tied in a bow knot. Another gentle tug or two, the string was loose and on its aerial way to be come one plank in this couple's new nursery. This story is absolutely true. The point for the 'ologists to settle is whether the feminine instinct of the female robin discovered the bow knot on the string.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Interesting Evening in Connection With the Present 77th Anniversary.

Last night a fine program was given at the concert hall in honor of Presbyterianism in Peterborough, in St. Andrew's church. The choir was assisted by Mr. Huycke in solos, and Mr. Jas. Browne and Master Wilfrid Morrison who rendered four selections. Addresses were given by Rev. Robert Campbell, D.D., Rev. D. A. McKenzie, B.A., Rev. D. A. Thompson, B.A., and representatives from other churches. A collection was taken up. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. It might be noted that Master Wilfrid Morrison, in view of the accession to the throne of Great Britain, of King George, sang "The Veteran's Song." At 10 o'clock the portraits of the former ministers of St. Andrew's were unveiled with appropriate ceremony. The portraits are excellent and will be greatly appreciated by Rev. Mr. Potter's congregation.

So ever present a reminder of those who, in the past, have striven diligently and faithfully to advance the spiritual and temporal interests of St. Andrew's must be an incentive to all concerned to strive hard in the future to emulate the example of those who are gone.

PREPARE FOR LUMBAGO!

If You Have "Nerviline" Handy One Rubbing Will Cure the Pain.

Thousands Use "Nerviline."

"The "strike" of lumbago is like a bolt of lightning—you never know when it is coming or where it is going to strike. Probably the one certain thing about Lumbago is the fact that it can be cured by Nerviline—the only liniment that penetrates deeply enough to reach the congested cords and muscles.

LETTER NO. 675

"Years ago I strained my back and suffered considerably with weakness over the spine," writes Darius P. Millan, a well-known farmer, residing near Kingsville. "Then lumbago attacked the weak spot, for days at a time, I would have to lie up in bed bed, unable to move or turn. Liniments, poultices and hot applications failed to bring the desired relief, and I was in despair of ever getting really well again. I at last decided to test "Nerviline." I got five bottles from the drug store and had it rubbed on three times a day. The stiffness and pain left my back quickly, and by continuing Nerviline I was completely cured of Lumbago."

This is similar testimony to that of nearly five thousand Canadians who have written unstinted words of praise to the manufacturers of Nerviline. For the cure of lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia and rheumatism there is no liniment with one-fifth the pain-relieving power of Nerviline!

Refuse any substitute. Large 25c bottles of Nerviline, or five for $1.00 at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

EARL GREY'S TERM.

While the term of Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada has not been marked by any spectacular features, it has been characterized by that diplomacy and social eclat which are first essentials in a vice-regal office. For the last time His Excellency prorogued the Dominion Parliament Tuesday, and naturally the eye takes a hurried glance back over his career in Canada to see what is outstanding in the history of the last four years that may have been influenced directly or indirectly by his personality. There is nothing particularly conspicuous, nothing so pronounced as during the sojourn here of Lord Lansdowne. Yet, studied more carefully, his service as Governor has been full of discretion and ardent with friendship for the people among whom he has been living.

Considered from the points of tact, sociability, inoffensiveness and Imperialism, Earl Grey's term has been as useful to the Dominion as that of any representative of the Sovereign since the act of union in 1840. Lord Sydenham, Sir Charles Bagot, Sir Charles Metcalfe, and Lord Elgin were active forces in the politics of Upper and Lower Canada; Lord Monck, Lord Dufferin, Lord Lansdowne, Lord Aberdeen and Lord Minto were all men who filled the past according to the requirements of their time, but none entered more into the every day life of Canada than Earl Grey. His family has been equally ready to adpat themselves to our Canadian habits and fancies. A Governor-General fills well his part to-day who evades public utterances that arouse party strife and racial animosities, who quietly teaches the importance of character building in this time of the Dominion's rapid growth, who knows how to be a governor without assuming the role of a hot-blooded autocrat.

Canadians have grown to appreciate the inoffensive talents of Earl Grey and will feel deep regret when he sails from our shores.

you a fight for sore eyes. Ted Wolf or without your share of the last swag, but I've saved it for you. Prendergast wouldn't cheat a pal!"

From a cranny in the clay chinked wall he took a chamois skin bag. It contained a quantity of gold dust and small nuggets, which he poured into a miner's scales on the table and proceeded to divide in two portions. This accomplished, he emptied one of the portions on to a paper and pushed it out.

"That's yours," he said.

Harry's eyes were on his with a piercing intensity now, as though they looked through him to a vast distance beyond. He was staring through a gray mist at something far off, but significant, that eluded his direct vision. The board table, the yellow gold, the flickering candlelight, recalled something horrifying, in some other world, in some other life, millions of ages ago.

He lurched to his feet, overturning the table. The gold dust rattled to the floor.

"Your deal!" he said. Then, with a vague laugh, he fell sidewise upon the bunk.

August Prendergast stared at him with a look of amazement on his yellow face. "He's crazy as a chicken!" he said.

He sat watching him awhile, then rose and kindled a fire on the unswept hearth. From a litter of cans and dented utensils in a corner he proceeded to cook himself supper, after which he carefully brushed up the scattered gold dust and returned it all to its hiding place. Lastly he rummaged on a shelf and found a vial. This proved to be empty, however, and he set it on the table.

"I guess you'll do well enough without any pain killer," he said to himself. "Doctors are expensive. Anyway, I'll be back by midnight."

He threw more wood on the fire, blew out the candle and, closing the door behind him, set off down the trail to the town, where a faro bank soon acquired the bill Jessica had given him.

Chapter 15

It was pitch dark when Jessica reached the sanitarium, though she went like a whirlwind, the chill damp smell of the dewy balsams in her nostrils, the dust rising ghostlike behind the rapid hoofs. She found David Stires anxious and peevish over her late coming.

She felt a relief when the old man grew tired and was wheeled to his bedroom.

Left alone, her reflections returned. She began to be tortured. She tried to read. The printed characters swam beyond her comprehension. At length she drew a hood over her head and stole out on to the wide porch.

It was only 9 o'clock, and along the gravel paths that wound among the shrubbery a few dim forms were strolling. She caught the scent of a cigar and the sound of a woman's laugh. The air was crisp and bracing, with a promise of frost and painted leaves. She passed down across the dark gulches toward the town, a straggling design pricked in blinding yellow points. Halfway between, folded in the darkness, lay the green shelf and the cabin to which her thought returned with a kind of compulsion.

There was no moon, but the stars were glowing like tiny green gilt coals, and the yellow road lay plain and clear. With a sudden determination she drew her light cloak closely about her, stepped down, sped across the grass to a footpath and so to the road. As she ran on down the curving stretch under the trees the crackling slip of bank paper that lay in her bosom seemed to burn her flesh. She was stealing away to gaze upon the outcast who had shamed and humbled her—going, she knew not why, with burning cheek and hammering heart.

She slipped through the side trail to the cabin with a choking sensation. She stole to the window and peered in. In the firelight she could see the form on the bunk, tossing and muttering. Otherwise the place was empty. She lifted the latch softly and entered.

The strained anxiety of Jessica's look relaxed as she gazed about her. She saw the vial on the table. The doctor had been there, then. If he were in serious case, Prendergast would be with him. She threw back her head, drew one of the chairs to the side of the bunk and sat down, her eyes fixed on his face. The weakness and helplessness of his posture struck through and through her. Two sides of her were struggling in a chaotic strife for mastery.

"I hate you! I hate you!" she said under her breath, clinching her cold hand. "I must hate you! You stole my love and put it under your feet! You have disgraced my present and ruined my future! What if you have forgotten the past—your crime? Does that make you the less guilty or me the less wretched?"

But withal a silent voice within her gave the lie to her vehemence. Some element of her character that had been rigid and intact was crumbling down. An old sweet something that a dreadful mill had ground and crushed and annihilated was rising whole and undefiled, superior to any petty distinction, regardless of all that lifted combative in her indignation, not to be calmed or denied.

She leaned closer, listening to the incoherent words and broken phrases borne on the turbid channels of fever. But she could not link them together into meaning. Only one name he spoke clearly over and over again—the name Hugh Stires—repeated with the dreary monotony of a child counting a lesson. She noted the mark across his brow. Before her marriage, in her blindness, she had used to wonder what it was like. It was not in the least disfiguring. It gave a touch of the extraordinary. It was so small she did not wonder that in that ecstatic moment of her bride's bliss she had not seen it.

Slowly, half fearfully, she stretched

Found Wife in a Barrel.

London, Ont., May 6—Mrs. Wm. J. Clarkson, of 427 Wellington St., aged 49, committed suicide this morning by diving headfirst into a rain barrel full of water. She rose earlier than her husband and daughter and called them. They did not miss her for some time and then the husband going into the yard found her feet and legs sticking out of the barrel. The husband and a policeman worked to restore life without success. Coroner McLaren decided that it was a clear case of suicide and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The family have only been out from England a few weeks and melancholy d[illegible] is given as the reason for the woman's deed.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do us out of $1 to-day?
Will you tell some sick friend of this remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its makers dare say to the sick, "If it absolutely and unconditionally fails it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of those vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strongly charged, and brought those nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not care the Stomach, Nor whether the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, shocked inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When those nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such ailments.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the sick and ailing, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and [illegible] remedy is endorsed by the same [illegible]. No help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me free as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—paid without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some stubborn ailments. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private correspondence or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order as soon. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity;

I will have an honest and trustworthy drug sent to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

Do it first, ask me for the order, for all drug clerks are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all doubt. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." What a producer should ever enthuse over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a thoroughly satisfied public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this famous Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its well-ordered honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

National Mining & Tunnel Company

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp. Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer,
Leadville, Colorado, January 15, 1909.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

WILD MEN IN COMMONS.

Are Winning All Along the Line, Says Lord Curzon.

London, May 6.—Lord Curzon speaking at Reading, said there were wild men in the Commons who were winning all along the line and would exact the price of triumph to the uttermost farthing. There would be no termination of the struggle until both parties conferred. He suggested that "All England Eleven" of five Liberals and five Conservatives, the speaker presiding, to draft a new constitution satisfying the reasonable desires of the great majority of both sides.

A resolution was passed to put a permanent basis, inviting to the membership all pioneers over seas and at home, believing in Imperial solidarity in defence and commerce. The pioneers have been joined by ing a country campaign. They hope another Canadian and are undertak- to cover every constituency this year

APPEAL FOR THE WEST.

London, May 6.—The primate of all England explains that the two archbishops' appeal for the promotion of Anglican work in Western Canada is not for any single method. The primate hopes the appeal increases the support of Lloyd and his comrades in the Saskatchewan.

MILITARY PLANS.

London, May 6.—New Zealand's premier announces legislation adopting Lord Kitchener's advice. The compulsory military training age is increased to 25 years. There will be an establishment of 20,000 trained men, besides 10,000 recruits under nineteen and 38,000 cadets. The yearly cost of this defence force will be two million dollars.

London, May 6.—The Land Union just inaugurated against Socialistic attacks on property, demands the repeal of the budget's land taxes and asks the extension of small ownerships in town and country.

PEACE EXTREMISTS.

London, May 6.—The address of Roosevelt in the Christiania theater, when receiving the Nobel peace prize of 900,000 dissatisfies the peace extremists. He said that peace was never the highest good unless as the hand-maid of righteousness, and was a very great evil if merely the mask of cowardice and sloth. Civilized communities, he said, cannot make arbitration treaties with some backward states until international police action is arranged. It was undesirable that any power really believing in peace should place itself by solitary action at the mercy of a rival without such belief, or any intention of action on its. Granted the sincerity of the great powers there should then be no insurmountable and naval expenditure would be a master stroke if those powers honestly bent on peace, would form a league of peace both to keep peace among themselves, and to prevent, forcibly if necessary others from breaking it. "Strive to bring about the same standard of law and honor among nations as among individuals" he said.

"EVEN IN YOUTH NEVER STRONG"

Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those dull feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and healthful. Well I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in cleaning up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvellous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, the wife of Capt. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all others, men and women, can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold in yellow boxes. 25c. All dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Vandals at Collegiate Institute.

It seems that some one with a greater sense of independence than thought for the general community, has been persistently pulling down the fence erected by the School Board to protect the young growing grass in front of the local Collegiate Institute. The police are now looking out for the guilty party and should he or they be caught there will be a hard case against the defence (no pun meant).

The police have a hat which awaits an owner. It is evidently the property of one of the fair sex.

A friend of St. John's church, residing in Winnipeg, has forwarded $25 towards the chimes fund. May others follow this good example.

The annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will be held tomorrow night. A fine musical program is to be presented and reports read.

Dog owners in Peterborough have evidently, as was their right, got and gathered in votes against the present moribund dog bylaw.

The Lavinia Hallihan benefit concert has been indefinitely postponed on account of the King's death.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Christie of Niagara-on-the-Lake, are now hovering between life and a horrible and excruciating death by hydrophobia. A dog bite. And still the dear nameless, pedigreeless curs are kept in their thousands here because a few people keep good, useful dogs under proper and common sense control.

If the man owning a garden or lawn ripped up nightly by the curs of Peterborough, had got out and worked for the dog bylaw it would be carried by a 7-8 majority.

Mrs. Herbert McMillan wishes to thank those who were so kind to her during the hours of trial and grief attendantupon the death of her husband.

Last night his Lordship Bishop Sweeney administered the apostolic rite of confirmation upon a large number of candidates in All Saints' church.

George street merchants and others are kicking vigorously over the dust on our main thoroughfare. As so many hotels have been cut off surely someone could be found on "the water wagon."

Cobourg has now got a fog-horn. Good for Cobourg. People passing through that old, old, but pretty town will now know that Cobourg still exists.

The last item of the 75th anniversary celebration of Peterborough Presbyterianism was held in St. Paul's church last night, when a most interesting program was given.

The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its marvelous curative properties. Tight, tickling or distressing coughs, quickly yield to the healing, soothing action of this splendid prescription—Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children, as well! Containing no opium, chloroform or other harmful drugs, mothers should in safety always demand Dr. Shoop's. If other remedies are offered, tell them No! Be your own judge! Sold by all dealers.

Yesterday with those who had flags at half mast in token of respect to the late King, it was in some cases a case of what children call "copy cat." A few flags were raised to the tops of their respective masts, and, one by one, others followed. On the post office the flag remained at half mast until well into the afternoon. The caretaker had not been at the paper offices to learn the regulations.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES!

FLOWERS FROM THE DEAD.

Supt. Wise Complains That Children Rob Lots and Graves of Memeates.

Mr. Wise, superintendent of Little Lake Cemetery, complains that children are stealing flowers from that city of the dead. From this time forward children under fifteen years of age, will not be admitted unless accompanied by their parents or adults of responsibility. Children may not understand or appreciate the enormity of robbing graves or burial lots of flowers placed by grieving parents or friends over their dead. Still, surely, their parents might inquire whence came bouquets stolen from the silent home of the dead. Even floral designs, Mr. Wise states, have been plundered of their floral contents. It is time fathers and mothers should make enquiries when flowers from (?) are brought home, and explain to their little ones that the dead should be respected.

OPPOSING VIEWS OF RACE SUICIDE.

After the ice is once broken anybody is free to jump in. The question of a large or a small family was once regarded by many as a personal concern; but since some of our leading papers have opened the subject everybody has felt free to pursue it. Among recent handlers of the topic is Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, a prominent lady of Evanston, Ill.,

Mrs. McCullough voices a growing sentiment in declaring that the careless rearing of a large family is less to be desired than the careful rearing of a small one. Fewer and better children would be her idea. She would welcome forethought and a reasonable apprehension of the general conditions governing our day.

This argument doubtless has validity within the bounds of any single country, separately considered. But the modern world is composed largely of some eight or ten dominant national units which are in competition with one another. In such circumstances members count. The brute force derived from bulk and mass is a prime element in national success. A people of forty millions, however happy at home, cannot successfully withstand a population of sixty millions, however the latter may be embarrassed by overpopulation and discontent. A patriotic population will endeavor to multiply itself. Its members, taking a hint from Anatole France, will not be unwilling to contribute through their private misery to the public good.

One exception made be made: a country which enjoys the hearty cooperation of multitudinous newcomers. Such a fortunate land may properly aspire to quality as well as quantity and reasonably hope to compass both.

Many Applicants for the Vacancy

Seekers for Office of Chief of Peterborough Police Apply in Person

It seems as though there was going to be a battle royal for the vacant position of chief of police in Peterborough. Yesterday, among other applicants making application for this place was chief of police of the Woodstock, Ont., force.

This was Mr. Thompson's first visit to Peterborough and his impressions of the city were most favorable. During his visit, Chief Thompson paid a friendly call on Fire Chief Howard, an old friend of his. He thoroughly inspected the local fire hall and thinks it one of the best he has seen. He highlycomplimentedChief Howard on the splendid work he has done in Peterborough. Mr. Thompson is the first applicant for the position to receive public attention. He left last night for his home in Woodstock, after leaving with the city clerk, his references from London, Ont. Chief Thompson has not put in an application, though he has interviewed two of the police commissioners, his Honor Judge Hayke, and Police Magistrate Dumble. His Worship the Mayor was out of town. On his return to Woodstock, Chief Thompson will write a formal application for the local vacant position. A Times representative had a talk with Chief Thompson. This gentleman is comharatively short of stature, but of great breadth of shoulder. He is a man of education far above the average. One point he impressed on the Times man was that he greatly disapproves of policemen getting fees. He thinks this leads officers to too great importunity in making arrests. He thinks that prevention of crime is a thousand fold better than punishment after crime has been committed.

Other applicants for the vacant office yesterday included a gentleman from Ottawa. It was said yesterday on seemingly good authority that Chief R. Bond of Port Hope, will make a vigorous struggle for the job of protecting Peterborough's citizens.

RATS ATE MONEY.

Trenton Merchant Solves Mystery of Its Disappearance.

Trenton, May 10.—A well-known merchant in a nfarby village, for the first time in his business career, left a sum of money in the till over night recently. In the morning he discovered thae $25 in bills was missing and concluded that someone must have taken it, although doors and windows showed no evidence of and windows showed no evidence that any ostson could have entered the building during the night. A few days later in another part of the building a mouse nest was found, and among other torn papers were found the bills chewed and torn almost beyond recognition. The bills were so badly mutiliated that their numbers could at be fod. it ws certily a aaaa could not be found. It was certainly a costly nest.

BIGGEST MAN IS DEAD.

The Locust Valley Hotel Proprietor Weighed 568 Pounds.

Locust Valley, N.Y., May 9.—William H. Burnet, who is supposed to have been one of the biggest and heaviest men in the world, is dead. He weighed 568 pounds. He was of ordinary height, but measured six feet and eight inches around the waist. He wore a 22½-inch collar.

Mr. Burnet kept a hotel at Locust Valley, and despite his great weight was an active fireman. He was born here on May 16, 1862. He leaves a wife.

Did Alleged Thief Steal Here?

What may prove to be a local bicycle thief, has been arrested in Port Hope. This man, while in Peterborough called himself A. Sells, and he is under arrest in Cobourg on the charge of stealing a bicycle. It is said that Sells stole the wheel there and after riding to Peterborough sold the bike here for $15. The day Sells left Peterborough a store on George street mourned the loss of a bicycle and the local police are now busy investigating.

LOCAL CENTENNARIAN.

Mr. Mantel of Downie Street, Remembers Halley's Comet of Yore.

Talking of "the oldest inhabitant," Peterborough has within her borders a man who yesterday celebrated his 101st birthday. This more than centennarian is Mr. Mantel of 470 Downie, street, who is in full possession of his faculties.

It is of general interest to note that Mr. Mantel remembers Halley's comet on its last appearance. He is an honorary member of the Tilsonburg Masonic Lodge, and gave a short speech at the session of Masonic Lodge of Instruction held here last month. He went to London last July to attend a Masonic meeting, and felt no ill effects of the trip. Mr. Mantel came to this country in the year 1837.

Woodstock Cop Praises Chief Howard.

Chief Thompson of Woodstock, an applicant for the open position of chief of police of Peterborough, yesterday called on his old friend Chief Howard at the fire station. To a Times representative Mr. Thompson said he had congratulated Chief Howard on the splendid work he has done in reorganizing the local brigade. Mr. Thompson also visited the lift lock which he described as one of the most stupendous works of modern engineering.

A GIGANTIC BLUNDER IN [BRITISH DOMINIONS BEYOND SEAS OMITTED]

PROCLAIMING NEW RULER

WAS FIRST USED IN THE PROCLAMATION OF KING EDWARD.

High Court Official Declares Ceremony May Have to be Repeated if King is to Reign Legally—Investigation Among Heralds.

London, May 10.—No sooner was the splendor of yesterday's progression ceremonies past, it was learned today, than an egregious blunder was discovered which, it was declared, might necessitate the repetition of the entire spectacle.

This was the absence from the official printed program, as read by the heralds, of the words, among the King's titles, "and for the British Dominions beyond the seas."

FIRST USED BY KING EDWARD.

This term, formally proclaiming the ruler's title to jurisdiction over the colonies, was first used in the proclamation of the acknowledgment of Edward VII.

Although the form of George's program was supposed to have been identical with that of his father, the omission occurred not only in the document read to London, but in the official copies used in the provincial cities.

A high court official today declared that there seemed little likelihood of avoiding a repetition of the pageant and ceremony, if George were to reign legally, but that an investigation had been begun to ascertain if the heralds included the phrase verbally in spite of its absence from the printed documents.

NEW TITLES FOR FAMILY.

The Privy Council was today notified of a meeting with the object of finally and officially selecting the new titles of the Royal family.

It is still undecided whether Queen Alexandra will take the title of Queen Mother or Queen Dowager. To the people she will probably remain Queen Alexandra to her death.

As for choosing the King's title, that is done. His consort is known as Queen Mary, at the request of the late King, who several months ago expressed a wish that she be so known when George ascended the Throne.

The Crown Prince, it is believed, will become Prince of Wales without delay.

All this, however, is officially in the hands of the Earl Marshal and the Privy Council.

HISTORY OF UXBRIDGE POISONING CASE

One of the most mysterious tragedies in the criminal history of Canada took place at Uxbridge on the night of October 29th last.

People returning late from a party saw smoke pouring from the house of Archie McLaughlin, a young clerk in a general store.

McLaughlin was found outside the house with his five-year-old daughter, Monta. When asked where his wife and two youngest children were his reply was, "Poor Mary, I do not know."

Several witnesses at the inquest were of the opinion that it would have been easy to have rescued the three if McLaughlin had told them what rooms they were in, but he appeared to be dazed, and when found, all three were dead.

Some time after the funeral the body of Mrs. McLaughlin was exhumed, and an analysis showed traces of strychnine in the stomach. A local druggist testified that he had sold strychnine to McLaughlin a few days before the tragedy. He said he wanted to kill rats. During the inquest a young girl to whom he had paid some attention, was one of the witnesses. McLaughlin was arrested, and, after a preliminary hearing, was committed for trial.

McLaughlin Fell in a Faint---A True Bill is Returned

Man Accused of Murdering His Wife and Two Children is in Bad Nervous State---Grand Jury a Long Time Out

Whitby, Ont., May 10.—The Grand Jury returned a true bill against Archie MacLaughlin at 1.30 this afternoon.

Whitby, Ont., May 10.—The Grand Jury of Ontario County is evidently intent on making a record. At noon hour today, after hearing evidence for six hours, they had not come to a conclusion whether to return a true bill or no bill against Archie MacLaughlin. More witnesses will be examined this afternoon, and if a true bill is returned today, the trial will be proceeded with tomorrow morning.

PRISONER BREAKING DOWN

Sheriff Paxton has grave fears as to MacLaughlin's ability to stand the trial. His nervousness has increased rapidly since Sunday, and last night he fainted away in his cell. The cell is occupied by him and another prisoner, and the other one had just composed himself to sleep when McLaughlin fell on him. Archie was taking off his clothes at the time, and was seized with a fainting spell, tumbling upon the other prisoner's cot. From there he fell to the floor. The other quickly called a guard and the jail doctor was summoned. By this time MacLaughlin had partially recovered, though he was decidedly weak and in a highly nervous state. The doctor gave him medicine, and he is somewhat improved today. According to Sheriff Paxton, however, he is anything but a well man, and may not be able to standhis trial without collapsing. W. A. Henderson, MacLaughlin's counsel, arrived here this morning, and spent several hours with him. George Tate Blackstock, K.C., the Crown counsel, went back to Toronto last night, and will not return until tomorrow. The case before the grand jury is accordicly neing handled by Col. E. J. Farewell.

CROWDS AT THE TRIAL

Great excitement was evidenced around the Court House in the afternoon previous to the trial. Before one o'clock over a hundred people were waiting at the door after a vain attempt to gain admission to the court room.

An animated scene was presented at 2.30 o'clock when the court was scheduled to commence. The grounds were now fairly black with sightseerers, and several ineffectual attempts were made to rush the door, which was opened occasionally to admit witnesses and jurymen.

In fact so serious was the situation the local officials were afraid they would be unable to handle the crowds and a special message was sent to Oshawa for the assistance of Chief of Police Alfred Hinds.

In admitting people to the trial the greatest of care was exercised. The ground floor was reserved for witnesses, while the balcony was given over to those of the public who had admission tickets. So far only 45 of these have been issued by Sheriff Paxton, who stated that he would decline to issue more.

Mr. Wm. Stanley, steward of the Peterborough Club, Mrs. Stanley, and Mrs. Stanley, Jr., have gone on a holiday trip to their home in the oldcountry.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PETERBORO' Y. W. C. A.

A SPLENDID TURNOUT AT LAST NIGHT'S ANNUAL MEETING.

Encouraging Reports Presented By the Different Officers of the Association—Good Work Being Done By the Association.

Last night the large room of the fine Y.W.C.A. building was crowded with an audience that included many of Peterborough's leading citizens. The occasion was the annual meeting of the Young Woman's Christain Association in the building of which the late Margaret Cox assisted so generously.

The evening's proceedings began with a tea in the large room to the west of the entrance hall, commonly known as the Green Room. Here a long table daintly laid out with an assortment of china and silverware. The members of the board to the number of twenty sat down to tea along both sides of the long table when a most appetizing repast was enjoyed.

About eight o'clock as the large room was well filled the evening program was begun. The first step leading to the events of the evening was "devotional exercises." Rev H. R. Trumpour, rector of All Saints' church, gave an address, interspersed with prayer, advocating the good work done by the Y.W.C.A. of Peterborough.

Next a splendidly rendered piano duet was given by the Misses Morse and Hawken. The secretary's report was then read. This contained in concise and fully explanatory words what the "Y.W." has done during the past year. The treasurer's report demonstrating that the public of Peterborough, as well as friends of the institution from outside places, fully recognize the grand work accomplished by the Young Woman's Christian Association. The general secretary's report was equally encouraging.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The superintendent's report, read by that official, Mrs. W. J. Read, was as follows:

Madam President, Members of the Board, and Ladies and Gentlemen;—

It affords me much pleasure to submit a report of the results of my first year's work as superintendent of the Young Woman's Christian Association of Peterborough. My aim for the year has been to make the boarding house one of the bestin the Province. It was my privilegf to visit other homes in Toronto last year, and I might state that I think our boarding home is the equal and the superior of many that I visited.

As far as the interior of our boarding home goes, I believe we have it in very good condition and the equipment most adequate for our wants. The home keeps well filled, showing our people find it congeal and our board good. A considerable supply of fresh vegetables such as lettuce, tomatoes and radishes were also grown in our own garden last year. A fine flower bed which kept our tables supplied with fresh flowers all summer, was a new venture, and was much appreciated by all.

Our attendance varies during the year, running from as high as 80 which we had for some time last September to as low as 8 and 10, during July and August, when nearly all the girls are away. It is necessary to have a constant family of 35 to make the home a paying proposition.

Improvements of all kinds	$ 503 00
Wood and coal	467 00
Water rates	53 76
Food and wages	6069 11
Total expenditure for year	7297 51

The receipts for the different months since I became superintendent are as follows:

From mealers	$ 186 85
From transients	439 95
1909—May 8 to May 31	431 62
June	505 48
July	284 63
August	46 61
September	600 78
October	775 77
November	713 81
December	621 82
1910—January	727 59
February	643 73
March	746 46
April	792 15
Total receipts to date	$7297 51

There are no liabilities except a coal bill of $117.84.

MRS. W. J. READ.
Superintendent.

The president then made a few limited in time, but comprehensive in quality, remarks. This was followed by a well played piano duet by the Misses Tully and Dawson. A vocal solo by Miss Dawson met next with marked approval. Miss Eva Irwin then demonstrated her absolute conquest of the violin and Miss Irwin, judging by the expression and attitude of the audience gave great pleasure to all present by her playing. The evening wound up by God Save the King.

"It cured me," or "It saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures. Sold by all dealers.

TORONTO TO HAVE AN AVIATION MEET

Toronto, May 10.—Toronto is to have an aviation meet.

Plans for the event are well under way, and details will be announced in a few days.

It is proposed to conduct the event on such a scale that all the prominent types will be represented, including the Blerlot, Wright, Curtis and Bell.

Rigid, semi-rigid and collapsible gas airships will participate, as well as balloons of various types. This will be Toronto's first chance to see the aeroplane in action.

The location of the flying grounds has not yet been definitely fixed, but it will probably be near Scarboro or Long Branch.

The Ontario Motor League is interested, and sufficient funds are assured to finance the event, which will take place late in July.

Excursions will be run from all over the Province to Toronto in connection with the event.

Britain's New Monarch Confers with Premier

King George Holds His First Official Consultation with Mr. Asquith—Careful Management to Avoid Crisis

London, May 10.—While the body of the late King Edward lay encased in its leaden coffin in the throne room of Buckingham Palace today, King George V. took up the reins of government and held his first official consultation with the Premier of Great Britain, Prime Minister Asquith, who arrived here from Spain late last night, this morning hastened to Marlborough House, where he was received without delay by the new King, prior to summoning the Cabinet for a special meeting.

WILL FOLLOW ROUTINE.

Political leaders, though refraining from absolute statements, have made it certain that for the next few months England's legislators will follow for the most part, routine. Besides the political necessity, the one demand now made by financial interests is that the two great parties—the Unionists and Liberals work in harmony in tiding over the stress that is inevitable after the death of a monarch.

CARE MUST BE EXERCISED.

The long fight over the 1909 Budget and the period of speculation marking the months preceding Edward's death have left the money market in such a state, it is known that only careful political management can avert financial trouble.

It is understood that the Premier today when conferring with the King advocated a Parliament of normal length, being continued beyond May 26, the date previously selected for adjournment.

ATTITUDE OF NEW KING.

The political events of the next few months will be governed largely by the attitude of King George, whose standpoint has never been known (to the general public. From all that can be ascertained, it is believed that George favors the Tories even to a greater extent than did his father, and it is probable that he will throw every obstacle in the way of curtailing the veto powers of the Lords, or at least until that problem has been put to the nation in a general election.

Cart Wheels.

One would doubtless rather have money in the form of silver dollars than have no money at all. But why should anyone have to choose? Summer is approaching; would Mr. Fielding really enjoy carrying half a pound or so of metal in his pocket for hours and hours on a hote day. Surely we can do something better when we are beginning to mint our own coine that imitate the mistakes that have been made in other countries. A dollar coin would be convenient enough if it were no heavier than a twenty-five cent piece. Perhaps it could be tolerated if it were as big as a half dollar, but that is surely the limit of reasonable weight in a coin.

These are the days that the suburban householder makes a melancholy conjecture as to whether his garden seeds are drowned or only waiting for a little warmth and sunshine.

Lindsay Town Clerk Censured.

The town clerk of Lindsay who was charged by the Citizens' League Committee with tampering with the voters' lists, was on the carpet before the town councillors. The result was that the clerk was exonerated from the charge of "Wilfully tampering with the lists," but was censured by the mayor and the council for being careless, and he was warned to be very careful that a re-currence of like events will not occur again in the future.

All England Fears for Queen Alexandra

London, May 10.— All England fears for Queen Alexandra, in spite of official reassurances as to her condition. While court officials declare she is physically in good condition, it is the firm belief of the public that the shock of Edward's death and her deep grief will have a permanent effect, especially in view of her age—she is 66.

Sir Francis Laking, one of the physicians who attended the late King in his last illness, today visited the Queen-mother. After his departure it was announced that there had been no change and that both Alexandra and Princess Victoria, her favorite daughter, enjoy very good health.

PRINCESS VICTORIA SUFFERS.

Princess Victoria has suffered as much as her mother in the last few days, if not more, but her youth has borne her through the strain. It is said she has comforted her mother with touching devotion.

It became known today that Alexandra was much affected last evening at the services held in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace, attended by all the royalities now here.

The elder Queen's devotion to her husband was one of the most potent factors in winning a place for both of them in the hearts of their subjects.

The suddenness of Edward's death proved a tremendous blow to her but it is known in the trying days of the funeral pomp that the strain is most feared. It is known that Alexandra is closely watched by her physicians.

WESTERN CROPS.

Winnipeg, May 10.—Spring business and trade in the West holds the pace at which it started; it seems, indeed to gather force as it progresses. That great essential of western growth great essential of western growth, the weather, continues to be of the best—neither too hot nor too cold and with plenty of rain for crop purposes. Under the stimulus of last year's wonderful crop, and with every promise of a harvest that will be enormously increased this year by reason of much greater areas planted, every line of business is going ahead with a rush.

THE WEATHER.

Northerly winds and cool.

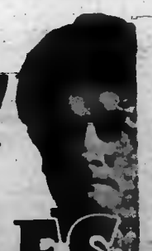
The Agony of PILES



ONLY those who suffer from piles know the misery it brings! It robs life of its pleasure, steals the brightness from existence, and substitutes days of dull pain and moments of acute agony. Most so called "remedies" give ease only for a time, and then—back comes the trouble and pain and misery! Zam-Buk cures Piles! And cures permanently. Proof of this lies all around you. Women and men in all stations of life have proved it—possibly some of your friends! Let it cure you!

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, of 253, Hochelaga St., Hochelaga, Montreal, says:—"I was a sufferer for years from blind, itching and protruding piles. The agony I suffered no one knows. Remedy after remedy proved useless. Day followed day and there was no relief for me—pain, loss of strength, dulness, misery, this was my experience until Zam-Buk was introduced. I know now that there is nothing on this earth like it! It cured me of piles, and once cured, I have had no return of the evil. I would like all women who suffer as I did to know that Zam-Buk will cure them!

Besides being a specific for piles Zam-Buk cures eczema, blood-poisoning, scratched or chapped hands, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, scalp sores, ringworm, bad leg, fever sore, cold sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50 c. box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto for price.

COLD ON THE CHEST.

Had Suffered for Weeks—Used Fourteen Different Remedies Without Effect.

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment. "Nerviline." I consider it the best remedy for a cold sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold that settled on my chest, that fourteen different remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline, and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 3785

"You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerviline.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 11, 1910.

KING GEORGE V.

King George the Fifth enters upon his reign in the ripe maturity of early middle age. Born forty-five years ago, he had in his early years the inestimable advantage of an early training in the Royal navy as a foundation for the schooling in state craft and diplomacy to which he has devoted himself since the death of Duke of Clarence in 1892. Under the tutelage of that past master of statesmanship, the late King, he has specially interested himself in the ideals, problems and development of the Over-seas Dominion. He has visited Canada, several times, Australia, New Zealand, the South African colonies and India, and all preparations had been made for his attendance at the inauguration of the South African federation this year. In his travels he has shown himself a keen observer, a careful student of institutions and customs and possessed of a sympathetic appreciation of the ideals of the different self-governing Dominions. His speech at Guildhall, on his return from his tour of the British possessions in 1901, was a stirring appeal to Great Britian for a better understanding of the point of view of the Over-sea Dominions. The traditional self-repression of the heir-apparent to the throne has prevented any wide knowledge of his personal sympathies and policies.

His accession to the throne is at a time to test his capabilities to the utmost, but there is no reason for believing that he will not prove equal to the burden which has been suddenly laid upon him. The traditions of his family, the example of his father, and the expectations of the vast Empire over which he has been so suddenly called upon to rule are incitements to sound and wise statesmanship, for which his long apprenticeship has well prepared him. The responsibilities of the throne have come to him without warning for the moment the Sovereign dies his successor takes office. The time of formal coronation is a matter to be arranged afterwards. When the late Queen Victoria succeeded to the throne she was little more than a child, but grey-haired ministers droved to call upon her and make their obeisance to the new monarch. Her Majesty was sleeping the calm sleep of healthy youth, when she was awakened to learn that the eyes of a great nation were turned towards their girl Queen. When her Majesty passed away full of years, and revered by all, the good people of the world, King Edward VII. was present and immediately was called upon to accept the duties and responsibilities of the Sovereign. Personal sentiment, personal joys, and personal griefs must give place to the necessities of the nation. "The King is dead, long live the King," is an unchangeable part of the constitution of the country without a written constitution. The prince and regent, the term and certainly of coronation comes later, but Britain is never without a Sovereign.

Satan Sanderson

Author of "Hearts Courageous," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

At the touch the mutterings ceased.

She bent and touched her lips to his forehead.

The eyes opened, and a confused, troubled look crept to them. Then they closed again, and the look faded out into a peace that remained.

A thrill ran through her, the sense of moral power of the weak over the strong, of the feminine over the masculine.

A rising flush stained her cheeks. With a sudden impulse and with a guilty backward glance she bent and touched her lips to his forehead.

She drew back quickly, her face flooded with color, caught her breath, then, drawing her hood over her head, went swiftly to the door and was lost in the darkness.

* * * * * * *

When toward midnight the fever ebbed, Sanderson had fallen into a deep sleep of exhaustion, from which he opened his eyes next morning upon the figure of Prendergast sitting, pipe in mouth, in the sunny doorway.

He lifted himself on his elbow. That crafty face had been inexplicably woven with the delirious fantasies of his fever. Where and when had he known it? Then in a great tide welled over him the memory of his last conscious hours—the scene in the saloon, the fight, the music, the sudden appalling discovery of his name and repute. He remembered the sickening wave of self disgust, the fierce agony of resentment that had beat in his every vein as he walked up the darkening street. He remembered the thrown quarts. No doubt another missile had struck home or he had been set upon, kicked and pommeled into insensibility. This old man—a miner probably, for there were picks and shovels in the corner—had succored him. He had been ill, there was lassitude in every limb, and shadowy recollections tantalized him. He retained a dim consciousness of a woman's face—the face he had seen on the balcony—leaning near him, bringing into a painful disorder a sense of grateful coolness, of fragrance and of rest.

As he stared again at the seated figure, the grim fact reared like a grisly specter, deriding, thrusting its beggard presence upon him. In this little community, which apparently he had forsaken and to which he had by chance returned, he stood a rogue and a scoundrel, a thing to point the finger at and to avoid. The question that had burned his brain to fire fanned up again. The town despised him. What had been his career? How had he become a pariah? And by what miracle had he been so altered as to look upon himself with loathing?

"I'm going to cook you some breakfast."

He lifted himself upright, dropping his feet to the floor. At the movement the man on the doorstep rose quickly and came forward.

"You're better, Hugh," he said. "Take it easy though. Don't get up just yet—I'm going to cook you some breakfast."

He turned to the hearth, kicked the smoldering log ends together and set a saucepan on them. "You'll be stronger when you've got something between your ribs," he added.

"How long have I been lying here?" asked Harry.

"Only since last night. You've had a fever."

"Where is my dog?"

"Dog?" said the other. "I never knew you had one."

Harry's lips set bitterly. It had fared more harshly, then, than he. It had been a ready object for the crowd to wreak their hatred upon, because it belonged to him—because it was Hugh Stires' dog!

"Is this your cabin, my friend?"

The figure bending over the hearth straightened itself with a jerk, and the blinking yellow eyes looked hard at him. Prendergast came close to the bunk.

"That's the game you played in the town," he said, with a curly sneer. "It's all right for those that take it in, but you needn't try to bamboozle me, pretending you don't know your own claim and cabin! I'm no such fool!"

A dull flush came to Harry's brow. Here was a page from that iniquitous past that faced him. His own cabin! And his own claim! Well, why not?

"You are mistaken," he said calmly. "I am not pretending. I cannot remember you."

Prendergast laughed in an ugly, derisive way. "I suppose you've forgotten the half year we've lived here together and the gold dust we've gathered in now and again—slipped it all, have you?"

Harry stood up. The motion brought a temporary dizziness, but it passed. He walked to the door and gazed out on the pleasant green of the hillside. On a tree near by was nailed a rough, weather beaten board on which was scrawled, "The Little Paymaster Claim." He saw the grass grown gravel trenches, evidence of abandoned work. He had been a miner. That in itself was honest toil.

"The claim is good, then," he said over his shoulder. "We found the pay."

OAK ORCHARD SOLD.

On Saturday last Captain S. R. Pearson of the Otonabee Navigation Co., Ltd., completed the sale of Oak Orchard, on Pigeon Lake, which he purchased about a year ago, making a handsome profit on the transaction. Oak Orchard consists of about 62 acres and is one of the most beautiful spots on Kawartha Lakes. It is understood that the purchasers, who are Americans propose to erect a fine summer hotel there. This is very much needed and there is no better location for a summer resort on Pigeon Lake. It is easily reached from Chemong or Bobcaygeon by boat, lying about half way between these points. Oak Orchard has been for many years a household word for a desirable summer outing place.

THE NEW IMMIGRANTS.

The problem of turning half a million new people every year into thorough Canadians is not one to be easily solved. Those who came from the United States with the intention of making this country their permanent home may be trusted to adapt themselves as speedily as possible to their new sociological and institutional environment in their own and their children's interests. They will have to bear their full share of the cost of administering the public services, and they will lose no time in fitting themselves by naturalization for exercising their full share of control over public affairs, both municipal and Provincial. Those who come from Great Britain do not as a rule need naturalisation, and they can at once lawfully participate in the work of governing the country. The greatest difficulty always has been and always will be how to Canadianize the European foreigner.

The most potent means of effecting the assimilation of foreigners is the general use of the English language, and to do the people from Europe justice they are eager to learn it for the practical purposes of every day life. The children learn it from their fellow pupils and their teachers at school, and the parents learn it from the children at home. Those who use the same language at play and at work leave themselves exposed to a great many influences that operate imperceptibly to instill into them the same aspirations and develop in them the same ideals. In order to know about the country they live in they must learn to read about it, and this they do with unusual rapidity.

The public school education, even when it is not by any means perfect, is useful as a culture medium for the development of the foreigner's general intelligence. It makes his new environment more interesting to him and gives him something to think and talk about. If Canadian history were always wisely taught him by the inductive and topical methods he would gradually form fairly clear conceptions of the extent of the Dominion, of its varied productions, of its transportation systems, of the racial elements of its population, and of its political and social institutions.

The churches are doing much to effect the Canadianization of the immigrant population of the West, and they will yet do more. As settlements formerly new grow old they become after a time self-sustaining and ultimately able to help those that are now the new ones. Much has been accomplished in this way, but for a long time the bulk of the cost of maintaining missions must continue to rest on the people of the eastern Provinces. There can be no doubt about the civilizing influence of these centers of religious energy. On the whole there is no justification for a pessimistic view of the situation, but it does not follow that there should be any relaxation of the precautions against the influx of "undesirable" immigrants.

A pain prescription is printed on each 25c. box of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist if this formula is not complete. Pains means congestion, blood pressure. Head pains, womanly pains pains anywhere get instant relief from a Pink Pain Tablet. Sold by all dealers.

National Mining & Tunnel Company

Our mines are in the greatest camp in America, Leadville, Col., a camp which has produced $425,000,000.00, and is now producing over $1,250,000.00 per month.

We have four hundred acres in the richest proven belt of the camp, Sugar Loaf Mt., containing twelve mines, which have produced to shallow workings of 150 feet, over $2,000,000. Our big tunnel being driven in from the base of the mountain will cut these vast ore bodies at depth, and make their millions of dollars worth of ore accessible to us.

Our tunnel is now in 900 feet and progressing at the rate of 225 feet per month. We will reach our mines in five months and become a big producer before 1911 closes.

J. C. F. Christian,
Mining Engineer,
Leadville, Colorado, January 15, 1909.

From comparatively shallow surface workings, the mines of Sugar Loaf Mountain have a record production of $12,000,000 in gold, silver lead and from some mines, copper producing ores.

The organizers of your company, realizing the conditions existing, readily grasped the situation and have successfully gathered under one head 400 acres of the most valuable mining property in the State of Colorado.

NERVOUSLY DEPRESSED.

A Case of Rapid Cure.

"Only for a few weeks did I experience the misery of duodenal indigestion," explains Miss Puckhard, the well-known school teacher of Bartonville, "but it taught me the need of conserving one's nervous strength. I am a teacher, and at the close of the school, year imposes a great strain upon those teaching advanced work. The trouble first manifested itself by occasional diarrhoeas, especially if new vegetables were used, then heart burn and feelings of depression followed two or three hours after meals. At first my physician said he feared structural changes in duodenum, liver and pancreas. Happily a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I had to use in one of the many severe attacks of constipation, which occasionally developed, proved this view was incorrect. But it shows how bad I was. Well, Dr. Hamilton's Pills caused natural evacuations and permitted the inflamated condition, causing all the trouble to subside. Perseverance finally removed the cause which I am sure was in the liver and lower bowel, and by school opening in September I was actually well enough to work effectively."

See if your symptoms are like those above described—if so, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will cure. Price 25c per box, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

The steamer Manita of the Otonabee Navigation Co., put into the water yesterday at the company's yards in Ashburnham. The steamer was launched without a hitch, slipping down the well greased ways like a thing of life and entering her future element in a way that reflected great credit upon those in charge of her reconstruction. Quite a number of people were interested observers of the launch and gave an involuntarily cheer as the Manita entered the Little Lake. The steamer will leave for Lindsay next week and will be engaged in the northern service of those waters during the coming season.

Former Local Journalist Killed.

A former Peterborough newspaper man, Isaac Brock, was accidentally killed in Chicago last Saturday. It seems that as Mr. Brock was crossing a street in the Windy City, he was knocked down and killed by a mail wagon. Mr. Brock, the deceased, was a cousin of Mr. Arthur M. Brock, the local watch repairer and jeweller. The deceased, whose parents live in Oshawa, came to Peterborough twenty-five years ago and during his stay in this city, filled the positions of editor on the Morning Times and Peterborough Examiner.

Architect Blackwell submitted his plans and specifications for the new isolation hospital, which were approved of.

Geo. Ball Cets Contract for Firemen's Uniform

The Tender is $366.65, Against $368 the Highest.—New and Complete Set of harness for Fire Hall to Be Purchased.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council met last night. There were present, Chairman Ald. Morgan, and Aldermen Graham, Metheral, Baller and Batten.

Mr. Cane asked that a hydrant opposite his property, corner of Aylmer and Wolfe streets be removed. This will be referred to the Board of Works.

Changes having been made by the city solicitor in the proposed five years agreement with the Bell Telephone Company for the maintenance of two fire alarm circuits, the draft form in its amended condition was read, and found satisfactory to the committee.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That the chairman and Fire Chief Howard interview the Bell Company regarding the matter.—Carried.

FIREMEN'S UNIFORMS.

The following tenders for firemen's uniforms were received:

C. J. Snider $354 00
George Ball 366 65
Ed. Huf 368 00

Ald. Metheral moved, seconded by Ald. Baller,—That the tender of Mr. Geo. Ball be accepted, and that the chairman and fire chief to see that the workmanship and material is up to the specifications.—Carried.

The Otonabee Power Company's request to erect additional poles was referred to the city engineer to report.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That two hydrants Reid, between London and Smith streets, be furnished.

The request for a hydrant on Sophia street, between Burnham and Mark streets, was laid over for investigation.

CHEMICAL ENGINE.

The proposition from the Brantford Fire Engine Company to supply a chemical engine was received.

NEW COLLARS AND TUGS.

Ald. Morgan reported that he had ordered a much needed new set of collars and tugs for the fire hall. The bretchens and lines also need renewing.

The chairman was authorized to order a new set of harness complete.

Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Buller,—That Mr. Mein's account of $62.93, for laying brick, furnishing sand, mortar, coloring, etc., for the fire hall extension, be paid.—Carried.

TO MOVE LIGHT.

Ald. Graham moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That the Peterborough Light and Power Company be requested to move the light on Hunter street, at the bridge, six feet west of the new siding, and put the light in the center of the street.—Carried.

The firemen asked that the perquisites that they sometimes get from large fires be left in their own hands instead of those in the committee. The men have been in the habait of vesting such monies in a benefit fund to meet any possible contingency that may arise. The firemen have now $40 or $50 in the treasury.

The chief favored the men's request, on the grounds that in case of an accident the cash would be available for aid to the afflicted.

The committee thought this fund should remain where it is, in the chairman's hands.

ILLICIT WHISKEY.

County Constable Cochrane Seizes Part of a Still on Stewart St.

It seems that even a reduction of licenses will not fully curb the appetite of some men for the contents of a glass that cheers and inebriates For some time the local officers of the Inland Revenue Department have been aware that "wild cat" whiskey has been distilled in this neighborhood. This illicit nectar is usually known as "Potcen," and generally has concealed in its limpid depths about seventeen fights and a case of manslaughter to the quart.

Yesterday afternoon on instructions from the local officers. High County Constable Cochrane made an important arrest when he took into custody, two men, Nat Pearson and Richard Bell, who are charged with operating an illicit still.

Part of the still was found at the repair shop of Lewis Spry, Stewart street, and this eventually led to the arrest of the two men.

The case will be heard before Magistrate Dumble, probably in the early part of next week. Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon have been acting for the department of the Minister of Justice.

FAMOUS McLAUGHLIN CASE

DECLARES HE DID NOT MURDER WIFE AND CHILDREN

COMMENCED YESTERDAY

TELLS OF CONVERSATION ABOUT MISS NIX WITH PRISONER.

Cautioned By the Judge—McLaughlin Had Spoken Highly of Young Woman—Letters Had Passed Between Them.

"Not guilty, your honor," replied McLaughling in a quiet even voice to Clerk McGillivray, who read the the three indictments of murder standing against him. During the proceeding of choosing the jury McLaughlin sat in the box with his arms folded, and also during the time they were taking their seats in the box.

Whitby, May 11.—The famous McLaughlin trial commenced this morning. As early as 8 o'clock people began to arrive at the court house, while from all over the country, spectators are flocking into town.

So great has been the interest in the case that early yesterday evening the hotel accommodation was filled to its capacity. The witnesses are now all present.

Whitby, May 11.—Previous to calling the witnesses this afternoon they were excluded from the room so that each would not hear the other's evidence.

Thomas Palmer, a bar tender of the Bascom House, Uxbridge, was the first witness. He stated that he saw the prisoner on October 29, the night of the fire, at 7.45. He took three or four glasses of lager, and did not appear to be rational. The witness also saw the prisoner after the fire. On Sunday he called up to my room, the witness said, and Bert Harsall came up to the room and wanted to go to church, and was going home next Sunday, but the prisoner said he did not know where he would be next Sunday, in the grave or behind the bars. Under cross-examination by Henderson, the witness admitted he had first told McLaughlin that the statements made regarding the grave and bars was made after the witness had told him of various accusations against him.

WENT FOR A DRIVE.

Bert Lott, musician, of Uxbridge, said he drove to Sunderland with McLaughlin when he went to see Miss Nix at Charter's house and McLaughlin asked him what would the people say if he ran away with the girl. The defendant also took Miss Nix for a drive. He did not, however, say he loved the girl. Lott also said he told McLaughlin there was no use for him going with Miss Nix when he could not marry her and there was "nothing doing."

McLaughlin replied that she was all right.

JUDGE'S INTERRUPTIONS.

Percy Kempt, a harness maker, saw McLaughlin at the night of the fire and was with him until ten o'clock. They had some drinks at the Bascom House and about nine o'clock went to the bowling alley and stayed until ten o'clock.

"Did you have any conversation about a woman with the prisoner?" asked Mr. Blackstock.

"McLaughlin and I were standing corner one evening,' on a corner one evening," was the reply, "and the prisoner said he knocked around with the girl, Miss Nix."

"I thought as a witness you would have your mind clear and not invent anything," said his lordship to the witness in a pleasant way, meaning to say anything to hurt McLaughlin, and said he could not remember to the most of the Crown's questions.

"Now, tell me. I must know," said Mr. Blackstock.

"Well, he said he had been with her and had relations with her," was the unwilling reply.

HAD RECEIVED LETTERS.

"Yes, he had also had letters from her. He showed me it at the bank corner. He showed me the letter before the fire, and he read me the letter saying it was from his sweetheart.

The writer of the letter said she was afraid she was going to break up his home. Kempt said he knew the prisoner had received other letters from the girl.

The witness said McLaughlin had spoken highly of the girl during the cross examination, and maintained McLaughlin had been intimate with the girl.

A DISGRUNTLED VISITOR.

He Says Our Prairies are a Frozen Hell.

One can only conjecture what must have happened in Canada to a certain Englishman who recently visited this country, that he should celebrate his return by contributing an article to London Opinion on "Heaven or Frozen Hell, a Sidelight on the Canadian Emigration Boom." This man, who says he is an experienced journalist has his fling at Canada in the following language:

"Do I believe in Canada as a land of Canaan for the bulk of the people sent out from England? Decidedly no. I spent a summer there, and now I have come back from spending most part of the present winter. Each time I crossed from coast to coast, and left the beaten track along the railroad line. Our people are deceived. They are told of the Canadian summer; the Canadian winter—when the prairies are for many thousands of people a frozen hell—is never mentioned. The emigration literature, issued free, tells of successful farmers; it says nothsteaders.

The intending emigrant is probably not aware that he must build a wooden house, purchasing his timber possibly thirty miles away and hauling it to the spot. Then he must dig a well, and perhaps after digging 200 feet down he finds no water, for which he may have to go some miles to a creek or river. He has to plough a certain portion of the frozen earth and fence his farm. He must procure horses, a plough, a cart, seed and other stock. He must furnish his house and supply it with provisions and fuel for the long winter. How many emigrants from home have the money to do these things? Those who have not must become bond-slaves to other farmers, and must run into debt, which hangs around their necks like a millstone for many years."

Now that our attention is drawn to the matter, we are forced to confess that some of the things which this "experienced journalist" says are only too true. The emigrant has to make his own home, do his own ploughing, dig his own wells, endure hardships. Think of it, he has to work! He cannot sit on his doorstep and smoke his pipe while the obliging natives do his harvesting for him. He has to go into debt. He has to make good.

It may be safely said that the emigrant who goes West with the idea ofhaving other people make his fortune for him will be disappointed. And if he has been a chronic failure "at home" there is only a slight chance of his being anything else in Canada. But the man who has done well in a small way in England has the opportunity to do well in a much larger way in the Canadian West. For a few years he may find the burden of his heavy debt upon him, but the very fact that his position as a homesteader ensures him a certain amount of credit is proof that there is, in this country, a general and well-founded confidence in the final success of any energetic man who takes up Western lands. We fancy that most of the "disappointed British homesteaders" are men who are unfitted for the task of homesteading in any land, or else were possessed of get-rich-quick ideas which did not harmonize with the reality of hard work. The West does not offer something for nothing, but it pays high interest on an investment of industry, sobriety, and intelligence. With those qualities most immigrants will find their success assured.

SERIOUS EXPLOSION IS REPORTED ON THE BRITISH BATTLESHIP LONDON

London, May 11.—Reports are current at Dover of a serious cylinder explosion on the flagship London of the British Atlantic battleship fleet in Norwegian waters.

The reports cannot be confirmed here.

The London is a twin-screw battleship of 15,000 tons displacement, and was commissioned in 1902. She cost $5,169,975. She carries four 12-inch guns, twelve 6-inch, sixteen 12-pounders, and eight 3-pounders.

The London's captain is E. M. Chatfield. Her compliment is 757 officers and men.

Otonabee Claims First Victim This Season

The River Otonabee that furnishes Peterborough with its splendid power and keeps the wheels of our factories busily turning every year demands its toll of human life. Its first victim this spring, as far as this city is concerned was demanded yesterday morning when little fourteen-year-old Vernet Valois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Valois, Woodbine Ave. Ashburnham, was drowned. It seems that the boy while walking on the wooden structure above the dam, "stubbed his toe," (as described by an eye witness of the catastrophe) tripped and fell into the surging torrent. It is only justice to the Peterborough Light and Power Company to say that notices are posted warning the public that the locality is dangerous. The dead boy was an employe of the Peterborough Lock Lock Company, and was on his way to work when the accident happened. He was carried over the slide in a second and borne down the river in the swift current against which his efforts were unavailing. The old Dickson Company bridge, which, since the erection of the new dam, has been used by pedestrians, was closed some weeks ago, when all the traffic coming that way has been over the new dam. There are of course no hand rails along the bridge, above the dam. The bridge, however, is used by hundreds of people daily, owing to its convenience in spite of the element of danger that enters into the passage over the structure.

P. C. Menarry got a large punt during the afternoon and made a vigorous search for the dead boys' body. The sympathy of the community will be extended to the bereaved parents.

It might be added that only last week the deceased was insured in the Union Life Assurance Company. A cheque for the full amount will be issued in due course of time payable to the bereaved mother.

French Astronomer Says that Gas may Poison the Earth

HYPOTHESIS REGARDING HALLEY'S TAIL NOT NEARLY SO ABSURD AS SUGGESTED.

Its Orbit Being Changed—Variation of the Comet's Course May Bring Along Surprises.

Paris, May 11.— Astronomers in France are making observations on Halley's comet that are attracting the greatest interest.

Marice Hamy, of the Paris observatory, reports that the length of the tail has increased from five to ten degrees in three days.

Professor Deslandres, of the University of Dijon, finds a reappearance in the speroscope of cyanogen, the poisonous gas which was observed in January and February, but which disappeared in March. In his report he says the hypothesis that the gas is liable to affect the terrestial atmosphere would not be at all absurd.

On the other hand, Camille Flammarion thinks that the tail of the comet is simply an optical phenomenon produced by the flight through ether, similar to the wake of a ship at sea.

M. Marchand maintains that the comet shows important variations from its predicted orbit, which presage unexpected surprises.

APSLEY NEWS.

Mr. T. G. Eastland Disposes of His General Store—Will Be Greatly Missed—Other Apsley News.

Apsley, May 12.—Mr. T. G. Eastland, has disposed of his store business to Mr. Wm. Tucker, one of our best known and most popular citizens. Mr. Eastland who has been in business for 31 years, is very popular, and will be greatly missed by everyone. Of a kindly nature he has made hosts of friends, who will regret his retirement. Mr. Tucker is to be congratulated on securing a fine business, which is in a flourishing shape.

Mr. Zack Tucker has given up the hotel business, and the place has been leased by Mr. Bea Coones.

Mr. Andrew Pattison and family are leaving for the West this week, where they will reside hereafter.

HOSPITALS OVERCROWDED.

Port Limon, May 7.—With the arrival of new details today, the horror of the Cartago earthquake grows. With more than 600 bodies recovered from the ruins there, a conservative estimate of the number of dead in the quake soon today placed the total at more than 2,500. In the entire town of Cartago of 12,000 inhabitants, not a building is standing whole. Slight shocks today increased the terror of the inhabitants. Several parties of rescuers have been trapped or buried by falling walls since the first great shock.

The receipt of news that the United States would send aid was greeted rejoicingly.

King George's Address to the British Army

"My beloved father was always closely associated with the army by ties of strong personal attachment, and from the first day he entered the service he identified himself with everything conducive to its welfare. On my accesion to the throne I take this earliest opportunity of expressing to all ranks my gratitude for their gallant and devoted services to him. Although I have always been interested in the army, late years have afforded me special opportunities of becoming more intimately acquainted with our forces both at home and in India, as well as in other parts of the Empire. I shall watch over your interests and efficiency with continuous and keen solicitude, and shall rely on that spirit of loyalty which has at all times animatmated and been the proud tradition of the British Army.

GEORGE, R. I.

King George's Address to the British Navy

"It is my earnest wish on succeeding to the throne to make known to the navy how deeply grateful I am for its faithful and distinguished services, rendered to the late King, my beloved father, who ever showed the greatest solicitude for its welfare and efficiency. Educated and trained in that profession, which I love so dearly, my retirement from active duty has in no sense diminished my feelings of affection for it. For 33 years I had the honor of serving in the navy, and such intimate participation in its life and work enables me to know how thoroughly I can depend upon that spirit of locayilty and zealous devotion to duty of which the glorious history of our navy is the outcome. That you will ever continue to be, as in the past the foremost defender of your country's honor I know full well and your fortunes will always be followed by me with deep feelings of pride and affectionate interest.

GEORGE, R. I."

THE CRUISER RAINBOW WILL SOON ARRIVE—STATIONED IN THE WEST

Ottawa, May 11. — Commander Stewart, R.N., who has been in Ottawa since last October in connection with the arrangements for the Canadian navy, has been appointed to command the Rainbow, the intial cruiser purchased, and will leave in two weeks to bring out the ship from England. The cruiser will proceed direct to Esquimault, B.C., where she will be stationed.

The latest advices are that the Niobe will not be ready to leave before the end of the July. She has to go in the docks which are crowded now with ships being got in readiness for the naval manoeuvres.

TENDERS FOR OTHER SHIPS.

It is improbable that tenders for the construction of the other ships of the navy will be called for before fall. The intervening time or much of it, will be occupied in preparing specifications, and determining matters of policy. There is a great deal of speculation locally as to who will be deputy minister of naval affairs. The position presumably will require knowledge of naval matters. Admiral Kingsmill may act until the ships of the proposed navy are ready.

Berlin, May 11.—Because Colonel Roosevelt's train arrived exactly on time today there was much confusion in the reception plans at the railway station. The authorities had been informed that the train was thirty minutes late, and with the exception of Baron Von Sebeon, Minister of Foreign Affairs and his brilliant staff, there was no one to meet the colonel.

The Kaiser had planned to have his imperial guard drawn up at the station to welcome the colonel and to convey the Roosevelts to the American embassy in the Imperial carriages.

The guard, resplendent with gold and lace, and the Imperial carriages rich with their trappings, all arrived, bundled into taxicabs and started after the Roosevelts had been for the embassy.

GOT THEIR CALLINGS.

When the Kaiser heard of the mistake, he was greatly "fussed" and unbraided those in charge of the reception plans for their carelessness.

The shadow of King Edward's death was clearly in evidence in the German capital and instead of the fanfare and wild acclaim which would have greeted the ex-president, had the Kaiser adhered to his original plan of receiving Roosevelt in person and taking him to the palace as his own and the nation's guest, the distinguished visitor found the populace keenly interested but subdued.

IT SLUGS HARD.

Coffee a Sure and Powerful Bruiser.

"Let your coffee slave be denied his cup at its appointed time! Headache—sick stomach—fatigue like unto death. I know it all in myself, and have seen it in others. Strange that thinking, reasoning beings, will persist in its use," says a Topeka, Kan man.

He says further that he did not begin drinking coffee until after he was twenty years old, and that slowly it began to poison him, and affect his hearing through his nervous system.

"Finally I quit coffee and the conditions slowly disappeared, but one cold morning the smell of my wife's coffee was too much for me and I took a cup. Soon I was drinking my regular allowance, tearing down brain and nerves by the daily dose of the nefarious concoction.

"Later, I found my breath coming hard and frequent fits of nausea, and then I was taken down with bilious fever.

"Common sense came to me and I quit coffee for good and went back to Postum. I at once began to gain and have had no return of my bilious symptoms, headache, dizziness, or vertigo.

"I now have health, bright thoughts, and added weight, where before there was invalidism, the blues, and a skeleton-like condition of the body.

"My brother quit coffee because of its effect on his health, and now uses Postum. He could not stand the nervous strain while using coffee, but keeps well on Postum.

"Miss F., I know personally, was incapable of doing a day's work while she was using coffee. She quit it and took up postum and is now well and has perfectly steady nerves."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE CRUISER RAINBOW WILL SOON ARRIVE—STATIONED IN THE WEST

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

When a Girl Leads the Band.

During the recent run of the new comic opera "Miss Molly May," at the Hackett Theatre, New York, the song that made the biggest hit was "When a Girl Leads the Band," sung by Grace La Rue. The words and music of this stirring march song will be published in next Sunday's New York World.

A TARIFF INVESTIGATION.

The Buffalo Express makes a very reasonable suggestion in connection with the proposal to spend a quarter million dollars in tariff investigation, that Congress should show intention to make use of such information when secured. It (says of the administration's plan to begin the new fiscal year with a very comprehensive inquiry into the cost of production of the leading articles of industry;

"This is a step forward but it is not enough to excuse Congress from action on information already in its possession or within the reach of every member! It will be useless to spend money in investigating what ought to be done without some guaranty that something will be done. The adoption at once of even one bill correcting some obvious injustice in the Payne-Aldrich law would show that some practical results might be expected from the proposed investigation and the public might then be content to wait."

The pulp and paper schedule is pointed out as an example of opportunity for Congress to do something. The Express truly says that "this schedule has already been thoroughly investigated all around! The paper manufacturers whom Congress thought it was protecting have been hurt even more than the consumers and the country narrowly escaped a tariff war with Canada on account of this blunder. Why wait for another investigation before correcting it? If Congress will not, even with the results of this fully before its eyes, accept the results of the investigation already made how can anyone have confidence that it will accept the result of any other investigation?"

The sugar and beef chedules are also referred to the latter especially. "We do not need to know," says the Express, "the difference between the cost of producing beef in this country and in Argentina or Australia. It is conceded on all sides that our domestic production has fallen far below the demands of the market. We need a greater supply, whether the cost of production be less or more."

WAS FIRST USED IN THE PROCLAMATION OF KING EDWARD.

High Court Official Declares Ceremony May Have to be Repeated if King is to Reign Legally—Investigation Among Heralds.

London, May 10.—No sooner was the splendor of yesterday's progression ceremonies past, it was learned today, than an egregious blunder was discovered which, it was declared, might necessitate the repetition of the entire spectacle.

This was the absence from the official printed program, as read by the heralds, of the words, among the King's titles, "and for the British Dominions beyond the seas."

FIRST USED BY KING EDWARD.

This term, formally proclaiming the ruler's title to jurisdiction over the colonies, was first used in the proclamation of the acknowledgment of Edward VII.

Although the form of George's program was supposed to have been identical with that of his father, the omission occurred not only in the document read to London, but in the official copies used in the provincial cities.

A high court official today declared that there seemed little likelihood of avoiding a repetition of the pageant and ceremony, if George were to reign legally, but that an investigation had been begun to ascertain if the heralds included the phrase verbally in spite of its absence from the printed documents.

The Privy Council was today notified of a meeting with the object of finally and officially selecting the new titles of the Royal family.

It is still undecided whether Queen Alexandra will take the title of Queen Mother or Queen Dowager. To the people she will probably remain Queen Alexandra to her death.

As for choosing the King's title, that is done. His consort is known as Queen Mary, at the request of the late King, who several months ago expressed a wish that she be so known when George ascended the Throne.

The Crown Prince, it is believed, will become Prince of Wales without delay.

All this, however, is officially in the hands of the Earl Marshal and the Privy Council.

London, May 10.—While the body of the late King Edward lay encased in its leaden coffin in the throne room of Buckingham Palace today, King George V. took up the reins of government and held his first official consultation with the Premier of Great Britain. Prime Minister Asquith, who arrived here from Spain late last night, this morning hastened to Marlborough House, where he was received without delay by the new King, prior to summoning the Cabinet for a special meeting.

WILL FOLLOW ROUTINE.

Political leaders, though refraining from absolute statements, have made it certain that for the next few months England's legislators will follow for the most part, routine. Besides the political necessity, the one demand now made by financial interests is that the two great parties—the Unionists and Liberals—work in harmony in tiding over the stress that is inevitable after the death of a monarch.

CARE MUST BE EXERCISED.

The long fight over the 1909 Budget and the period of speculation marking the months preceding Edward's death have left the money market in such a state, it is known that only careful political management can avert financial trouble.

It is understood that the Premier today when conferring with the King advocated a Parliament of normal length, being continued beyond May 26, the date previously selected for adjournment.

Berlin, May. 5.—The Kaiser warned a son of Prof. Erhardt, who is a freshman at Freiburg University, and a member of the students' corps in which the agility to drink great quantities of beer is one of the chief qualifications. The Kaiser said the beer habit was injuring not only the individual students but the German nation, with the result that both were falling behind foreigners, particularly Englishmen and Americans. The latter took a more sensible view of drinking by youths. The attitude of the Kaiser is commended by thoughtful people, including many students, but is treated with ridicule by adherents to bibulous traditions.

London, May 5.—Donald Armour, the eminent Canadian surgeon and son of the distinguished jurist presided in a most acceptable manner at the Canadian Club dinner last night. He said that Canadians were a nation within the Empire, and realized that the privileges and burdens of a nation were inseparable. They had received the power to arrange their own tariffs, yet were determined to give a preference to the Motherland. If they claimed control of their own naval and military forces, they, at the same time were determined that these should always be available for the defence of the Empire. Canadians more than ever believed that the prosperity of the colonies depended upon permanent connection with the Motherland.

Sir G. Reid, Australian Commissioner, who was the chief guest, said "Providence formerly relieved us of the necessity of caring for the Empire, but the time has come to give Providence a rest. Our strength consists in reinforcing yours. Regulation to the effect that only the local governments could decide whether the local forces should participate in an Imperial war would, if danger appeared, become waste paper. (Great cheering).

Mr. McMaster, M.P., warned the colonies that if the anti-Lords proposal carried, the Commons could, though highly improbable, abolish those contributions which are regarded by the dominions beyond the seas as the palladium of their liberties. The maintenance of British connection should not depend on the will or temporary whim of a single chamber.

London, May 10.— All England fears for Queen Alexandra, in spite of official reassurances as to her condition. While court officials declare she is physically in good condition, it is the firm belief of the public that the shock of Edward's death and her deep grief will have a permanent effect, especially in view of her age—she is 66.

Sir Francis Laking, one of the physicians who attended the late King in his last illness, today visited the Queen-mother. After his departure it was announced that there had been no change and that both Alexandra and Princess Victoria, her favorite daughter, enjoy very good health.

PRINCESS VICTORIA SUFFERS.

Princess Victoria has suffered as much as her mother in the last few days, if not more, but her youth has borne her through the strain. It is said she has comforted her mother with touching devotion.

It became known today that Alexandra was much affected last evening at the services held in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace, attended by all the royalities now here.

The elder Queen's devotion to her husband was one of the most potent factors in winning a place for both of them in the hearts of their subjects.

The suddenness of Edward's death proved a tremendous blow to her but it is known in the trying days of the funeral pomp that the strain is most feared. It is known that Alexandra is closely watched by her physicians.

Paris, May 7.—Premier Briand and cabinet personally called upon British Ambassador Bertie early today to express their condolences, and as soon as Foreign Minister Pinchon, who is absent from the city, reaches Paris, an extraordinary mission will be appointed to attend the funeral. President Loubet, whose exchange of visits with King Edward in 1903 resulted in the Anglo-French entente, probably will head the mission.

Most of the French papers appear with black borders today, and their editorials sound a common note of grief which may be summed up in the words of the Matin, which says: "England has lost a great king, the world a great figure and France a great friend."

WESTERN CROPS.

Winnipeg, May 10.—Spring business and trade in the West holds the pace at which it started; it seems, indeed to gather force as it progresses. That great essential of western groeRth the weather, continues to be of the best—neither too hot nor too cold and with plenty of rain for crop purposes. Under the stimulus of last year's wonderful crop, and with every promise of a harvest that will be enormously increased this year by reason of much greater areas planted, every line of business is going ahead with a rush.

BIGGEST MAN IS DEAD.

The Locust Valley Hotel Proprietor Weighed 568 Pounds.

Locust Valley, N.Y., May 9.—William H. Burnet, who is supposed to have been one of the biggest and heaviest men in the world, is dead. He weighed 568 pounds. He was of ordinary height, but measured six feet and eight inches around the waist. He wore a 22½-inch collar.

Mr. Burnet kept a hotel at Locust Valley, and despite his great weight was an active fireman. He was born here on May 16, 1862. He leaves a wife.

ATTITUDE OF NEW KING.

The political epents of the next few months will be governed largely by the attitude of King George, whose standpoint has never been known (o the general public. From all that can be ascertained, it is believed that George favors the Tories even to a greater extent than did his father, and it is probable that he will throw every obstacle in the way of curtailing the veto powers of the Lords, or at least until that problem has been put to the nation in a general election.

RATS ATE MONEY.

Trenton Merchant Solves Mystery of Its Disappearance.

Trenton, May 10.—A well-known merchant in a nearby village, for the first time in his business career, left a sum of money in the till over night recently. In the morning he discovered that $25 in bills was missing and concluded that someone must have taken it, although doors and windows showed no evidence of and windows showed no evidence that any person could have entered the building during the night. A few days later in another part of the building a mouse nest was found and among other torn papers were found the bills chewed and torn almost beyond recognition. The bills were so badly mutiliated that their numbers could at be fod. It wa certily a aaaa could not be found. It was certainly a costly nest.

To Explore Mines.

Toronto, May 5.—Five important parties will be sent out next week by the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines, to make a thorough exploration of the mineral deposits in five districts where reports of valuable finds have recently been made. There are the coal fields about the Metagami River, the Porcupine gold district, the gold region surrounding Sturgeon Lake, northwest of Lake Superior, the Port Arthur silver district and Lake of the Woods and the Seine River, in both of which gold has been found lately. The expedition to the Metagami coal fields will act independently of the one to be sent out by the T. & N.O. R. Commission. The party going into the Porcupine will be larger than the others, as a speedy report has been considered advisable. In the Lake of the Woods district, the government has received information that the old mining activity will be revived and a number of the mines re-opened. The government mining engineers will test not only these old mines but new districts surrounding them.

The reports of these mining men may have an important bearing on the mineral development of the Province and may open up new areas hitherto almost unsuspected.

LIVEN LAZINESS.

Those Who Lack Energy and are Unsuccessful Should Read This Closely.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I would soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first glimpse of hope. From the very first I could see they were different from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I felt much better, the sluggish action gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well-known grocer dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you will enjoy long life and robust good health. Prendergast contemplated him a moment in grim silence, with a scowl. "You're either really fuddled, Hugh," he said then, "or else you're a star play actor and up to something deep. Well, have it your own way—it's all the same to me. But you can't pull the wool over my eyes long!"

There were mockery and threat in his tone; but, more than both, the evil intimacy in his words gave Harry a qualm of disgust. This man had been his associate. That one hour in the town had shown him what his own life there had been.

What should he do? Forsake forever the neighborhood where he had made his blistering mark? Fling all aside and start again somewhere and leave behind this disgraceful present, with that face that had looked into his from above the dusty street?

If fate intended that, why had it turned him back? If such was the bed he had made, he would lie in it. He would drink the gall and vinegar without whimpering. Whatever lay behind he would live it down. This man at least had befriended him.

He turned into the room. "Perhaps I shall remember after awhile." He took the saucepan from Prendergast's hand. "I'll cook the breakfast," he said.

Prendergast filled his pipe and watched him. "I guess there are bats in your belfry, sure enough, Hugh," he said at length. "You never offered to do your stint before."

Chapter 16

FROM the moment her kiss fell upon the forehead of the delirious man in the cabin Jessica began to be a prey to new emotions, the significance of which she did not comprehend. That kiss, she told herself that night, had been given to her dead ideal that had lain there in its purifying grave clothes of forgetfulness. Yet it burned on her lips, as that other kiss in a darkened room had burned afterward, but with a sense of pleasure, not of hurt. It took her back into crimson meadows with her lost girlhood and its opaled outlook—and Hugh.

But largest of all in her mind next day was anxiety. She must know how he fared. In the open daylight she could not approach the cabin, but she reflected that the doctor had been there and no doubt had carried some report of him to the town. So as the morning grew she rode down the mountain ostensibly to get the cherry cordial she had left behind her the day before, really to satisfy her hunger for news.

As it happened Mrs. Halloran's first greeting set her anxiety at rest. Prendergast had bought some tobacco at the general store an hour before while she had been making her daily order, and the storekeeper had questioned him. To an interested audience he had told of the finding of Hugh on the mountain road in a sort of crazy fever and enlarged upon the part the girl on horseback had played. Hugh was all right now, he said, except that he didn't remember him or the cabin or Smoky Mountain.

What Prendergast had said Mrs. Halloran told Jessica in a breath. Before she finished she found that Jessica had not heard of the incident in the saloon which had precipitated the fight with Devlin, and with sympathetic rhetoric Mrs. Halloran told this too.

"Why does Smoky Mountain hate him so? What has he done?" asked Jessica.

Mrs. Halloran shook her head. "I never knew anything myself," she said judiciously. "I reckon the town allus counted him just a general low down. The rest is only suspicion an' give the dog a bad name."

There had been comfort for Jessica in this interview. Mrs. Halloran's story had materially increased the poignant force of her pity. What had seemed to her a vulgar brawl had been in reality a courageous and unselfish championship of a defenseless outcast. Thinking of this, the self-blame and contrition which she had felt when she listened to the victim assailed her anew, till she seemed a very part of the guilt, an equal sinner by omission.

Yet she rode homeward that day with almost a light heart.

* * * * * * *

As Harry stood in the cabin doorway looking after Prendergast toward the town, glistening far below in the morning sunlight, he thought bitterly of his reception there.

"They all knew me," he thought. "Every one knew me—on the street in the hotel. They know me for what I have been to them. Yet to me it is a blank. What shameful deeds have I done?" He shrank from memory now. "What was I doing so far away, when I was I going, on the night when I was picked up beside the railroad tracks? I may be a drunkard," he said to himself. "No, in the past month I have drunk hard, but not for the taste of the liquor. I may be a gambler, I may be a cheat, a thief. Yet how is it possible for bad deeds to be blotted out and leave no trace? Actions breed habit if they do not spring from it, and habit automatically repeated becomes character. I feel no inherent propensity to rob or defraud. Shall I? Will these things come back to me if I commit them?"

Speaking of loyalty, yesterday a small boy drawing a little express cart along the George street pavements, had a three-foot long flag pole firmly nailed to his cart. On the pole was a good-sized Union Jack at half mast.

He did not know that she of whom he wondered in the bitterest of those hours had been very near him; that on her way up the mountain she had stolen down to the Knob to look through the parted bushes to the cabin with the blue spiral rising from its chimney.

Though the homely task to which he turned failed to allay his struggle by

"NOT GUILTY" SAID YOUNG THOS. FINTON

HEARING OF YOUNG FARMER'S TRIAL FOR MURDER OF HIS FATHER BEGINS.

Discovery of the Body—Victim's Brother, Who is Cripple and Almost Helpless, the First Witness to Take Stand.

Hamilton, May 12.—"Not Guilty." In a clear firm voice, Tom Finton, the young farmer, pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Jelfs at his preliminary hearing to a charge that he did unlawfully and with malice afore thought, murder his father, Elijah S. Finton, at his home on the Barton road, on the morning of Tuesday, April 26t Finton did not show any emotion. A moment before he had a talk with his counsel, George Lynch-Staunton, K.C.

FIFTEEN WITNESSES CALLED.

Fifteen witnesses will be called. The first to go on the stand was Geotge Finton, the victim's brother, who is a nervous wreck. Tuesday tempted to end his life, but his relations night in a fit of despondency he attives prevented him and he has been under surveillance since.

The court room was crowded. Long before the doors were thrown open hundreds lined the streets anxious to see the young prisoner, but he was brought to court early this morning by detectives. Finton spoke to them of the good treatment he was receiving at the jail, but he objected to an order preventing him from talking to any person. He was neatly dressed, and the short beard he wore, when he was up last Thursday, had been shaved off, making a remarkable difference in his appearance.

Mr. Ed. Vinette Searches for Body.

Mr. Ed. Vinette, one of the best known experts of the Otonabee River's currents and eddies was last night engaged in hunting for the body of the late lad. V. Valois. Mr. Vinette has a punt and made a thorough search. It is generally supposed that the back undertow from the dam had taken the body under it. Still, if any man in Peterborough, as a result of knowledge of the vagaries of the Otonabee currents and eddies, can locate the deceased, Vinette is the man.

FOOD FOR MEMORY.

The Kind That Builds Up the Brain.

It is hard to believe that certain kinds of food will strengthen the memory, and yet upon the condition of the brain depends the character of the mind, and its power to remember and to exert itself in various ways, and a healthy brain can only be maintained by well selected food.

Now we know that daily use of the brain uses up certain parts that are thrown out through the pores to the outer surface of the skin. This waste is natural and must be made up from food.

Grape-Nuts food was made especially to rebuild the brain and nerve centres. An experience in Chicago will illustrate:

"I had a terrible seige of gastritis; my stomach refused everything in the way of food until I got hold of Grape-Nuts. It was perfectly wonderful and marvellous to see the difference—I began to improve at once.

"I weighed myself about that time and found that I had 118 pounds to my credit. I gained in weight, strength and health steadily and rapidly, and now weight 160 pounds and am strong and in better health than ever in my life.

"I have lately had a seven months' course of instruction in vocal music, and have memorized 58 songs and most of the accompaniments besides several piano pieces. When I started in it seemed difficult to memorize one, but my memory has been growing better every day and I now find it easy to commit to memory without difficulty.

"I have taken no medicine, but my steady diet of Grape-Nuts food has given me strength, health and memory."

Read "The Road to Wellville," found in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

TAX REFORM.

Mr. F. E. Coulter, Secretary of Tax Reform and Direct Legislature League to Speak Here.

Mr. Arthur B. Farmer of the Tax Reform and Direct Legislation League, with offices at Room 43, 75 Yonge street, Toronto, was in the city yesterday, arranging for a meeting here. Mr. F. E. Coulter, secretary of the league, will speak here under auspices of the Board of Trade in the council chamber on the evening of Thursday, May 26th. It will be remembered that Mr. A. E. Fripp of Ottawa, delivered a speech in the Ontario Legislature, on March 10th last, in reference to the principle and platform of the league. The premier, however, thought the matter was not yet given a general enough support and the matter was temporarily dropped in parliament. The object of the league is to bring sufficient pressure to bear on the legislature to have taxation of improvement values at a lower rate than land values. As this is a matter of general interest and well worth serious consideration, the meeting referred to will undoubtedly be largely attended.

ONE HUNDRED MINERS ENTOMBED IN MINE

White Haven, May 12.—An explosion today in the Wellington coal mine entombed 137 miners. The explosion wrecked the mine and set it on fire, and it will be hours before the rescuing parting can reach the chamber where the men are imprisained. It is feared that the death list will be heavy.

The mine, which extended for four miles under the ocean, belongs to the Earl of Lonsdale.

American Balloonists Drop Senseless to Earth

Glasgow, Ky., May 11.— Bearing numerous cuts and bruises, and possibly internal injuries and with only occasional periods of consciousness, A. Holland Forbes, of New York, holder of the Lahm trophy, and J. C. Yates, a New York astronomer, who accompanied him in a flight against the balloon record distance, are lying in a farm house six miles north of Center, which is just about 20 miles from this city. The balloon Viking, with which they ascended at Quincy, Ills., is a mass of tangled silk and cord, torn beyond repair.

During the intervals when the aeronauts were partially conscious neither of them could explain the accident yesterday, but it is believed that gas escaping from the bug bag caused them to lose control of the Viking, and that the gas escaped until a drop followed.

DROPPED TO EARTH.

The balloon was first sighted south of Center about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Those who saw it could discern no progress and suspected that something was wrong. It was going at the rate of about five miles an hour. As it moved over Center and to the north it appeared to be settling toward the ground, when suddenly the bag collapsed and the dash to the earth followed.

Farmers soon reached the spot where the balloon had fallen in a field. They freed the two apparently dead men and carried them to the nearest farm house where restoratives were administered. It was not until several hours later that Forbes showed signs of returning consciousness, and he rallied for only a few minutes at a time.

He seemed to have no knowledge of what had happened. Yates has roused for a few minutes, but like Forbes, but was unable to give any details.

Glasgow, Ky., May 11.—Physicians in attendance upon A. Holland Forbes and J. C. Yates, who were injured in a balloon accident near Center, Ky., returned this morning from a call to Center, and reported that Forbes' injuries are not serious, and that, while they were uncertain, about Yates' injuries, they believe there is a chance for his recovery. Both men are conscious only at intervals.

Forbes, during consciousness, made disconnected statements, declaring that the balloon had passed over portions of Illinois, Missouri, Tennessee, and Kentucky.

AN ADVENTUROUS CAREER.

New York, May 11.—A Holland Forbes has had a venturous career as a balloonist. He is vice-president of the Aero Club of America. On October 11, 1908, while he was competing for the James Gordon Bennet distance trophy at Berlin, his big balloon, the Conqueror, burst at a height of 3,000 feet, and fell swiftly. The gas bag, however, spread after its collapse into a parachute form, and lowered the aeronaut gently to a housetop uninjured. Mr. Forbes won the Lahm cup on October 14, 1909, for the longest flight of that year.

It is probable the balloonist went too high in their flight and became unconscious, and that while drifting about without any control, the balloon dropped to earth. Possibly in a semi-conscious state one of the men vaguely realizing the reason for their state, pulled a lever, which caused the balloon to collapse.

JUDGE HUYCKE TO SPEAK.

His Honor Will Pay Respect to Our Departed Sovereign.

His Honor Judge Huycke, who has already taken the oath of allegiance to our new King, George V., will pay a tribute to our departed sovereign at the opening of the court this morning. The court room has been draped with the colors and emblems of mourning. It is anticipated that his honor's tribute to the late King will be an eloquent and impassioned tribute to the revered sovereign.

WITNESSES TELL OF NOTICING THE ODOR OF OIL ON PILLOWS AT McLAUGHLIN HOME.

Several Witnesses Described How Flames Were Noticed By Them Under the Stairs Where Closet Was Situated.

The Water Bottle is Considered by the Crown to be a Most Important Link in the Chain of Evidence in the Case Against the Prisoner.

Whitby, May 12.—During the trial of Archie McLaughlin, who is charged with murdering his wife and two sons this morning the Crown produced a lamp and chimney which were found on the floor of his room and a water bottle, half filled with water, found in his wife's bedroom on the night of the fire.

The prosecution will endeavor to prove the lamp had in no way started the fire, but that its origin was incendiniary.

This morning several witnesses described how flames were noticed under the way where a closet was situated, while the defence could not shake this evidence nor prove the flames had broken into the room where the bodies of the dead boys were found.

The water bottle is considered by the Crown to be most important. By this, which was found at the foot of the bed, they hope to show Mrs. McLaughlin was ill when she went to bed on the night of the fire and that she was on no way affected by the smoke, but was dead before the fire was noticed.

CALLED HER SWEETHEART.

Miss Alice McGuire said she had been employed in the same place with the prisoner when he worked as bookkeeper for Alexander McPhail.

"Did you see any letters for Miss Nix?"

"Yes, I saw him address two about a month or five weeks before the fire in the office. He dropped the envelope in the basket so we could not see it. I got the letter and saw it was addressed to her at Sunderland. The second time was about a week or two before the fire when I saw him address the envelope. He wrote in a feigned hand and the letter was addressed to the same place."

"Did he say anything to you?"

"Yes, that he did not care to have the girls at the post office recognize his writing."

"Did you see Miss Nix and the prisoner?"

"Yes, he would call her sweetheart and names of that kind."

"Did you hear the prisoner say any thing about money?"

"He had a new pair of tan shoes and when taking of one saw he had about $20 in his stocking. He was going down to the city for a few days and he did not care to let his wife know he had the money."

"Did you know Miss Nix personally?" asked Henderson during the cross-examination.

"I know she was a respectable girl. McLaughlin also called other girls sweet names in a spirit of fun.

Silas Griffin, who knew McLaughlin well, said he met him on the night of the fire, and he looked all right.

"Did McLaughlin have any conversation with you of his relations with Miss Nix?"

"Quite often."

"What did he say?"

The witness hesitated.

"Come now, tell the truth," said his lordship. "It may be damaging, but it must be the truth and nothing but the truth."

Forces are Engaged in Death Grapple

San Juan, Del., May 12.—The final battle that will determine the fate of Estrada and Madriz in Nicaragua is believed to be raging in Bluefields today, the death grapple of government and insurgents. A despatch received here at midnight, stated that three armies were advancing on the town, 1,800 strong. According to the plan made by the government forces, Bluefields and Rama, defended by 2,500 insurgents, were to be attacked at the same time. Although the insurgents claim that the provisional capital is invincible, additional fortifications have been thrown up within the last week.

Many Americans have fled from Bluefields in terror, declaring that Madriz will have no mercy in case of victory, because American money is understood to be supporting Estrada.

If you are not satisfied after using according to directions two-thirds of a bottle of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, you can have your money back. The tablets cleanse and invigorate the stomach, improve the digestion, regulate the bowels. Give them a trial and get well. Sold by all dealers.

22-Year-Old Young Man Shot Himself at Cobalt

Cobalt, Ont., May 12.—After writing a letter distributing all his little personal effects to his friends round the mine, Harold Sharon got into bed and shot himself through the head in his room at the La Rose Mine. Sharon had been in town two years. He was about 22 years old, and came from St. Thomas, where his home was. He had lived in California. He worked for some time at the Nipissing Mine office as stenographer, but was later transferred to the La Rose Mine. The jury returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

THREE LONG YEARS TIED TO A POST—LITTLE EIGHT-YEAR-OLD BOY IS ALMOST AN IMBECILE

After confinement for three years in the Orange Almshouse, at East Orange, N.J., tethered to a post in the yard by day and locked in the house at night, with aged and feebleminded persons as his only companions, Martin Connors, eight years old, is about to be removed to a good home as the result of the interest taken in his case by Governor J. Franklin Fort.

During all the time the boy has been at the poor farm his mind has remained dormant. He has been taught nothing, not even speech. His only opportunities for conversation were on the occasions when he made his wants known to the attendants.

He never played with another boy and he did not know what a book was. The youngest of his companions was fifty-five years old, and the oldest was more than a hundred years old. There were rumors that some of the two score inmates of the poor farm took a crazy delight in beating him and pinching him, but these reports were not substantiated in an investigation that was made.

CAVAN LADY DEAD.

Mrs. Campbell Passes Away in the Village of Campbellford.

An old Cavan resident died in Campbellford on Wednesday, in the person of Mrs. Robert Campbell, at the age of eighty-seven years. Mrs. Campbell was born in County Cavan Ireland. On coming to this country she resided in Cavan county where she lived the greater part of her life. She was the mother of the late Mr. George Campbell, who represented East Durham for several terms. Two brothers, William Fair, of Millbrook and George Fair, of Blaine, Michigan; two sons, John of North Monaghan, and William of Campbellcroft, and five daughters, Mrs. McMurty of Dakota, Mrs. Geo. Patterson of Port Hope, (Rev.) Mrs. Hanna of Midland, Mrs. R. H. Wood and Miss Campbell.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at two o'clock from Campbellcroft to the Union cemetery, Port Hope.

GREAT POWER DEVELOPMENT.

Frontier Towns Want Healey Falls Power.

The Port Hope Guide says that now that the Northumberland-Durham Power Company, which controls Healey Falls and also the Culverwell Trent Power Syndicate, who own half a dozen powers on the Trent River, have secured a contract with the Royal Securities Corporation of Montreal to expend over two million dollars on development and transmission of electric current for cheaper electric light and cheap power, the Sentinel-Star says to the "powers that be," let the Company spend the money. J. B. McColl should see to this and get the pier and light fixed.

As this means the immediate development of about 25,000 electric horse power and prosperity to Port Hope, and to the whole lake front district and success to some one hundred district shareholders, and according to the official request of eighteen municipalities, The Guide earnestly request the Department of Railways and Canals to let the Company start work at once and expend their money. We bespeak Senator Beith's assistance. What has he done in the matter? Time means everything. The Cobourg World of this week also endorses these sentiments. Let the Company start work at once on No. 3 dam, already built, nearly all of which they own, so the district can have power in five months. The money to expend is waiting. The obstruction tactics of the Seymour Power company and Trenton Electric company combination has been and is resented by the press and the people of the lake front district.

VARICOSE ULCERS.

Healed by Zam-Buk.

Mrs. Alex. Young, Martin's River, Lunenburg Co., N. S., writes as follows:—"I feel I must acquaint you with the great benefit I have received from Zam-Buk. For years I had been troubled with varicose veins and sores on my leg, and could get nothing to heal these. The family doctor treated me, but instead of getting better, the trouble seemed to get worse. I then tried various remedies but still to no avail, and I almost gave up in despair, thinking I would never get a cure. About three months ago I heard of Zam-Buk, and what a wonderful healer it was, so I laid in a supply and gave the Zam-Buk treatment a fair trial. It surpassed my highest expectations, and only a few boxes were needed to effect a complete cure.

"Not only in my own case, but in the case of a friend of mine, to whom I recommended Zam-Buk for the same trouble, Zam-Buk has done what everything else, previously tried, failed to do. I recommend Zam-Buk very strongly and I think it should have a place in every household."

For ulcers, abscesses, eczema, chaps, salt-rheum, ringworm, blood-poisoning, chronic sores, and all other skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures piles, festering sores, and inflamed patches. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. You are warned against harmful substitutes and cheap imitations.

INCREASE IN WAGES.

THE ANGLO-CANADIAN LEATHER COMPANY, LIMITED, have decided to grant a substantial increase in wages to their employees at both their Huntsville and Bracebridge tanneries, same to take effect at once. The increase is given voluntarily on the part of the Leather Company, and amounts to an advance of 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. over former rate of wages.

Under the new rates, the wages will run from $1.70 per day, the lowest wage, to $1.90 per day for yard men and beamhouse men, and $2.20 and $2.25 per day for Rollers and beamsters.

The Company are arranging for considerable extensions and improvements to their works at both Huntsville and Bracebridge, and are prepared to engage a large number of good reliable workmen, at the above scale of wages.

Music for the Late King Edward's Funeral

London, May 12.—At Westminster Hall on Tuesday the service in memory of King Edward will be brief. The music will be under the direction of Sir F. Bridge, the voices to be unaccompanied. The twenty-third psalm will be sung as an ordinary chant. "Blest are the departed," and "The Last Judgment," will follow as a solo, quartette, and chorus. The only other musical portion of the service will be the funeral hymn "O God our Help in Ages Past," sung by a choir of 500 voices. The Home Office states that a limited number of wreaths will be accepted for the funeral of the King. Among the representative wreaths, those presented by the self-governing colonies will have a prominent place. South Africa has agreed to act in concert so that the wreath will bear the names of all four contributing colonies about to enter the union.

Of the important public bodies to which the privilege of presenting a wreath will be granted, the Royal Colonial Institute will be to the fore front with a wreath emblematic of the unity of the Empire.

London, May 12.—Tenders for two 10,000 ton turbiners have been invited by the Allan Line for the service between Liverpool and Canada. These will be far larger than any yet used on the Canadian route.

TWO INNOCENT MEN HANGED—REINTERMENT OF REMAINS MARKED BY BIG PROCESSION AND CELEBRATION

London, May 12.—Headed by fifty clergy, a procession of 10,000 people, 600 jaunting cars and twenty bands of music, escorted from Nenagh jail for reinterment at Loughmoe, County Tipperary, yesterday, when the exhumed remains of William and Daniel McCormack, who were executed together in Nenagh jail on May 11, 1868, for a crime of which it is stated they have been proved innocent. The crime for which the McCormacks were hanged was the murder of an estate steward, named Ellis, who became an object of hatred, through ordering a number of evictions. He was shot from behind a hedge on Oct. 22, 1867. A man named Michael Gleeson, one of the evicted tenants, whose son was present at the funeral yesterday, confessed to the crime. The judge who sentenced the McCormacks, committed suicide. The occasion of the reinterment was made a holiday in the district. All the shops were shut, the blinds were drawn and everyone was dressed in black or wore crepe armlets tied with green ribbons. Many old persons sobbed as the hearses passed.

EXCITING RUNAWAY.

Mr. Montgomery and Mr. Stewart Suntgin Injuries as the Result of the Accident.

Yesterday as Mr. Frank Montgomery, proprietor of the recently repaired and beautifully adorned Montgomery House, was out driving in the afternoon with his friend Mr. Stewart, the horse took fright at an automobile standing in front of the Bank of Ottawa. Mr. Montgomery, who is a finished horseman, took a firm grip on the reins and attempted to control his horse, which he recently purchased for $256. The horse, a high spirited and powerful animal, seemed determined to bolt. Unfortunately the bit broke and the bridle came partly off the animal's head. In its wild career the animal dragged the conveyance at great speed until stopped some few blocks away.

When the bit broke both occupants of the rig were thrown forcibly to the street. In consequence, when a Times man made enquiries as to Mr. Montgomery's condition, he was told that the most recent entry into local hot-idom, was upstairs with an injured leg. Mr. Stewart was also injured, and was carrying his arm in a sling. The horse was none the worse for the affair, and had the bit not broken there is no doubt but what Mr. Montgomery would have gained control of the animal.

Local Law Suit in Toronto.

Yesterday's Toronto Globe says:—Mr. Justice Britton yesterday reserved judgment in the action of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, of Peterborough, against the Hamilton Steel and Iron Company for $2,000 damages. The plaintiff company claimed the defendant company repudiated an agreement on an order which they had placed with them for a consignment of pig iron, while the defendant company set up the defence that the plaintiff concern did not carry out their part of the bargain.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it univeral preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

DOCTOR'S SON AND WIFE DEAD AS RESULT OF DRUGGIST'S ERROR

Eganville, Ont., May 12. Word comes from Rockingham, in Brudenell Township, thirty miles from here, of a tragic double poisoning case, the victims being Mrs. Kinder and Jos. E. Kinder, wife and son of Dr. Kinder, the former 75 years of age, and the latter 30.

On Wednesday of last week, each took a dose of what they supposed to be Epsom salts. That evening the son was found on the roadside by a neighbor, unconscious. He was taken to the neighbor's house, and the father summoned, but he was beyond relief. Next morning he was removed to his home, where he died that evening. The mother lingered until Tuesday morning, when death resulted.

The father purchased his drugs from an Ottawa store, and his theory is that in filling this order some kind of poison was mixed by mistake with the salts. He has sent what remained in the bottle to Toronto for analysis.

NERVILINE.

Fifty years ago Nerviline was used from coast to coast and in thousands of houses this trusty liniment served the entire family, cured all their minor ills and kept the doctor's bill small. Today Nerviline still holds first rank in Canada among pain-relieving remedies—scarcely a home you can find that doesn't use it.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4398

From Port Hope Ont., Mr. W. T. Greenway, of the Guide newspaper staff, writes; "For twenty years we have used Nerviline in our home, and not for the world would we be without it. As a remedy for all pain, earache, toothache, cramps, headache, and disordered stomach, I know of no preparation so useful and quick to relieve as Nerviline.

Let every mother give Nerviline a trial; it's good for children, good for old folks—you can rub it on as a liniment or take it internally.

Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

KING GEORGE AND THE CRISIS.

The new king is well equipped for the responsibilities and burdens which have so suddenly and tragically devolved upon him. He has led a life of duty, of serious interests and simplicity. He has earnestly followed the course of public events, and has paid particular attention to the constitutional and political crisis that resulted from the rejection of a budget by the peers in violation of all precedent and usage.

Still, there is considerable uneasiness in England over the probable effect of the utterly unexpected substitution as a political force of King George V. for Edward VII. on the really tremendous struggle that is now in progress. Will the new king take the same position with reference to "guaranties" as to the execution, contrary to the peers, of a popular mandate on the issue of the upper-house veto which his father was generally supposed to have determined upon? Will his attitude toward the present ministry involve a change of programme, or will the fight proceed on the ground and lines already chosen by the combatants?

Absolutely nothing is known of King George's leanings and sympathies in politics and and diplomacy—at least, by the general public or ment. No doubt this very fact is significant in one sense. It is evidence of discretion and prudence, of the proprieties and difficulties of the position of the heir to the crown. But at the same time it is a fact which induces reflection and sobriety in the extremists.

For some time "compromise" has been in the air in England. Four or more plans have been suggested whereby the crisis might be relieved without an election, a swamping of the peers or an abolition of their veto. A referendum on the status of the lords is among the proposals, as is the adoption of a modified budget by agreement and the postponement of the dissolution of parliament for a year. It is not improbable that the death of King Edward, and the desire of King George to avoid a politically embarrassing complication at the outset, will improve the chances of those moderates who are urging mutual concessions and compromise.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

An interesting sketch of Earl Carrington, who will likely be the next Governor-General of Canada, appears in May Busy Man's.

Perhaps it is his sincere kindness and spontaneous geniality that constitute Lord Carrington's chief assets as a person in the public eye. In the House of Lords many a tedious debate is enlivened by his welcome merriment; on the country platforms and at National Liberal Club banquets his gests are inimitable. Apart from the serious viewpoint of his mission—and not for a moment is that serious purpose abandoned—perhaps his special function is that of softening the asperities of provincial Radicalism, and of convincing disappointed aspirants after social fame that a peer may really be a good fellow. In his young days when he proved himself to be one of the most charming and pleasant young men of the court, Lord Carrington was chosen to accompany the King, thence Prince of Wales, on his famous tour through India. And there, on all sides, he made hosts of friends.

In 1895 when the Earl was sent out to be Governor of New South Wales, he found the prevailing tone of Australian statesmen was one of mingled dislike and contempt for all that pertained to Downing Street, and also that they were apt to vent their dislike of the Colonial Office upon the Governors. Without any too apparent effort Lord Carrington won all hearts in Sydney, the popularity thus gained becoming a standard to which recent Governors have been expected to conform. He was long remembered as the most successful representative of the crown who had ever been sent out to Australia.

THE NEW IMMIGRANTS.

The problem of turning half a million new people every year into thorough Canadians is not one to be easily solved. Those who came from the United States with the intention of making this country their permanent home may be trusted to adapt themselves as speedily as possible to their new sociological and institutional environment in their own and their children's interests. They will have to bear their full share of the cost of administering the public service, and they will lose no time in fitting themselves by naturalization for exercising their full share of control over public affairs, both municipal and Provincial. Those who come from Great Britain do not as a rule need naturalization, and they can at once lawfully participate in the work of governing the country. The greatest difficulty always has been and always will be how to Canadianize the European foreigner.

The most potent means of effecting the assimilation of foreigners is the general use of the English language, and to do the people from Europe justice they are eager to learn it for the practical purposes of every day life. The children learn it from their fellow pupils and their teachers at school, and the parents learn it from the children at home. Those who use the same language at play and at work leave themselves exposed to a great many influences that operate imperceptibly to instill into them the same aspirations and develop in them the same ideals. In order to know about the country they live in they must learn to read about it, and this they do with unusual rapidity.

The public school education, even when it is not by any means perfect, is useful as a culture medium for the development of the foreigner's general intelligence. It makes his new environment more interesting to him and gives him something to think and talk about. If Canadian history were always wisely taught him by the inductive and topical methods he would gradually form fairly clear conceptions of the extent of the Dominion, of its varied productions, of its transportation systems, of the racial elements of its population, and of its political and social institutions.

The churches are doing much to effect the Canadianization of the immigrant population of the West, and they will yet do more. As settlements formerly new grow old they become after a time self-sustaining and ultimately able to help those that are now the new ones. Much has been accomplished in this way, but for a long time the bulk of the cost of maintaining missions must continue to rest on the people of the eastern Provinces. There can be no doubt about the civilizing influence of these centers of religious energy. On the whole there is no justification for a pessimistic view of the situation, but it does not follow that there should be any relaxation of the precautions against the influx of "undesirable" immigrants.

KING GEORGE V.

King George the Fifth enters upon his reign in the ripe maturity of early middle age. Born forty-five years ago, he had in his early years the inestimable advantage of an early training in the Royal navy as a foundation for the schooling in state craft and diplomacy to which he has devoted himself since the death of Duke of Clarence in 1892. Under the tutelage of that past master of statesmanship, the late King, he has specially interested himself in the ideals, problems and development of the Over-seas Dominion. He has visited Canada, several times, Australia, New Zealand, the South African colonies and India, and all preparations had been made for his attendance at the inauguration of the South African federation this year. In his travels he has shown himself a keen observer, a careful student of institutions and customs and possessed of a sympathetic appreciation of the ideals of the different self-governing Dominions. His speech at Guildhall, on his return from his tour of the British possessions in 1901, was a stirring appeal to Great Britian for a better understanding of the point of view of the Over-sea Dominions. The traditional self-repression of the heir-apparent to the throne has prevented any wide knowledge of his personal sympathies and policies.

His accession to the throne is at a time to test his capabilities to the utmost, but there is no reason for believing that he will not prove equal to the burden which has been suddenly laid upon him. The traditions of his family, the example of his father, and the expectations of the vast Empire over which he has been so suddenly called upon to rule are incitements to sound and wise statesmanship, for which his long apprenticeship has well prepared him. The responsibilities of the throne have come to him without warning for the moment the Sovereign dies his successor takes office. The time of formal coronation is a matter to be arranged afterwards. When the late Queen Victoria succeeded to the throne she was little more than a child, but grey-haired ministers droved to call upon her and make their obeisance to the new monarch. Her Majesty was sleeping the calm sleep of healthy youth, when she was awakened to learn that the eyes of a great nation were turned towards their girl Queen. When her Majesty passed away, full of years, and revered by all, the good people of the world, King Edward VII. was present and immediately was called upon to accept the duties and responsibilities of the Sovereign. Personal sentiment, personal joys, and personal griefs must give place to the necessities of the nation. "The King is dead, long live the King," is an unchangeable part of the constitution of the country without a written constitution. The pomp and pageant, the form and ceremony of coronation comes later, but Britain is never without a Sovereign.

BRIGHTENING THE TOWN.

The following new scheme for lighting the streets of Owen Sound might be tried in Peterborough. It would no doubt make the streets look very pretty in the summer time. A despatch from Owen Sound says:

"A new scheme for lighting the main street will be tried by the Municipal Electric Light Department here. The plan is to light the main business block by lines of incandescent lamps strung across the street. A sample arch is already in commission and is attracting a lot of attention. The idea is to have similar arches erected one hundred feet apart, with cross arches at each corner. To do the two 8th and 10th-sts. would require thirteen arches. They would be lighted every night until eleven o'clock, when the arc lights would be turned on. This service, 365 nights a year, averaging three hours a night, could be handled at a cost of about $6,600. The sample arch is a simple affair, consisting of a cable stretched between the poles and carrying the lamps hung two feet apart, with other lamps fixed to the side of each pole. The effect is good, both as to appearance and attractiveness, as a lighting factor. It is also looked upon as a good advertisement for the town."

Famous Axe Woman

San Francisco, May 5.—Kate Bender, the famous axe-woman of the notorious Bender family, of Cherryvale, and the only member of that murderous sextette to escape the vengeance that their numberless crimes inspired, was found dead in her cabin at Rio Vista, Cal., early Tuesday morning. Her cold form, from which life passed on April 19th, would doubtless have gone into the grave under the name which had shrouded the identity and early life of the foremost murderess in the criminal annals of this country, had not an old man, who has known her for eleven years, broken his silence today.

With this old man's story comes the first details that have ever been made public of how the woman made her escape 40 years ago from the Kansas roadhouse, where an infuriated mob, after slaying her father, mother and three brothers, searched in vain for the leading character in Cherryvale's drama of blood.

Under the name of Mrs. Katha Peters, the murderess lived in a small white house on the Sacramento river, about a mile from the center of the village. She was twice married, her first husband, as she told it, being lost at sea, and the second she said, died. Since then her home has been a house of mystery and strange acts. Her companions gone; Kate Bender lived practically alone for the past month. It was not remarked when she did not appear daily and no one thought it strange that in the last week she had not been seen since April 18t

"Foundry work compels men to work in the winter in very cold shops," writes Tunis T. Bolter, a well-known mechanic in Hamilton. "I contracted a very severe cold a few months ago which settled in my back and kidneys. I suffered constant pain, and in bending over my work and in heavy lifting, the pain at times was excruciating. My digestion got all out of order, doubtless because the kidneys didn't work right. My wife had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills as a family medicine and I took her advice and started them also. To my great delight a few doses helped me so much it was proof I was using a true remedy. Natural action of the kidneys was brought about, burning and aching ceased, and the back-lameness gradually disappeared. I no longer fear my work. I feel strong and robust, and with such a remedy as Dr. Hamilton's Pills at hand I will probably never again be sick. I advise every working man to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

No other medicine will regulate the system and maintain health like Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take something else on which he makes more profit. Sold in yellow boxes 25c. Prepared by The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

A Correction.

In our issue of yesterday we referred to the sale of the contents of Queen's Hotel. Diligent Search for Valois' Body.

Yesterday searchers for the body of the drowned boy Valois made a thorough and systematic combing of the river below the Peterborough Light and Power Company's dam. Owing to the present high water and consequent swift current in the river, their work was not only most difficult but dangerous. It was very generally thought that the eddy has taken the body back, by the undertow, under the dam. Up to a late hour last night the poor lad's body had not been recovered.

elements under Violet's direction. turned at supper time, the candle was lighted in its wall box, the diluted tea kettle was singing over a crackling fire and Harry was perspiring over the scouring of the last utensil.

Prendergast looked the orderly interior over on the threshold with a contemptuous amusement. "Almost thought I was in church," he said. He took off his coat and lastly watched the other cook, the frugal evening meal. "Excuse my not volunteering," he observed. "You do it so nicely I'm almost afraid you'll have another attack of that forgetfery of yours and go back to the old line."

Presently he looked at the bunk, clean and springy with fresh cut spruce shoots. He went into it, knelt down and thrust an arm into the empty space beneath it. He got up hastily.

"What have you done with that?" he demanded, with an angry snarl.

"With what?" Harry turned his head as he set two tin plates on the bare table.

"With what was under here."

"There was nothing there but an old horse skin," said Harry. "It is hanging on the side of the cabin."

With an oath Prendergast flung open the door and went outside. He reentered quickly with the white hide in his arms, wrapped it in a blanket and thrust it back under the bunk.

"Has any one been here today since you put it out there?" he asked quickly.

"No," said Harry, surprised. "Why?"

Prendergast chuckled. The chuckle grew to a guffaw, and he sat down slapping his thigh. Presently he went to the wall, took the chamois skin bag from its hiding place and poured some of its yellow contents into his palm. "That's why. Do you remember that, eh?"

Harry looked at it. "Gold dust," he said. "I seem to recall that I am going to begin work in the trench tomorrow. There should be more where that came from."

Prendergast poured the gold back into the bag with a cunning look. The other had asked for no share of it. At that moment he decided to say nothing of the evening before of the girl or the horseback journey. High, cudgeling his brains, might be member he had been offered a gift.

"There's plenty more where that came from, all right," he said. "But I'll teach you again how to get it, one of these days."

Prendergast said little during the meal. When the table was cleared of his pipe and took from a shelf board covered with penciled figures and scrutinized it.

"Hope you remember how to use old sledge?" he said.

Harry did not move. As a matter he had been wondering how he could abide that station [illegible]

BY-LAW NUMBER 1491

A By-Law to Fix the Assessment of the William Hamilton Company, Limited

Passed the 6th day of December, 1909.

Whereas The William Hamilton Company, Limited, has represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough that the business of the said Company as manufacturers of engines, boilers, mill machinery, etc., has been carried on in Peterborough by the said Company and its predecessors for many years, and during that time the owners of the said business have received no advantages from the Municipality, by way of reduced taxes or bonus, and that the said Company is the only manufacturing concern in the said City in its own particular line, and has to compete with manufacturers in other places, who have received and are now enjoying Municipal assistance by way of exemption from taxes or fixed assessment and other advantages, making it difficult for the said Company to meet such competition, and has applied to the said Council for a fixed assessment on the real estate and plant of the said Company in the City of Peterborough, and the said Council has agreed thereto, and to pass a by-law for that purpose subject to the confirmation thereof by the Legislature.

The Corporation of the City of Peterborough by the Council, thereof, therefore enacts as follows:

1. This By-law shall take effect upon and only upon the confirmation thereof by the Legislature of the Province of Ontario and upon the William Hamilton Company, Limited, agreeing not to oppose the construction of any sewers or sidewalks as local improvements abutting or fronting on the property in section 2 hereof mentioned or any part thereof, that the said Council may desire to construct under the provisions of The Municipal Act relating to local improvements.

2. The assessment of the following lands in the City of Peterborough owned, occupied and used by the said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, and being:

First—That part of Lot Number Sixteen, south of Murray Street and west of George Street more particularly described as follows: Commencing at the north-east angle of said lot—thence westerly along the northern limit of said lot one hundred and eight feet and eight inches — thence southerly at right angles to the said northern limit forty-six feet and six inches—thence easterly parallel to the northern limit of said lot one hundred and eight feet and eight inches more or less to the eastern limit of said lot—thence northerly along said eastern limit forty-six feet and six inches more or less to the place of beginning.

Secondly—That part of lot number thirteen north of Murray Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point in the eastern limit of said lot where the south side of the creek intersects the same—thence northerly along the said eastern limit fifty-five feet more or less to north side of said creek—thence westerly along said creek to Rubidge Street—thence southerly along Rubidge Street ninety-three feet more or less to the south side of said creek and thence easterly along said creek to the place of beginning.

Thirdly—All that part of lot number fourteen north of Murray Street and west of George Street lying south of a line drawn from west to east, twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of the Midland Railway Track.

Fourthly—All lot number fifteen, north of Murray Street and west of George Street.

Fifthly—All that part of lot number fifteen, south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, lying south of a line drawn from west to east twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of the Midland Railway Track.

Seventhly—All those parts of lots numbers sixteen and seventeen, south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, lying south of a line drawn from east to west, twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of Midland railway track.

Eighthly—That part of lot number eighteen, north of Murray Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point on the west side of Downie Street where the south side of the creek intersects the same—thence westerly along said creek to the western limit of said lot—thence northerly along said western limit, forty-seven feet more or less to the northern limit of said lot—thence easterly along said northern limit of said lot to Downie Street and thence southerly along Downie Street, one hundred and fifty-three feet more or less to the place of beginning.

Ninthly—that part of lot number eighteen south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point in the western limit of said lot, one hundred and thirty-two feet distant southerly from McDonnel Street — thence southerly along said western limit, sixty-eight feet more or less to the southern limit of said lot—thence easterly along said southern limit to Downie Street—thence northerly along said Downie Street, sixty-eight feet more or less to a point one hundred and thirty-two feet from McDonnel Street, and thence westerly parallel with the southern limit of said lot to the place of beginning, together with an allowance for road nine feet wide, more particularly described in Registered Instrument Number 1137 for the Town of Peterborough. And that part of Downie Street extending from Murray Street northward to the line of the Grand Trunk Railway and the north forty-six feet of Murray between Reid Street and Downie Street, while used exclusively for manufacturing purposes, or the part so used for manufacturing purposes, and the buildings, plant, machinery and fixtures thereon, and the business assessment thereof on which taxes are to be levied, shall be fixed and remain fixed while the same are so used and while at least an average each year, at the sum of $10,000 for a period of ten years from the first day of January, 1910, and the return and oath of the assessor of assessors in respect thereof, shall be amended accordingly, but the same shall for school purposes be and remain liable to assessment and the payment of school taxes and rates to as full an extent as if this By-law had not been passed; provided always that if the failure to carry on the said business is due to strikes or destruction of the buildings, plant, machinery or fixtures by fire or tempest the time during which the said business shall so cease to be carried on in consequence of such strikes or destruction of the buildings, plant, machinery or fixtures (not exceeding in either case one year) shall not be taken as a failure or neglect to carry on the said business, so as to disentitle the said Company to such fixed assessment.

3. The said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, shall, prior to the first day of March in each year, file with the City Clerk, a statutory declaration, made by an officer of the Company, who shall therein state his knowledge of the facts, proving that the said Company has complied with and is observing all the terms, conditions and provisions of this By-law, and on neglect of the said Company to furnish such declaration it shall be prima facie taken that such terms, conditions and provisions have not been performed, observed and kept, and the said fixed assessment shall cease, and the taxes and rates shall be and become payable to the same amount and in the same manner as if this By-law had not been passed.

H. RUSH,
Mayor.

Doctors Think Life of Little Jas. Bailey Might Have Been Saved

Last night the adjourned inquest on the boy, Jas. Alfred Bailley, who died under Christian Science treatment, was resumed in the County Council chamber.

The first witness called was Dr. Greer, who performed the post-mortem. Dr. Greer presented a concise written report, which in a few words practically amounted to this; The principal organs of the deceased young lad were in very good order. The body was much emaciated. There was a deep cervical abcess. The left lung was found to have pneumonic consolidation. Death was due to penumonia and cervical abcess. In her verbal evidence Dr. Greer cess. In his verbal report Dr. Greer produced a report made by Dr. Amyott, chief anyliat of the Ontario Government. This was on specimens taken from the boy's throat. The government's experts report had last government expert's report had little bearing on the result of the inquest. Witness said "There would have been a faor chance of saving the boy had he had medical treatment. A little tilt took place between Mr. Poussette, acting for Mr. Todd and Mr. Bailley and the coroner, over some of the technical parts of the evidence. Dr. Eastwood agreed with Dr. Greer's evidence

Mr. James Bailley, father of the deceased gave evidence, which was practically the same as that given by Mrs. Bailley, the boy's mother.

Mrs. Bailley, the deceased boy's mother, recalled, said on the morning of the day her son died, Todd suggested that a physician be sent for. On that day her husband went for Mrs. Giles, another Christian Science healer, but she was out.

The meeting adjourned again to meet on Thursday, May 19th in the County Council chamber at 8 p.m.

The New King's Head on Canadian Stamps

Ottawa, May 12.—The head of King George will not appear on the coins or postage stamps of Canada before the end of the year. The likeness of Edward the Peacemaker, will continue on the currency and stamps of Canada for another six months at least. In the case of the postage stamps any design may be used, but it is the custom to have the monarch's head on the two-cent stamp, which is the one most in use. The department has a six months' supply on hand, and these will be used up while dies are being prepared for the new issue of George V. stamps.

Changing the design of the metal currency is also a matter of time. Designs have to be prepared and approved in both Canada and Great Britain. Where the head of the King appears on a coin his special approval of the portrait has to be obtained. The Finance Department has for some time been looking into the question of designs for the new gold coinage of Canada, and on these the head of King George will appear, but the first of January will probably be the date of their inauguration.

STERLING BANK OF CANADA.

Good Showing Made By This Well-Managed Institution.

Elsewhere will be found the annual statement of the Sterling Bank of Canada, which will make interesting reading for many of our readers who are more or less concerned with regard to financial matters. The report is an excellent one, and reflects credit on the management.

The profits were $92,832 for the year ended April 30. The sums of $50,000 from profits and $24,244 from premium received on new stock were added to the reserve fund, making a total reserve of $281,616. The paid-up capital is now $926,467. Dividends of 5 per cent., in quarterly payments of 1¼ each, were paid share holders, this aggregating $44,101. The balance at credit of profit and loss account on April 30 last year was $36,714, whereas the sum brought forward the current year was $35,441. Deposits in the Sterling Bank amount to $5,063,667, of which $727,664 was non-interest bearing. If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. C.P.R'S. GEORGIAN BAY AIR LINE TO CONNECT WITH PETERBORO'

MR. JAS. OBORNE, C.P.R.S GENERAL SUPT., AND MR. ANGUS McMURCHY, THE COMPANY'S SOLICITOR, MEET COUNCIL.

If Terms for the Water Front Property Can Be Agreed Upon—Matter Will Be Settled at an Early Date.

The New Line as Resurveyed Would Not Affect the City's Residential District.—A Subway at the South End Arranged for.

The city fathers met in Committee of the Whole last night, when there were present his Worship Mayor Morrow and all the aldermen.

The meeting was called to meet Mr. James Oborne, the C.P.R.'s general superintendent, and Mr. Angus McMurchy, the company's solicitor, regarding the C.P.R.'s proposition to touch Peterborough with their new Georgian Bay air line to the seaboard.

Mr. Oborne stated that since his last interview with the council several new surveys had been made, resulting in the adoption of one by which destroying the residential portion of the city would be avoided in tapping Peterborough with the new air line. The company, however, ask the closing of Stewart, Rink, Park and Chamberlain streets, in the event of which they would construct a subway, and they would also require that portion of the city water front property on the west of their present spur line, upon which to lay sidings and build warehouses. The new line would intersect the main line sufficiently west so as not to interfere with the city, and will make Peterborough the key of the situation by placing it on the through line of the C.P.R. from the east north-west to the seaboard. Incidentally, Mr. Oborne remarked that the other day, while at Victoria Harbor he saw a 12,000,000 bushels elevator in course of construction as a result of this new route, and Peterborough might look for similar benefits were the line to connect here. The contract for this line has been let to a point a little east of Peterborough but no other work will be arranged for until the question of whether the roadway will connect at Peterborough or Havelock has been decided.

To Ald. Hicks Mr. Oborne replied that the company expected a free gift of the city's waterfront property west of the tracks.

Ald. Hicks said he could not see why the C.P.R. should expect the city to make them a gift of property upon which Peterborough had already expended $6,000. This property had been created with a view to promoting manufacturing industry, in the interests of the city, which must naturally benefit all transportation systems.

Ald. Buller remarked that on Mr Oborne's previous visit, he had hinted at the C.P.R.'s intention to offer Peterborough something in return for any concessions made the company, and he (Ald. Buller), expected that tonight Mr. Oborne would be ready with an offer for the establishment of car shops or something of that nature.

Mr. Oborne replied that the establishment of a divisional point for the new line would be but a small matter compared to making Peterborough the key junction of a great seaboard line. The Quaker Oats Company, which will be second to no industry to Canada demands an all-rail route for transportation, as does all other manufacturing concerns of a desirable nature. This route would place Peterborough in a better position for car supplies than Toronto, and every industry seeking Canadian location looks for water and rail pivocal points of distribution. This line would add another spoke to Canada's transportation wheel, of which Peterborough would be the hub, and he thought the giving of a few acres of land a cheap method of acquiring this great trans continental scheme.

Ald. Turner turned down the proposition in pretty strong language. He did not think transcontinental trains would benefit Peterborough. Besides, the industries would see that they got transportation at reasonable rates. He characterized the C.P.R.'s proposition as the holding out of a bubble in return for valuable city water front property.

Ald. Morgan wanted to know what the C.P.R. would give the water front property owners in return for the concession asked.

Mr. Oborne said he did not think warehouses would affect the value of property any. Besides the land is nothing more now than a garbage dump.

Ald. Duffus thought the council should get down with the C.P.R. people and discuss the matter on business principles. It was up to the city fathers to make the best bargain possible in the city's interests. If the council concludes that the land is more valuable for other purposes than C.P.R. tracks, hang on to it; if not, get together and arrive at some definite conclusion. He thought it would be very advantageous to have this new line effect a junction at Peterborough. Manufacturers want the most direct method of reaching the consumers. We want the C.P.R. to tap Peterborough and the company are willing to do so.

Ald. Phelan supported the C.P.R. The people are looking for the new line to connect here. All cities are seeking railway connections, and why should not Peterborough follow suit.

On motion of Ald. Hicks, a small committee composed of Mayor Morrow and Aldermen Phelan and Bradburn, were authorized to fully discuss this matter with the railway officials. By an unanimous vote Ald. Hicks was added to the committee.

The committee and Messrs. Oborne and McMurchy met last night. The results of the conference will be reported to council at an early date.

Memorial Service.

The City Council last night agreed to acquiesce in any program for a public service in memory of the late King, the Ministerial Association may arrange for. The service will probably be held in St. Paul's church, as Mr. Crane reports difficulty in conducting the musical portions of the event were it held in the armories as suggested.

Murdered His Wife then Committed Suicide

BODIES OF A YOUNG COUPLE IN LEAMINGTON TELL OF A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Babe Beside the Mother—Laughed When the People Came In and Discovered the Awful Deed.

Leamington, Ont., May 13.—Floyd Dresser, aged 20, and his wife, aged 19, were found dead in their room this morning at their home here. Revolvers clutched in the hands of the man and bullet holes in each head told the terrible story of wife murder and suicide.

A six-months-old child, laughing and crying in turn, lay beside the dead mother's body.

A search for a cause for the awful deed has so far been unavailing. They were a young couple having been married about two years and as far as known lived happily. He was in Jeffries' billiard room last night up to ten o'clock, and seemed the happiest of the crowd. This morning his father, John Oliver, went early to the house and found it locked, and told his wife, who went to the house and on entering was horrified at what she saw.

Dresser was the son of Thomas Dresser of the 4th concession Mersea, who is one of the most prominent and respectable citizens. The dead woman is the daughter of John Oliver of this town.

The premises are now in charge of Constable Booth, awaiting the coroner's inquest.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or an emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. Gardiner was in his auction rooms on Water street about nine in the morning, preparatory to beginning a three-days' sale he has been successfully carrying on at the Queen's Hotel, when he was overtaken with a sudden attack of weakness. A gentleman doing business near the auction rooms, assisted Mr. Gardiner to his home on Queen street. It is hoped that Mr Gardiner will soon recover from his sudden indisposition and resume his work.

Mr. John Haggart acted at the Queen's Hotel sale in Mr. Gardiner's absence.

NEW MANUFACTURING CONCERN MAY COME TO PETERBOROUGH

The Canadian Automatic Transportation Manufacturing Company Seeking Location in Peterborough.

A Self-acting System That Will Pick Up and Drop Mail and Packages Automatically—No Attendant Required.

The Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council met last night. There were present Chairman Ald. Gillespie and his Worship Mayor Morrow, and Ald. Bradburn and Duffus.

Mr. Perkins, representing the Canadian Automatic Transportation Co., who purpose manufacturing in Peterborough the equipment for subsidiary transportation concerns, waited upon the committee. The scheme for transportation in the hands of this company is an electrical automatical system of rural carriage, run on elevated tracks, for passenger, mail and light freight traffic, conducted by means of 25-mile circuits. The all-important patent connected with this system lies in a principal by which the over-head trolley is abandoned in favor of a system of feeding the cars with electrical motive power from the rails themselves which are elevated 25 feet above the ground. The cars will run without attendants and will pick up and deliver mails and parcels automatically. By this means of transportation freight cars can also be despatched and returned without any person in charge. It is unquestionably the latest 20th century rural transportation scheme on the market, and one that has a great future ahead of it, and will revolutionize the country's business and bring farmers closer to the markets.

Mr. Perkins is anxious to locate the company's manufactory in Peterborough, which he characterizes as the Electric City of Canada. He is subject in meeting the committee was to secure a reasonable amount of practical encouragement, to establish a plant in this city for the manufacture of appliances for this latest transportation project. Such an establishment would, he figured, employ at least fifty hands. While an American Automatic Transportation Company has been already financed, the financing of the Canadian company is as yet in its infancy.

The committee promises to look seriously into this matter, and from expressed opinion it seems likely encouragement will be extended this concern to locate here. Their proposition is assuredly a live one, that is bound to become popular.

The
LIME JUICE CLUB
A Long Way After the Lime Kiln Club

The attendance at the hall of wisdom last night was very large. The doors leading into the Dft wing and into the library were thrown open to accommodate the crowd.

"I would announce," said the Hon. Richard as he opened the meeting, "that the very, very Honorable Anvil Slabs, of Campbellford is in the ante-room to address you on the subject of 'All sorts of fits and how to cure them.' The committee will bring him in, and let nobody blow his nose while the great man is wrestling with his address."

A Terrible Failure.

When the committee returned with the visitor it was seen that he was considerably affected with drink. There was a suspicious weakness in his knees, a sort of looseness to his whole body, and it was only with a great effort, that he managed to bow to Bro. Ed. Brown, and ask him if his pa and ma were as well as could be expected under the circumstances. When he reached the platform he bowed so low to the audience that Stoplog Dinwoodie had to help straighten him up. Then he began his address:

"Fits, er-fits, 'S'more fits. Whazzer fits. My subject is er fits. Whozzer g't fit? Eh? Like to see the 'plieeman 'er can 'rest me!"

It was plain that the distinguished lasturer was drunk, and the president signalled to the committee to remove him. When the door of the ante-room had closed behind him the Hon. Richard said:

"I don't know what his cure for fits are, but I'm going to try one of my own. Piledriver Riley, take him down the alley stairs and apply the shoe leather cure!"

In the course of two or three minutes it became apparent that the remedy was being applied. The windows rattled, the relics in the museum threatened to fall of the shelves, and yells of terror floated up from the alley. When the janitor returned and took his seat the President said:

"The meeting will now go on, the same as if it had not been interrupted by fits. If any one should meet the very, very Honorable Mister Slabs to-morrow or next day, advise him to quit the lecture field and learn the cooper's trade."

The Oyster

The committee on Codfish and Turtles to whom had been submitted the query, "Can the oyster be domesticated and made subservient to the command of man?" reported as follows:

"Your committee interviewed all the leading authorities on the habits of the oyster, including Bro. Coleman, who informed them that the oyster is not provided with teeth or legs, and he would not be worth shucks to drive a cow out of the back yard. We turned him over and over, took him in from all sides, and came to the conclusion that he is fulfilling his mission when stewed, fried and taken on the half shell."

An Imposter.

The Secretary read a letter from Hon. Chilblain Warren, of Toronto, stating that a man calling himself Sir Richard McBride and claiming to be the original President of the Lime Juice Club, was in the city disposing of photographs supposed to represent Cripes Mulcahey. He sold the photograph at 25 cents, and claimed that the funds were sent to Labrador to establish a mouth organ factory for the natives. The photo represented a person with a squint eye, a broken nose, front teeth gone, and ears large enough to throw a shade over an ocean steamer. His attention had been called to the fraud by Bro. Jamfed Jones, members of the club, who had been sojourning for a few hours in the city and who had purchased a large quantity before they discovered the imposition. What would the club do about it?

The President jumped two feet in the air before the Secretary had finished, and he took only thirty seconds to write a telegram asking that the impostor be arrested and hung, if it cost a million dollars.

The Budget Speech.

Bro. Fortypercent Connery, the Treasurer, now secured the floor and limbered up to the President's seat in an easy and graceful manner. He presented the financial statement for the year:

Cash on hand	$	21 00
Fines uncollected		496,327 47
Arrears		7,428 00
Miscellaneous		14,691 17
	$	78,192,146 17

The treasurer also presented the following weekly bill of expenses in connection with the Hall of Wisdom:

One quart of coal oil	$	0 15
One lamp wick		0 03
One drinking dipper		0 02
One box stove polish		0 06
Total	$	3,916 00

It appears from the above figures

Cameron has passed his final examination for the degree of Bachelor of Applied Sciences. In the first year, Stuart A. Anderson took honors in mechanical engineering, W. R. Blackwell, honors in Architecture, and H. D. Clegg in electrical engineering.

In the second year C. S. Wood passed in electrical and mechanical engineering.

Will Use Oil for Fuel on Ships

Ottawa, May 13.—There is every probability that the new ships which Canada will build for her navy will use oil fuel.

Your correspondent saw Admiral Kingsmill this morning, and was told that the new ships would probably use the new form of fuel, provided the oil could be secured conveniently in Canada.

As, of course, Canada does produce a considerable quantity of crude oil, this is practically assurance that the oil system will be adopted. Besides the new and ever increasing market which this means for Canadian oil, it means, too, that the Canadian navy, however small to begin with, will be equipped in the most up-to-date manner.

FOR THE NEW SHIPS.

The Niobe and the Rainbow are coal ships, but on the others, which are yet to be built, the oil fuel will be used.

GENERAL SIR JOHN FRENCH AND GENERAL HENDERSON HAVE SAILED FOR CANADA ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

London, May 12.—General Sir John French and General Henderson sailed today for Canada, where they are to spend a month or two in a semi-official tour of inspection of the militia forces and defences of the Dominion. Upon their arrival in Quebec, they will proceed direct to Toronto, to attend the unveiling on May 24th, of the memorial erected in that city on University avenue to the Toronto soldiers who fell in the South African war. After leaving Toronto Sir John will confer with Sir Frederick Borden, minister of militia, and will inspect the Quebec garrison, and the military camps in the neighborhood of Montreal. He will also visit Kingston, London, Niagara Falls, and other points before returning to England.

General Sir John French is one of the most distinguished officers of the British army, and has had a truly meteoric career. Born in 1852, he failed to pass his examinations for the army, and took refuge in the ranks of the militia. Through this back door to the regular establishment he eventually entered the 8th Hussars in 1874. There was absolutely nothing in his early career which could be construed as a forecast of the military triumphs he was to achieve later. His time came in the Boer war, when he gained rapid promotions for his services in the relief of Kimberley. He was the first officer to win a major-generalship in the South African campai

We use great care in picking the famous "SUNKIST" ORANGES. Each "SUNKIST" ORANGE is picked from the tree and packed in the box by a gloved hand. No orange that falls to the ground is packed under the "SUNKIST" label.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless

We grow 80% of all the California oranges. Three-fourths of all the lemons. Most of them are sold in bulk, but the choicest selections of this great quantity are wrapped in the "SUNKIST" label, so that if you would be sure that you get the choicest pick, insist upon the "SUNKIST."

Beautiful Orange Spoon FREE

Some dealers may claim the oranges they sell are the famous "SUNKIST," but that they have removed the wrapper. Insist on your dealer giving you oranges and lemons in the "SUNKIST" wrapper. If you do this we will give you a beautiful orange spoon—one of Rogers' best standard AA quality. Just send us twelve "SUNKIST" orange or lemon wrappers, with six 2c stamps to pay postage, packing, etc., and receive one of these beautiful spoons by return mail.

The choicest quality of lemons also go under the "SUNKIST" label. You can easily secure a whole dozen of these beautiful orange spoons. Get a dozen "SUNKIST" oranges or lemons today.

HEAVINESS AT PIT OF THE STOMACH.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a weighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINE RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS.

The above letter comes from Mrs. P.R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholster of chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use "Nerviline," and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises, gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. NeRrviline was the ainly remedy that gave me grehef, and I fodnd it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

You'll find a hundred uses for Nerviline—it's a trusty household remedy that sells to the extent of a million dollars per year—that's the best proof that it must cure and give unlimited satisfaction. Refuse anything offered in place of Nerviline 25c. per bottle, five for $1. All dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

A TARIFF INVESTIGATION.

The Buffalo Express makes a very reasonable suggestion in connection with the proposal to spend a quarter million dollars in tariff investigation, that Congress should show intention to make use of such information when secured. It (says of the administration's plan to begin the new fiscal year with a very comprehensive inquiry into the cost of production of the leading articles of industry;

"This is a step forward but it is not enough to excuse Congress from action on information already in its possession or within the reach of every member. It will be useless to spend money in investigating what ought to be done without some guaranty that something will be done. The adoption at once of even one bill correcting some obvious injustice in the Payne-Aldrich law would show that some practical results might be expected from the proposed investigation and the public might then be content to wait."

The pulp and paper schedule is pointed out as an example of opportunity for Congress to do something. The Express truly says that "this schedule has already been thoroughly investigated all around. The paper manufacturers whom Congress thought it was protecting have been hurt even more than the consumers and the country narrowly escaped a tariff war with Canada on account of this blunder. Why wait for another investigation before correcting it? If Congress will not, even with the results of this fully before its eyes, accept the results of the investigation already made how can anyone have confidence that it will accept the result of any other investigation?"

The sugar and beef schedules are also referred to the latter especially. "We do not need to know," says the Express, "the difference between the cost of producing beef in this country and in Argentina or Australia. It is conceded on all sides that our domestic production has fallen far below the demands of the market. We need a greater supply, whether the cost of production be less or more."

he was about to speak a knock came at the cabin door, and Prendergast opened it.

The visitor Harry recognized instantly. It was the man who had called for fair play at the fight before the saloon, who had drawn him into the hotel.

Felder carried a bundle under his arm. He nodded curtly to Prendergast and addressed himself to Harry.

"I am the bearer of a gift from some one in the town," he said. "I have been asked to deliver this to you." He put the bundle into the other's hands.

Harry drew up one of the chairs hastily. "Please sit down," he said courteously. He looked at the bundle curiously. "Et ces dons ferentes," he said slowly. "A gift from some one in the town!"

A keen surprise flashed into the lawyer's glance. "The quotation is classic," he said, "but it need not apply here." He took the bundle, unwrapped it and disclosed a battered violin. "Let me explain," he continued. "For the owner of this you fought a battle yesterday. You tested its tone a little later. It seems that you are a master of the most difficult of instruments. There was a time, I believe, when the old man was its master also. He was once, they say, the conductor of an orchestra in San Francisco. Drink and the devil finally brought him down. For three years past he has lived in Smoky Mountain. Nobody knows his name. The town has always called him 'Old Despair.' You did him what is perhaps the first real kindness he has ever known at its hands. He has done the only thing he could to requite it."

Harry had colored painfully as Felder began to speak. His voice was unsteady as he answered:

"I appreciate it, I am deeply grateful but it is quite impossible that I accept it from him."

"You need not hesitate," said the lawyer. "Old Despair needs it no longer. He died last night in Devlin's dance hall, where he played when he was sober enough for his lodging. I happened to be near by, and I assure you it was his express wish that I give the violin to you."

Rising, he held out his hand. "Good night," he said. "I hope your memory will soon return. The town is much interested in your case."

The flush grew deeper in Harry's cheek, though he saw there was nothing ironical in the remark. "I scarcely hope so much," he replied. "I am learning that forgetfulness has its advantages."

"It was his express wish that I give the violin to you."

Chapter 17

THE little town had been unconsciously grateful for its new sensation. The return of Hugh Stires and his apparent curious transformation was the prime subject of conversation. For a half year the place had known but one other event as startling. That was the finding some months before of a dead body—that of a comparative stranger in the place—thrust beneath a thicket on Smoky mountain, on the very claim which now held Prendergast and his partner.

The "amen corner" of the Mountain Valley House had discussed the problem exhaustively. There were many who sneered at the loss of memory and took their cue from Devlin, who, smarting from his humiliation and nursing venom, revamped suspicions wherever he showed his battered face. In his opinion Hugh Stires was playing a slick game."

"Your view is colored by your prejudices, Devlin," said Felder. "He's been backing in the past—granted. But give the devil his due. As for the other ugly tale, there's no more evidence against him than there is against you or me!"

"They didn't find the body on my ground," had been the other's surly retort, "and I didn't clear out the day before either."

The phenomenon, however, whether credited or poohpoohed, was a drawing card. More than a few found occasion to climb the mountain by the hillside trail that skirted the lonely cabin. These as likely as not saw Prendergast lounging in the doorway smoking, while the younger man worked, leading a trench along the brow of the hill to bring the water from its intake, which Harry's quick eye had seen was practicable.

The spectacle of Hugh Stires, who had been used to pass his days in the saloons and his nights to even less becoming resorts, turned practical miner added a touch of opera bouffe to the situation that to a degree modulated the rigor of disgrace. It was the consensus of opinion that the new Hugh Stires seemed vastly different from the old; that if he were "playing a game" it was a curious one.

On the one side was a black record, exemplified in Prendergast—clouded infamy, a shuddering abhorrence of his past self as he saw it through the pitiless lens of public opinion; on the other was a grim constancy of purpose, a passionate wish to reconstruct the warped structure of life of which he found himself the tenant, days of healthful, once inspiring toil, a woman's face had threaded his ever [illegible]. HEARING OF YOUNG FARMER'S TRIAL FOR MURDER OF HIS FATHER BEGINS.

Discovery of the Body—Victim's Brother, Who is Cripple and Almost Helpless, the First Witness to Take Stand.

Hamilton, May 12.—"Not Guilty." In a clear firm voice, Tom Finton, the young farmer, pleaded not guilty before Magistrate Jelfs at his preliminary hearing to a charge that he did unlawfully and with malice aforethought, murder his father, Elijah S. Finton, at his home on the Barton road, on the morning of Tuesday, April 26. Finton did not show any emotion. A moment before he had a talk with his counsel, George Lynch-Staunton, K.C.

FIFTEEN WITNESSES CALLED.

Fifteen witnesses will be called. The first to go on the stand was George Finton, the victim's brother, who is a nervous wreck. Tuesday night in a fit of despondency he attempted to end his life, but his relatives prevented him and he has been under surveillance since.

The court room was crowded. Long before the doors were thrown open hundreds lined the streets anxious to see the young prisoner, but he was brought to court early this morning by detectives. Finton spoke to them of the good treatment he was receiving at the jail, but he objected to an order preventing him from talking to any person. He was neatly dressed, and the short beard he wore, when he was up last Thursday, had been shaved off, making a remarkable difference in his appearance.

TAX REFORM.

Mr. F. E. Coulter, Secretary of Tax Reform and Direct Legislature League to Speak Here.

Mr. Arthur B. Farmer of the Tax Reform and Direct Legislation League, with offices at Room 43, 75 Yonge street, Toronto, was in the city yesterday, arranging for a meeting here. Mr. F. E. Coulter, secretary of the league, will speak here under auspices of the Board of Trade in the council chamber on the evening of Thursday, May 26th. It will be remembered that Mr. A. E. Fripp of Ottawa, delivered a speech in the Ontario Legislature, on March 10th last, in reference to the principle and platform of the league. The premier, however, thought the matter was not yet given a general enough support and the matter was temporarily dropped in parliament. The object of the league is to bring sufficient pressure to bear on the legislature to have taxation of improvement values at a lower rate than land values. As this is a matter of general interest and well worth serious consideration, the meeting referred to will undoubtedly be largely attended.

Up for Disturbing a School.

Three boys will appear before County Magistrate Edmison this morning to answer to a charge of disturbing a school in Otonabee. It seems the teacher of the school has been given much trouble of late by disorderly pupils. Two of the accused appeared in police court last week and were implicated in a number of thefts.

Fined for Selling After Hours.

It seems that either ignorance of a local bylaw or the desire to do business at any old time led to Moses Finn having to dig up $15.15 at yesterday's police court. Moses does business on Charlotte street and the owner of a nearby store laid a trap for him. After 7 p.m. Wednesday a young man was sent to Finn's store and purchased a pair of trousers. The magistrate remarked that as a majority of the dry goods merchants got the early closing bylaw passed he would inflict a $10 fine, with costs.

Mrs. John Henderson, 2 Overdale Ave., Montreal, Can., writes:

"I met a friend of mine, and told her of my ailment. She advised me to try her remedy, Peruna.

"Although I had no faith in Peruna, I took her advice, and am pleased to state that the neuralgia has entirely left me, and have gained so in health that I feel just like my old self again.

The Lime Juice Club

that the treasurer has used up over $3,000 for which no account is rendered.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee with power to send for papers and persons.

TOO PREVIOUS.

The secretary announced a communication from Bobcaygeon, signed by sixteen residents of that place, offering the Lime Juice Club a plot to bury the Hon. Anvil Davis, at his death. The president was about to instruct the secretary to return the thanks of the club and accept the kind offer when Anvil sprang to his feet and exclaimed:

"Mister President, I protest! I look upon that communication as a deliberate insult.

"What is the metter, Brother Davis?"

"That communication is the metter, sir."

"Don't you want to be buried in Bobcaygeon?"

"No, sir!"

"Don't you want to accept the lot?"

"No, sir!"

"Very well, Brother Davis. The offer may have been a little too previous, but I am satisfied that it was made with the kindest intentions. We will answer that you can't accept on account of a previous engage

SQUARED HIMSELF.

Greatly to everybody's surprise, Walking Toots of Hastings had remained wide awake thus far, and he arose to a question of privilege. He had heard it flung out that he was living with his seventh wife, and that the two indulged in quarrels that disgraced the neighborhood. He desired to submit proofs that she was only his sixth wife and that they lived in such a state of perfect happiness that he never knew whether his shirt buttons were on or off.

"We don't care for the proofs, brother," observed the president, "you haven't been officially charged with any misconduct, and we can take no action."

"But, I desire to square myself, sir."

"You are squared, Brother Toots, and can consider yourself discharged. Sit down and go to sleep."

REFERRED.

The secretary then announced the following from Lakefield:

Brother McBride,—Having been a close observer of the "modus operandi," and the goodus producus" of the Lime Juice Club, I thought I would write and ask the president if he would bestow a favor on stained humanity by establishing a branch club at this place at the next legal meeting? We have many dark characters here, and a club could be used to an advantage in this vicinity. Should you condescend to favor us by establishing a club here, would like it to be known as the Corn Cob Club, and to receive $7 from you to pay advance rent on a stable to be used as our sanctum, and get some candles, etc., etc., etc., Lakefield is a pretty town for a club to spend a vacation in, and after we become established you Peterboroughites are cordially invited to picnic at this place."

Hoping that you will pay marked attention to this and that we be allowed to make our own bylaws, I remain yours truly.

Lemonade Jackson.

The communication was referred to the Committee on Applications, with instruction to exercise great care in investigating, as it has been reported that Lakefield once had a branch but the president and treasurer escaped with funds.

ADJOURNED.

It being eleven o'clock the balance of the business was put in the refrigerator and the meeting went home for a week.

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the pains healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted scores of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but got only temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again, running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, sacrifice of the glands, pulsing of the hands swelling, flabbiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared, and I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I cheerfully can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial on your print. FOR MISSING CHILD.

Authorities are Baffled Regarding Disappearance of Two-Year-Old Boy.

Elkhorn, May 12.—A blood-hound, an intelligent animal, the property of a Roman Catholic priest at Wingthurst, has been secured to help in the desperate search for the missing two-year-old son of Thomas France. Several hundred people are now assisting in the hunt. The authorities are baffled. They have come to the conclusion that less than ten minutes elapsed between the time when John Heritage, a farmer, saw the child in the road and the time when Mrs. Heritage arrived to see what the little one was doing there alone. The country is so flat that Mrs. Heritage would have seen anyone who was passing. The case is a mysterious one.

VOL. XXXINO. 112 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO MONDAY MAY 16 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

Parting of Prisoner and His Daughter was a Pitiful One

M'Laughlin, Convicted of Murdering His Wife and Two Children, Said a Last Farewell to His Daughter, Monta

Ontario has had an awful record of wife murderers during the last eighteen months. Among these may be cited.

McLaughlin case at Uxbridge.
Blythe case at Agincourt.
Weedmark case at Smith's Falls
Hunter case at Bobcaygeon.
Adams case near Guelph.
Washington case at Toronto.
Dresser case at Leamington.

In the last four cases the husband also took his own life.

Whitby, Ont., May 14—Archie McLaughlin, who was last night sentenced to hang on July 13th for the murder of his wife and two children, slept very well last night. He appeared to be about as usual this morning except that he ate no breakfast. He still affirms his innocence.

Last night McLaughlin saw his little daughter Monta, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Watson, for the last time.

The parting between the prisoner and his daughter was pitiful. McLaughlin broke down completely, and his sobs could be heard all over the jail. He asked for a gold stickpin which had been taken from him by the jail authorities, and he pinned it in Monta's coat, telling her to keep it and always remember "daddy" by it.

This morning Mrs. McLaughlin, the prisoner's aunt, and Dr. Abraham, his spiritual adviser, spent a few minutes in the cell with McLaughlin.

His daughter will return at once to the home of her mother's sister in Western Ontario. The evidence of this relative told strongly against the prisoner at the trial.

JAPAN'S NAVAL DOCKYARDS WORKING AT HIGH PRESSURE

IN DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES HER ATTITUDE IS VIEWED WITH SUSPICION.

She Adopted the Same Self Effacing Tactics Before the Bitter Struggle That She Was Engaged In With Russia.

At Army Headquarters the Staffs are Also Working at High Pressure—Trouble is in Store for Some One—Presumably America.

St. Petersburg, May 14.—In diplomatic circles here the Brer Rabbit attitude being adopted just now by Japan is viewed with some suspicion It is recalled that for months before she entered upon her great struggle with Russia she adopted the same self-effacing tactics.

It is known, however, that at all the naval dockyards in Japan hands are working night and day hastening on the completion of the ships under construction, while at the army headquarters the staffs are working at high pressure.

What this betokens will not be apparent for some months, but directly Japan considers her financial position is sufficiently strong to warrant her adopting a belligerent attitude, trouble is in store for one of the other powers, presumably America.

ALL TRAFFIC WILL COME TO STANDSTILL

London, May 13.—The bier bearing the remains of the King is timed to leave Westminster Hall for Paddington about 10.15 a.m. on Friday, May 20, by which time the head of the procession will have been at least a half-hour on its way. The moment the body leaves the hall all the cars of the tramway system in London will come to a stand-till, remaining stationary for a quarter of an hour.

Funeral will be Over Before People Get to Work

10.15 a.m. in London, England, corresponds exactly to 5.10 a.m. in Peterborough, so that the funeral of King Edward VII. will be almost over before Peterborough gets to work in the morning. It is not possible to hold services at so early an hour. The services in Peterborough will be held at 11 a.m., as arrangements stand at present.

THE GOVERNMENT BUYS AIRSHIP FOR THE MILITIA DEPARTMENT

Ottawa, May 13.—The Dominion Government has purchased a biplane from the Canadian Aerodrome Co., of Baddeck, Cape Breton Island. It will be used by the Militia Department and will be delivered in Ottawa in a few weeks. The biplane is known as the Baddeck pattern in which Mr. Alexander Graham Bell is interested.

All Baddeck biplanes are built under the superintendence of Mr. John A. Douglas McCury and Mr. F. W. Baldwin. The machine manufactured for the government has been thoroughly tested and its work has proven most satisfactory. In tests it has repeatedly covered a distance of 50 miles in one flight. It will be in evidence at the Department Military Camps this year and will be under the care of the Engineers of the Department of Militia and Defence. The cost of the machine is $5000.

A U. S. Legislator Called Canada Selfish

Representative Payne's Reciprocity Speech Criticized---American Politicans Realize that Dominion Has Whip Hand

Washington, May 14. — Several members of congress are planning to give a good deal of attention to the print paper and wood pulp situation produced by our relations with Canada under the Payne-Aldrich Act, while the tariff provisions of the sundry civil bill is before the lower chamber. Members have been under heavy pressure from their home districts because of the oppressive price of paper throughout the country and have not been able to vindicate themselves very successfully because of their attitude on the wood pulp and paper schedule while the Payne-Aldrich bill was under discussion last summer. They now look to the floor debate to enable them to answer these criticisms.

Particular attention will be paid to the action of the Province of Quebec, and, incidentally, to the anomalous fact that that province will be better off under the terms of our tariff, that is, will have to pay a smaller discriminating duty on the wood pulp andpaper made of pulp wood cut on crown lands than she did while she merely levied an export duty on her crown lands pulp wood, instead of absolutely prohibiting its exportation.

In connection with this subject there will also be some consideration and discussion of the whole subject of reciprocity with Canada. Representative Payne's speech has been severely criticized today, particularly that part in which he contemplated a reciprocity agreement as the only way of getting out of the present difficulty, and reflected very severely on the selfishness of Canadian interests.

Peterborough County Horse Thief Gets Nine Months in the Central

Bellevlle, May 14.- Richard Cassan, whose home is in Peterborough County, stole a horse from Mr. Wellington Hart at Sandy Lake. He took the horse to Marmora, and traded the animal for one belonging to Mr. Philip Sopha, liveryman of that village, claiming that the horse was given him by his father. With the idea of misleading anyone who might be on the lookout he bobbed the mane and tail of both horses. Mr. Hart called up Marmora by telephone, asking that a lookout be kept for a man riding a horse, as the horse had been stolen. Mr. Sopha answered the call and soon learned that the horse he had received in the deal was the stolen one. He and County Constable O. R. Jones then started out to look for Cassan and Mr. Sophia's horse, and after about a day's hunt they located both man and horse near Trent Bridge, where the former had gone to purchase seed grain. Cassan was brought before Judge Fralick and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to nine months in the Central Prison.

Indians Honor Late King Edward's Memory

Victoria, B.C., May 14.—All possibility of holding the Victoria Day celebration was abolished when the Songhoes and Quamjshan Indian declined to take part in the canoe race because of the death of King Edward. The feature of the yearly celebration has always been the Indian war canoe race at which cash prizes are offered, the Indians training for the event for three months in advance. The King was our best friend, he is buried on the twentieth. We cannot race the twenty-fourth," said Chief Cooper of the Songhoes tribe to the committee.

DEATH OF MR. J. H. GARDINER.

Awfully Sudden Demise of Well-Known Auctioneer.

The many friends of Mr. James H Gardiner, will be shocked to learn of his death, which occurred Saturday evening shortly before six o'clock. For some weeks Mr. Gardiner had not been feeling well, and on Thursday he was taken seriously ill. The family physician, Dr. Greer, was at once summoned and he did all that he could to relieve the patient. Mr. Gardiner was suffering from paralysis of the throat and was unable to speak although he understood what was said to him and was quite conscious to the last. On Saturday morning he was apparently much better and seemed to be gaining during the day. Shortly after five o'clock, however, it was noticed that a change had taken place and Mr. Gardiner passed away in a few minutes.

The deceased was born in the township of Hope, and conducted an auction business in Port Hope for many years. He came to Peterborough about eight years ago, where his great ability as an auctioneer soon became recognized. His business here grew rapidly. He was 58 years of age, and was very highly esteemed by all who knew him. Mr. Gardiner leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and two children. The children are Mr. Ed. Gardiner, who will carry on his father's business, and Mrs. Oscar Waring of this city.

The late Mr. Gardiner was a Conservative in politics and a Methodist in religion. The funeral will leave the family residence on Queen street this morning at 10 o'clock for Perrytown where interment will take place.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It matters in leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Fears Concerning the Loyalty of Egypt

Cairo, May 13.—In the belief that the death of King Edward, and the resulting political confusion, may be seized upon as an opportune time for starting an insurrection against English authority, the government has stopped the leave of all British army officers in Egypt. The troops are being constantly practised in field manoeuvres, so as to be ready to deal with disorders on a moment's notice.

Uneasiness is felt concerning the loyalty of the native soldiers. The customs officials are co-operating with the military by searching all consignments of merchandise for smuggled arms and ammunition. This work is being done so thoroughly as to interfere seriously with the business of importation.

THREE GIRLS DROWN—TWO LOST THEIR LIVES TRYING TO SAVE SISTER

Wanette, Okla., May 11.—Three daughters of T. C. Coffey are dead today, having been drowned in Pond creek, near Wanette, early last evening. The youngest, aged 12, stepped into a deep pool and sank. The next older tried to save her as she rose to the surface, and both went down, to be followed by Jessie, the oldest, who plunged into water fifteen feet deep in a frantic effort to save the others.

Their mother, who stood in the shallow water, saw her daughters sink, and leaped into the pool, but was rescued by a man who chanced to be crossing the stream just as she was sinking.

MAY BE SENSATION IN FINTON CASE

DEFENCE LAWYERS HAVE A NEW THEORY ENTIRELY EXCULPATING TOM FINTON.

Refuse to State Details—But May He Will Be Released When Details are Known—Court Officials' Spat.

Hamilton, May 13.—The lawyers of Tom Finton, the young man who was committed for trial yesterday afternoon on the charge of murdering his aged father, promises a sensation in the case before it goes to trial at the High Court. S. D. Biggar, K.C., the family lawyer, made a startling statement today when he declared that he and George Lynch-Staunton, who defended Finton in court yesterday are working on a theory which will change the entire aspect of the case, and make it one of the most remarkable crimes in recent years. "Within three or four days," he declared to newspapermen "we expect to have a man placed under arrest, charged with the murder of Elijah Finton and entirely free our client, Tom Finton, of any suspicion."

Mr. Biggar refused to go into details, he said that the theory which they are working on has been under consideration for several days. The family lawyers are satisfied that within a week they will be in a position to have Tom Finton released from jail and his honorable acquittal of the serious charge against him will be merely a matter of form when the case is called at the High Court.

When the Crown closed its case yesterday Mr. Biggar was anxious to have Tom Finton go on the witness stand and tell his story, but Mr. Staunton decided to wait until the trial at the High Court. At the close of the case Mr. Biggar remarked "The Crown has not got a chance."

Sheriff Middleton and Crown Attorney Washington had a lively tilt in one of the ante rooms. Mr. Washington criticized the sheriff for the coroner he expressed that death was accidental after hearing the evidence of the doctors.

"I have as much right to my opinion as the doctors or Chief Twiss," was the warm retort of the sheriff.

Mr. Washington told him he did not think it was in keeping with his position as chief officer of the county of Wentworth to make the statements he did.

PASQUALE VENTRICINI FAINTED AFTER BEING TAKEN FROM THE COURT ROOM.

Is Advised Not to Hope—"Righteous Verdict," Said Judge Riddell — Murderer Had Been Warned.

Toronto, May 13.—"Pasquale Ventricini, stand up. The sentence of the court upon you, Pasquale Ventricini, is that you be taken to the place whence you came and there kept in strict imprisonment until Thursday the 30th day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ten, you be thence taken to the place of execution, and there be hanged by the neck until you are dead.

"And may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

So said Mr. Justice Riddell this morning to the prisoner. I have obtained the address, in the course of which he had said:

"The jury have strongly recommended you to mercy. I have ontained from the jury the reason for their recommendation, and they tell me it is because you a foreigner, had, perhaps, not got quite accustomed to our ways, and may not have wholly appreciated how contrary your act was to the laws of the land.

WARNED NOT TO HOPE MUCH

"This recommendation will be transmitted to the proper authorities, but you must not trust that the recommendation can have weight Every man in Canada must obey the Canadian law at his peril.

IN THE WELLINGTON COAL MINE ON FIRE NEAR WHITE HAVES, ENGLAND.

White Haven, Eng., May 13.—The Wellington coal mine was sealed today to smother the flames that have been sweeping through its galleries since yesterday's explosion, and, which it is now certain have claimed the lives of 137 miners entombed by the explosion.

Rescuing parties tried again today to enter the mine, but found it like a caldron. By sealing the entrance the officials think they can put out the fire without flooding the mine.

PUBLIC HOLIDAY FRIDAY.

A proclamation appears in the Ontario Gazette, signed by the lieutenant-governor, declaring Friday next, the day of King Edward's funeral, a public holiday throughout the Province.

WILL ONTARIO BE THE FIRST!

Already the question has been mooted in several quarters as to how soon a movement should be inaugurated to erect a statue to the honored and beloved memory of his late majesty King Edward VII.

It is understood that Sir James Whitney will shortly be approached upon the matter, and the premier will undoubtedly accede to any such suggestion with alacrity.

It is fitting that the premier province should be the first to move in the matter, and Ontario will be jealous of having any other community surpass them in zeal or expedition in rendering this last and enduring tribute to the great monarch of modern ideals, Edward the Peace Maker.

The City of Peterborough will join with heart and hand in whatever the Province may undertake in this direction, and the people will, with one accord deliggt to participate in the opportunity to perpetuate their loyal and loving admiration in worthy form.

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the Kennedy-Kennedy Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicines, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicine the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, lumpers of the hair, sufferers of the glands, pains of the bones scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 6 years previous. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I cannot too much recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish.

Sciatica

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY.

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored By Nerviline.

We have all read and heard of the agonies of Sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was completely wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended Nerviline. I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day and got relief. In order to build up my general CURED health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, SIX one tablet with each meal I continued this treat- YEARS. ment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

There isn't a more highly esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 25 cents per bottle or five for $1. Sold everywhere or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston.

TRADE WITH UNITED STATES.

The Rochester Union and Advertiser comments upon an article in the Star, in which it is contended that the greatest present obstacle to the greatest present obstacle to States is the exorbitant tariff of the latter country, and that the way to enlarge trade is the simplest namely, to reduce the duty all along the line.

Our Rochester contemporary says that we do not go far enough; that commerce between the two countries should be as free as between States of the American Union. But how could this be accomplished so long as the American tariff against other countries remains? If this were attempted, goods could be imported into Canada, say, from Great Britain, at a comparatively low rate of duty, and shipped across the American border, thus evading the high duties of the United States. To prevent this it would be necessary to assimilate the tariffs of the two countries, in other words, to form a commercial union, in which the country of ninety millions would inevitably dominate the country of eight millions. To this, Canada will never consent.

A limited reciprocity treaty might be arranged, covering certain products of Canada and the United States, and leaving each country to deal as it pleased with products coming over the seas. But the simplest way is the reduction of duties by tariff legislation. Without expressly discriminating in favor of Canada the United States could reduce the duties on goods imported mainly from Canada. But we hardly expect this to be done, except by a general change of tariff sentiment in the United States. So long as it is generally believed that prosperity depends upon a high tariff wall, it is very difficult to pick out articles here and there, and admit them at a low rate of duty for purposes of reciprocity. The producer of these articles will very court that he is being sacrificed; that he is paying high duties on other products in order to support native industries, while his own industries deprived of protection. For this reason while we do not deny that something might be done by a limited reciprocity treaty, our expectations of enlarged trade with the United States are based largely upon the general movement for tariff reduction now proceeding in that country.

Author of "Hearts Courageous," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

wielded his pick in the trench or laboriously washed out the few glistening grains that now were to mean his daily sustenance he turned often to gaze up the slope where, set in its foliage, the glass roof of the sanitarium sparkled softly through the Indian haze. Strange that the sight should mysteriously suggest the face that haunted him!

Prendergast saw the abstracted regard as he came up the trail from the creek. He was in an ugly humor. The bag of gold dust which he had shown to Harry he had not returned to the hiding place in the wall, and with this in his pocket the faro table had twice tempted him. The pouch was empty now.

Harry's back was toward him, and the gold pan in which he had been washing the gravel lay at his feet. With a noiseless, mirthless laugh Prendergast stole into the cabin and reached down from the shelf the bottle into which each day Harry had poured his scanty findings. He weighed it in his hand—almost two ounces, a little less than $30. He hastily tonk the empty bag from his pocket.

But just then a shadow darkened the doorway, and Harry entered. He saw the action and, striding forward, took the bottle from the other's hand.

Prendergast turned on him, a snarl under his affectation of surprise. "Can't you attend to your own rat killing?" he growled. "I guess I've got a right to what I need."

"Not to that," said Harry quietly. "We shall touch the bottom of the flour sack tomorrow. You expect to get your meals here, I presume."

"I still look forward to that pleasure," answered Prendergast, with an evil sneer. "Three meals a day and a rotten roof over my head. When I think of the little I have done to deserve it, the hospitality overcomes me. All I have done is to keep you from starving to death and out of quod at the same time. I only taught you a safe way to beat the game, an easier one than you seem to know, and to live on Easy street."

"I am looking for no easy way," responded Harry, "whatever you mean by that. I expect to earn my living as I'm earning it now. It's an honest method, at all events."

"You've forgotten all fired particular since you lost your memory," retorted Prendergast, his eyes narrowing. "You'll be turning dominie one of these days. Perhaps you expect to get the town to take up with you and to make love to the beauty in the green riding habit that brought you here on her horse the night you were out of your head."

Harry started. "What do you mean?" he asked thickly.

Prendergast's oily manner was gone now. His savage temper came uppermost.

"I forgot you didn't know about that," he scoffed. "I made a neat story of it in the town. They've been gabbling about it ever since."

Harry caught his breath. As through a mist he saw again that green habit on the hotel balcony—that face that had haunted his waking consciousness. It had not been Prendergast alone then, who had brought him here. And her act of charity had been made, no doubt, a thing for the tittering of the town, cheapened by chatter, canvassed by jobs!

"I wonder if she'd done it if she'd known all I knew," continued the other malevolently. "You'd better go up to the sanitarium. Hugh, and give her a nice sweet kiss for it!"

A lust of rage rose in Harry's throat but he choked it down. His hand fell like iron on Prendergast's shoulder and turned him forcibly toward the open door. His other hand pointed, and his suppressed voice said: "This cabin has grown too small for us both. The town will suit you better."

Prendergast shrank before the wrath whitened face, the dangerous sparkle in the eyes. "You've got through with me," he glowered, "and you think you can go it alone." The old suspicion leaped in the malicious countenance. "Well, it won't pay you to try it yet. I know too much! Do you understand? I know too much!"

Harry went out of the cabin. At the door he turned. "If there is anything you own here," he said, "take it with you. You needn't be here when I come back."

"The town will suit you better."

His hearts surging with the black rage in his heart, Prendergast gathered his few belongings, rolled them in the white horse skin which he drew from beneath his bunk and wrapped the whole in a blanket. He fastened the bundle in a pack strap, slung it over his shoulder and left the cabin. He skirted the borders and went rapidly down the trail, turning over in his mind his future schemes.

As it chanced, there was one who

BODIES OF A YOUNG COUPLE IN LEAMINGTON TELL OF A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Babe Beside the Mother—Laughed When the People Came in and Discovered the Awful Deed.

Leamington, Ont., May 13.—Floyd Dresser, aged 20, and his wife, aged 19, were found dead in their room this morning at their home here. Revolvers clutched in the hands of the man and bullet holes in each head told the terrible story of wife murder and suicide.

A six-months-old child, laughing and crying in turn, lay beside the dead mother's body.

A search for a cause for the awful deed has so far been unavailing. They were a young couple having been married about two years and as far as known lived happily. He was in Jeffries' billiard room last night up to ten o'clock, and seemed the happiest of the crowd. This morning her father, John Oliver, went early to the house and found it locked, and told his wife, who went to the house and on entering was horrified at what she saw.

Dresser was the son of Thomas Dresser of the 4th concession, Mersea, who is one of the most prominent and respectable citizens. The dead woman is the daughter of John Oliver of this town.

The premises are now in charge of Constable Booth, awaiting the coroner's inquest.

GREAT POWER DEVELOPMENT.

Frontier Towns Want Healey Falls Power.

The Port Hope Guide says that now that the Northumberland-Durham Power Company, which controls Healey Falls and also the Culverwell Trent Power Syndicate, who own half a dozen powers on the Trent River, have secured a contract with the Royal Securities Corporation of Montreal to expend over two million dollars on development and transmission of electric current for cheaper electric light and cheap power, the Sentinel-Star says to the "powers that be," let the Company spend the money. J. B. McColl should see to this and get the pier and light fixed.

As this means the immediate development of about 25,000 electric horse power and prosperity to Port Hope, and to the whole lake front district and success to some one hundred district shareholders, and according to the official request of eighteen municipalities. The Guide earnestly request the Department of Railways and Canals to let the Company start work at once and expend their money. We bespeak Senator Beith's assistance. What has be done in the matter? Time means everything. The Cobourg World of this week also endorses these sentiments. Let the Company start work at once on No. 3 dam, already built, nearly all of which they own, so the district can have power in five months. The money to expend is waiting. The obstruction tactics of the Seymour Power company and Trenton Electric company combination has been and is resented by the press and the people of the lake front district.

FOR MISSING CHILD.

Authorities are Baffled Regarding Disappearance of Two-Year-Old Boy.

Elkhorn, May 12.—A blood-hound, an intelligent animal, the property of a Roman Catholic priest at Winchurst, has been secured to help in the desperate search for the missing two-year-old son of Thomas France. Several hundred people are now assisting in the hunt. The authorities are baffled. They have come to the conclusion that less than ten minutes elapsed between the time when John Heritage, a farmer, saw the child in the road and the time when Mrs. Heritage arrived to see what the little one was doing there alone. The country is so flat that Mrs. Heritage would have seen anyone who was passing. The case is a mysterious one.

Pains of women, head pains, or any pain stopped in 20 minutes sure, with Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. See full formula on 25c. Box. Sold by all dealers.

Otonabee Students Not to Blame.

An item appeared in our issue of Saturday which requires a little explanation. A couple of the residents of Otonabee, where the school we referred to in that township is situated, called at The Times office on Saturday and explained that the trouble was caused by boys from the town, who attend school here. The trouble was not caused by any of the boys of Otonabee. There is no reflection therefore on the boys of that township.

Omemee may Change Name to Eatonia

Toronto, May 16.—Mr. J. C. Eaton, head of the T. Eaton Company, has a favorite little village in Victoria county for which he has done much. This village is Omemee, the birthplace of Mrs Eaton. Now it is stated the name of the village will be changed to Eatonia.

The village has no distinguishing features beyond that of the average Ontario village located in the heart of a pleasant farm country and on the banks of the Pigeon river, a tiny stream which flows into the Kawartha lakes. The name it now possesses, Omemee, is of Indian derivation, and in that tongue stands for pigeons. At one time flocks of wild pigeons nested in the surrounding woods, hence the name.

When Mr. Eaton married a bride from Omemee, Miss McCrea, the village received a new distinction. Since then Mr. Eaton has visited the village a good deal and his big automobile has ceased to create wonder in the streets of that hamlet. He has opened churches, laid cornerstones, officiated at entertainments and taken an allround live interest in the birthplace of his wife.

A big factory, employing hundreds of hands, is said to be in contemplation, and this has started the agitation for a change of the name to Eatonia.

ON FRIDAY THE COMET WILL BE A GRAND SIGHT IN THE EVENING

HON. SIR WILFRID LAURIER, WHO WILL MAKE A TOUR OF THE WEST WHICH WILL LAST FOR 60 DAYS.

IT WILL SET AFTER THE SUN AND WILL BE A GORGEOUS SPECTACLE.

Will Be Well Worth Seeing Even on Thursday Night—The Earth Passes Through the Tail on Wednesday.

Cambridge, Mass., May 16.— The morning observations of Halley's comet by the Harvard observers, closed today with another disappointing effort, and for the next few days, views of the visitor can only be made in broad daylight.

Whether Halley's comet will become sufficiently bright to be seen at noonday tomorrow or on Wednesday, either before or after the sun, is yet a matter of conjecture.

If the moon were not quite so bright on Wednesday evening, there might be a chance to see the end of the comet's tail as it scurries down behind the western horizon after the sun. It will certainly be an object of interest on Thursday evening, while on Friday night the comet should be one of the finest celestial spectacles in the last quarter of a century, rivaling the great comet of 1882.

The transit across the sun's disk will be visible to observers equipped with dark glass in Japan, Austria, and India, or practically through that longitude 120 West to longitude 90 East.

On Wednesday the earth will pass through the comet's tail, but as that appendage is believed to be composed of something far thinner than the nearest approach in vacuum on this earth, the Harvard astronomers do not look for any ill effects.

LOCAL INDUSTRY AFFECTED.

Ackerman's Proposed New Branch May go to Saskatoon.

The Regina Standard says: While the Board of Trade and Greater Regina Club are doing their best to induce new industries and wholesale concerns to come to Regina with headquarters offices for Saskatchewan, the City Council is holding up the spur track proposition and Regina is losing good industries. It is stated by one who is familiar with the situation, in Regina that $100,000 worth of building has been held back this year owing to the non-settlement of the sour track trouble, and the Standard has learned on reliable authority that the wholesale harness and saddlery firm of B. E. Ackerman & Sons will not come here after all.

Mr. Ackerman was in Regina yesterday and went north to Saskatoon It is understood that he is so dissatisfied with conditions here that he seriously contemplates starting his western branch at Saskatoon instead of in Regina. Information has come to hand that Mr. Ackerman's case is not the only one of its kind.

It might be noted that Messrs. Ackerman & Son, were to have spent about $40,000 in Regina.

Norway has given votes to women. So says a cablegram of yesterday. Peterborough husbands don't care about female franchise, so long as their respective wives do not greet them at 3 a.m., with a rolling pin or flat iron.

The Laurier Tour will Beging in July

Ottawa, May 16.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's political tour of Western Canada will begin during the first week in July, and will last sixty days, during which the premier will visit all the important centers in the West from Port Arthur to Prince Rupert. The exact itinerary has not yet been arranged nor the dates fixed, but it is settled that Sir Wilfrid accompanied by Hon. G. P. Graham, Mr. E. M. Macdonald, M.P., and F. F. Pardee, M.P., chief Liberal whip, will leave Ottawa on July 7 or 8, speaking the following day at Port Arthur or Fort William.

A couple of days or so will be spent in Winnipeg, and during the following three weeks meetings will be held at various points in the Prairie Provinces, including Brandon, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Weyburn, Yorkton, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton, Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, and other points in Alberta. Vancouver will be reached early in August, and a couple of days will be spent there, and in Victoria. The party will go as far north as Prince Rupert.

Sir Wilfrid will be back in the capital by September 6 or 7. Hon. Mr. Fielding will be unable to accompany the premier, as he will be absent in England during July.

LORD STRATHCONA MADE A VIGOROUS PROTEST TO THE COLONIAL OFFICE

London, May 16.—The Canadian press learns that on his secretary drawing attention to the announcement that representatives of overseas Dominions were not to take part in the funeral of the King, Lord Strathcona immediately communicated with the Colonial Office vigorously protesting against such treatment, the result being that the representatives have a place in St. George's chapel, Windsor.

The Canadian office was closed today, but the Canadian Press is unofficially informed that the Colonial Office was severely taken to task, it being pointed out that representatives of Canada coming spontaneously to express Canada's sense of loss were deserving of more consideration, and that such treatment as has been proposed to show Canada's representatives were it not rectified, would cause most unpleasant comment in Canada.

THE HALLIHAN CONCERT.

Miss Lavinia Hallihan's Benefit to Be Held on May 27th.

The benefit concert for Miss Lavina Hallihan has been definitely settled for the first Friday after the obsequies of his late Majesty King Edward VII. This means that this popular local function will be held in the Grand Opera House on the evening of May 27th. A splendid program has been arranged and undoubtedly the opera house will be filled to its utmost seating capacity. There is no gainsaying the fact that Miss Hallihan, through her marked recognition by Lord Lansdsborough and the governor-general, Lord Grey, has done much to bring her natal city before Canada in General.

MISSED THE RABIES.

Local Boy Lost Part of His Pants Instead of Being Infected by Hydrophobia.

In an editorial, one of our esteemed evening contemporaries says, "Nearly every day news comes of some one being bitten by dogs in Western Ontario." It will be remembered that last week alone here in Peterborough, dogs took away with them, souvenirs of the anatomy of three different children. None of these canines had any provocation. The whole story is, that, in the case of these children, dogs saw the little ones playing and grabbed for their (the children's) legs. It must be admitted that in one of these cases the dog only got a mouthful of trousers. Now these trousers might have been tailor made at $5 per make or only $2 for ready made goods. No matter what price it was only the breadth of possibly one-quarter of an inch that prevented a sample of the boy's leg being taken by the dog. There is no fear that the trousers, whether made-to-order semi-ready or shelf goods, would be innoculated by hydrophobia. Should the dog, however, that sampled the little fellow's pants, have had canine teeth one-quarter of an inch longer, the dog would, if infected by rabies, not only have deprived the boy of what nature gave him, but would have left the nucleus of about seventeen million microbes. These would have caused two loving parents to have mourned the loss of a son, killed by the most horrible, but, under propeir control of dogs, needless death.

GLADSTONE'S HEAVY TASK MANY CONFLICTING ELEMENTS

FIRST MINISTRY FOR SOUTH AFRICA TO BE FORMED BY THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

Britain Has Given Good Measure of Liberty and Self-Government to the Colonies, Whether the War Was Just or Unjust, or Necessary or Unnecessary.

Pretoria, May 16.—The feeling in England that a heavy responsibility will rest on Lord Gladstone when he chooses the interim South African Union Ministry is widely reproduced here by cable, and as widely echoed. Pretoria has been the venue this week of the annual congress of Het Volk ("The People"), the Dutch-speaking political association which corresponds roughly with the Bond in Cape Colony. The meetings were presided over by General Botha, whose speech one day may be described as a saying in effect to the English-speaking South Africans, whose leader is Dr. Jamieson.

"We can't formerly coalesce, for various reasons, but short of that, we are willing and even painfully anxious to work with you, and to administer the country economically and justly." The speech is full of observations which bear out this view.

What more do the English-speaking South Africans wish for, you may ask? Well, here is there case: They say that, whether the war was just or unjust, necessary or unnecessary, there is no gainsaying the fact that Britain has given good measure of liberty and self-government to the new colonies; that since the peace, especially in the Transvaal, the non-Dutch parties have assisted the governments in every possible way; that but for the ready acquisition and trust of the English-speaking section throughout South Africa at the time of the national convention no British government would have dared to pass an enabling bill.

They say that when the governor-general forms his first ministry it will be months before, instead of after, a general election, and that thus it will be by no means demonstrably certain that the interim ministry will represent the victorious party at the elections.

Yet this interim government will at once deal with the following great matters: The appointment of the heads of the four provincial governments, the positions of the judges and paid magistrates; the appointments of attorneys general for the four provinces; the appointment of permanent heads of the great departments of state; the appointment of a commission "for the reorganization and readjustment of the departments of the public service"; the arrangements regarding seniority or precedence, pay and promotion in the civil service, defence forces and volunteers; the financial and administrative arrangements between the provincial councils (which replace the existing parliaments) and the union government commissions to insure uniformity and legislation in the four provinces; the appointment of senators (for ten years, be it remembered); of officials in charge of native affairs (upon whom may depend issues of peace or war with our vast native population); and of the men who are to have charge of the whole railroad system of South Africa. Lord Gladstone's responsibility will, indeed, be a heavy one.

FRIDAY TO BE A BANK HOLIDAY AS WELL AS A GENERAL DAY OF MOURNING

Ottawa, May 16.—The Department of State has decided to issue a new "extra" of the Canadian Gazette in order to make clear that Friday the 20th, is to be a bank holiday as well as a "general day of mourning." The wording of the last extra issue did not technically convey the proper meaning so as to include the banks.

It seems that all present known methods have been employed to try and locate the body of the poor little boy Vallois, drowned at the P. L. & P. Co., dam, without effect. Any suggestions within reason, as to where the body is and how it might be recovered will be gratefully received by The Times. Should such suggestions reccom mend themselves they will be tried.

Brother and Sister Drown in Whirlpool

Vancouver, May 16.— Walking along the edge of a fifty foot cliff, Miss Tempest slipped over into the whirlpool of the Capilano canyon on Sunday afternoon, Attracted by her screams, her brother, Thomas Tempest, aged 25, tried to rescue her, but both sank in the chilly glacial stream, and up to midnight neither body had been recovered. Some two hundred people witnessed the double drowning, including half a dozen friends who, with the Tenments, carried support to the picturesque canyon.

DR. B. CLARKE HYDE FOUND GUILTY OF MURDERING COL. T. H. SWOPE

Kansas City, Mo., May 16.—Dr. B. Clarke Hyde was today found guilty of murdering Col. Thomas H. Swope, his wife's millionaire uncle. The jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree and recommended that he be sentenced to life imprisonment.

Hyde heard the verdict with composure. His wife burst into tears and was taken into an ante room where her sobbing could plainly be heard in the court room. Hyde's two sisters also broke down.

The convicted physician was permitted to go into the ante room with his wife, a marshall guarding the door.

57TH REGIMENT ON PARADE LAST NIGHT—ANNUAL INSPECTION POSTPONED OWING TO KING'S DEATH

Sir Percy Lake, commander of the Canadian forces, who was to have made his annual inspection of the 57th Regiment last night at the armories, did not arrive. The regiment turned out almost in full numbers in anticipation of the expected inspection and the local soldier boys seemed greatly disappointed. It was generally understood that Sir Percy was kept in Ottawa arranging for the obsequies of the late King.

The regiment had a march out, the officers each wearing a badge of mourning out of respect for the late King Edward.

NO POVERTY NOW IN MODERN BERLIN

CONDITIONS IN GERMAN CAPITAL BEING INVESTIGATED.

Slums are Not in Evidence as They are in England—British Workmen are Astonished at What They Found.

Berlin, May 14.—After 36 hours of enthusiastic astonishment at the newness and cleanness of modern Berlin and the prosperity of the city's working men the 60 British working men who are touring Germany left yesterday for Leipzig. Previous to their arrival in the capital they had seen Eberfeld, the "chemical city," Dusseldorf, the town of steel and iron, Essen-on-the-Rurh, the seat of the world-famed Krupp cannon and armor works.

Representatives of six different trades gave their impressions before entraining for Leipzig. One and all asserted that they would return to England with the traditional ideas of German labor conditions thoroughly exploded. They have proved by ocular demonstrations and careful research that black bread, horseflesh and dear living are free-trade campaign myths, pure and simple.

James McAllister, a Glasgow iron moulder, said: "Just before leaving London some of us had the honor of an audience with John Burns at the House of Commons. He said: 'Now, lads, you're going to see a most interesting country where much is to be learned. But don't go to the show places or the places where they would attempt to take you. Look at the slums of Berlin and Dusseldorf—wretched places that London can't touch.'"

COULD FIND NO SLUMS

"Well, all I have got to say is that we have been loooking industriously for slums and could not find any. We have tried to discover the poorest parts of every town, but there are really no 'poor parts' existing. Next to the lack of so-called slums, my liveliest impression of German working-class conditions is the amount of money which German work people seem to have for enjoyment on Saturdays and Sundays. There cannot be anything like it anywhere in the world. It is indisputable evidence of prosperity. And the best of all is that the worker, the wife and children, all take their enjoyment together, with never a case of drunk and disorderly to spoil the picture. It is grand."

J. W. Hodgson, a plaster, of High Wycombe, said: "We have been looking everywhere for a German loafer. The only one we have found is a Dusseldorf man who lived 10 years in England, who speaks English and will not work. We have not seen a bare-footed child since we came to the country. Yesterday six of us spent the day watching typical Berlin folk enjoy their Sunday. Incidentally, we went out to hunt for black bread. We found bakers' shops open everywhere, a novel Sunday night for an English laborer. We contrived to make the lady behind the counter understand that we wanted black bread — Mr. Lloyd George's brand. She did not stock it; said it was too dear for sale in that working class neighborhood.

W. J. Durrant, of Oldham, an ex-president of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, said: "The condition of working men in Germany, in every respect, is without doubt, superior to that of British working men.

S. Belcher, a railway telegraphist in Berkshire, said: "I got into talk soon after we arrived at Essen with the manager of the hotel, and asked him what they did with their unemployed. 'Unemployed,' he scoffed, 'why we have hardly got any. If a man wants work here he can get it.' I met a working man and said to him: 'It is all very well, but you have got plenty of men out of work here all the same.' He stared at me, and then said: 'That's a lie. If a man wants work, he can get it.' I made the same statement to another, and he simply laughed at the idea. A waiter said the same thing, and I do not see how one can suppose they were all lying."

Mr. Bird, the leader of the party, specially emphasized that the members are given the fullest liberty of action in seeking out things for themselves.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Yesterday a unique sight was witnessed on George street. Three three English immigrants just off the C.P.R. train, and not one of them wore a peaked cap or was hear them wore a peaked cap or was heard to use the words "bloomin'" or "blarsted." The three all were "Christie stiffs" of latest model

SLUGGISH LIVER RUINED BUSINESS MAN'S HEALTH.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of sedentary character," writes T. B. Tretfield, head of a well-known firm in Buckingham. "Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill health which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes akin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I bent over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at my business every day I neglected myself rather than risk further weakness. Of course I grew worse, but by a happy chance I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me just as gently as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthened my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared and my appetite, strength, spirits are perfect."

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c. boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

THE CORONATION OATH.

It is hardly reasonable to demand that that part of the coronation oath in which the king swears to uphold the Protestant religion to eliminated. The kingis the head of the established church of England and as such it is surely reasonable to require him to declare his fealty to the religion of the establishment.

The danger of having a sovereign who is hostile to the established church was sufficiently demonstrated in the years 1685-6 when James II. was on the throne. A bigoted and tools of many wise Catholics, even of the pope himself, by arbitrary aggressive Roman Catholic, he undertook, against the advice and pro measures, to fill the high places in the established church with Roman Catholic ecclesiastics. His rash policy in this direction not only cost him his crown, but made the English people determined that no such attempt would ever again be made; and the coronation oath was the outcome of that determination. It is designed to bar Roman Catholics from the throne by requiring the sovereign not only to declare his belief in the Protestant faith, but assert that he believes the Roman Catholic faith to be a system of superstition and to denounce it as such.

This latter part of the oath is the part which many people think, ought to be eliminated. They think it obsolete and useless and is a cause of offence to millions of the king's Roman Catholic subjects. Among his subjects are Brahmins, Buddhists, Mohammedans, Shintoists, Jews and adherents of annoy other religious systems, as well as Christians. To select from all these one religious system, and a Christian one at that for special repudiation and denunciation to many, is in the nature of an insult to the adherents of that body of faith. It is natural and right that they should resent it.

A little toothpick factory at Hull, the only one in Canada, wants a protective duty put upon American toothpicks. The boarding house table has been getting bearer and barer with the rising cost of provisions, and now these thoughtless Hull persons would banish the toothpick also. But why, seriously, should all Canadian toothpick buyers be penalized in order to increase the profits of one little factory that could not supply the demand even though it had a monopoly.

saw his vindictive face. Jessica, crouched on the Knob, had seen him come and now depart, pack on back, and guessed that the pair had parted company. Her whole being flamed with sympathy. She could see his malignant scowl plainly from where she leaned, screened by the bushes. It terrified her. What had passed between them in the cabin? She left the Knob wondering.

All that evening she was ill at ease. At midnight, sleepless, she was looking out from her bedroom window across the phantom peopled shadows, where on the face of the pale sky the stars trembled like slow tears. Anxiety and dread were in her heart; a pale phantom of fear seemed lurking in the shadows; the night was full of dread.

Chapter 18.

On the day following the explosion of Prendergast, Harry woke restless and unrefreshed. Fleeting sensations mocked him—a disturbing conviction that the struggling memory in some measure had succeeded in reasserting itself in the shadowy kingdom of sleep. Waking, the apparitions were fled again into their obscurity, leaving only the wraiths of recollection to startle and disquiet. A girl's face hovered always before him—ruling his consciousness as it had ruled his sleeping thought.

He took down from its shelf the bottle he had rescued from Prendergast's intention and emptied it of its glistening grains—enough to replenish his depleted stock of provisions. He paused a moment as he put on his hat, smiling whimsically, a little sadly. He dreaded entering the town. But there could be no remedy in concealment. If he was to live and work here, appear he must on the streets sooner or later. Smoky Mountain must continue to think of him as it might. What he was from that time on was all that could count to him.

If he had but known it there was good reason for hesitation today. Early that morning an angry rumor had disturbed the town. The sluice of the hydraulic company had been robbed again. Some two months previously there had occurred a series of depredations by which the company had suffered. The booms were not swept of their golden harvest each day, and in spite of all precautions coarse gold had disappeared mysteriously from the riffles, this, although armed men had watched all night. There had been much guess work. The cabin on the hillside was the nearest habitation—the company's mines disgorged its dead in the gulch beneath it—and suspicion had eventually pointed its way. The sudden cessing of the robberies with the disappearance of Hugh Stires had given form to this suspicion. Now, almost coincident with his return, the rifle-box had been emptied. It had been a red letter day for Devlin and his ilk, who reviled at the more charitable. Of all this, however, the object of their "I told you so" was serenely ignorant.

Entering the town, there were few stirring on the sunny streets, but he could not but be aware that those he met stopped to gaze after him. Some indeed followed. His first objective point was a jeweler's, where he could turn his gold dust into readier coin for needful purchases. He saw a sign next the Mountain Valley House and entered.

The jeweler weighed the dust, with a distrustful frown, but Harry's head was turned away. He was reading a freshly printed placard tacked on the wall, an offer of reward for the detection of the sluice thief. He read it through mechanically, for as he read there came from the street outside a sound that touched a muffled chord in his brain. It was the exhaust of a motor car.

He thrust the money the goldsmith grudgingly handed him into his pocket and turned to the door. A long red automobile had stopped at the curb. Two men whom it carried were just entering the hotel. Something in the light of the long, low "racer" reminded Harry—of what? His eye traced its polished lines, noting its cunning mechanism, its build for silent speed, with an eager lighting of a connoisseur. He took a step toward it, oblivious to all about him.

He did not note that men were gathering, that the nearest saloon was emptying of its occupants. Nor did he see a girl on horseback, with a tiny child before her on the saddle, who reined up sharply opposite.

The rider was Jessica, the child an ecstatic five-year-old she had picked up on the fringe of the town to canter in with her hands gripping the pommel of the saddle. She saw Harry's position instantly and guessed it perilous. What did the men mean to do? She leaned forward, a swift apprehension in her face.

Harry came back suddenly to a realization of his surroundings. He looked about him, startled, his cheek darkening its red, every muscle instinctively tightening. He saw danger in the lowering faces, and the old lust of daring leaped up instantly to grapple with the adjuvenated character.

Devlin's voice came over the heads of the crowd as, burly and shirt sleeved, he strode across the street:

"Hand over the dust you've stolen before you are tarred and feathered, Hugh Stires!"

Harry looked at him, surprised, his mind instantly recurring to the placard he had seen. Here was a tangible accusation.

"I have stolen nothing," he responded quietly.

"Where did he get what he just said me?" The jeweler's sour query rose behind him from the doorway.

DEFENCE LAWYERS HAVE A NEW THEORY ENTIRELY EXCULPATING TOM FINTON.

Refuse to State Details—But Say He Will Be Released When Details are Known—Court Officials' Spat.

Hamilton, May 13.—The lawyers of Tom Finton, the young man who was committed for trial yesterday afternoon on the charge of murdering his aged father, promises a sensation in the case before it goes to trial at the High Court. S. D. Biggar, K.C., the family lawyer, made a startling statement today when he declared that he and George Lynch-Staunton, who defended Finton in court yesterday are working on a theory which will change the entire aspect of the case, and make it one of the most remarkable crimes in recent years. "Within three or four days," he declared to newspapermen "we expect to have a man placed under arrest, charged with the murder of Elijah Finton and entirely free our client, Tom Finton, of any suspicion."

Mr. Biggar refused to go into details, he said that the theory which they are working on has been under consideration for several days. The family lawyers are satisfied that within a week they will be in a position to have Tom Finton released from jail and his honorable acquittal of the serious charge against him will be merely a matter of form when the case is called at the High Court.

When the Crown closed its case yesterday Mr. Biggar was anxious to have Tom Finton go on the witness stand and tell his story, but Mr. Staunton decided to wait until the trial at the High Court. At the close of the case Mr. Biggar remarked "The Crown has not got a chance."

Sheriff Middleton and Crown Attorney Washington had a lively tilt in one of the ante rooms. Mr. Washington criticized the sheriff for the opinion he expressed that death was accidental after hearing the evidence of the doctors.

"I have as much right to my opinion as the doctors or Chief Twiss," Mr. Arthur Hall, who is employed in the tool-making department of the C.G.E. Co., underwent an operation in the Nicholls Hospital on Saturday.

Cosgrave's Beer

Heads of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" relies upon.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more suitable reputation than does this famous Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

IN DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES HER ATTITUDE IS VIEWED WITH SUSPICION.

She Adopted the Same Self Effacing Tactics Before the Bitter Struggle That She Was Engaged In With Russia.

At Army Headquarters the Staffs are Also Working at High Pressure—Trouble is in Store for Some One—Presumably America.

St. Petersburg, May 14.—In diplomatic circles here the Brer Rabbit attitude being adopted just now by Japan is viewed with some suspicion It is recalled that for months before she entered upon her great struggle with Russia she adopted the same self-effacing tactics.

It is known, however, that at all the naval dockyards in Japan hands are working night and day hastening on the completition of the ships under construction, while at the army headquarters the staffs are working at high pressure.

What this betokens will not be apparent for some months, but directly Japan considers her financial position is sufficiently strong to warrant her adopting a belligerent attitude, trouble is in store for one of the other powers, presumably America.

A SUMMER RESORT.

The C.P.R. with their proverbial enterprise have issued a beautifully colored and contine folder displaying clearly the location and manifold attractions of "Beautiful Point au Baril. This ideal summer resort is located on Georgian Bay, 630 feet above the sea level on the C.P.R., within six hours' ride from Toronto. Here is the spot for the tired man or woman of the city who wants a total divorce from conventionality and the grind of social life. The scenery is beautiful beyond compare and the air is tonic in its ozone. Islands of every size and shape make monotony impossible. For the disciple of Isaac Walton are black bass, maskinonge, pike, pickerel and other fish waiting to bite. The boat and launch service is of the finest and cheap. Canoe trips can be arranged for. Guides, both white and Indian can be secured. There are already three fine hotels, the Bellevere, Ojibway and Skerryvore and also boarding houses. Point au Baril station is on the Sudbury line of the C.P.R., and can be reached by standard coaches, cafe-parlor and sleeping cars. For particulars apply to Mr. W. McIlroy, C.P.R. agent, Peterborough.

Is Advised Not to Hope—"Righteous Verdict," Said Judge Riddell — Murderer Had Been Warned.

Toronto, May 13.—"Pasquale Ventricini, stand up. The sentence of the court upon you, Pasquale Ventricini, is that you be taken to the place whence you came and there kept in strict imprisonment until Thursday the 30th day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ten, you be thence taken to the place of execution, and there be hanged by the neck until you are dead.

"And may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

So said Mr. Justice Riddell this morning to you. I have obtained the address, in the course of which he had said:

"The jury have strongly recommended you to mercy. I have obtained from the jury the reason for their recommendation, and they tell me it is because you a foreigner, had, perhaps, not got quite accustomed to our ways, and may not have wholly appreciated how contrary your act was to the laws of the land.

WARNED NOT TO HOPE MUCH.

"This recommendation will be transmitted to the proper authorities, but you must not trust that the recommendation can have weight Every man in Canada must obey the Canadian law at his peril.

If allowed to continue they are dangerous. Nothing so quickly cures local inflammation and drives away pain as Nerviline. Nerviline does this because it penetrates so deeply. Nerviline is not only powerful but soothing. By relieving congestion it cures pain. It does this always. It cannot fail, because it is a true antidote for pain. You can scarcely find anybody that will not tell you wonderful things about the pain-curing power of Nerviline. Rember, that there is not an ache or pain that Nerviline will not cure immediately. VOL. XXXINO. 114 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO WEDNESDAY MAY 18 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

George St. to be Better Watered in Future

Same Territory as Last Year to be Also Watered on Sundays—Ald. Hicks Will See that the Dust Nuisance is Abated

The City Board of Works met last night, when there were present:—Chairman Ald. Hicks, and Alder en Phelan, Metheral, Duffus, Graham, and Gilkespie.

AGAINST SEWER.

A strong petition against the proposed sewer on Ware street, was received.

Mr. Chas. Risbor, addressed the committee re the Houdrey building, which he had previously asked to be removed from off the street, so as not to depreciate the value of his proposed neR building.

Mr. Risbor stated that he now finds that he will require to build on the north end of the Houdrey property facing Sherbrooke street, which he understands is a portion of the old street reserve. He wished to know if he could lease said land from the city.

The committee would not commit themselves, but promised to look over the site with Mr. Risbor on Thursday morning. It seems that the C.P.R.'s new siding is to enter at this point, and the board are uncertain whether they are in a position to grant Mr. Risbor's request.

STREET WATERING.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That the Water Commissioners be recommended to put a stand pipe on Gilmour street, at a point to be recommended by the city engineer.—Carried.

TOO MUCH DUST.

A letter from Mr. A. W. Creasman complained that merchants and the public generally suffered considerably from dust owing to the lack of sufficient street watering on George street. He thought, ratepayers deserved better treatment from the city than to be annoyed by flying dust in the way that had been since the season opened, and asked that the grievance be mitigated.

Ald. Phelan thought the streets should also be watered on Sunday as last year.

Ald. Hicks contended that the men employed are covering too much ground. He proposed putting on another watering cart, and shortening up each man's territory so as to provide a more thorough street watering service.

Ald. Duffus moved, seconded by Ald. Hicks,—That the chairman be authorized to put on an extra cart into commission for street watering when he thinks it necessary.— Carried.

SUNDAY STREET WATERING.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That the same territory as last year be watered on Sundays.—Carried.

SIMCOE ST. CROSSING.

Regarding the Quaker Oats Company's request for a new C.P.R. rail way siding along the water front into their property, the board still adheres to its previous resolution of acquiescense, providing the city has a right of way over the said tracks to the water's edge.

STREET GRADING.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That Patterson St., be gravelled and graded from Park street to between Hart and Rutherford avenue.—Carried.

The engineer was authorized to exercise his judgment as to gravelling Charlotte street west.

The engineer reported on the cost of building an approach to 561 Sherbrooke street, and of filling in the drain in that neighborhood.

This matter was left in abeyance, pending consideration as to ways and means of doing the work at a reasonable cost.

FILLING IN EARTH WANTED.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That the engineer get an estimate from Mr. Patterson for the city's purchase of the earth from the C.G.E.'s present construction works, for filling in purposes.—Carried.

The engineer was instructed to report on the Peterborough Lumber Company's request that Charles and Birdsall streets, used extensively by this company's rigs be gravelled and graded.

LOWERING OF BOULEVARD.

The petition that a boulevard on Gilmour street be lowered and a big elm tree in the middle of the roadway removed, was laid on the table indefinitely.

The board considered that lowering the boulevard would kill the beautiful shade trees in this locality.

OLD SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

Contractor Conroy offers that his men take down the old Smith street bridge, the city to pay only for the workmen's actual time taken in such removal.

CEMENT CROSSING.

On motion of Ald. Duffus, a crossing will be laid across Maitland avenue, south side of Charlotte.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That when it is necessary to remove the old Smith street bridge, Messrs. E. and F. Conroy's men do said work under Engineer Hay's supervision. Mr. Martin to keep the men's time, which will be paid for by the city.—Carried.

The engineer was authorized to reconstruct the drain beneath the street railway on Park street.

A LINE FOUR MILES LONG TO SEE LATE KING EDWARD'S BODY

IT STRETCHED FROM WESTMINSTER HALL TO CHELSEA BRIDGE.

Crowd Broke Through and It Looked as Though They Would Take Possession of the Palace Yard.

London, May 17.—When Westminster Hall was thrown open to the public to view the body of the late King Edward at 3 o'clock this afternoon there was a line in waiting, four abreast, that reached to Chelsea Bridge, four miles distant.

The only mishap of the day was when a crowd of many thousands rushed the cordon of mounted police that protected the Westminster bridge entrance to the palace yard. This happened just as the cortege drew near the entrance. The crowd broke through the police and it took ed for a time that they would take possession of the yard, but by brilliant series of manoeuvres the police and soldiers who rushed to their aid, drove the crowd back without any serious injuries resulting.

The crowd at 5 o'clock was passing by the King's bier at the rate of 15,000 an hour. At thisspeed it will be impossible for all those in line to be accommodated before 10 o'clock tonight, when the hall will be closed. Thousands are planning to spend the night in the streets so as to be first to enter the hall in the morning.

SNAKE WOUND ITSELF AROUND BOY'S LEGS---THE LAD WAS SO FRIGHTENED THAT HE DIED ALMOST INSTANTLY

Lindsay, May 17.— Master Mahoney, son of Mr. James Mahoney, met death in a peculiar manner yesterday afternoon on their farm, about six miles from Galway, and near Kinmount. He was assisting his father to dig a drain when, without warning, a snake of large proportions wound itself around the young fellow's legs, and he died instantly. It is supposed that heart failure was the cause, the fright causing his heart to cease action. The snake escaped.

Wireless Operators Look-Out for Meteors

Captains of Ships are Also So Ordered—Comet's Tail May Affect Compasses and the Wireless Instruments

Detroit, Mich., May 17.—The U.S. hydrographic office has cautioned wireless telegraph operators and vessel masters along the lakes that wireless instruments and compasses may be affected by atmospheric conditions, caused by Halley's comet.

Both operators and captains are expected to take careful logs between the 18th and 20th, recording static effects and magnetic variations. The sighting of meteorites, it is said, should be promptly reported in detail.

FARMER BURNED TO DEATH.

Anthony Johnson, Who Lives Near Brantford, Met Death Alone in His House.

Brantford, May 16.—Anthony Johnson, a farmer living eight miles east of Onsweken, just across the line from Indian reserve, in Haldimand County, was burned to death early Sunday morning.

On Saturday he made a trip with a neighbor to Jarvis, where the two are reported to have secured liquor. They returned home late. Johnson entering the house alone, while the other went home.

Shortly before four o'clock on Sunday morning neighbors saw the house in flames. It was then too late to save it. When the fire was over the remains of Johnson, burned beyond recognition, were found.

It is believed that while drunk in the house, he fell with a lighted lamp, setting fire to the place.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Roy Reasbeck Dies in Nicholls' Hospital Early Yesterday Morning.

Roy Reasbeck, the young man, struck early yesterday morning by a train, died at 1.30 p.m., at Nicholls Hospital. He had an arm and leg broken and his skull was fractured. He never regained consciousness, Dr. Gray was in attendance until his death. The coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The remains were taken to the deceased's father's home at Plantagenet on the midnight train.

Teacher Gets $10,000 for Her Long Wait

PRETTY YOUNG SCHOOL TEACHER OF SASKATCHEWAN FILED FIRST CLAIM.

Sat Twelve Days on Step—Was Determined to Be First When Land Office Opened.

Saskatoon Sask., May 17.—That grit and determination in a measure which few men possess are necessary to camp on the cold and uninviting doorsteps of a public building every hour for twelve days is something which no one will deny, but that is the feat accomplished by Miss Williams, a pretty young school teacher of this town. Her reward came today, when she filed the first claim for a section of land within two and one-half miles of the town of Kindersley, which today is valued at $10,000.

Miss Williams, who is a teacher in the Alexandra school here and is well known and respected throughout the town, took up her position on the doorstep of the land office building on Thursday, May 5th, and had been on the step every hour since then this morning when her plucky wait was rewarded by the filing of her claim and the hearty plaudits of her friends as she left the building.

A pain prescription is printed upon each 25c. box of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your doctor or Druggist if this formula is not complete. Pain means congestion, blood pressure. Head pains, womanly pains pains anywhere get instant relief from a Pink Pain Tablet. Sold by all dealers.

St. John's A.Y.P.A. Notes.

On Wednesday, June 22nd, St. John's A.Y.P.A., will hold a lawn social on the church grounds, the proceeds of which at least $25 is to be given to the fund for the church chimes. The fees for membership in the tennis section have been raised to $3 and $1.50 for gentlemen and ladies respectively who are not members of St. John's.

Stores to Close on Friday.

From what a number of George street merchants told The Times yesterday it seems that the local stores will be kept open late on Thursday night but will be closed all day Friday, the day of mourning for our late beloved Sovereign. In conversation with Mr. W. A. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal Theater, that gentleman said he intended to keep the Crystal closed during the day time but open up during the evening.

Improvements in Trent Valley Canal

Mr. J. H. McClelland, the enterprising and indefatigable superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal has had many improvements made at the Kirkfield lift lock. These include the approaches to the locks which have been finished off, and the roads and grounds generally present a very attractive appearance. Electric lights have also been installed at the most part of the water there. The new lock at Rosedale has also been completely finished.

Citizens Agree in the C.P.R. Grant.

From a private census or enquiry made by The Times yesterday, Peterborough's leading citizens and merchants seem to strongly advocate the giving of the little dumping ground to the east of Water street to the C.P.R., on condition of that great Canadian nation builder, putting the proposed Georgian Bay grain line through this city. The only, if any stipulation seemed to be a general demand that Peterborough should retain and own access to the water front.

LICENSE FEES.

City Gets About One Thousand Dollars Less This Year Than Last.

A cheque for $1,419.08, representing the amount of the first half-yearly distribution of the license fund for 1910-11 has been received by the city treasurer from License Inspector Stewart. Last year the cheque for the same period was $2,410.20, the one this year showing a decrease in the amount of $991.12.

The licenses paid are as follows: 7 taverns for six months; 5 taverns for 3 months; one tavern for 4 1-2 months; 3 shops for 6 months; one shop for three months; one club license; 29 bartenders' licenses.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Late King's Body in Westminster Hall

London, May 17.—The weather is like the people, gloomy. Long before dawn, the people commenced to pick out positions along the route of the procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall. All roads lead to Westminster today, and London's millions seem to be moving toward that point, but the dividing barriers of policemen at certain distances said; "Thus far shall you go, and unless you have a ticket you get no farther.

Even some with tickets failed to reach the hall in time, but the crowd was sombre and reverential. By 10 o'clock the 12,000 soldiers required lined the route.

Never before has big Ben tolled except to note the hours, but today orders were given the moment the procession left the Palace that Big Ben should sound the solemn knell.

In Westminster Hall, an hour before the arrival of the body there were scarcely fifty people, chief among whom was the Duke of Norfolk, going here and there to see that all would be in readiness.

Big Ben boomed out precisely at 11.30 and the procession left the Palace on its mournful journey.

Every eye turned toward the gun carriage on which rested the coffin containing the remains of the Empre's late Sovereign. Heads were bared and bowed, and the hearts of the people sorrowed with the Queen Mother, who followed in a carriage behind the gun carriage.

Inside Westminster Hall as the minutes passed the people commenced to arrive, among whom were half a dozen ladies in deep mourning. It was a scene never to be forgotten.

"JUST LIKE PAPA."

Children Glad to Wave Their Drink Like Their Parents.

More than any of the old folks realize, the little folks at the table like to have food and drink the same time as the Father and Mother.

Perhaps you can remember the time when a fork-full of the meat or potato or a sip from the cup that your father or mother was using seemed to possess some remarkable merit and flavor.

If children can be given a strong, nourishing food drink such as Postum it satisfies their desire to have things like the older folks, and at the same time gives them a drink they love and fatten on.

A lady up in Oakes, N. D., says: that since their family have been drinking Postum the children are stronger and better than ever before, and are so glad that they can have coffee to drink "just like papa."

The husband and father was taken sick with a very severe attack of stomach trouble and had to give up work, being confined to the house for some weeks, suffering greatly. For some time he had been in the habit of drinking coffee for breakfast, and tea for dinner and supper. The wife writes: "After reading some of your advertisements we wondered if the coffee and tea had not been the cause of his sickness.

"We finally decided to have him quit tea and coffee and try Postum. He dates his recovery from the day he commenced to drink Postum, and has not had to stop work from sickness since then.

"Some years ago I tried a package of Postum and did not like it, but I know now that it was because I did not make it right. It is easy to make good Postum if the simple directions on the package are followed. The only failure is when people do not boil it long enough.

Earth to Get Side-Swipe from the Tail of Halley's Comet

Washington, May 17.—Several million miles off into space Halley's comet is performing all sorts of deft tumbling today, and is hurrying toward old mother earth at the rate of some forty miles a second.

Out at the naval observatory, in the midst of telescopes, spectroscopes, and other quest-looking instruments, Prof. Asaph Hall and his corps of scientists spent several hours with the comet this morning. According to Prof. Hall the tail of the comet will side-swipe the earth tomorrow evening, and we will be bundering about in it the better part of Wednesday night. But all the sky sharps here agree that there is no cause for apprehension. The noxious vapors of the tail, if it possesses any will be unable to penetrate the earth's heavy wrapping of atmosphere, and beyond a few aerial fireworks and some illumination of the sky the comet will slide by without extraordinary incident.

According to the observers at the naval observatory the caudal appendage of the comet this morning stretched for some 92 or 93 degrees across the heavenly way, or about 25 millions miles. As the scientists watched the tail was first visible. A fan-shaped ray of light climbed up over the horizon shortly after three o'clock this morning, branching and expanding as it arose, until when it circled lazily into a sort of rainbow against the dark sky, the flaming ball that marks the head and body of the heavenly wanderer hove into sight.

It is estimated that the earth will have to pass through several million miles of the comet's tail, but the composition of the tail, from spectroscopic reading, has been determined to be next thing to a vacuum. The sky sharps estimate that it contains less than a single molecule or particle of solid matter to the cubic yard. That is why they are not worrying about the contact of the tail with the earth.

"If you could take a cubic mile of the comet's tail, and condense it to its solid dimensions," said Prof Hall today, "you would lose it. There would not be enought of it to notice."

On Saturday and Sunday nights just after sunset will be the best time of all to see the comet. It will appear those evenings just south of the point in the western sky where the sun sinks behind the horizon. It will be brightest on those evenings and will then steadily grow dimmer.

HEAD 14 MILLIONS MILES OFF.

(By Prof. Harold Jacoby, Rutherford, Professor of Astronomy at Columbia University.)

New York, May 17.—Will Halley's comet injure the earth tomorrow night?

I think not. Comets have struck this earth in the past and will continue to hit it in the future. In the museum of natural history in New York city there is a meteor weighing 27½ tons. There may be several such chips in the head of Halley's comet. And if the head of the celestial visitor struck the earth we would have some local disturbance at least.

The head of Halley's comet will not come nearer than about 14,000,000 miles. Astronomers disagree about figures, but not about the facts.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will clear the sour stomach, sweeten the breath and create a healthy appetite. They promote the flow of gastric juice, thereby inducing good digestion. Sold by all dealers.

THE WEATHER.

Southwesterly winds, fair and moderately warm.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Graham, of Ashburnham, who has been seriously ill, will be pleased to learn that his condition is showing signs of improvement.

SHOWER OF METEORS MAY ACCOMPANY PASSING OF THE EARTH THROUGH THE TAIL OF HALLEY'S COMET

Cambridge, N.J., May 17.— Harvard astronomers expect the passing of the earth through the tail of Halley's comet to be accompanied by a shower of meteors.

"There probably will be an unusual glow in the heavens," said Prof Edward Pickering today, "or a few meteors or falling stars, but it is doubtful if any of these will be visible as the atmosphere at the comet's tail is one hundred times rarer than the atmosphere near the earth. The comet is so tenuous that it is possible to photograph a star right through it. The best observations will be observed in Japan.

The time of transit was expect to be 50 minutes, the tail where the earth will pass through it being 150,000 miles wide.

The transit will begin at exactly 10.50 p.m. Wednesday and will be concluded at 11.48.

LOSS OF $50,000 AT WAKEFIELD, QUEBEC

Ottawa, May 17.—A bad fire is reported at Wakefield this morning. Engines from here have gone out, but details of the conflagration are not available.

Word reaching here at two says the fire is still burning. The loss is between $50,000 and $60,000, and the destruction of both mills will throw a good many out of work. The owner, Mr. A. MacLaren, is in British Columbia at present. Wakefield people soaked blankets from the mills and put them on the sides and roofs of some residences.

MacLaren's woolen mill and also their grist mill have been burned to the ground and four houses destroyed.

ARTILLERY TO FIRE.

That Peterborough, always loyal to King and country, will recognize in fitting form the deep regret felt by her citizens over our great loss—the death of King Edward VII., will be proven on Friday. The memorial service to be held in the armories has now been fixed for 10.30 a.m., instead of 11 as at first suggested. During the half hour thus gained the loyal troops will form up for the salute of 101 minute guns to befired by the 24th Field Battery at Central Park. This salute is to be fired in dress review order.

When the first and last guns are being fired, troops will present arms. During the firing of the salute they will be stationed with arms reversed. After a pause, during which the crepe will be removed from the colors and black from the drums, the royal salute will be given, and the band will play "God Save the King." The band will play during the firing of the salute "Chopin's Funeral March," and after a pause, "The Dead March in Saul."

VOL. XXXINO. 114 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO WEDNESDAY MAY 18 1910 PRICE . TWO CENTS

George St. to be Better Watered in Future

Same Territory as Last Year to be Also Watered on Sundays—Ald. Hicks Will See that the Dust Nuisance is Abated

The City Board of Works met last night, when there were ptesent:—Chairman Ald. Hicks, and Alder en Phelan, Metheral, Duffas, Graham, and Gillespie.

AGAINST SEWER.

A strong petition against the proposed sewer on Ware street, was received.

Mr. Chas. Risbor addressed the committee re the Houdrey building, which he had previously asked to be removed from off the street, so as not to depreciate the value of his proposed neR building.

Mr. Risbor stated that he now finds that he will require to build on the north end of the Houdrey property facing Sherbrooke street, which he understands is a portion of the old street reserve. He wished to know if he could please said land from the city.

The committee would not commit themselres, but promised to look over the site with Mr. Risbor on Thursday morning. It seems that the C.P.R.'s new siding is to enter at this point, and the board are uncertain whether they are in a position to grant Mr. Risbor's request.

STREET WATERING.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That the Water Commissioners be recommended to put a stand pipe on Gilmour street, at a point to be recommended by the city engineer.—Carried.

TOO MUCH DUST.

A letter from Mr. A. W. Crossman complained that merchants and the public generally suffered considerably from dust owing to the lack of sufficient street watering on George street. He thought ratepayers deserved better treatment from the city than to be annoyed by flying dust in the way that had been since the season opened, and asked that the grievance be mitigated.

Ald. Phelan thought the streets should also be watered on Sunday as last year.

Ald. Hicks contended that the men employed are covering too much ground. He proposed putting on another watering cart, and shortening up each man's territory so as, to provide a more thorough street watering service.

Ald. Duffus moved, seconded by Ald. Hicks,—That the chairman be authorized to put on an extra cart into commission for street watering when he thinks it necessary.— Carried.

SUNDAY STREET WATERING.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That the same territory as last year be watered on Sundays.—Carried.

SIMCOE ST. CROSSING.

Regarding the Quaker Oats Company's request for a new C.P.R. rail way siding along the water front into their property, the board still adheres to its previous resolution of acquiescense, providing the city has a right of way over the said tracks to the water's edge.

STREET GRADING.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That Patterson St., be gravelled and graded from Park street to between Hart and Rutherford avenue.—Carried.

The engineer was authorized to exercise his judgment as to gravelling Charlotte street west.

The engineer reported on the cost of building an approach to 541 Sherbrooke street, and of filling in the drain in that neighborhood.

This matter was left in abeyance, pending consideration as to ways and means of doing the work at a reasonable cost.

FILLING IN EARTH WANTED.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus,—That the engineer get an estimate from Mr. Patterson for the city's purchase of the earth from the C.G.E.'s present construction works, for filling in purposes.—Carried.

The engineer was instructed to report on the Peterborough Lumber Company's request that Charles and Birdsall streets, used extensively by this company's rigs be gravelled and graded.

LOWERING OF BOULEVARD.

The petition that a boulevard on Gilmour street be lowered and a big elm tree in the middle of roadway removed, was laid on the table indefinitely.

The board considered that lowering the boulevard would kill the beautiful shade trees in this locality.

OLD SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

Contractor Conroy offers that his men take down the old Smith street bridge, the city to pay only for the workmen's actual time taken in such removal.

CEMENT CROSSING.

On motion of Ald. Duffus, a crossing will be laid across Maitland avenue, south side of Charlotte.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That when it is necessary to remove the old Smith street bridge, Messrs. E. and F. Conroy's men do said work under Engineer Hay's supervision, Mr. Martin to keep the men's time, which will be paid for by the city.—Carried.

The engineer was authorized to reconstruct the drain beneath the street railway on Park street.

IT STRETCHED FROM WESTMINSTER HALL TO CHELSEA BRIDGE.

Crowd Broke Through and It Looked as Though They Would Take Possession of the Palace Yard.

London, May 17.—When Westminster Hall was thrown open to the public to view the body of the late King Edward at 3 o'clock this afternoon there was a line in waiting, four abreast, that reached to Chelsea Bridge, four miles distant.

The only mishap of the day was when a crowd of many thousands rushed the cordon of mounted police that protected the Westminster bridge entrance to the palace yard. This happened just as the cortege drew near the entrance. The crowd broke through the police and it took ed for a time that they would take possession of the yard, but by brilliant series of manoeuvres the police and soldiers who rushed to their aid, drove the crowd back without any serious injuries resulting.

The crowd at 5 o'clock was passing by the King's bier at the rate of 15,000 an hour. At thispeed it will be impossible for all those in line to be accommodated before 10 o'clock tonight, when the hall will be closed. Thousands are planning to spend the night in the streets so as to be first to enter the hall in the morning.

SNAKE WOUND ITSELF AROUND BOY'S LEGS---THE LAD WAS SO FRIGHTENED THAT HE DIED ALMOST INSTANTLY

Lindsay, May 17.— Master Mahoney, son of Mr. James Mahoney, met death in a peculiar manner yesterday afternoon on their farm, about six miles from Galway, and near Kinmount. He was assisting his father to dig a drain when, without warning, a snake of large proportions wound itself around the young fellow's legs, and he died instantly. It is supposed that heart failure was the cause, the fright causing his heart to cease action. The snake escaped.

Wireless Operators Look-Out for Meteors

Captains of Ships are Also So Ordered—Comet's Tail May Affect Compasses and the Wireless Instruments

Detroit, Mich., May 17.—The U.S. hydrographic office has cautioned wireless telegraph operators and vessel masters along the lakes that wireless instruments and compasses may be affected by atmospheric conditions, caused by Halley's comet.

Both operators and captains are expected to take careful logs between the 16th and 20th, recording static effects and magnetic variations. The sighting of meteorites, it is said, should be promptly reported in detail.

FARMER BURNED TO DEATH.

Anthony Johnson, Who Lives Near Brantford, Met Death Alone in His House.

Brantford, May 16.—Anthony Johnson, a farmer living eight miles east of Obsweken, just across the line from Indian reserve, in Haldimand County, was burned to death early Sunday morning.

On Saturday he made a trip with a neighbor to Jarvis, where the two are reported to have secured liquor. They returned home late. Johnson entering the house alone, while the other went home.

Shortly before four o'clock on Sunday morning neighbors saw the house in flames. It was then too late to save it. When the fire was over the remains of Johnson, burned beyond recognition, were found.

It is believed that while drunk in the house, he fell with a lighted lamp, setting fire to the place.

Teacher Gets $10,000 for Her Long Wait

PRETTY YOUNG SCHOOL TEACHER OF SASKATCHEWAN FILED FIRST CLAIM.

Sat Twelve Days on Step—Was Determined to Be First When Land Office Opened.

Saskatoon Sask., May 17.—That grit and determination in a measure which few men possess are necessary to camp on the cold and uninviting doorsteps of a public building every hour for twelve days is something which no one will deny, but that is the feat accomplished by Miss Williams, a pretty young school teacher of this town. Her reward came today, when she filed the first claim for a section of land within two and one-half miles of the town of Kindersley, which today is valued at $10,000.

Miss Williams, who is a teacher in the Alexandra school here and is well known and respected throughout the town, took up her position on the doorstep of the land office building on Thursday, May 5th, and had been on the step every hour until this morning when her plucky wait was rewarded by the filing of her claim and the hearty plaudits of her friends as she left the building.

Stores to Close on Friday.

From what a number of George street merchants told The Times yesterday it seems that the local stores will be kept open late on Thursday night but will be closed all day Friday, the day of mourning for our late beloved Sovereign. In conversation with Mr. W. A. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal Theater, that gentleman said he intended to keep the Crystal closed during the day time but open up during the evening.

Improvements in Trent Valley Canal

Mr. J. H. McClelland, the enterprising and indefatigable superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal has had many improvements made at the Kirkfield lift lock. These include the approaches to the locks which have been finished off, and the roads and grounds generally present a very attractive appearance. Electric lights have also been installed at the roug heat part of the water there. The new lock at Rosedale has also been completely finished.

Citizens Agree to the C.P.R. Grant.

From a private census or enquiry made by The Times yesterday, Peterborough's leading citizens and merchants seem to strongly advocate the giving of the little dumping ground to the east of Water street to the C.P.R., on condition of that great Canadian nation builder, putting the proposed Georgian Bay grain line through this city. The only, if any stipulation seemed to be a general demand that Peterborough should retain and own access to the water front.

LICENSE FEES.

City Gets About One Thousand Dollars Less This Year Than Last.

A cheque for $1,419.08, representing the amount of the first half-yearly distribution of the license fund for 1910-11 has been received by the city treasurer from License Inspector Stewart. Last year the cheque for the same period was $2,410.20, the one this year showing a decrease in the amount of $991.12.

The licenses paid are as follows: 7 taverns for six months; 5 taverns for 3 months; one tavern for 4 1-2 months; 3 shops for 6 months; one shop for three months; one club license; 29 bartenders' licenses.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Late King's Body in Westminster Hall

London, May 17.—The weather is like the people, gloomy. Long before dawn, the people commenced to pick out positions along the route of the procession from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall. All roads lead to Westminster today, and London's millions seem to be moving toward that point, but the dividing barriers of policemen at certain distances said; "Thus far shall you go, and unless you have a ticket, you get no farther.

Even some with tickets failed to reach the hall in time, but the crowd was sombre and reverential. By 10 o'clock the 12,000 soldiers required lined the route.

Never before has big Ben tolled except to note the hours, but today orders were given the moment the procession left the Palace that Big Ben should sound the solemn knell.

In Westminster Hall, an hour before the arrival of the body there were scarcely fifty people, chief among whom was the Duke of Norfolk, going here and there to see that all would be in readiness.

Big Ben boomed out precisely at 11.30 and the procession left the Palace on its mournful journey.

Every eye turned toward the gun carriage on which rested the coffin containing the remains of the Empire's late Sovereign. Heads were bared and bowed, and the hearts of the people sorrowed with the Queen Mother, who followed in a carriage behind the gun carriage.

Inside Westminster Hall as the minutes passed the people commenced to arrive, among whom were half a dozen ladies in deep mourning. It was a scene never to be forgotten.

SHOWER OF METEORS MAY ACCOMPANY PASSING OF THE EARTH THROUGH THE TAIL OF HALLEY'S COMET

Cambridge, N.J., May 17.— Harvard astronomers expect the passing of the earth through the tail of Halley's comet to be accompanied by a shower of meteors.

"There probably will be an unusual glow in the heavens," said Prof. Edward Pickering today, "or a few meteors or falling stars, but it is doubtful if any of these will be visible as the atmosphere at the comet's tail is one hundred times rarer than the atmosphere near the earth. The comet is so tenuous that it is possible to photograph a star right through it. The best observations will be observed in Japan.

The time of transit we expect to be 59 minutes, the tail whose the earth will pass through it being 150,000 miles wide.

The transit will begin at exactly 10.50 p.m. Wednesday and will be concluded at 11.48.

LOSS OF $50,000 AT WAKEFIELD, QUEBEC

Ottawa, May 17.—A bad fire is reported at Wakefield this morning. Engines from here have gone out, but details of the conflagration are not available.

Word reaching here at two says the fire is still burning. The loss is between $50,000 and $60,000, and the destruction of both mills will throw a good many out of work. The owner, Mr. A. MacLaren, is in British Columbia at present. Wakefield people soaked blankets from the mills and put them on the sides and roofs of some residences.

MacLaren's woolen mill and also their grist mill have been burned to the ground and four houses destroyed.

ARTILLERY TO FIRE.

That Peterborough, always loyal to King and country, will recognize in fitting form the deep regret felt by her citizens over our great loss—the death of King Edward VII., will be proven on Friday. The memorial service to be held in the armories has now been fixed for 10.30 a.m., instead of 11 as at first suggested. During the half hour thus gained the local troops will form up for the salute of 101 minute guns to be fired by the 24th Field Battery at Central Park. This salute is to be fired in dress review order.

When the first and last guns are being fired, troops will present arms. During the firing of the salute they will be stationed with arms reversed. After a pause, during which the crepe will be removed from the colors and black from the drums, the royal salute will be given, and the band will play 'God Save the King.' The band will play during the firing of the salute "Chopin's Funeral March," and after a pause, "The Dead March in Saul."

"JUST LIKE PAPA."

Children Glad to Have Their Drink Like Their Parents.

More than any of the old folks realize, the little folks at the table like to have food and drink the same time as the Father and Mother.

Perhaps you can remember the time when a fork-full of the meat or potato or a sip from the cup that your father or mother was using seemed to possess some remarkable merit and flavor.

If children can be given a strong, nourishing food drink such as Postum it satisfies their desire to have things like the older folks, and at the same time gives them a drink they love and fatten on.

A lady up in Oakes, N. D., says: that since their family have been drinking Postum the children are stronger and better than ever before, and are so glad that they can have coffee to drink "just like papa."

The husband and father was taken sick with a very severe attack of stomach trouble and had to give up work, being confined to the house for some weeks, suffering greatly. For some time he had been in the habit of drinking coffee for breakfast, and tea for dinner and supper. The wife writes: "After reading some of your advertisements we wondered if the coffee and tea had not been the cause of his sickness.

"We finally decided to have him quit tea and coffee and try Postum. He dates his recovery from the day he commenced to drink Postum, and has not had to stop work from sickness since then.

"Some years ago I tried a package of Postum and did not like it, but I know now that it was because I did not make it right. It is easy to make good Postum if the simple directions on the package are followed. The only failure is when people do not boil it long enough.

Earth to Get Side-Swipe from the Tail of Halley's Comet

Washington, May 17.—Several million miles off into space Halley's comet is performing all sorts of delft tumbling today, and is hurrying toward old mother earth at the rate of some forty miles a second.

Out at the naval observatory, in the midst of telescopes, spectroscopes, and other queer-looking instruments, Prof. Asaph Hall and his corps of scientists spent several hours with the comet this morning. According to Prof. Hall the tail of the comet will side-swipe the earth tomorrow evening, and we will be floundering about in it the better part of Wednesday night. But all the sky sharps here agree that there is no cause for apprehension. The noxious vapors of the tail, if it possesses any will be unable to penetrate the earth's heavy wrapping of atmosphere, and beyond a few aerial fireworks and some illumination of the sky the comet will slide by with out extraordinary incident.

According to the observers at the naval observatory the caudal appendage of the comet this morning stretched for some 92 or 93 degrees across the heavenly way, or about 26 millions miles. As the scientists watched the tail was first visible. A fan-shaped ray of light climbed up over the horizon shortly after three o'clock this morning, branching and expanding as it arose, until when it circled lazily into a sort of rainbow against the dark sky, the flaming ball that marks the head and body of the heavenly wanderer hove into sight.

It is estimated that the earth will have to pass through several million miles of the comet's tail, but the composition of the tail, from spectroscopic reading, has been determined to be next thing to a vacuum. The sky sharps estimate that it contains less than a single molecule or particle of solid matter to the cubic yard. That is why tney are not worrying about the contact of the tail with the earth.

"If you could take a cubic mile of the comet's tail, and condense it to its solid dimensions," said Prof Hall today, "you would lose it. There would not be enough of it to notice."

On Saturday and Sunday nights just after sunset will be the best time of all to see the comet. It will appear those evenings just south of the point in the western sky where the sun sinks behind the horizon. It will be brightest on those evenings and will then steadily grow dimmer.

HEAD 14 MILLIONS MILES OFF.

(By Prof. Harold Jacoby, Rutherford, Professor of Astronomy at Columbia University.)

New York, May 17.—Will Halley's comet injure the earth tomorrow night?

I think not. Comets have struck this earth in the past and will continue to hit it in the future. In the museum of natural history in New York city there is a meteor weighing 27½ tons. There may be several such chips in the head of Halley's comet. And if the head of the celestial visitor struck the earth we would have someloeal disturbance at least.

The head of Halley's comet will not come nearer than about 14,000,000 miles. Astronomers disagree about figures, but not about the facts.

NOT A DECADENT WORLD.

War, dishonesty in public and private life, drunkenness, impurity of word and act.

These are the four prolific sources of evil referred to by President Harry Pratt Judson of the University of Chicago, in his address before the Northern Baptist Association meeting a few days ago in Chicago. And it is certain that there must be courageous, persistent, devoted efforts to overcome them. It is certain, too, that society needs the impulse of a moral motive for this purpose, but if we consider the history of these evils, do they not suggest most gratifying progress rather than decadence?

Work for peace was never so thoroughly organized as it is now. The Hague conferences are a great step forward, new arbitration precedents have been established, the public sentiment of the world is favorable to further advances. Temptations to war have been removed by the settlement of boundary disputes, the consequent of the wilderness and the satisfactory division of territory among the nations. The very navies that are in one sense temptations impose enormous financial burdens that make the people long for disarmament.

As for what we call graft, history reveals scandals in earlier times that would hardly be conceivable now. The United States Government had hardly been founded when the legislators of Georgia made an outrageous grant of public lands to companies in which they were directly interested. It was before the American civil war that Wisconsin legislators and state officials sold themselves to a railroad company for its stocks and bonds. Years before the Tweed ring established its elaborate system of robbery in New York there was complaint of bribery and stealing and conspiracies to defraud the public in that city. There was rottenness in the United States Federal government during Buchanan's administration that would be impossible now. Job-contracts, patronage, money was used in a way to remind us of the worst examples of municipal corruption.

Descriptions of general and brutalizing drunkenness in England during the nineteenth century almost every There was much drunkenness in the American colonies also, and a historian who has made a most thorough study of the early years of the republic says that at the opening of the nineteenth century almost every American family could show some victim of intemperance among its men. The testimony of students of the subject is that drunkenness became less common as the century advanced.

If by impurity is meant sexual immorality there is at least one great social change that must have exerted a most potent influence on the side of morality. We refer to the abolition of slavery in the Southern States. And if there is a tendency toward all kinds of self-indulgence where wealth accumulates and an idle leisure class increases, an indictment to hold good must be against the masses.

The evils are growing less, the United States and the world are growing better. Other historical illustrations of this truth might be added to those we have given. The laws are more humane, we are nearer the goal of impartial justice for all classes. Read the appalling stories of the old prisons, the vice, the cruel neglect, the brutality, the horrors of every description, and then ask if the society that tolerated them could be the equal of the society of today in refinement, in morality, in humanity.

The improvement has been vast the world over, and it is this that gives men heart to work with renewed enthusiasm for all that is noblest and best.

"Were you that out!" was the rough rejoinder.

In face of his threatening peril Jessica forgot all else—the restive horse, the child. She sprang to the ground, her face pained and indignant, and started to run across the street. But, with a cry of dismay, she turned back. The horse had caught sight of the red automobile and, snorting and wild eyed, had swung into the roadway.

"It's Devlin's kid!" some one cried out, and Devlin, turning, went suddenly ashen. The baby was the one soft spot in his ruffianly heart. He sprang toward the animal, but the movement and the hands clutching at the bridle sent it to a leaping terror. In another instant it had broken through the ring of bystanders and, frenzied at its freedom, dashed down the long, level street with the child clinging to the saddle pommel.

It was all the work of a moment, one of panic and confusion, through which rang Jessica's scream of remorse and fright. Torpor held the crowd—all save one, whose action followed the scream as leap follows the spur. In a single step Harry gained the automobile. With an instantaneous movement he pushed the lever down and jerked the throttle wide. The machine bounded into its pace, the people rolling back before it, and, gathering headway, darted after the runaway.

The spectators stood staring. "He'll never catch him," said Michael Halloran, who had joined the crowd. "Funeral Hollow's only a mile away." With others he hurried to the hotel archway, where he could watch the exciting race. Jessica stood stock still, as blanched as Devlin, wringing her hands.

With the first bound of the car under him, as the crowd was snatched behind, a weird, exultant thrill shot through Harry's every nerve. Each bolt and bar he knew as one would tell his fingers. Somewhere, at some time, he had known such flight—through mellow sunlight, with the air singing past. Where? When?

Not for the fraction of a second, however, did his gaze waver. He knew that the flat on which the town was built fell away in a hollow ravine to the southward—he could see it from the cabin doorway—a stretch of breakneck road only a mile ahead. Could the child hold on? Could he distance those frenzied hoofs in time? The arrow of the indicator stole forward on the dial.

Far behind as the crowd watched a cry rose from the hotel balcony. It was Barney McGlinn, the freighter, with a glass at his eye. "He's gaining!" he shouted. "He has almost overtaken the horse!"

The horse's first fury of speed was tiring. The steel steed was creeping closer. A thunder of hoofs in pursuit would have maddened the flying animal, but the gliding thing that was now so close to him came on with mysterious swiftness. Harry had reserved with the nicety of a practiced hand a last increment of speed. With the front wheels at the horse's flank, he drew suddenly on this. As the car

THE TOPIC OF ALL OTHER TOPICS.

The question which is uppermost in the minds of all who are sincerely loyal to the British Empire and its consolidation is:—"How is it going to be with the new monarch?" There are other questions, such as the personal grief of the widowed and well-beloved Queen Alexander, the elevation of a third Queen Mary to the throne of England, and the remodeling of personal conditions in the routine of the court, which share with the above great main question in public interest and daily conversation. But all eyes are steadfastly fixed upon the new King. When Edward VII. succeeded his aged mother the same solicitude was taken in his very earliest movements. There were misgivings now. But as was the case with the father so is it likely to be with the son. Such misgivings are more or less miscalculations, with the environment left out in the estimate. King George V. has been brought up a king, and his environment is his own and his subjects' security. He is the off-spring of the British Constitution, and has but to follow the line of his father's and his grandmother's equanimity to steer clear of administrative or diplomatic involvements. He does not need to be a second peace-maker to be a successful king; though he will no doubt, after being a few months on the throne, indicate kingly qualities which were not visible during the ten years he was Prince of Wales.

Some find in the political conditions of the day a foreshadowing of troubles for the new King. But we believe that King George will prove himself a constitutional monarch, possibly less obtrusive even than his father was in his dealings with his advisers.

KING RECEIVES ROOSEVELT.

Former President Spent Half an Hour at Marlborough House. Yesterday.

London, May 16.—Theodore Roosevelt, no longer private citizen, but representative of the United States, at the obsequies of Edward VII., today paid his respects to King George V. At the latter's request the former president hurried to Marlborough House without delay on his arrival from Berlin.

King George, though under great strain of business, dropped all his tasks to welcome Mr. Roosevelt, England's new ruler was unusually warm in his manner. Mr. Roosevelt spent some time with the King.

The death of Edward, sending all Mr. Roosevelt's plans askew, still could not rob his arrival of demonstration. Besides the official party there was a gathering of Americans, tourists, and members of the colony here, at the Victoria station when his special train drew in from Queensborough. The Roosevelt party occupied the Royal saloon on the train.

On the orders of the King, Mr. Roosevelt was to be welcomed to who, with Commander Charles E. E. Cunningham Graham, was appointed by King George special aide to Mr. Roosevelt, while the latter is America's envoy to the funeral.

When the Roosevelt train drew in at 7.35 a.m., there were at the station, besides a representative of the Foreign Office, Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. Reid, First Secretary William Phillips and Mrs. Phillips, and other members of the Embassy staff with their wives.

That Mr. Roosevelt's stay will be exceedingfily quiet is indicated by t exceedingly quiet is indicated by the withdrawal of all invitations sent out before the death of King Edward.

Co-incident with the arrival of the former president, announcement was made for precedence to be followed in the funeral of Edward. Mr. Roosevelt will follow the royalties related by blood to the late ruler, but will precede lesser titles.

He was busied today with arrangements for his part in the funeral procession upon his return from Marlborough House, where Mr. Roosevelt extended the sympathy of the United States to King George, as well as wishes for a prosperous reign.

A PECULIAR COINCIDENCE.

Ambassador Reid and Mr. Roosevelt reached Marlborough House at 11.30. They were ushered without delay to the King's presence, and for half an hour remained with him.

King George, it was said, was much touched by Mr. Roosevelt's expression of personal loss in the death of his father. King Edward had looked forward with unusual interest to his visit, planning many features.

It is a peculiar coincidence that Mr. Roosevelt will follow the body of Edward in the funeral procession on the very day, the 20th, on which the late ruler had planned to have himas guest at dinner. King Edward stipulated that not oanly should Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt be invited, but that Miss Ethel and Kermit also sit at the Royal table. That banquet the late King had arranged to be as elaborate as any ever given royalty.

NERVOUSLY DEPRESSED.

A Case of Rapid Cure.

"Only for a few weeks did I experience the misery of duodenal indigestion," explains Miss Peckhard, the well-known school teacher of Bartonville, "but it taught me the need of conserving one's nervous strength. I am a teacher, and at the close of the school year imposes a great strain upon those teaching advanced work. The trouble first manifested itself by occasional diarrhoeas, especially if new vegetables were used, then heart burn and feelings of depression followed two or three hours after meals. At first my physician said he feared structural changes in duodenum, liver and pancreas. Happily a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I had to use in one of the many severe attacks of constipation, which occasionally developed, proved this view was incorrect. But it shows how bad I was. Well, Dr. Hamilton's Pills caused natural evacuations and permitted the inflamated condition, causing all the trouble to subside. Perseverance finally removed the cause which I am sure was in the liver and lower bowel, and by school opening in September I was actually well enough to work effectively."

See if your symptoms are like those above described—if so, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will cure. Price 25c per box, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Dear Sir,—I have in my possession papers which might prove very valuable to one Joseph Graham or his relatives. Please hand this letter to any of the above. If unable to locate please advise.

Yours respectfully,
ALFRED H. DAVIS.

John D. Rockefeller would go broke if he should spend his entire income trying to prepare a better medicine than Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is simply impossible, and so says every one that has used it. Sold by all dealers.

Among the new arrivals from the Old Country, who have come to Peterborough are Alfred Phillips and Edward Sides. The steamer "Tunisian," on which they came across, was a day and some hours overdue, having run into dense fogs when nearing Canada.

Judging by the opinions of leading citizens yesterday when asked their respective opinions re the proposed grant of land to the C.P.R., that much faith is held in the future freight carrying possibilities and actual prospects of the T.V. Canal.

"Buffalo Bill," or W. Cody, in private life, has given up his sensational stunts before the public. The small boy of Peterborough, instead of going out to scalp his step-mother, will now possibly play at digging fish worms and call each wriggler a Cobalt silver vein.

VOL. XXXI NO. 115 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO THURSDAY MAY 19 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

Heavy Penalty for Moving a Still

One Hundred Dollar Fine and One Month in Jail for the Guilty Parties

Yesterday morning the first case in many a year in connection with illicit distilling here, was heard in the local police court. Nat Pearson and Richard Bell were charged with operating an illicit still. The actual charge was one of "moving a still," and the defendants pleaded not guilty.

Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for the Department of Justice, and Mr. W. S. Davidson for the defendants.

The apparatus which was made by Lewis Spry, at his premises on Stewart street, were on exhibition in court. One was a copper boiler without a top and similar to an ordinary large milk can, such as used by butter factories. The other had a top with a spout on either side, and an arrangement inside. Both presented an appearance of having been used for some time.

George Cochrane, high county constable, identified the exhibits in court. He said he got the copper boiler (exhibit 1) on April 5th, at Lewis Spry's, Stewart street, and took it to the Inland Revenue office. The zinc boiler produced, was received by him at Buckhorn from Constable Montgomery in April. This was also taken to the Inland Revenue office. In conversation with the defendant Pearson at Buckhorn, he claimed to know nothing about the boiler.

James D. Montgomery, a county constable, identified the boiler of zinc as the one he secured in the township of Harvey at a camp. The camp was on the boundary line of Andrew Shearer and Nat Pearson. It showed evidence of dirt and smoke and Mr. Cochrane came and took it away.

W. Rudkins, collector of Inland Revenue, produced a record of licenses for the past two years and it failed to show where a license had been granted Nat Pearson. A permit would be necessary to move a still.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams said that Mr. L. Spry came to his office last September in regard to the matter of a claim for payment of a copper articles which he made for a man named Freeborn.

Mr. Spry testified to having made the articles for Mr. Pearson, who did not say for what they were to be used.

F. J. Freeburn, a stonemason, of Harvey township, said he gave the order to Spry. Pearson asked him to pay for the goods but he refused. Pearson paid $6 out of the $24 demanded. Witness knew he was mixed up in an illegal transaction. There had been discussion between him and Pearson as to making illicit whiskey. Pearson took the apparatus to the camp. Whiskey was to be made and witness was to get part of the profits.

The session was adjourned at noon and resumed at 2 p.m. After more evidence was taken, Freeborn practically becoming King's evidence, the defendants were found guilty, and condemned to pay a fine of $100 each with one month in jail in addition. There are other charges to be preferred against the prisoners.

Line a Mile Long Stood in Rain the Night Long

London, May 18.—A scene unique in London's history was revealed today at dawn when hundreds of those who had remained in the streets all night leading to Westminster Hall, in order to be the first in line to view the body of the late King Edward began bestirring themselves.

They were a bedraggled, unkempt lot, to whom an all-night rain had added the last despairing touch. They had either leaned against friendly walls or sat on the curbs and dozed the night away.

The police would not allow these people to use chairs, fearing they would clutter the streets and interfere with the rush of people when the doors were re-opened at 6 o'clock this morning.

NEEDED THE AMBULANCE.

Many of those who kept their weary vigil outside Westminster were overcome long before the hour that would have seen their reward for the sacrifice, and ambulances wove in and out of the throng all night.

The patience and suffering of these people greatly affected the Queen-Mother, and she wept when she saw the depth of their love for the dead monarch.

Such a dense throng was outside Westminster Hall at 6 o'clock that many of those who arrived at that hour were compelled to wait until 9 o'clock before being permitted to enter, and this despite the fact that the people passed four abreast on either side of the purple catafalque on which rested the King's body.

By noon the crowd had increased to such [illegible] that it was useless for others to [illegible] arrive, as those on hand couldnot accommodated before 10 o'clock, when Westminster Hall will again be closed for the night.

This morning the people were being rushed past the King's bier at the rate of nearly 20,000 an hour.

The police with some tact and much patience, maintained order and kept the thousands moving steadily. The mourners entered at one end of the hall, double rows passing on either side of the catafalque and emerging at the opposite end of the building.

ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE.

When the doors were closed at 10 o'clock last night between 50,000 and 60,000 persons had viewed the casket, while perhaps half that number were still waiting in the adjacent streets. At 11 o'clock a new queued was formed and midnight found the waiting throng swollen by many thousands. The queue extended for a mile or more, and was made up of men, women and children of many classes. It was a strangely cosmopolitan throng. Every land and every color was represented. There was no class distinction. The laborer in corduroys touched elbows with the frock-coated west-ender.

In today's files women appeared to predominate. By noon the total of those who had paid their meed of respect had passed the hundred thousand mark.

Comet Did Not Stop The Times.

Our E.E.C., the Review notes that The Morning Times will come out in the morning despite the comet. Right again, Brer Review. It would take more than the few million feet of cyanogen gas accompanying Halley's comet to prevent our readers from enjoying The Times at their respective breakfasts. We may not have so extensive a supply of "gas" in our editorial department as our E. E. contemporary, but gas from external sources carves no glacial compound as far as our lease goes.

Beckwith street—Zion Presbyterian church, Masonic Hall, roller rink, curling rink, John McDonald, residence; E. Wilkie, two houses; J. MacLeod, residence; St. Andrew's Presbyterian manse, Rev. W. Moods; J. Gillis' residence; Bates and Innes, mill.

STARTED IN BUTCHER SHOP.

The fire started in McGonigle's butcher shop shortly after midnight from a cause unknown, and was fanned by a strong southwesterly breeze rapidly spreading, and at the time of writing, was still burning fiercely and had done damage estimated at fully $300,000.

The best business section of the town is in ashes, the finest residential district has been gutted and the handsome Zion Presbyterian church, recently renovated at a cost of $20,000, is burned to the ground.

ALMONTE SENDS HELP.

Shortly after the start of the fire it was seen that the local brigade were unable to cope with the flames alone, so a call for help was sent Almonte, which town responded by sending down their fire engine, manned by a competent crew. This, in addition to the two local engines, did their best to stop the spread of the fire, but to no avail, the high wind carrying cinders and burning embers in all directions. Had it not been for the wind a great many of the residences would never have been endangered, as several of those destroyed are quite a distance from the scene of the origin of the fire.

The lack of a waterworks system in the town was never more widely noticed, as it is now held by many that if the town were so equipped a needle-slot of destruction could have been prevented.

WIND SPREADS FIRE.

From McGonigle's the flames destroyed the adjoining store belonging to J. Fraser, and the Singleton block. The wind then swept the course of the fire along Beckwith street, towards the C.P.R. tracks. Zion church was one of the first buildings on this street to catch, and the splendid edifice was soon the prey of the all-devouring flames. Its value was estimated at about $40,000, and nothing now remains but the ruins.

ROLLER RINK DESTROYED.

From the church the fire leaped to the Masonic Hall, a flimsy structure which soon went. The beautiful new residence of the late James Gillis, valued at $16,000, then caught and was soon destroyed. In the rear of Zion church the manse was on fire several times, but hopes are entertained that it may be saved.

The roller rink went next, followed by the adjoining curling rink. Both were frame buildings and were burned quickly.

The residences of John A. Cram, F. McEwan, John McDonald, two belonging to E. Wilkie, one to J. MacLeod, St. Andrew's Presbyterian manse (Rev. W. Monds), on this street, were also destroyed.

ROBBED CHURCH OF COLLECTION
PASTOR CAUGHT OFFICIAL RED-HANDED

Halifax, May 18.—Recently the collection box in the Methodist church at Milltown, N.B., had been repeatedly robbed. It was determined to catch the robber, and there was rigged up an automatic alarm box on the box connected with Pastor Cartwright's house.

On Monday Morning at 3 o'clock the clergyman was awakened by an alarm, and hurrying to the church he found the man emptying the box. Securing help he captured the culprit, who proved to be one of the officials, aged seventy-five.

The man has been lodged in jail and it is understood that he will plead sleep-walking as an excuse for his offence.

YOUTH OF SIXTEEN ELOPES WITH WOMAN OF 37—LOCATED IN MONTREAL

Montreal, May 18.— Ticonderoga New York, has been linked with Montreal in history in days gone by, but the historic spot has just received new fame by sending a pair of ardent lovers and elopers to this city of amazing disparity of age.

The romance is decidedly sensational, but unfortunately for the lovers their spell of bliss was of brief duration, for the hand of the law stepped in.

Mrs. John C. Thomas, wife of the president of the Trust and Loan Company of Ticonderoga, 38 years of age, arrived here three days ago with Walter Chapleau, aged sixteen. The pair registered at the Victoria hotel as man and wife.

Mrs. Thomas has a daughter at college, and a son 15 years old. She herself is old enough to be Chapleau's mother, but her infatuation for the lad is unquenchable.

Yesterday Attorney F. B. Wickes, of Ticonderoga, and Chapleau's father arrived in Montreal. They sought the services of Chief Carpenter, and through a piece of mutilated note paper on which the son had written to his father, saying he would never return, the couple were located at the Victoria Hotel, a second-class hostelry, registered as Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer. When the father and detectives entered there was a battle royal with the management to search the place, and another battle with Mrs. Thomas when the pair were found.

The boy was taken back to Ticonderoga last night. The woman is still here.

THE CHIMES FUND.

One Hundred and Fifty Dollars More Has Been Subscribed.

As so great and general an interest is being shown in the Chimes Fund contributions, it is of public interest to learn that three generous contributions of $50 each have been received from Mr. J. W. Flavelle of Toronto, and Mr. J. J. Lundy and Miss R. Burnham of this city. This brings the total amount contributed to date to over $3,000.

A meeting of the committee will be held every Tuesday evening.

Mr. Wainwright, manager of the Bank of Ottawa, is treasurer, and subscriptions may be left with him.

AN HOTEL CHANGE.

Mr. Dave Porter Disposes of Chemong Park Hotel to Mr. Bruce Rickey.

Yesterday an important deal was consummated whereby Mr. Dave Porter sold out his rights and lease of the Chemong Park Hotel to Mr. Bruce Rickey. Mr. Rickey who has been operating "My Valet," will open the hotel on Friday, May 20th. Mr. Rickey has a large circle of friends in the city and will doubtless do a large business during the coming season. Already a big ball is on the tapis for the near future.

Mr. Porter has secured a good stand in the western section of Toronto, and will conduct a first-class butcher shop there.

EXPECTED END OF WORLD—KENTUCKY BLACK AND WHITES BELIEVED DOOMS DAY WAS AT HAND—METEOR FALLS

Louisville, Ky., May 19.—Preparations for the end of the world were made yesterday by the ignorant throughout the central and east parts of Kentucky.

Whites as well as negroes thought Halley's comet was bringing doomsday. Many farmers refused to plant.

All night revival services were held at Lexington and many other places.

Topeka, Kansas, May 18.—A meteor weighing about half a ton fell through the skylight of the Shawnee Building, Seventh and Jackson streets, at 10.30 o'clock this morning, into the office of the Shawnee Fire Insurance Company, splintering the desk of clerk Harry Morgan, within ten feet of J. W. Going, secretary and general manager of the company.

There were about fifty people in the room at the time.

Joint Committee for Armory Grounds.

Yesterday afternoon in the City building, representatives from the 57th Regiment, the City Council and the Board of Education held an informal meeting to consider the proposed suggestion of these three bodies managing the grounds in front of the armories conjointly. Mr. Dumble, of the Board of Education, strongly opposed the idea, intimating that the board could manage its own affairs. A lively tilt took place between him and Mr. Eastwood of the local regiment. It was decided to appoint a joint committee.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

LAID TO REST.

Funeral of Late Mr. James H. Gardiner Shows Popularity of Deceased.

On Monday morning the last mortal remains of the late Mr. James H. Gardiner, Peterborough's well-known auctioneer, were taken to Perrytown for interment. The funeral cortage, which included many prominent citizens, left Peterborough at 9 a.m. As the sad procession wended its way to Perrytown, at many intervening spots conveyances containing mourners, joined in.

Among the floral tributes of affection was a wreath from the Young Conservative Club of Peterborough, of which body Mr. Gardiner was a respected and influential member. When the funeral procession arrived at Perrytown cemetery it was met by the children of that village, Mr. Gardiner having attended this school in his youth. The children brought a handsome floral wreath.

The pall bearers were Messrs. R. Jackson and T. Hazlett of Peterborough, and M. Wilson, E. Wilson, H. Wilson and H. Noble of Hope township.

ILL HEALTH, ITS CAUSE.

Sluggishness of Liver and Bowels.

It took me a long time to learn, and big doctors' bills in the bargain, writes Mr. Chilby, of Winnipeg that the disturbance of my system was due simply to liver and bowel inactivity. A sleepiness and languor extinguished my old time ambition. I fear irritability of temper added little to the comfort of my family, yet the headaches, general misery and melancholy forebodings that weighed me down ought to be considered. Tonics, electric treatment and mineral waters in turn failing to cure me, the advertising of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and the testimonials supporting the claim of great medicinal virtue induced me to try them. The result of even the first box made clear that my own body was making its own poison, that by driving it from the system and removing the cause which undoubtedly resided in the liver and bowels, by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, my health would be as good as ever.

It seems certain to me that more than half the sickness we see about us is caused by carelessness in keeping the bowels open and the liver active. Dr. Hamilton's Pills I found do both, and find it better than other remedies. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Montgomery, Ala., May 17. The Democratic State convention will convene in Montgomery today to ratify the results of the recent state primary and to adopt a party platform. Shawville Gypsy Escapes the Gallows

Bryson, Que., May 18.—The jury in the case of Michael Murphy, of Shawville, on trial here for the murder of two young men, who had been annoying him, returned a verdict this afternoon of "not guilty."

The verdict has created somewhat of a sensation here as Judge Weir charged strongly against the prisoner.

Murphy is a gypsy and it will be remembered that he chased his tormentors with a shot gun and fired at them with the result that two youths were killed.

FIRST STAMP OF THE NEW REIGN—KING GEORGE HAS APPROVED OF THE DESIGN SUBMITTED BY HOLLAND

London, May 18.—King George has approved the design for the first postage stamps of his reign, a half-cent stamp, and a five-cent stamp for Newfoundland.

Premier and Lady Morris were privileged to visit the throne room, prior to the removal of King Edward's body to Westminster Hall. They took with them an exquisite wreath of calla lillies and English violets, inscribed "In Grateful Remembrance from Newfoundland. His Oldest Colony." The wreath was made under the supervision of Lady Morris. It will be an official tribute from Newfoundland.

SALE OF DOMINION ATLANTIC

London, May 18.—It is believed that the Bank of Montreal's proposal for the purchase of the preference and ordinary stock of the Dominion Atlantic will be gladly accepted. It is understood that the intention is to incorporate the Dominion Atlantic with one of the leading lines, the Canadian Pacific being the most frequently mentioned.

Several Bodies were Blown to Bits

Canton, Ohio, May 18.—While the whole city mourns as a result of the explosion which wrecked the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company's plant yesterday afternoon, the grewsome task of enumerating the dead and injured and compiling the list of missing, as well as of investigating the accident, went on today. Though some of the bodies were blown to bits, the latest figures corroborate the first estimate, placing the dead at 13, the fatally hurt at 6 and the less seriously injured at 25.

This morning, more than 12 hours after the accident, fragments of bodies were found in the mills, scattered over a wide area. Half of a boiler six feet in diameter was found 2,000 feet away from the plant.

Identity of the body that was shot through the walls of a house 700 feet away from the plant has not been established. A house to house canvas was necessary today in taking a census of the victims, because in the first excitement dead and injured were sent to private houses as well as to hospitals. The investigation showed, however, that but a handful of the 100 men employed in the mills, escaped injury of some sort. All the men working in the mills 1, 2, 3 and 4 were killed or injured.

Examination of the plant by experts today resulted in the belief that there was no course save to raze the ruins. The building was rent asunder as if by a terrific earthquake. The hospitals and morgue were crowded today with weeping men and women, striving to find relatives among the victims. Many of the scenes of reunion were heart rending.

COBOURG MAGISTRATE MEETS TRAGIC DEATH—WAS SEEKING TO RESCUE CHILDREN WHEN OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Cobourg, May 18.—Henry S. Holland, one of the best known residents in this vicinity, lost his life last night while doing a hero's work.

Fire had broken out about 10.15 p.m., in the residence of Kenyon Lett, a son-in-law of Mr. Holland, who was spending the evening with Mr. Sutherland, bank manager, when he heard of the fire.

Although past 60 years of age, and rather heavily built, Mr. Holland ran some distance to the scene of the fire. Then, fearing that some of the children of the Lett family were still in the house, he bravely entered the burning building. It was thought he had emerged again, but about mid night, when the firemen were search ing the ruins of the house, they came upon his dead body in an upstairs room.

Death was apparently due to suffocation, while the body had also been somewhat burned. Whether his exertion in running to the fire had overtaxed his heart or whether he was overpowered by the smoke an autopsy may determine.

Mr. Holland was police magistrate of the town, and had occupied that office for some years. It is only about a month ago since his brother, the oldest magistrate in the Province, died at Port Hope. Deceased was a former law partner of the late Justice Armour, and was town solicitor and solicitor for the united counties of Durham and Northumberland. He was one of the most respected citizens and the town is deeply shocked at its tragic death. He leaves a widow, formerly a Miss Fraser, two daughters, Mrs. Lett and an unmarried daughter, and a son, who is in the West.

The Lett residence is practically a ruin. The loss is estimated at about $5,000.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Had Suffered for Weeks—Used Fourteen Different Remedies Without Effect.

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 3785 "Nerviline." I consider it the best remedy for a cold sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold that settled on my chest, that fourteen different remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline, and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness.

CANADA'S TIMBER SUPPLY.

The United States are waking up to the fact that Canada is fully competent to conserve her natural resources for the use of her own people. Time was when popular opinion in the United States tended to regard Jack Canuck as a hewer of wood and a drawer of water for Uncle Sam. But certain expressions of opinion of a contrary sort that are now continually cropping up in the American press show that this attitude towards Canada is fast giving way. Here is a case from the editorial columns of the American Forestry Journal:

"Canada is measuring her timber resources and preparing to protect them by progressive and drastic measures against exploitation for the benefit of wasteful foreign countries, including her next door neighbor. We cannot look to the north for our salvation. We must husband all our remaining resources and plant trees wherever they can be grown more profitable than other crops in order that our own future may be assured. This is the only way. Canada has not the resources for her own needs and ours too and she is sufficiently wide awake and intelligent to guard her own. The only way that our timber resources and Canada can be made inexhaustable is by the application of the highest scientific knowledge and the broadest common sense."

A KING'S COMMON SENSE.

Under this heading The New York World publishes the following editorial:

"King George's virtual abrogation of the period of trade mourning which tradition has made obligatory in England after the death of the Sovereign, is a common sense act which augurs well for the new monarch's democracy.

"By royal command the London theatres will remain open except on the day of King Edward's funeral, and the exemption will naturally be taken by shopkeepers and the public as a precedent for relaxing the strict code of mourning etiquette as it here-tofore applied to amusements and the general activities of the city.

"The fact that the court is in mourning will inevitably affect the London "season" adversely. But there should be fewer cases of unemployment and industrial distress such as made the death of Queen Victoria the cause of privation in innumerable households.

"England's affection for its late monarch was probably as profound as that of any people for a ruler. There will be no detraction from its sincerity in the abolition of a form of mourning etiquette which was artificial and perfunctory and which the new king has wisely repudiated."

AN EXODUS FROM QUEBEC.

It will come as a surprise to many people to learn that there is an exodus from the Province of Quebec going on. Last year no less than ten thousand people left the province for the United States. Mr. H. Dupont, the federal colonization agent in Quebec says that several causes are responsible for this emigration. He regards it as very unsatisfactory, that in a prosperous year like 1909 so many of the natives of the province should have gone to a foreign country. Something like five thousand more left Quebec for the north-west, but these are not lost to the Dominion and their migration is not to be deplored like that of the exodus to the United States. The want of steady employment and the lack of progress in many of the rural districts in the Province are among the causes to which Mr. Dupont ascribes the emigration. He thinks the establishment of small local industries which would give employment to the people during the long winter season would do much to check a movement which all Canadians must regret.

THE CITY AND THE STRANGER.

O the city and its roar,
Rotten, rotten to the core.

These lines occur in a poem by Walter Cuan Davis. There is no objection to Mr. Davis singing the praise of open-air life, and he does it well, but why stigmatize the city as rotten, and why impute rottenness to its roar? The roar is simply the noise caused by people working and trying to get somewhere in a hurry. It is disagreeable and probably to some extent needless; but not rotten. Neither are the inhabitants of the city rotten. Most of the vants of the city rotten. Most of them are decent folk toiling in factories and stores, in restaurants and theaters, to keep a home going somewhere. There is a tendency to exaggerate the wickedness of the city, the innocence of the country. Men, women, and children are much the same everywhere.

However, the poet may not have meant to utter so sweeping a denunciation. He puts his words into the mouth of a dweller on the plains who has tried the city, and turned away from it in weariness and disgust. To the stranger, especially to him who has lived among farmers or miners or in the woods, the city seems to turn a cold and inhospitable face. He misses the friendly greetings, the willingness to stop and talk, the little services freely done by neighbor for neighbor. The curt speech of the citizen sounds like a rebuff. There is, as has been said, no loneliness like that of a great city. Itis true that no unfriendliness is meant. The citizen is in a hurry; he meets many strangers, and he acquires the habit of wearing a sort of protective mask for intercourse with all but his intimate friends. But it all helps to make life harder for the stranger, and especially for him who happens to be without money or employment.

TRADE WITH UNITED STATES.

The Rochester Union and Advertiser comments upon an article in the Star, in which it is contended that the greatest present obstacle to the greatest present obstacle to States is the exorbitant tariff of the latter country, and that the way to enlarge trade is the simpliest namely, to reduce the duty all along the line.

Our Rochester contemporary says that we do not go far enough; that commerce between the two countries should be as free as between States of the American Union. But how could this be accomplished so long as the American tariff against other countries remains? If this were attempted, goods could be imported into Canada, say, from Great Britain, at a comparatively low rate of duty, and shipped across the American border, thus evading the high duties of the United States. To prevent this it would be necessary to assimilate the tariffs of the two countries, in other words, to form a commercial union, in which the country of ninety millions would inevitably dominate the country of eight millions. To this, Canada will never consent.

A limited reciprocity treaty might be arranged, covering certain products of Canada and the United States, and leaving each country to deal as it pleased with products coming over the seas. But the simplest way is the reduction of duties by tariff legislation. Without expressly discriminating in favor of Canada the United States could reduce the duties on goods imported mainly from Canada. But we hardly expect this to be done, except by a general change of tariff sentiment in the United States. So long as it is generally believed that prosperity depends upon a high tariff wall, it is very difficult to pick out articles here and there, and admit the... at a low rate of duty for purposes of reciprocity. The producer of these articles will cry out that he is being sacrificed; that he is paying high duties on other products in order to support native industries, while his own industry is deprived of protection. For this reason while we do not deny that something might be done by a limited reciprocity treaty, our expectations of enlarged trade with the United States are based largely upon the general movement for tariff reduction now proceeding in that country.

responded he swerved it sharply up and, tossing with one hand, reined far out from the step and lifted the child from the saddle.

The automobile halted again before the hotel amid a hush. The men who a little while before had been ripe for violence now stood in shamefaced silence. It was Jessica who ran forward and took the child, still sobbing a little, from Harry's hands. One long look passed between them—a look on her part brimming with a great gratitude for his lifting of her weight of dread and compunction and with something besides that mantled her cheeks with rich color. She kissed the child and placed her in her father's arms.

Devlin's countenance broke up. He struggled to speak, but could not, and, burying his face in the child's dress and crying like a baby, he crossed the street hastily to his own door.

Harry stepped to the pavement with a dull kind of embarrassment at the manifold scrutiny. He had misconstrued Jessica's flushing silence, and the difference stung. The fierce mist was gone, and the rankling barb of accusation smarted. He should apologize to the owner, be reflected satirically, for helping himself to the automobile—he who stole gold dust, he at whose door the town laid its unferreted thieveries, he who was the scapegoat for the town's offenses.

That owner, in very fact, stood just then in the hotel doorway regarding him with interest. He was the sheriff of the county. He was about to step forward when an interruption occurred. A scuffle and a weak bark sounded, and a lean brown streak shot across the pavement.

"Rummy!" cried Harry. "Rummy!"

Through some chink of the dead wall in his brain the name slipped out, a tiny atom of flotsam retrieved from the wreck of memory. That was all, but to the animal which had just found its lost master the word meant a sublimation of delight, the clearing of the puzzle of nameleseness that had perplexed its canine brain. The dog's heaven was reached.

Down on his knees on the pavement went Harry, with his arms about the starved, palpitating little creature and his cheek against its shaggy coat. In another moment he had picked it up in his arms and was walking up the street. He went back to his cabin with a strange feeling of exaltation and disappointment—exaltation at the recurrence of something of his old adventures, disappointment at the flushed silence with which Jessica had received the child.

Chapter 19

JESSICA bore back from the town that afternoon a spirit of tremulous gladness. In the few moments of that thrilling ride and rescue a mysterious change had been wrought in her.

In the past days her soul had been possessed by a painful agitation which she did not attempt to analyze. At moments the ingrained hatred of Hugh's act, the resentment that had been the result of that year of pain, had risen to battle for the inherent justice of things. At such times she was restless and sat much alone, pondering David Stires by meaningless responses.

She could not tell him that the one whom name he never took upon his lips was no near; that he whose crime his father's pride of name had hidden through all the months since them had gone down with the current, shunned by honest folk, adding to his one dismal act the weight of persistent repetition. She could not tell him this, even though that son now lived without memory of the evil he had done, though he struggled under a cloud of hatred, reaching out to clean deed and high resolve.

Now, however, all distrust and trepidation had vanished. Strangely and suddenly the complex warfare in her mind had stilled. Standing with Mrs. Halleran, she had listened to the comment with shining eyes. Not that she distinguished any sudden change of opinion to turn persecution to popularity and make the reprobate of today the favorite of tomorrow, but in its very reserve she instinctively felt a new tension of respect. Suspicion and dislike aside, there was none there who would again hinder the man who had made that race with death.

For her own part, she only knew that she had no longer fear of soul or sense of irrevocable loss or suffering. The Hugh she now loved was not the Hugh who had sinned.

He must some time learn the facts of his past. Was it not better to know the very worst it contained now, to put all behind him and face a future that held no hidden menace? She alone could tell him what had clouded his career, the thing whose sign and symbol was the forged draft. She carried the slip of paper in the bosom of her dress, and every day she took it out and looked at it as at some malefic relic. It was a token of the old buried misery that, its final purpose accomplished, should be forgotten forever. How to convey the truth with as little pain as might be, this was the problem, and she had found the solution. She would leave the draft secretly in the cabin, where he must see it. It bore his own name, and the deadly word David Stires' cramped fist had written across it told its significant story. How it got there Hugh would not question. It would be to him only a detail of his forgotten life there.

She was glad when late the next afternoon Dr. Brent came for his chat with David Stires, and the latter sent her out for a walk.

All was quiet. No wisp of smoke curled from the cabin chimney, no work was forward, for Harry had climbed far up the mountain, alone with his thoughts. It was a favorable opportunity.

Jessica had the fateful draft in her hand as she ran quickly down the trail and across the cleared space to the cabin door. It was wide open. Peering warily, she saw that both

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this famed Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its well-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

KING RECEIVES ROOSEVELT.

Former President Spent Half an Hour at Marlborough House. Yesterday.

London, May 16.—Theodore Roosevelt, no longer private citizen, but representative of the United States, at the obsequies of Edward VII., today paid his respects to King George V. At the latter's request the former president hurried to Marlborough House without delay on his arrival from Berlin.

King George, though under great strain of business, dropped all his tasks to welcome Mr. Roosevelt. England's new ruler was unusually warm in his manner. Mr. Roosevelt spent some time with the King.

The death of Edward, sending all Mr. Roosevelt's plans askew, still could not rob his arrival of demonstration. Besides the official party there was a gathering of Americans, tourists, and members of the colony here, at the Victoria station when his special train drew in from Queensborough. The Roosevelt party occupied the Royal saloon on the train.

On the orders of the King, Mr. Roosevelt was to be welcomed to who, with Commander Charles E. E. Cunningham Graham, was appointed by King George special aide to Mr. Roosevelt, while the latter is America's envoy to the funeral.

When the Roosevelt train drew in at 7.35 a.m., there were at the station, besides a representative of the Foreign Office, Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, Mrs. Reid, First Secretary William Phillips and Mrs. Phillips, and other members of the Embassy staff with their wives.

That Mr. Roosevelt's stay will be exceedingly quiet is indicated by t exceedingly quiet is indicated by the withdrawal of all invitations sent out before the death of King Edward.

Co-incident with the arrival of the former president, announcement was made for precedence to be followed in the funeral of Edward. Mr. Roosevelt will follow the royalties related by blood to the late ruler, but will precede lesser titles.

He was busied today with arrangements for his part in the funeral procession upon his return from Marlborough House, where Mr. Roosevelt extended the sympathy of the United States to King George, as well as wishes for a prosperous reign.

Ambassador Reid and Mr. Roosevelt reached Marlborough House at 11.30. They were ushered without delay to the King's presence, and for half an hour remained with him.

King George, it was said, was much touched by Mr. Roosevelt's expression of personal loss in the death of his father. King Edward had looked forward with unusual interest to his visit, planning many features.

It is a peculiar coincidence that Mr. Roosevelt will follow the body of Edward in the funeral procession on the very day, the 20th, on which the late ruler had planned to have himas guest at dinner. King Edward stipulated that not onnly should Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt be invited, but that Miss Ethel and Kermit also sit at the Royal table. That banquet the late King had arranged to be as elaborate as any ever given royalty.

FARMER BURNED TO DEATH.

Anthony Johnson, Who Lives Near Brantford, Met Death Alone in His House.

Brantford, May 16.—Anthony Johnson, a farmer living eight miles east of Ohsweken, just across the line from Indian reserve, in Haldimand County, was burned to death early Sunday morning.

On Saturday he made a trip with a neighbor to Jarvis, where the two are reported to have secured liquor. They returned home late. Johnson entering the house alone, while the other went home.

Shortly before four o'clock on Sunday morning neighbors saw the house in flames. It was then too late to save it. When the fire was over the remains of Johnson, burned beyond recognition, were found.

It is believed that while drunk in the house, he fell with a lighted lamp, setting fire to the place.

Rev. W. Allen of Millbrook, rector of St. Thomas' church, is ill. His many friends will unite in hoping for a speedy recovery.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

His Honor Judge Huycke is in Toronto this week sitting on an arbitration board.

Changes at the Commercial House.

That venerable structure at the north-east corner of Brock and George streets, recently called the Commercial House, is undergoing extensive alterations. Yesterday the George street front was boarded off from the pavement, as two new stores are being added to the George street contingent. The place where "gin-rickeys" and "John Collins" have for many years been dispensed to part of a thirsty public is now barricaded by planks. Instead of the insidious cocktail this soot will soon be dispensing shingle nails or baby ribbon. Mr. James Graham has the contract for the improvements so it is needless to say the work will be pushed to a speedy and satisfactory finish.

Passed the ..... day of .....1910.

WHEREAS in order to provide for the proper sewage and drainage of the south-western section of the City it is necessary to purchase land and to construct and equip a pumping station; construct a sewer on George Street between the said pumping station and Westcott Street; to reconstruct the Romaine Street sewer and the sewer leading from the King Edward school, including the necessary manholes and branches; clean out a portion of the Aylmer Street sewer and do other work in connection with and required for the proper and efficient working of the same and also to reconstruct the box drain on the west side of Park Street between Rink Street and Townsend Street; to repair and extend the box drain on Rink Street; to provide a gate valve for the overflow from the sewer at the north side of the George Street bridge; to build a new flushing chamber on the south side of said bridge; to construct a storm drain on Romaine Street; to construct the necessary catch-basins required in said works and to do other work in connection with and required for the proper and efficient working of the same, and the proper sewage and drainage of the said district and it has been estimated that the cost of said works will amount to the sum of $30,000 which is the amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-Law, and it is intended that the whole cost thereof should be borne by the municipality at large.

AND WHEREAS in order to raise the said sum of $30,000 it will be necessary to issue the debentures of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough for the said amount to be charged on the whole rateable property of the Municipality.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole rateable property of the Municipality according to the last revised Assessment Roll, being the roll prepared in the year 1909, for the year 1910, if the sum of $8,636,293, and the amount of the existing debenture debt of the municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates, but including the debt of $432,900 incurred for the purchase and improvement of the waterworks, is the sum of $1,069,119.16 and there is no part of the principal or interest in arrear.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $1350 to be raised annually for a period of twenty years, the currency of the debentures to be issued under and by virtue of this By-Law to pay the interest of the said debt, and the sum of $1007.46 to be raised annually during the said period for providing a sinking fund for the payment of the same at the maturity thereof, such last mentioned sum being sufficient with the estimated interest on the investment thereof to discharge the said debt when the same becomes due making in all the sum of $2357.46 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

1. This By-Law shall take effect on the final passing thereof.

2. It shall be lawful for the Council of the City of Peterborough to borrow the sum of $30,000 and to issue the debentures of the said Corporation for the said sum, such debentures to be sealed with the Corporate Seal of the City of Peterborough and to be signed by the Mayor and Treasurer and countersigned by the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust, and to be made payable within twenty years after the issue thereof, and to bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum payable half-yearly on the thirtieth day of June and the thirty first day of December in each year, and to have coupons attached thereto for the payment of such interest; such debentures as to principal and interest to be payable at the office of the Secretary of the Peterborough City Trust or at such other place as the Council of the said City may by resolution appoint.

3. There shall be raised and levied during each year of the currency of the said debentures by a special rate upon all the rateable property of the municipality, the sum of $1,350 for payment of the interest on the said debt and the sum of $1007.46 as a sinking fund for the payment of the said debt at the maturity thereof, making together the sum of $2357.46 to be raised annually as aforesaid.

4. The proceeds of the said debentures when sold or so much thereof as may be required for that purpose shall be applied in payment of the cost of, incidental to and connected with the construction of the said sewage and drainage works.

5. As the proposed expenditure for which the said debt will be contracted may extend over a series of years, and it will be undesirable to have large portions of the moneys in hand unused and uninvested, the said debentures may be issued in instalments of such amounts (not exceeding in the aggregate the total amount for which provision is made in this By-Law) and at such times as the exigency of the case demands, but so that the whole shall be issued within five years and the first installment within two years after the passing of this By-law.

Experimented on Himself.

A physician over in Ohio says:

"For the last few years I have been a sufferer from indigestion and although I have used various remedies and prepared foods with some benefit it was not until I tried Grape-Nuts that I was completely cured.

"As a food it is pleasant and agreeable, very nutritious and is digested and assimilated with very little effort on the part of the digestive organs.

"As a nerve food and restorer, Grape-Nuts has no equal and as such is especially adapted to students and other brain-workers. It contains the elements necessary for the building of nerve tissue and by so doing maintains an equilibrium of waste and repair.

"Grape-Nuts also enriches the blood by giving an increased number of red blood corpuscles and in this way strengthens all the organs, providing a vital fluid made more nearly perfect.

"I take great pleasure in recommending its use to many patients for I value it as a food and know it will benefit all who use it."

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and interburban railways. Fish abound in the rivers, game in the forests, mills and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here, or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore takes at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back into dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

VOL. XXXI NO. 116 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO FRIDAY MAY 20 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

QUAKER OATS CO. CAN NOW GO AHEAD WITH NEW CONTRACT

The Board of Works Pass the Necessary Resolution That Will Warrant the Construction of Another Railway Crossing.

The City Board of Works met last night. There were present: Mayor Morrow, Chairman Ald. Hicks, and Aldermen Graham, Duncan, Metheral Duffus and Bradburn.

The meeting was called to consider whether the board could not, without affecting the city's interests, grant the Quaker Oats Company permission to have a new C.P.R. siding laid across Murray street, and the government reserve at the water front.

The board's original motion read that no concession of this nature should be made until the C.P.R. had guaranteed a right of way across their tracks at Simcoe street to the water's edge. But the board did not wish to hold the Quaker Oats people up, and handicap them in the way of getting ready access to their new elevator construction of building material. In considering the situation the committee did not wish to give the C.P.R. a line with which to strengthen any opposition the railway people may entertain to granting this city a right of way over any additional tracks the railway will lay along the water front should the new Georgian Bay air line connect with Peterborough.

Ald. Hicks and the mayor were inclined to the opinion that an agreement, now in draft form, with the C.P.R., regarding the new line would cover the Simcoe street right of way.

Ald. Duffus argued that the city should not handicap any institution like the Quaker Oats Company in their expansion operations. Such a course would certainly not encourage the location here of new industries.

At this juncture, Mr. Denham, superintendent of the local Quaker Oats factory, dropped in, and was invited by the chairman to tell the committee what he wanted.

Mr. Denham—"I have done that so often that you ought to know it off by heart." He then went on to say that all his company wanted was permission to cross the government reserve. "We have been asking this of you for five weeks now and I think it rather strange if the city does not allow a concern like the Quaker Oats Company to put in a siding to facilitate the erection of new buildings. We could force this concession by appealing to the Railway Commission, but such a course would delay our building operations four or five weeks. It is absolutely necessary for us to have a siding running along the west side for bringing in crushed stone. I think you might have shown a little more consideration for the Quaker Oats Company than to handicap them by dealing with the C.P.R. over our heads."

The mayor assured Mr. Denham that every member of the board had expressed himself anxious to meet the Quaker Oats Company's requirements, and any unfortunate delay in granting the company's request had been the outcome of the committee's policy of safeguarding the city's interests.

Ald. Hicks remarked that the committee had had no intention of holding the Quaker Oats Company up in this matter, but had simply been actuated by a commendable desire to protect the city's future interests in the matter of right of way to the river, where wharves will be eventually constructed. In the past considerable embarrassment and trouble had resulted to the city from a lack of hasty decisions on similar questions.

Mr. Denham offered that the city could not prevent the C.P.R. crossing Simcoe street with another siding as they owned 66 feet along their present spur line. Besides they positively would not give a right of way across Simcoe street on this line. The city would have their opportunities of holding out for what they need in this direction. In any event, just as soon as Peterborough can show the need of a right of way to the river—when wharves are constructed and the canal finished—they can secure an order from the Railway Commission for such right of way as may be necessary.

Mr. Denham was here granted his request in the following resolution:

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus.—That the city solicitor be instructed to consent to an order from the Railway Commission, giving the Quaker Oats Company permission to have the C.P.R. construct a spur line across Murray street and the government reserve for road allowance.—Carried.

This was satisfactory to Mr. Denham and the board adjourned.

Woodstock Press Speaks Highly of Would-Be Peterborough Chief of Police.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review says:

The Police Commissioners met this morning and gave permission to Chief Thompson, to apply for the position of chief of police of Peterboro, which is at present vacant. The commissioners unanimously declared that they would deeply regret losing such a valuable man, but they could not allow themselves to stand in the way of his advancement and therefore gave the desired permission.

If Woodstock is to lose the services of Chief Thompson, more than the commissioners will regret it. He has shown himself to be not only a capable and conscientious police officer, but a likeable man and a good citizen.

Three Men were Buried in the Ruins of a Barn

Guelph, May 1.—Three men were buried in the ruins of a barn blown down by the high wind which prevailed throughout this section on Wednesday.

The accident occurred on the Porter farm in Puslinch township, about three o'clock in the afternoon.

...The barn, which was a 36 by 60 structure, had been raised and the floor taken out for the purpose of putting in a stone foundation for a stable.

It was well propped up and the men were at work excavating so that the masons might start work, when suddenly the framework was sent in a southward direction, and the roof fell in, burying the men and a team of horses.

Mr. Andrew Porter was the first to extricate himself from the debris and was followed by the hired man, Leonard Parkinson.

James Porter was not so fortunate. He had been stunned by one of the timbers, and the two men had to set to work to liberate him. He was finally removed and regained consciousness. His injuries, though severe, will not prove serious.

Neigbors assisted in raising the horses, one of which is in bad shape.

The barn is almost a total loss, as most of the heavy timbers were smashed in the fall.

Hundred Persons were Killed by Explosion

Havana, May 19.—Two almost simultaneous explosions of dynamite, supposed to consist of 3,000 lbs., completely demolished the Rural Guard barracks in the City of Pinar Del Rio yesterday. Fully a hundred persons were killed and nearly as many were wounded.

The explosions occurred at five o'clock, a few seconds before the men would have quit work, and it is generally believed that the first resulted from the accidental fall of a box of dynamite which was being lifted on a box.

According to reports received here the mangled remains of victims were found in the streets of the city a mile away from the scene of the explosion.

Several relief trains started this afternoon from Havana to the scene of the catastrophe, which is 100 miles distance.

The barracks was a massive building of Spanish construction, and occupied an eminence in the outskirts of the city to the north.

In consequence of the alarm over race disturbances, the government ordered all deposits of dynamite in the vicinity, in the possession of contractors for road construction and other public works to be removed to the barracks for safekeeping. The work of removing the dynamite from the barracks for shipment to the government magazines in Havana was begun today by employes of the Public Works Department, assisted by Rural Guards. They were loading cases on wagons, when an explosion occurred, instantly followed by another. The whole massive barracks building was destroyed and the whole northern section of the city was deluged with torrents of fragments of masonary.

A Fascinating Drama.

The people of the great Canadian West is a fascinating drama, whether we view it from the large or the small end of the telescope—i.e., from the point of the great railroad builder throwing a steel spine across the continent, or from the point of one little family unit finding its free farm under the aegis of this transportation line. The line of the Grand Trunk Pacific across Canada is esentially the belt of homes. Who is it that answers the call of the wheat? The young, the brave, the hopeful, the helpful, says Miss Agnes Dean Cameron in the March issue of the "Magazine of Commerce." The writing tools to write the drama are the strong arms of men and of faith possessed women. It is a goodly play for the world to watch. The first scene is enacted on the prairie farm where the virgin sod is turned under to a crop of wheat for the first time since creation's dawn. The second scene is the grain elevator, red against the setting sun, and the waiting wheat train of Grand Trunk cars. Our drama closes with the loaf of bread clutched in the eager grasp of the little child in some crowded city of the old world.—"Manchester (Eng.) City News," March 19 1910.

HOTELS AND LIQUOR STORES TO CLOSE FOR ONE HOUR TODAY

This the men in question readily consented to as a mark of earnest respect for the memory of King Edward, the Peace Maker, Britain's late monarch.

Says Earth Did Not Go through Comet's Tail

Ottawa, May 19.—The reports from outside astronomers to the effect that the earth really did not go through the comet's tail last night is wholly dissented from at the Dominion Observatory.

Dr. Klotz, chief astronomer, today produced the charts showing the magnetic disturbances.

We started observing at 6 p.m. and kept it up until 1 a.m. he said. "At 10.45 the largest deflection occurred. It ranged 42 minutes of an are. Regardless of what is said elsewhere, here are our results." Hawaii is the only place where the comet could be seen in daylight yesterday, and the report from there will be awaited with interest. C. A. French of Grassett, in the Mechipicoten district, wired the observatory today that the disturbance there was most marked.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN ASSAULT CASE

The case of Harry Windover, who is charged with having assaulted the wife of Nelson Windover on April 21st, was tried yesterday morning before County Magistrate Edmison. County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution, whilst Mr. Gordon appeared for the prisoner.

The prisoner, Windover, was arrested at the home of Nelson Windover, on the night of Friday, April 13th, by County Constable William Dickson of Westwood, and was remanded to jail and the date of the hearing fixed for yesterday.

The first witness, Mrs. Windover, wife of the complainant, told how prisoner had come to her house although warned not to by her husband. Prisoner pointed a loaded rifle at her. Her husband was present but afraid to interfere. Her conduct with prisoner was not of the best, whilst her husband was away in the woods. Prisoner had bought her a gold watch and other articles. Her husband had warned her he and the children would leave her if she continued to have improper relations with the prisoner. No whiskey was sold at her house.

Nelson Windover, the complainant, next gave evidence. He said the prisoner had a loaded Winchester and threatened to blow the head off his (the witness') wife. The greater part of the evidence is unfit for publication, and shows a most lamentable state of social affairs among these Cavendish people.

The prisoner was found guilty and sentence reserved.

The hearing of the other charge against the prisoner, that of assaulting Wm. Dickson, a police constable, was adjourned to Friday, May 27th. Dickson was not present owing to sickness. Bail was refused.

The Judge Said Jury Should be Ashamed for Acquitting Gypsy

Ottawa, May 19.—A despatch from Bryson, Quebec, says; Michael Murphy, the gypsy who shot and killed Harry Howes and William Dale at Shawville, was yesterday afternoon acquitted on the charge of murder after a trial which had been in progress during the past week.

"When the jury returned with the announcement "Not Guilty," the judge was so astounded that he retorted, "You ought to be ashamed of yourselves," upon which he discharged them.

Turning to Murphy, he said; "You are a brute, an inhuman being, a disgrace to mankind, and you will rest under the stigma of shooting these two young men for the rest of your days. You are now at liberty." Murphy seemed entirely indifferent, and had to be told to leave the court room.

Mrs. Murphy remains in jail awaiting trial on the charge of being an accomplice, but it is doubtful if her case ever will come into court.

The jury went out at 11.30 o'clock, after being charged by Judge Weir, who spoke against the prisoner, characterizing his conduct as brutual in the extreme. He urged them not to be swayed by religious prejudices. They brought in their verdict at 2.15 p.m.

It will be remembered that the two victims of the shooting had been teasing the gypsy, who half an hour later found them sitting in a barn and chased them around till he had shot them both down.

The prisoner seemed indifferent and when discharged, seemed unable to realize that he was again a free man having to be told several times to leave by the constable in charge. Mrs. Murphy's trial on the charge of inciting the deed comes up later.

GOV. GILLETT WILL NOT INTERFERE.

His Position Made Plain By a Statement Made in Chicago.

Chicago, May 18.—Governor J. M. Gillett, of California, who passed through Chicago on his way home from Washington, in discussing the Jeffries-Johnson fight, said: "The fight seems to be the biggest national interest there and I do not believe there is any desire to prevent it. I do not believe any sentiment against the meeting has taken form.

"It will bring hundreds of persons to the coast and leave thousands of dollars in San Francisco, and will be a big thing.

"Judging by the way our party has been met and the questions put to us there is no doubt about the interest in the fight. To the people of the United States at least, it is a bigger thing than the passage or defeat of important legislation, Roosevelt's triumphal tour, or even the approach of the comet.

Jury Think the Law Should Punish Such Men as R. J. Todd

Last night the adjourned inquest on the little boy, James A. Bailley, who died whilst under Christian Science treatment, in the township of Smith, on May 2nd, was resumed. County Crown Attorney Wood acted for the Crown and Mr. A. P. Poussette for Messrs. Todd and James Bailley.

The first witness called was Mr. R. J. Todd, the Christian Scientist, who attended the dead boy. Some of Mr. Todd's statements were that he was notified by letter to "treat" the boy about 17 days before his death. He only went out after several days.

"In what capacity were you asked to treat the boy?"

Answer—"As a preacher of the Gospel."

The witness then went on to say he treated the boy for sick stomach and vomiting. He did not know what caused the sickness, "We deal with mind not matter. It was spiritual treatment he gave him but no medicine.

"What did you first do with the boy?" "I got alone with God." He had done no miracles. "Our curing of illness is the work of the Almighty by prayer with the use of my understanding," Mr. Todd then described how he suggested to Mrs. Bailley to send for a physician. He knew that a burial certificate might not be issued and he did not want an inquest. Todd said, "It is our system to make a charge for treatment. I kept no books in connection with the deceased. I usually have four or five patients under my treatment. I charge $5 a week and $1 for absent treatment. I have been paid $5 in this case. This pays me in full if Mrs. Bailley says so. If Mr. Bailley offers me more I would take it.

The jury went out about 11 o'clock and brought in the following verdict:

"We find that J. A. Bailley came to his death from natural causes. We exonerate the parents from blame as we think the child was unintentionally neglected while the parents were laboring under the influence of Mr. Todd, who led them to believe that he could restore the child through divine powers or by prayer. We recommend the passing of a law to punish such a man as Mr. Todd.

Signed by Fred Cann, foreman.

The jury deliberated from about 11 p.m., until nearly 2 a.m. The coroner complimented the jury on the result of their verdict and noted that it was time the government passed a law to prevent such men as Todd from fooling such people as he mesmerized and bamboozled into believing him. It is taking money for deliberately fooling sick people and hurling them into eternity unprepared for death.

HORSE DISTEMPER.

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares Nerviline is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline. Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P-E- "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat a welled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I NERVILINE tried different remedies, but was unable TURES to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering CKLY till I started to use Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in cows and horses, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 25c., five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

REFORM IN CHINA.

The recent riots and attacks on foreigners that have occurred in China have again drawn attention to that country and given rise to various opinions on the real social conditions in China and the probability of a popular reform movement occurring there. In some respects the social evolution in China is one of the most important questions in world-politics at the present time. That country with its immense population must sooner or later exercise a great and enduring influence on the world at large. It is, therefore, of wide importance that that influence should be in accord with the best sentiments of humanity. While China remained self-contained and her people desired no commerce with the outside world, it mattered little to outsiders what the ideals and tendencies of her rulers and people were. But that situation has changed. Individual Chinese are now to be found in almost every country on the globe. In China herself there are social movements of different sorts and the best informed observers of what is going on express the opinion that changes of a most important character will take place in that country, with ultimate result that China will come to be not unimportant factor in international affairs. On the Pacific it is very probable that the effects of this popular awakening will first be seen The progress that Japan has made in the adoption of western ideas and methods, and the success which the policy has achieved as shown in her wars with China herself and with Russia, has made a deep impression on Chinese statesmen. At the same time the extension of railways in China, and the manner in which they are patronized by the people, shows how considerable has been the growth of public sentiment in favor of progress since the time, only a few years ago, when the first experimental railway was destroyed by the people because they wanted none of these western ideas, the spread of which threatened even the sanctity and preservation of the tombs of their ancestors. More significant even is the change in the educational methods to which the Peking correspondent of the London "Times" has drawn attention. To a considerable extent in some of the provinces of China the educational system which formerly only included instruction in the Chinese classics, has been extended and broadened so as to embrace instruction in many things that are taught in Western universities and schools. The work done by the European and American missionaries during many years has prepared the soil for the reception of new ideas, and this action on the part of some of the Chinese directors of education is aproof that an upheaval of old traditional methods is at hand and that western ideas an progress will gradually permeate the huge mass of humanity, which for countless centuries has been satisfied wit the doctrine that China wanted no commerce with the barbarians and desired that none of them should enter within her boundaries.

A KING'S COMMON SENSE.

Under this heading The New York World publishes the following editorial:

"King George's virtual abrogation of the period of trade mourning which tradition has made obligatory in England after the death of the Sovereign, is a common sense act which augurs well for the new monarch's democracy.

"By royal command the London theatres will remain open except on the day of King Edward's funeral, and the exemption will naturally be taken by shopkeepers and the public as a precedent for relaxing the strict code of mourning etiquette as it heretofore applied to amusements and the general activities of the city.

"The fact that the court is in mourning will inevitably affect the London "season" adversely. But there should be fewer cases of unemployment and industrial distress such as made the death of Queen Victoria the cause of privation in innumerable households.

"England's affection for its late monarch was probably as profound as that of any people for a ruler. There will be no detraction from its sincerity in the abolition of a form of mourning etiquette which was artificial and perfunctory and which the new king has wisely repudiated."

AN EXODUS FROM QUEBEC.

It will come as a surprise to many people to learn that there is an exodus from the Province of Quebec going on. Last year no less than ten thousand people left the province for the United States. Mr. H. Dupont, the federal colonization agent in Quebec says that several causes are responsible for this emigration! He regards it as very unsatisfactory, that in a prosperous year like 1909 so many of the natives of the province should have gone to a foreign country. Something like five thousand more left Quebec for the northwest, but these are not lost to the Dominion and their migration is not to be deplored like that of the exodus to the United States. The want of steady employment and the lack of progress in many of the rural districts in the Province are among the causes to which Mr. Dupont ascribes the emigration. He thinks the establishment of small local industries which would give employment to the people during the long winter season would do much to check a movement which all Canadians must regret.

THE CITY AND THE STRANGER.

O the city and its roar,
Rotten, rotten to the core.

These lines occur in a poem by Walter Cuan Davis. There is no objection to Mr. Davis singing the praise of open-air life, and he does it well, but why stigmatize the city as rotten, and why impute rottenness to its roar? The roar is simply the noise caused by people working and trying to get somewhere in a hurry. It is disagreeable and probably to some extent needless; but not rotten. Neither are the inhabitants of the city rotten. Most of the tasts of the city rotten. Most of them are decent folk toiling in factories and stores, in restaurants and theaters, to keep a home going somewhere. There is a tendency to exaggerate the wickedness of the city, the innocence of the country. Men, women, and children are much the same everywhere.

However, the poet may not have meant to utter so sweeping a denunciation. He puts his words into the mouth of a dweller on the plains who has tried the city, and turned away from it in weariness and disgust. To the stranger, especially to him who has lived among farmers or miners or in the woods, the city seems to turn a cold and inhospitable face. He misses the friendly greetings, the willing nods to stop and talk, the little services freely done by neighbor for neighbor. The curt speech of the citizens sounds like a rebuff. There is, as has been said, no loneliness like that of a great city. It is true that no unfriendliness is meant. The citizen is in a hurry; he meets many strangers, and he acquires the habit of wearing a sort of protective mask for intercourse with all but his intimate friends. But it all helps to make life harder for the stranger, and especially for him who happens to be without money or employment.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

St. Petersburg, May 16.—The 42nd birthday of Emperor Nicholas was observed today in the customary manner. The emperor received the official congratulations of the diplomatic representatives, of the members of the cabinet, the heads of the various government departments, the various government departments, the army and the navy and of various civic organizations at the Peterhof palace, but there were no public demonstrations in the city, beyond a general display of flags upon all public and many private buildings.

rooms were empty, and, with a guilty last glance about her, she entered. A nail in the wall held an old violin, and beneath it was a shelf of books. She took one from the meager row and opened it curiously. It was "David Copperfield," and she saw with kindling interest that heavy lines were drawn along certain of the pages. She looked about her. Where should she put the draft? He had left a marker in the book. He would open it again no doubt. She laid the draft between the printed leaves, beyond the marker. Then, replacing the volume on the shelf, she ran from the door and hastened back up the steep trail to the Knob.

Leaning back against the warm rock, lapped in the serene peacefulness of the spot, Jessica fell into reverie. Never since her wedding day had she said to herself boldly "I love him"—never till yesterday. Now all was changed. Her thought was a tremulous assurance: "I shall stay here near him day after day, watching. Some day his memory will come back, and then my love will comfort him. The town will forget it has hated and will come to honor him. Some time, seeing how he is changed, his father will forgive him and take him back, and we shall all three go home to the white house in the aspens. If not, then my place will still be with Hugh. Perhaps we shall live here. Perhaps a cabin like that will be home, and I shall live with him and work with him and care for him."

Thus she dreamed—a new day dream, unravaged by the sordid tests of verity.

So absorbed was she that she did not hear a step approaching over the springy moss, a sharply broken breath as the intruder stifled an exclamation. She had drawn her handkerchief across her eyes against the dancing glimmer of sunlight. Suddenly it dropped to her lap, and she half turned.

In an instant of surprise, as Harry's look flashed into hers, a name sprang unbidden to her lips—a name that struck his strained face to sudden whiteness, ringing in his ears like the note of a sunken bell. All that was clamoring in him for speech rushed into words.

"You call my name!" he cried. "You know me! Have I ever been 'Hugh' to you? Your face, that white band across your eyes, your voice, they came to me like something far away that I have known. I was mistaken. I was crazy to think that you"—

He stopped. A wave of sympathy passed over her. She felt a mad wish to throw all aside, to cry to him: "You did know me! You loved me once! I am Jessica—I am your wife!" So intense was her emotion that it seemed to her as if she had spoken his name again audibly, but her lips had not moved, and the tap of a woodpecker on a nearby trunk sounded with harsh distinctness.

"I have wanted to speak to you," she said after an instant in which she struggled for self control. "You did a brave thing yesterday—a splendid thing. It saved me from sorrow all my life!"

He put aside her thanks with a gesture. "You saved me also. You found me ill and suffering, and your horse carried me to my cabin."

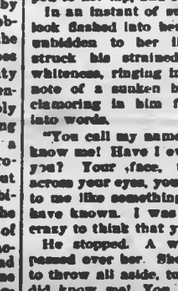
"I want to tell you," she went on hastily, her fingers lacing, "that I do not judge you as others do. I know about your past life—what you have forgotten. I know you have put it all behind you."

His face changed swiftly. Today the determination with which he had striven to put from his mind the problem of his clouded past had broken down. In the light of the charge which had been flung in his teeth the afternoon before, his imagination had dwelt intolerably on it.

"You know!" he said hoarsely. "Yet you say that! They stoned me in the street the day I came back. Yesterday they counted me a thief. It is like a hideous nightmare that I can't wake from. Who am I? Where did I come from? I dare not ask for fear of further shame! Can you imagine what that means?"

She came close to him and touched his arm.

"I know all that you suffer," she said. "You are doing the strong thing, the brave thing! The man in you is not astray now; it was lost, but it has found its way back. When your memory comes you will see that it is fate that has been leading you. There was nothing in your past that cannot be buried and forgotten. What you have been you will never be again. I know that! I saw you fight Devlin, and I know why you did it. I heard you play the violin. Whatever has been, I have faith in you now!"



"You are doing the strong thing."

She spoke breathlessly, in very abandon, carried away by her feeling. As she spoke he had turned toward her, his paleness flushed, his eyes leaping up like hungry fires, devouring her face. At the look timidity rushed upon her. She stopped abruptly and took a startled step from him.

He turned from her instantly. His hands dropped at his sides. The word that had almost sprung to speech had slipped back into the void.

"I thank you for the charity you have for me," he said, "which I in no way deserve. I—I shall always remember it."

She hesitated an instant, made as if to speak. Then, turning, she went quickly from him. At the edge of the bushes she stopped with a sudden impulse. She looked at the handkerchief she held. Some tiny lettering was embroidered in its corner, the word "Jessica." She glanced behind her. He had not moved. Rolling it into a ball, she threw it back over the bushes, then ran on hastily through the trees.

After a time Harry turned slowly, his shoulders lifting in a deep respiration. The white and flimsy thing against his eye lying at the base

Wealth of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should ever enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product of any kind enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this famous Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

CUTS & SORES.
Apply Zam-Buk to all wounds and sores and you will be surprised how quickly it stops the smarting and brings ease. It covers the wound with a layer of protective balm; kills all poison germs already in the wound, and prevents others entering. So rich healing herbal essences then build up tissue in the bottom of each sore; and in a wonderfully short time the wound is healed!

TRADE WITH UNITED STATES.

The Rochester Union and Advertiser comments upon an article in the Star, in which it is contended that the greatest present obstacle to the greatest present obstacle to States is the exorbitant tariff of the latter country, and that the way to enlarge trade is the simplest namely, to reduce the duty all along the line.

Our Rochester contemporary says that we do not go far enough; that commerce between the two countries should be as free as between States of the American Union. But how could this be accomplished so long as the American tariff against other countries remains? If this were attempted, goods could be imported into Canada, say, from Great Britain, at a comparatively low rate of duty, and shipped across the American border, thus evading the high duties of the United States. To prevent this it would be necessary to assimilate the tariffs of the two countries, in other words, to form a commercial union, in which the country of ninety millions would inevitably dominate the country of eight millions. To this, Canada will never consent.

A limited reciprocity treaty might be arranged, covering certain products of Canada and the United States, and leaving each country to deal as it pleased with products coming over the seas. But the simplest way is the reduction of duties by tariff legislation. Without expressly discriminating in favor of Canada the United States could reduce the duties on goods imported mainly from Canada. But we hardly expect this to be done, except by a general change of tariff sentiment in the United States. So long as it is generally believed that prosperity depends upon a high tariff wall, it is very difficult to pick out articles here and there, and admit the... at a low rate of duty for purposes of reciprocity. The producer of these articles will cry out that he is being sacrificed; that he is paying high duties on other products in order to support native industries, while his own industry is deprived of protection. For this reason while we do not deny that something might be done by a limited reciprocity treaty, our expectations of enlarged trade with the United States are based largely upon the general movement for tariff reduction now proceeding in that country.

PLACE IMMIGRANTS IN COUNTRY

Spend the Price of a Battleship in This Good Work, Says an Official at New York City.

New York, May 16.—The congestion of immigrants in the city, where they are consumers, is one of the first reasons for high prices. Close to a million of them will come in this year; ninety per cent. of them will be consumers, as distinguished from producers of food products.

This assertion was made by Ormsby McHarg, former assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, at the opening session of the 15th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers at the Waldorf-Astoria this afternoon.

Many of our farmers are going to cities, and a great many more to the Canadian North-west, under special inducements from Canada. This makes the advantage of the immigrant going to the large apparent," he continued.

"Spend the price of a battleship a year in placing our immigrants around, and we will reap a national profit of untold millions. The government spends on the army and navy about $340,000,000 annually.

Certainly my condition was desperate, and it seemed from the despondent feelings that swept over me that I would lose my reason. I happened to read about Dr. Hamilton's Pills and bought five boxes fromthedruggist. Such body-cleansing pills I never used; they were mild and yet strong enough to drive all the humors out of the blood. DISTANCES ON KAWARTHA LAKES.

Cut This Out and Keep It for Future Use.

Below is a useful list of distances on the Kawartha Lakes. Every motor boat enthusiast should cut it out and keep it for future use. The mileages are all authentic, having been accurately measured in the centre of the channel between the points named.

Wellington-st. bridge, Lindsay, to Upper Dock, Sturgeon Point, 9 miles

Long cut, lighthouse to lighthouse, 6-10 miles.

Bobcaygeon to Fenelon Falls, 14½ miles.

Fenelon Falls to Rosedale bridge, 4½ miles.

Rosedale bridge to entrance canal, Balsam Lake, 5½ miles

Bobcaygeon to Chemong, 10½ miles

Bobcaygeon to Buckhorn, 16½ miles

Buckhorn to Chemong, 13½ miles.

Buckhorn to Burleigh, 7 miles.

Burleigh to Crow's Landing (direct) 6½ miles. (via store 9 miles.)

Crowe's Landing to Young's Point, 12 miles.

Head of Stoney Lake to Young's Point, 12 miles.

Boschimk to Young's Point 9 miles

Burleigh to Juniper Island, 3½ miles.

Young's Point to Juniper Island, 6 miles.

Young's Point to east end Clear Lake, 4 miles.

Young's Point to Lakefield, 5 miles

Lakefield to Peterboro, 10 miles.

Peterboro to Rice Lake 21 miles.

Hastings to Trent Bridge, 8 miles.

Trent Bridge to Healey's Falls, 6½ miles.

Lists like the above are useful in planning trips with points to stop for meals or camp at night. One can also calculate the probable time of the trip, and for those who are a little timid about starting out on exploits of such a kind, it will show that although the country may look wild and desolate they are not in reality very far from points in civilization.

TO AVOID OFFENCE.

King George's Character—First Indications Favorable.

So little is known, even in England, of the opinions, sentiments, mental and moral traits of King George that every sign or move he move he makes is eagerly and closely interpreted. What is the impression he has so far produced?

His public utterances have been marked by excellent taste, deep filial sentiment and a sense of great responsibility. His order to limit the period of general mourning and reopen the theaters and amusement places showed breadth of mind, dislike of empty form and a desire to prevent business depression and artificial gloom. His frankness in objecting to the anti-Catholic references in the "declaration" he has to make to parliament shows independence and sympathy with the tolerant spirit of the age. Legislation revising the declaration to avoid offence to any of the king's loyal subjects has been advocated before, and with prospects os success, but now it is certain to be rushed through without much opposition.

What of politics? Is King George a tory, as some radicals fear, and will he stand with the reactionary peers? There is nothing definite before the world whereon to found an answer to this vital question, but it must be admitted that the tory organs have gained considerable confidence, while the liberal ones seem apprehensive and admit that a truce, with postponement of the whole issue of the lords vs. the commons, will be imposed by the logic of the situation. Still, stluce and delay would not necessarily argue toryism in the king. It might point to a natural desire to obtain time for study of the problem and the exerting of personal influence in favor of mutual concessions by the combatants.

King Edward has been criticised by some liberals for not asserting himself sufficiently in connection with the budget-veto crisis. King George, according to indications, means to assert himself. Time will tell on which side and in favor of what policies.

A RISKY PROPOSAL.

Number of American Manufacturers Want U.S. to Help Canada.

A number of American manufacturers want the United States to help Canada build a canal from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario. In return they would ask the free use of the new waterway, their chief object being to secure a direct and cheap route to the sea for the produce of Minnesota and other Northwestern States. As an additional compensation to Canadians they would give us the free use of the deep canal under construction across New York State to New York City. The proposal is only the tentative suggestion of an official body, but even if it took the form of a definite offer from Washington, Canadians should not hastily close with it.

Having undertaken the task of erecting a separate nation upon our own half of the continent, having overcome many initial difficulties, and having already attained a considerable measure of success, we should avoid any foreign entanglements that would endanger our splendid enterprise. We shall always do a growing trade with the country to the south but we would be risking our nationhood if we depend upon the Republic as our chief market for all time, or if we took it into partnership in the construction of our internal waterways. The commercial, to say nothing of the military, danger of such a policy is too obvious to require elaboration.

The canals systems and the transcontinental railways built, building, and projected at an enormous expense bind the Eastern and Western provinces together by social and commercial ties, and thus are effective instruments of nationality. It is not proposed to give another country, however, friendly, a hand in their control. These avenues of transportation were and are designed to carry Canadian produce to the British market, which availed the Dominion in the dire distress brought upon it by the national policy of the United States. Great Britain continues to take the most of our products, and it is about to take more. Why should we help the farmers of Illinois, Minnesota and the Dakotas to compete with the agriculturists of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta? We can be friendly with the United States without sacrificing our own interests.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for addition to the Eastern Departmental Building, Ottawa," will be received at this office until 5.00 P. M., on Tuesday, June 14, 1910, for the construction of an addition to the Eastern Departmental Building, Ottawa.

Plans, specification, and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residences. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honorable, the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

BY-LAW NUMBER 1491

A By-Law to Fix the Assessment of the William Hamilton Company, Limited

Passed the 6th day of December, 1909.

Whereas The William Hamilton Company, Limited, has represented to the Council of the City of Peterborough that the business of the said Company as manufacturers of engines, boilers, mill machinery, etc., has been carried on in Peterborough by the said Company and its predecessors for many years, and during that time the owners of the said business have received no advantages from the Municipality, by way of reduced taxes or bonus, and that the said Company is the only manufacturing concern in the said City in its own particular line, and has to compete with manufacturers in other places, who have received and are now enjoying Municipal assistance by way of exemption from taxes or fixed assessment and other advantages, making it difficult for the said Company to meet such competition, and has applied to the said Council for a fixed assessment on the real estate and plant of the said Company in the City of Peterborough, and the said Council has agreed thereto, and to pass a by-law for that purpose subject to the confirmation thereof by the Legislature.

The Corporation of the City of Peterborough by the Council, thereof, therefore enacts as follows:

1. This By-law shall take effect upon and only upon the confirmation thereof by the Legislature of the Province of Ontario and upon the William Hamilton Company, Limited, agreeing not to oppose the construction of any sewers or sidewalks as local improvements abutting or fronting on the property in section 2 hereof mentioned or any part thereof, that the said Council may desire to construct under the provisions of The Municipal Act relating to local improvements.

2. The assessment of the following lands in the City of Peterborough owned, occupied and used by the said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, and being:

First—That part of Lot Number Sixteen, south of Murray Street and west of George Street more particularly described as follows: Commencing at the north-east angle of said lot—thence westerly along the northern limit of said lot one hundred and eight feet and eight inches — thence southerly at right angles to the said northern limit forty-six feet and six inches—thence easterly parallel to the northern limit of said lot one hundred and eight feet and eight inches more or less to the eastern limit of said lot—thence northerly along said eastern limit forty-six feet and six inches more or less to the place of beginning.

Secondly—That part of lot number thirteen north of Murray Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point in the eastern limit of said lot where the south side of the creek intersects the same—thence northerly along the said eastern limit fifty-five feet more or less to north side of said creek—thence westerly along said creek to Rubidge Street—thence southerly along Rubidge Street ninety-three feet more or less to the south side of said creek and thence easterly along said creek to the place of beginning.

Thirdly—All that part of lot number fourteen north of Murray Street and west of George Street lying south of a line drawn from west to east, twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of the Midland Railway Track.

Fourthly—All lot number fifteen, north of Murray Street and west of George Street.

Fifthly—All that part of lot number fifteen, south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, lying south of a line drawn from west to east twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of the Midland Railway Track.

Sixthly—Lots numbers sixteen and seventeen north of Murray Street and west of George Street.

Seventhly—All those parts of lots numbers sixteen and seventeen, south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, lying south of a line drawn from east to west, twenty feet south of the centre of the main line of Midland railway track.

Eighthly—That part of lot number eighteen, north of Murray Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point on the west side of Downie Street where the south side of the creek intersects the same—thence westerly along said creek to the western limit of said lot—thence northerly along said western limit, forty-seven feet more or less to the northern limit of said lot—thence easterly along said northern limit of said lot to Downie Street and thence southerly along Downie Street, one hundred and fifty-three feet more or less to the place of beginning.

Ninthly—that part of lot number eighteen south of McDonnel Street and west of George Street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point in the western limit of said lot, one hundred and thirty-two feet distant southerly from Mc Donnel Street — thence southerly along said western limit, sixty-eight feet more or less to the southern limit of said lot—thence easterly along said southern limit to Downie Street—thence northerly along said Downie Street, sixty-eight feet more or less to a point one hundred and thirty-two feet from McDonnel Street, and thence westerly parallel with the southern limit of said lot to the place of beginning, together with an allowance for road nine feet wide, more particularly described in Registered Instrument Number 1737 for the Town of Peterborough. And that part of Downie Street extending from Murray Street northward to the line of the Grand Trunk Railway and the north forty-six feet of Murray between Reid Street and Downie Street, while used exclusively for manufacturing purposes, or the part so used for manufacturing purposes, and the buildings, plant, machinery and fixtures thereon, and the business assessment thereof on which taxes are to be levied, shall be fixed and remain fixed while the same are so used and while at least an average each year, at the sum of $10,000 for a period of ten years from the first day of January, 1910, and the return and oath of the assessor of assessors in respect thereof, shall be amended accordingly, but the same shall for school purposes be and remain liable to assessment and the payment of school taxes and rates to as full an not been passed and the assessment for school purposes and the school rates and taxes shall be made, levied and collected thereon in accordance with the provisions of the general law in that behalf and the said lands shall also be liable for all frontage and local improvement assessment, rates and taxes that are now or may hereafter be charged against the same, and any dwellings erected on the said lands and the land appurtenant to any said dwellings shall not be included in the fixed assessment hereunder, but such dwellings and land while used as such, shall be assessed as provided by the Assessment Act then in force; provided however that if the said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, shall at any time within the said term of ten years fail or neglect to operate and carry on the said manufacturing establishment, and therein to employ at least an average of seventy-five hands during at least ten months in each year, then such fixed assessment shall cease, and the taxes and rates of the said lands, buildings, plant, machinery and fixtures and on the business assessment thereof shall be and become payable to the same amount and in the same manner as if this By-law had not been passed; provided always that if the failure to carry on the said business is due to strikes or destruction of the buildings, plant, machinery or fixtures by fire or tempest the time during which the said business shall so cease to be carried on in consequence of such strikes or destruction of the buildings, plant, machinery or fixtures (not exceeding in either case one year) shall not be taken as a failure or neglect to carry on the said business, so as to disentitle the said Company to such fixed assessment.

3. The said The William Hamilton Company, Limited, shall, prior to the first day of March in each year, file with the City Clerk, a statutory declaration, made by an officer of the Company, who shall therein state his knowledge of the facts, proving that the said Company has complied with and is observing all the terms, conditions and provisions of this By-law, and on neglect of the said Company to furnish such declaration it shall be prima facie taken that such terms, conditions and provisions have not been performed, observed and kept, and the said fixed assessment shall cease, and the taxes and rates shall be and become payable to the same amount and in the same manner as if this By-law had not been passed.

SAD TRAGEDY IN EAST CITY
YOUNG MAN SHOOTS MOTHER

James Gorman Shot at P. C. Meharry But Ball Struck His Mother in the Breast and She Died a Short Time After

Last night a horrible tragedy occurred in the generally peaceful East Ward of our city, resulting in James Gordon killing his mother.

It seems that Gorman yesterday afternoon got drunk. He went home and shortly afterwards the police were notified that Gorman was acting like a crazy man and shooting off a revolver. P. C. Meharry was at once despatched to the Gorman home which is situated in Ashburnham near the old Peck homestead. The officer found on arrival, that Gorman was in a frenzied state and proceeded to place him under arrest. Gorman drew a gun and fired twice at the policeman. As young Gorman fired his aged mother was present, evidently trying to pacify her son. One of the bullets intended for the policeman found its billet in the breast of his mother. She at once fell in an unconscious state. The officer, under the instructions of humanity, attended to the wounded woman at once and Gorman escaped. Dr. McNulty was communicated with and hastened to the scene. He found that the wound was in all likelyhood fatal. Father Meagher was telephoned for and left at once for the Gorman house. Mrs. Gorman shortly after the reverend father's arrival recovered consciousness and received the last consolations of religion. Dr. McNulty had Mrs. Gorman taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Here she never seemed to rally. Rev. Father McColl arrived in time however, to find the dying woman conscious and did all in his power to administer spiritual relief. The injured woman passed away at about 10.30 p.m.

Coroner Dr. Gray will impanel a jury this morning at the morgue and hold an inquest.

Shortly after the young man Gorman, who is only about 21 or 22 years of age escaped, the police traced him to the C.P.R. bridge near the Trent Valley Canal. On arrival at the bridge, Gorman climbed the steel supports above the tracks to the cross girders above. Here on a slight girder, only about five inches broad he seated himself. P. C. Meharry and P. C. Newhall followed quickly after the matricide. When the officers arrived, followed by the curious crowd usual in such cases, they found Gorman in a stage of armed siege. He had a loaded gun and defied arrest. P. C. Newhall made several unsuccessful attempts to scale the beams leading to the prisoner sat. Every time the officer attempted to get near him, Gorman pointing his gun at the officer's head, would say "Newhall if you come a step further I wil, put you out." As any further approach meant certain death, the officers naturally decided to await further developments.

Up to the time of going to press the slayer of his mother had not been arrested.

SURRENDERS TO MR. GRAHAM.

At about two o'clock this morning through the diplomacy of Mr. G. N. Graham, proprietor of the Oriental, who in a plucky manner approached Gorman and pleaded with and induced him to give himself up, probably a further loss of life was prevented, as young Gorman, owing to his bitter feeling against the police, was determined not to be taken alive, and had they approached him he no doubt would have fired, and with the large crowd of spectators present it is hard to say what the result would have been.

Mr. Graham pointed out to Gorman the futility of his further resistance, and urged Gorman to give himself up. He asked the police and crowd to go back from their close vicinity to Gorman, and his good judgment and tact of appealing to the unfortunate young man had effect. He at once sent for a hack, and accompanied by Officer McGinty took Gorman to the police station.

PETERBOROUGH CONDOLES.

Resolution of Sympathy to the Bereaved and Loyalty to Our New King.

During the memorial service yesterday the following resolution was moved by his Worship Mayor Morrow and seconded by Mr. T. F. Matthews:

That whereas in the inscrutable wisdom of Almighty God our late lamented King, Edward VII., has been called into the eternal world, and whereas his son George V. has been called upon to assume the honorable and responsible position of Sovereign of the British Empire, be it resolved:

That we, the citizens of Peterborough, Ontario, assembled for Divine worship, at the hour of the royal funeral, do express our profound sorrow that the one who has so nobly reigned over us is no more with his people;

That we assure the Queen Mother and Royal Family of our sincere sympathy and,

That we declare ourselves as prepared to render not only the loyalty of subjects, but the love of sons to our present Sovereign, George V.

The resolution was carried by the audience standing with bowed heads.

HENDERSON CALLOUS.

Condemned Man Eats and Sleeps as Well as Any Man in Peterborough.

During the coroner's inquest on Thursday night, a Times man at the court house naturally made a few enquiries as to the prisoner Henderson, condemned to be hanged next month. On uncontradictable authority, it was learned that Henderson does not seem to have changed his demeanour. He eats and sleeps as well and soundly as any man in Peterborough, Henderson, a few days ago was asked by one of the death watches, "Had you not better prepare yourself to meet your death? Had you not better get your self ready to meet your Maker?" The condemned man, with a shrug of his shoulders replied, "Don't you worry about me; I'm all right, I have no worry about being hanged." It was also intimated to The Times that the sheriff has already had several applications for the job of executing the murderer of the poor old woman who fed him.

Armories in First-Class Order.

Credit was given yesterday to Mr. Wilt Metheral, caretaker of the armories for the marked order and cleanliness observed everywhere throughout this great building. Mr. Metheral has only one assistant to keep the whole building in order. The average housewife will understand what the work means, when it is explained that the several acres of floor space is swept daily, the furnace attended to, dust kept invisible and the outside grounds kept in order.

PETERBOROUGH MOURNS FOR A REVERED SOVEREIGN

Yesterday Was Marked By a General Sense of Loss Sustained in Death of King Edward.

The few disloyal annexationists of Canada, who would advocate annexation to Uncle Sam's domains should have gathered in Peterborough yesterday. Had they been in this city the futility of any appeal to Canadian citizens to renounce their allegiance to the British Empire, as represented by our King would have been clearly demonstrated. Possibly never, in the history of Peterborough has the loyalty of Canadians been more clearly shown. The very faces, let alone the actions of the people of this city showed beyond cavil the deep seated love and deep regret felt for our dead King. There was a marked, but subdued air of mourning to be felt everywhere. Yesterday was not a holiday, it was a day of mourning as for a lost friend and benefactor. It was not only a change from one occupant of a throne to another seated thereon, but it was evident our citizens felt that a wise ruler, a friend of his subjects, a conservor of the world's peace and a true follower of the axioms taught by his revered mother had gone and that Canada had lost the best sovereign that ever took great interest in the prosperity and progress of our Dominion.

Special services was held in some of the local churches in the morning before the public function in the armories. The services at St. John's and St. Luke's churches were well attended. Long before 10.30 the time appointed for the public service citizens began to flock in literally thousands to Central Park. It was considered at first, that twenty-five hundred seats would accommodate the expected crowds at the armories. This estimate was found to be far astray as fully three thousand to thirty-five hundred men, women and children crowded into the huge hall of the armories. Outside in the park possibly as many more had to remain for lack of accommodation within.

The 57th Regiment was represented by a very large turnout in uniform, while the 24th Battery and 3rd Prince of Wales' Dragoons had quotas present, the south-east part of the armories being reserved for the militia. The City Council, Board of Trade, civic officials, the Veterans Association, Sons of England, and other organizations attended in a body. A pulpit had been arranged in the east balcony, and the addresses were given from there, the balcony being draped in purple and black.

Rev. Edwin A. Pearson, B.A., president of the Ministerial Association, under the auspices of whirh the services was held, was in charge. The service was opened by the "Dead March in Saul."

Rev. Robt. Pogue, of St. Paul's church, secretary of the association rendered the invocation. The thousands present, led by the band sang the hymn, "Oh God Our Help in ages past." Rev. J. R. Webb next read Psalm XLV., and Rev. G. W. Henderson offered a prayer for the King and Royal family. "God Bless our Widowed Queen," was then sung.

Rev. J. G. Potter, the speaker of the day, gave an eloquent and loyal address, containing a strong tribute to the dead. The speaker touched on four lines (1.) The King in the relation to his own country; (2) The King in his relations to other countries; (3) The King in his relation to the higher and more extensive kingdom, whose interests he sought at all times to further; (4) The national duty to Her King.

Mr. Potter gave a short, but comprehensive history of what the late King had done for the development of the British Dominions. As testifying to the hopeful outlook for the Empire under our new King George V., Mr. Potter quoted his words spoken before the Privy Councillors, beginning:

"I have lost not only a father's love, but the affectionate and intimate relations of a dear friend and adviser. No less confident am I in the universal loving sympathy which is assured to my dearest mother in her overwhelming grief.

"Standing here a little more than nine years ago our beloved King declared that as long as there was breath in his body he would work for the good and the amelioration of his people. I am sure the opinion of the whole nation will be that this declaration has been fully carried out."

The speaker referred to the present crisis in political matters in England, and our need for confidence in one another.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour, rector of All Saints' church, in eloquent words addressed the gathering to some length, in the great loss, not only the British Empire, but the world at large has sustained. His glowing tribute to the grand life and splendid record of King Edward was a classic.

At the conclusion of Rev. Mr. Trumpour's address the national anthem was sung.

Rev. Canon Davidson pronounced the benediction and the service was brought to a close by the playing of Chopin's funeral march by the band, and "the Last Post" by the Bugle band.

AMERICAN LEGISLATORS CREATE SENSATIONAL SCENE IN HOUSE

Washington, May 20.—Representative Butler Ames, of Massachusetts today precipitated a sensational scene in the House by charging Chairman Payne of the Ways and Means Committee, with discourtesy in the refusal to hear him on a resolution calling for immediate negotiations with Canada for the establishment of closer commercial ties and freer trade relations.

OVER FIVE MILLION PEOPLE
WITNESS THE IMPERIAL FUNERAL YESTERDAY
THRONG LONDON STREETS

MINUTE GUNS BOOM AS GREAT PROCESSION GETS UNDER WAY.

Nine Kings and Many Princes and Princesses of the Royal Blood—A Host of Distinguished Men From Nations of the World.

The Crowd Was Greatly Interested in Lord Kitchener, Theodore Roosevelt and Emperor William of Germany.

London, May 10.—Edward the Peacemaker was laid to rest today in the tomb of his forefathers at Windsor, while all the world gave homage to his memory.

Nine Kings with bent heads followed the casket afoot through the streets of London, through a lane of thirty-five thousand troops bowed upon their arms.

Following the Kings were princes of royal blood gathered from all parts of the world and special envoys appointed by the great republics to participate in the most splendid and imposing funeral ceremonial the world has ever seen. Among these latter was Theodore Roosevelt, special ambassador from the United States.

FIVE MILLION PEOPLE.

Along the route of the funeral procession from Westminster to Paddington Station, whither the body was borne on a gun carriage, fully five million people were banked behind the troops. Sorrow lay over them, and yet, rising dominantly, was a spirit less reverent, but quite human—the spirit that hailed the new ruler, George V., son of the dead Monarch, as his father was borne to his eternal peace.

CROWDS TOUCHED BUT SILENT

The eight foreign kings were greeted with silence by the throngs, though the people were touched by the display of sympathy from alien rulers.

The passing of the heavy Royal Standard, heavy with crepe, brought from the crowds a silent tribute no less impressive than that accorded the coffin.

CATHOLICS WILL RESENT ROYAL DECLARATION, SAYS SIR CHARLES FITZPATRICK—ARE MUCH AROUSED

London, May 20.—The Tablet publishes an expression of opinion by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick on the King's declaration. Sir Charles says that the resolution passed by the Canadian House of Commons nine years ago still represents the opinion of the country. The Catholics of Canada are now alive—aroused as they never were—to the importance of the question, and would resent making the declaration today with a depth and intensity of feeling which it would be difficult to exaggerate. Sir Charles concluded: "No man who has the cause of Imperial Federation really at heart, no man who dreams of drawing closer the ties binding the shattered units of the Empire can possibly wish to hear King George, at the beginning of his reign, repeat the words of the royal declaration."

King George's First Proclamation Read

Last night the steady downpour of rain prevented the crowd expected from witnessing the last salute paid by the artillery at the Driving Park. The program, as proposed, was, however carried out, and everything was done in a way reflecting credit upon the local Battery.

The Battery fired sixty-eight times one shot for each year of the King's life. After the function was over the battery attracted much attention as they returned in strictly military order, up George street to the armory.

As the 68th gun was fired last night about eight o'clock, Col. A. Stevenson, senior officer of the 57th Regiment, faced a large gathering of the local garrison in front of the armories. In spite of the rain there was a very large audience of citizens present, who paid due attention as the colonel read King George's proclamation as follows:

George the Fifth, by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the seas King Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

To all to whom these presents shall come,—Greeting;

Charles Murphy, Acting Attorney General, Canada,—

Whereas by chapter one hundred and one of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, intituted "An Act respecting the Demise of the Crown, it is, among other things, in effect enacted, that upon the demise of the Crown, it shall not be necessary to renew any commision by virtue whereof any officer of Canada, or any functionary in Canada or any Judge of the Dominion or Provincial Courts in Canada, hold his office or profession during the previous reign; but that a proclamation shall be issued by the Governor-General authorizing all persons in office as officers of Canada who hold commissions under the late Sovereign, and all functionaries who exercised any profession by virtue of any such commissions and all Judges of Dominion and Provincial Courts to continue in the due exercise of their respective duties, functions and professions; and that such proclamation shall suffice and that the incumbents shall, as soon thereafter as possible, take the usual and customary oath of allegiance before the proper officer or officers thereunto appointed,—

Now therefore, by and with the advice of our Privy Council for Canada, we do, this our Proclamation authorize all persons in office as officers of Canada and all functionaries in Canada and all Judges of the Dominion and Provincial Courts in Canada, who at the time of the demise of our late Royal Father of glorious memory, were duly and lawfully holding or were duly and lawfully possessed of or invested in any office, place or employment, civil or military, within our Dominion of Canada, or who held commissions under the late Sovereign, or all functionaries who exercised any profession by virtue of any such commissions, to severally continue in the due exercise of their respective duties, functions and professions, for which this our Proclamation shall be sufficiently warrant.

And we do ordain that all incumbents of such offices and functions and all persons holding commissions as aforesaid shall, as soon hereafter as possible, take the usual and customary oath of allegiance, to us before the proper officer or officers hereunto appointed.

And we do hereby require and command all our loving subjects to be aiding, helping and assisting all such officers of Canada and other functionaries in the performance of their respective offices and places.

In testimony whereof, we have caused these our letters to be made patent, and the Great Seal of Canada, to be hereunto affixed. Witness our Right Trusty and Right Well-Beloved Cousin the Right Honorable Sir Albert Henry George Earl Grey, Viscount Howick, Baron Grey of Howick, in the County of Northumberland, in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, and a Baronet Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, etc., etc. etc., Governor General of Canada.

At our Government House in our City of Ottawa, this ninth day of May in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and ten and in the first year of our reign.

By Command.
CHARLES MURPHY,
Secretary of State

Married Three Times Got Two Years in Jail

Cobourg, May 20.—Wm. Esby Herrington, formerly of Brighton, but more recently of Brampton, Lindsay, and Bowmanville, came up for trial here in the county judge's criminal court, on two indictments for bigamy, and was sentences to to two years in the Central Prison.

Herrington was first married to Florence Clarke, of Trenton, in 1895. A separation resulted between them, and in 1900 he married a Miss Lockhart of Bowmanville. They lived together until 1905, when they separated. In 1907 Herrington married Miss Timins of Lindsay, who appeared in court with her two little children, and gave the prisoner a good character. Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, prosecuted, and Mr. F. M. Field, K.C., defended the prisoner.

NORWOOD HAS ITS FOURTH BAPTISM OF FIRE IN ABOUT AS MANY WEEKS

Norwood, Ont., May 20.—Norwood had its fourth baptism of fire in about as many weeks when at 12.30 this morning fire broke out in a barn in the center of the village, belonging to James Raddon. This, with another building adjoining, was burned, together with their contents including Mr. Raddon's horse, valued at $200. The Methodist church sheds were badly damaged, and these and the property across the street, were saved only by hard fighting. This, as well as the previous fires, all point to incendiarism.

Woman To Be Tried for Murder.

Boston, Mass., May 21:—Considerable public interest has been aroused in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond who is to placed on trial in East Cambridge, Monday, charged with the murder of Stewart McTavish. Mrs. Richmond was the Cambridge, where McTavish was proprietor of a small hotel in East Cambridge, where McTavish was found dead last August.

The alleged murder is surrounded by many mysterious and sensational features. McTavish was a resident of Charlottetown, P. E. I., and it is supposed that he intended to sail for home on the night he was killed. When the man's mutilated body was discovered in the Richmond house Mrs. Richmond was found lying in a stupor on the floor of the kitchen, across the corridor from the chamber in which McTavish's body was found. A revolver and a short-handled axe covered with blood, were found in the rooms. The theory of the police is that McTavish and Mrs. Richmond had been drinking freely and that in a quarrel the man was beaten to death with the axe.

PREPARE FOR LUMBAGO!

If You Have "Nerviline" Handy One Rubbing Will Cure the Pain.

Thousands Use "Nerviline."

The "strike" of lumbago is like a bolt of lightning—you never know when it is coming or where it is going to strike. Probably the one certain thing about Lumbago is the fact that it can be cured by Nerviline—the only liniment that penetrates deeply enough to reach the congested cords and muscles.

"Years ago I strained my back and suffered considerably with weakness over the spine," writes Darius P. Millan, a well-known farmer, residing near Kingsville. "Then lumbago attacked the weak spot, for days at a time, I would have to be up in bed bed, unable to move or turn. Liniments, poultices and hot applications failed to bring the desired relief, and I was in despair of ever getting really well again. I at last decided to test "Nerviline." I got five bottles from the drug store and had it rubbed on three times a day. The stiffness and pain left my back quickly, and by continuing Nerviline I was completely cured of Lumbago."

LETTER NO. 4675

This is similar testimony to that of nearly five thousand Canadians who have written unstinted words of praise to the manufacturers of Nerviline. For the cure of lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia and rheumatism there is no liniment with onefifth the pain-relieving power of Nerviline!

Refuse any substitute. Large 25c. bottles of Nerviline, or five for $1.00 at all dealers. or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

HOTEL LIBRARIES.

For the traveller who is passing from hotel to hotel, good bed and board go far, and the stir of the lob' by may yield a measure of entertainment; but times come to most sojourners when the mere creature comforts cannot completely fill the bill and when the hotel "rounds" seems but an unwelcome extension of the public street. Some degree of rest, quiet, privacy and diversion is demanded and such a need the Christian Science Monitor in a recent travel number would supply by means of hotel libraries.

This feature has already been introduced into a few of the leading hotels of the east but the suggestion is not made for the benefit of such hotel patrons as can find a "peacock alley" within the house and a theatre next door. The idea is thrown out to proprietors of hostelries in towns where places of amusement do not abound and where social parade is unknown.

The plea may be pressed for the benefit of the road-weary travelling man, for the lonely woman traveller who is condemned to spend certain hours within doors, for the victims of poor train connections and of rainy weather, and for all passing strangers who find time heavy on their hands.

A few dozen books tastfully selected and placed in suitable quarters would serve the purpose in most cases. Even if the idea did not meet the full approval of train agents and proprietors of news stands, it would doubtless call forth the appreciation of many hotel patrons and would work to advantage of such proprietors as might adopt it.

BRITAIN'S GROWING SOBRIETY.

Geo. B. Wilson, secretary of the United Kingdom Alliance, presents in a recent number of the London Times an interesting statement and comparison of the drink bill of Great Britain in recent years. In summerizing his results, Mr. Wilson says:

"I estimate the total expenditure of the United Kingdom on alcoholic liquors during 1909 at £166,162,465, as compared with £161,060,460 in 1908. There has therefore been a decrease in expenditure of £4,897,997. On spirits the decrease was £4,850,000, with a decrease in consumption of 7,932,776 gallons. Beer the decrease was £1,150,000 with a decrease in consumption of 845,396 barrels. On wines, on the other hand, there has been an increase of £98,00, with an increase in consumption of 103,744 gallons. If there had been no increase in prices the reduction on the total expenditure would have been £11,147,997.

But, as Mr. Wilson points out, the amount spent on drink as a comparison, fails to picture the true decrease in drinking. Owing to the increased taxes of 1909, the retail price of all liquors advanced, and hence if the prices of 1909 were the same as the prices of 1908, the decrease in the amount spent would be double what it is.

Commenting editorially on Mr. Wilson's report, the Times says:

"These figures are very remarkable and very significant because a all the more significant because a decline in the consumption of alcoholic liquors has been a marked feature of the statistics for several years past. Some considerable portion of the greatly increased decline, especially in the consumption of spirits in 1909, is unquestionably due to the increased price of spirits brought about by the increased taxation imposed by the budget of last year. But this, though a vera causa, cannot be regarded as an exclusive cause."

Apparently, while the drink question is still one of the most important problems Britain has to face, the recent constant decline in the consumption is regarded as extremely hopeful, and it promises that in time this evil will cease to occupy the ominous prominence it has during the past generation.

CANADA AND NORTH POLE.

There is a chance for Capt. Bernier after all to secure the final fame he has had it in his mind for ever so long to win. Messrs. Peary and Cook have been discredited to such an extent that the problem of the North Pole still seems as if it needed solving as badly notwithstanding all that is being done to boom Peary in England. The seconds in the race undertaken by these two gentlemen have been equally unable to verify the last lap of a hundred miles or so; and the world is still anxious to have some one finish the whole course in good faith, and without any chance of contradiction. The personal integrity of Commander Peary has been placed under a cloud by such a tale as Rudolf Francke, Cook's second in command, tells of those two hundred skins which Peary took from him on his way back to safety. There are other matters in connection with the Peary expedition all but as discreditable as others in connection with Cook's expedition. And now that we have heard from Captain Bernier, that his courage has declined in no way from his hardship experiences in the Far North, we are glad to see that the Canadian Government has rallied to his support by providing the means for fitting out another expedition under his superintendence to solve the Problem beyond per-adventure.

BIG DEAL IN OIL LANDS.

English Syndicate Have Purchased Valuable Property.

Vancouver, May 20.—The Consolidated Oil Fields of California, Limited, an English Syndicate, with offices at Albion House, 61 Oxford St., London, has purchased the entire holdings of the Ramona and Bonita Oil Companies, California, and intend developing the entire holdings of these Companies on a large scale, and to commence drilling at once.

It is learned on consulting commercial authorities that the new Company is the off-spring of one of England's foremost corporations, to wit: The International Lands & Industry Company, Ltd., of London, England, which is heavily capitalized.

The news was made public in the San Francisco papers several days ago that British capital is investing heavily in the California Oil Fields, and the fact that over $20,000,000 of English coin was invested there.

The absorption of the greater portion of the dividend-paying petroleum plants of this state, by financially strong managers, and the prospect that the system of marketing and producing will be carried on along conservative lines, will lend stability to the oil business, and will, to a great extent, place it among industrial rather than speculative enterprises.

The Californians who have become enriched by this accession of foreign capital, will invest their profits in new petroleum fields to develop thoroughly the vast area of the oil deposits along the coast ranges.

the great knoblike rock. He went to it, picked it up and looked at it closely.

"Jessica!" he whispered. The name clung about him. The very leaves repeated it in music. He had a curious sensation, as if while she spoke that very name had half framed itself in some curtained recess of his thought. He pressed the handkerchief to his face. The faint perfume it exhaled, like the dust of dead roses, gave him a ghostly impression of the familiar.

Chapter 20

OVER the sanitarium on the ridge sleep had descended. On its broad grounds there was no light of moon or stars, and its chamber windows were dark save where here and there the soft glow of a night lamp shone through a shutter. The evening had closed gloomily, breeding storm.

Before Jessica extinguished the light she searched in a drawer and found her wedding ring—the one she had worn for less than an hour. When she crept into bed the ring was on her finger. She had fallen asleep with her cheek resting on it.

She awoke with a start, with a vague, inexplicable uneasiness, an instinct that the night had voiced an external sound. She sat up in bed, staring into the dark depths of the room. Her instant thought had been of David Stires, but the ring held on the wall whose wire led to his bedroom was not vibrating. She listened a moment, but there was only a deep silence. Slipping out of bed, she crossed the room and parted the curtain even before the tall French window. The room was on the ground floor and the window gave directly on the lawn. While she gazed there came a sudden yellow flare of lightning, and far distant mutter of thunder spoke behind the hills.

Still, with the unreasoning uneasiness holding her, she groped to the door, drew the bolt and looked out into the wide, softly carpeted hall, lighted dimly by a lamp set just at the turn of the staircase. All at once a shiver ran through her. There, a dozen steps away, the light full upon him, stood the man who filled her thoughts.

He stood perfectly still, without movement or gesture, gazing at her she could see his face distinctly, silhouetted on the pearl gray wall. It wore an expression of strained concern and of deep helplessness. The instant agitation and surprise blotted the peace of his presence there. She forgot that it was the dead of night; that she was in her nightgown. It flashed across her mind that some near and desperate trouble had befallen him and the protective and maternal in her love welled up. She went quickly toward him.

He stood perfectly still.

She did not move or stir, and then she realized that, though his eyes seemed to look at her, it was with a sightless, tranced fixity. They saw not—he was asleep.

She halted, a deep compassion and a carnal wonderment holding her, feel it with a thrill the power she possessed over him. Then, like a cold wave, surged over her a numbing sense of his position. How had he entered? Had he broken locks like a burglar? The situation was anomalous. What should she do? Waked abruptly, the result might be disastrous. Discovered in his presence there when all slumbered, suspected as he had been, would it relieve? She must get him away—out of the house, and quickly.

A breath of cool air swept past her, putting out the lamp—an outer door was open. At the same instant she heard steps beyond the curve of the hall. Dr. Brent's voice peremptory and inquiring. Her nerves chilled. He blocked the sole avenue of retreat. No, there was one other, and only one—a single way to shield him. Quiet and resourceful now, though her cheeks were hot, she took the hand of the unconscious man, drew him silent and unresisting into the friendly shadow of her room, closed the door noiselessly and bolted it.

For a moment she stood motionless, her heart beating violently. Had he been seen? Or had the open door created an alarm? Releasing his hand gently, she found her way softly to a stand, lighted a tiny night taper and threw a shawl about her. A sudden confusion tingled through her veins, a sense of maidenly shame, opposing the sweet reminder of their real relationship—was he not in fact her husband?—that lay over beneath her thought to mystify and explain.

Suddenly, in the tense silence of the room, the mantel clock struck 3 in deep chime, like the vibration of a faroff church bell. The tone was not long—indeed, the low roll of the thunder had been well nigh as loud—but there was in the intrusive metallic cadence a peculiar suggestion to the dormant mind. It penetrated the crust of sleep. It touched the inner ear of the conscious intelligence. Harry started a shudder ran through his frame, he swayed dimly, his hand went to his forehead.

In the instant of shocked awakening Jessica was at his side in an agony of apprehension, her arm thrown about him, her hand pressed across his lips at his ear in an agonized warning:

"Hush! Do not speak! It is I, Jessica! Make no noise!"

She felt her wrist caught in a grasp [illegible]

TRADE WITH UNITED STATES.

The Rochester Union and Advertiser comments upon an article in the Star, in which it is contended that the greatest present obstacle to the greatest present obstacle to States is the exorbitant tariff of the latter country, and that the way to enlarge trade is the simplest namely, to reduce the duty all along the line.

Our Rochester contemporary says that we do not go far enough; that commerce between the two countries should be as free as between States of the American Union. But how could this be accomplished so long as the American tariff against other countries remains? If this were at

CANADA AND NORTH POLE.

A Chance for Capt. Bernier to Secure Fame.

There is a chance for Capt. Bernier after all to secure the final fame he has had it in his mind for over so long to win. Messrs. Peary and Cook have been discredited to such an extent that the problem of the North Pole still seems as if it needed solving as badly notwithstanding all that is being done to boom Peary in England. The seconds in the race undertaken by these two gentlemen have been equally unable to verify the last lap of a hundred miles or so; and the world is still anxious to have some one finish the whole course in good faith, and without any chance of contradiction. The personal integrity of Commander Peary has been placed under a cloud by such a tale as Rudolf Francke, Cook's second in command, tells of those two hundred skins which Peary took from him on his way back to safety. There are other matters in connection with the Peary expedition all but as discreditable as others in connection with Cook's expedition. And now that we have heard from Captain Bernier, that his courage has declined in no way from his hardship experiences in the Far North, we are glad to see that the Canadian Government has rallied to his support by providing the means for fitting out another expedition under his superintendence to solve the Problem beyond per-adventure.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

tempted, goods could be imported into Canada, say, from Great Britain, at a comparatively low rate of duty, and shipped across the American border, thus evading the high duties of the United States. To prevent this it would be necessary to assimilate the tariffs of the two countries, in other words, to form a commercial union, in which the country of ninety millions would inevitably dominate the country of eight millions. To this, Canada will never consent.

A limited reciprocity treaty might be arranged, covering certain products of Canada and the United States, and leaving each country to deal as it pleased with products coming over the seas. But the simplest way is the reduction of duties by tariff legislation, Without expressly discriminating in favor of Canada the United States could reduce the duties on goods imported mainly from Canada. But we hardly expect this to be done, except by a general change of tariff sentiment in the United States. So long as it is generally believed that prosperity depends upon a high tariff wall, it is very difficult to pick out articles here and there, and admit the... at a low rate of duty for purposes of reciprocity. The producer of these articles will cry out that he is being sacrificed; that he is paying high duties on other products in order to support native industries, while his own industry is deprived of protection. For this reason while we do not deny that something might be done by a limited reciprocity treaty, our expectations of enlarged trade with the United States are based largely upon the general movement for tariff reduction now proceeding in that country.

PLACE IMMIGRANTS IN COUNTRY

New York, May 16.—The congestion of immigrants in the city, where they are consumers, is one of the first reasons for high prices. Close to a million of them will come in this year; ninety per cent. of them will be consumers, as distinguished from producers of food products.

This assertion was made by Ormsby McHarg, former assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, at the opening session of the 15th annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers at the Waldorf-Astoria this afternoon.

Many of our farmers are going to cities, and a great many more to the Canadian North-west, under special inducements from Canada. This makes the advantage of the immigrant going to the farm apparent," he continued.

"Spend the price of a battleship a year in placing our immigrants around, and we will reap a national profit of untold millions. The government spends on the army and navy about $340,000,000 annually.

THE COCOANUT TREE.

It Has an Irresistible Craving For Salt Water.

"In the tropics, where the cocoanut is wanted for planting, the nuts are picked up when they fall from the tree where they have hung for about fourteen months in ripening. It is a fact not generally known," says the Bakers' Weekly, "that a majority of the nuts drop at night, which probably accounts for the small loss of life by cocoanuts falling upon the heads of the natives.

"The action of the heavy dew at night loosens the seal with which nature has provided the nut and allows it to fall. The nuts wanted for planting are either gathered into heaps or placed under sheds, where they are allowed to sprout before planting, in order that good, healthy sprout nuts may be selected, thus avoiding the possibility of planting 'blind' nuts that would not sprout, in which case much time would be lost in starting the 'cocoanut walks,' as the orchards are called. When holes are dug about three feet deep and twenty feet apart the nut is carefully placed in the hole and covered with about one foot of soil. The hole is filled as the sprout grows until it reaches the surface, when it is left to itself, requiring no further attention. Should the place where the cocoanut is planted be any great distance from the seashore a quantity of salt is placed in the hole. It will grow in luxuriance, however, but a short distance from the shore, nearness to salt water being absolutely essential to its welfare.

"An interesting story is told by a gentleman who resided for some years in the tropics. He planted a cocoanut tree behind a board fence some distance from the sea. The tree grew perfectly straight until it reached the top of the fence, when it began to grow toward the ocean, leaning a foot or more. Then a shed was built quite near the fence, but several feet higher and the tree again grew straight until the roof of the shed was reached, when it again leaned toward the sea, forming a very curious and odd looking tree.

"The irregular growth was wholly attributed to the influence of the salt air. No magnet is truer to the pole than the root of the cocoanut tree to the ocean, for when the root breaks through its bank it points directly toward the sea, no matter what the position of the nut when placed in the ground."

PAID IN PELTS.

When Tennessee Was Known as the State of Franklin.

Probably few people know that the original name of the state of Tennessee was Franklin or that in 1788 the salaries of the officers of the common wealth were paid in pelts, but the following is a correct copy of the law:

"Be it enacted by the state of Franklin, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same, that from and after the 1st day of January, 1789, the salaries of this commonwealth be as follows—to wit:

"His excellency the governor per annum, 100 deerskins.

"His honor the chief justice, 800 deerskins.

"The secretary to his excellency the governor, 600 raccoon skins.

"County clerk, 200 beaver skins.

"Clerk of the house of commons, 200 raccoon skins.

"Justice's fee for serving a warrant, one muskrat skin."

At that time the state of Franklin extended to the east bank of the Mississippi river, and on the west bank was that great unknown forest region of Louisiana. It was then a terra incognita, save a few canoe landings and Indian trading posts on the river banks. It was known as the district of Louisiana and in 1805 was made the territory of Louisiana.

The state of Franklin, which became Tennessee in 1796, was almost as little known. The now great city of Memphis was a mere trading post and was not laid out as a village until 1820.

Pelts were as plentiful in those days as peanuts and much better distributed for purposes of currency and barter.

The Doctrine of Election.

When the late Senator Vance was running for congress he called on an old colored man who had in early life served the Vance family. Asked after his health, the former servant replied, "Mighty po'ly in this worl', but it's all right over yander."

"Do you believe in the doctrine of election?" asked Vance with great solemnity.

"It's the doctrine of the Bible," answered the old man.

"Uncle Ephraim, do you think I've been elected?" asked Vance again.

"Hones' Zeb, I'd a leetle rather you wouldn't draw that question. I'm too near de grabe to tell a lie, but de fac' am I neber yet knowed nor hear tell of no man bein' elected what wa'nt a candidate."—Exchange.

Household Helps.

If lemons are pared before squeezing more juice can be had.

Never grate lemon rind without first scrubbing well with a clean vegetable brush. The dirt that comes off will show the reason.

If the bottom of kettles are slightly greased in making custards the mixture will not stick.

Leather covered furniture can be cleaned with pure milk rubbed on with a piece of flannel. Rub gently until dry.

Avoid use of strong soaps or soap powders in washing fine china on which there is gilt decoration.

A TENDERFOOT AT POKER.

He Knew How to Play a Good Hand When He Got It.

"Pat Sheedy," said a sporting editor, "used to entertain me when I visited his art shop with gambling tales.

"There was one tale about a stand-off which I rather liked. It seems according to this tale, that a barkeeper in some mining town, reunited with three sharpers, and dear help an tenderfoot that ever ventured to sit in a little poker game among the crew.

"One night the tenderest tenderfoot imaginable, after a half dozen drinks in the saloon, agreed to take a hand in a dollar limit game.

"Things went along in the usual way for awhile. Then an amazing series of nods and winks began to pass about. The bartender had signaled that the tenderfoot held four kings on the draw. There were more nods and winks, and betting began.

"In the midst of the betting a waiter brought sandwiches and whisky in order to distract the tenderfoot, and while the poor dupe was tossing off his drink the sharper next him slipped a sixth card on to his hand, thus, of course, nullifying it.

"The unconscious tenderfoot took up a huge sandwich, bit off a large mouthful and began to bet again. Right and left, of course, they raised him. He ate on and bet away calmly. An enormous sum lay on the table.

"Then suddenly the bartender resumed his nods and winks. He was terribly excited. Something was wrong. The sharpers, a little anxious called the tenderfoot.

"The tenderfoot finished the last bite of his sandwich, took a long drink of whisky and laid down his original five cards. Then in silence he gathered in his vast pile of winnings and with a cool nod took his leave.

"After his departure there was a terrible time.

"'What the dickens did he do with that sixth card?' the sharper cried.

"'Didn't you see? Didn't you see?' cried the bartender, dancing up and down with rage. 'He ate it with his sandwich!'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A CURE AND A FEE.

Peculiar Experience of a Doctor With a Business Man.

In conversation one day about the peculiar views that commercial men sometimes entertain about professional services, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell told the following story:

"A very wealthy man came to consult me about an attack of vertigo. He said that he had just returned from a trip to Europe, where he had consulted eminent specialists, but that they had failed to afford him any permanent relief. 'A physician in London,' he said, 'asked me why I did not make an attempt to be cured nearer home. I thought on my way out west I would stop over to see you.'

"'Has any physician you have visited looked into your ears?' I asked.

"'No,' was his reply.

"I made an examination of his ears, removed some wax and a substance that appeared to be hardened remnants of cotton wool. I sent him away then and told him to come again in a day or two. He did so.

"'Well,' he exclaimed, 'I am cured. How much do I owe you?'

"'About $50,' I replied.

"As he drew a check he asked, 'Did you know when you first examined my ears that you could cure me?'

"When I told him that I had a very fair conviction that I could be said: 'Well, you are a blanked fool! You should have said to me, "I think I can cure you, and I will do so for $10,000—no cure, no pay." You would have got your money without a murmur.'

"'Oh,' I said, 'if you feel that way about it there are several little charities in which I am interested, and'—

"'No, sor!' he interrupted. 'That is not business. I have my cure, and you have the price you asked. The transaction is closed.'"

Colors.

Different colors are said to be due simply to different rates of vibrations. To red are attributed 458 millions of millions of vibrations per second and to violet 727.

The Bank van Leening.

The Dutch pawnshop of Amsterdam, known as Bank van Leening, is under the control of the municipality and is one of the oldest in the country. Up in 1616 the business was leased by the city to a private company, but as it refused to reduce its interest on pawned articles the city took over the business and has managed it ever since.

The Fleur-de-lis.

France is the only country which allows a flower to appear in its national heraldry. But the fleur-de-lis, or three lilies, is so different from most flowers that it does not seem out of place on the national coat of arms.

English Etchings.

In 1866 Mr. Arthur M. Kavanagh, who had neither arms nor legs, was elected to parliament.

The annual report of the Yorkshire penny bank shows that $375,000 has been saved by child depositors in the last five years.

What is probably a Roman soldier's backgammon has been found by excavators at Mamsbury Rings, Dorchester. It is a slab of stone one and three-quarter inches thick, with squares scratched on it.

World's Conference.

Berlin, May 16.—The fourth conference of the Young Women's Christian Association of the World was formally opened today with a reception given in honor of the delegates by Frau von Bethmann-Hollweg-Reichskanzler, the wife of the German imperial chancellor. The business sessions of the convention will begin tomorrow and continue for ten days. More than twenty countries are represented. America has sent a large delegation, which is headed by Miss Harriet Taylor, of the National Board of New York, and Miss Susie Little of the National Board of Canada.

The First Gold Rush.

The voyage of the argonauts, the date of which is uncertain, was professedly a rush for gold, to be collected in fleeces placed in the torrents flowing down the flanks of Mount Caucasus. But older much was the westward movement, which Chaldean records of 3800 B. C. chronicle, to the gold bearing land of Melukkha, afterward known as Midian.

Later on, but still at a very early period, there was a rush from Egypt to a spot inland from the present Suakim. Long afterward this was described by Diodorus Siculus, who left a map, still extant, showing the wells provided for the gold seekers between the Red sea and the mines.

About 1000 B. C. there seems to have been another rush of miners in search of gold into South Africa. Its numbers can only be guessed at from the extensive remains that still exist, but it has been calculated that at least $350,000,000 was secured by these early adventurers.

In modern times the first rush was that to California in 1848-9.

Sea Birds.

Taking the sea birds all round, they are far more careless in their nesting than their cousins inland. The terns, the skua, the puffins, the black throated diver, the guillemot, make no nests, properly so called. The puffin, however, usually burrows a rabbit burrow and is not particular whether its original owners have done with their home or not. If they interfere or even try to pass a peck from the puffin's great parrot shaped bill is enough to warn them against making the experiment a second time. The auks are birds of the northern seas and are perhaps the finest divers of any feathered things. Their short wings look, in fact, far more like fins than wings, and, unlike gulls, the auks catch their prey beneath the surface. The auk's selection of a spot to lay her eggs is eccentric to a degree. She chooses a bare, broken ledge of hard rock overhanging the waves. It looks as though it were a feat to balance eggs in such a place, and the marvel is that the first gale does not send them rolling over the crags.—Boston Herald.

Pepsin and Its Uses.

Pepsin is an active ferment present in the gastric juices which has the property of converting the proteid elements of the food into peptones. Pepsin is known to be one of the albuminoids or nitrogenous organic substances, but has never been satisfactorily isolated, and its presence is known only by its effects. Pepsin requires for its action the presence of an acid and moderate warmth. As used in medicine it occurs in a fine yellowish white amorphous powder or in translucent grains or scales. It is extracted from the glandular layer of the stomachs of freshly killed pigs and should be capable of digesting not less than 3,000 times its own weight of albumen. It has, however, been isolated in such a pure form as to be able to digest 25,000 times its own weight of egg albumen. The use to which it is put is to aid the gastric digestion in very old or feeble persons where the gastric juice is deficient.—New York American.

ODDLY IDENTIFIED.

Scheme Used by Doorman at Theatre In Place of "Pass-Out" Checks.

When some years ago one of the doorkeepers at a London theatre retired from his draughty calling and was pensioned off by the management it appeared that this old man in all the years of his service had never given a "pass-out" check to any one of the thousands of men who must have passed his doorway.

But he never made a mistake, says The London Mirror. No one entitled to return was ever refused and no one could pass in at the end of the interval who had not passed out at the beginning of it.

The secret of the old man's success was a curious one. He depended on his memory in a very curious way. He did not remember the men by their faces, their clothes, their hats, their boots, or by any peculiarity of gait or appearance. Manifestly such a feat would have been impossible for ordinary "pitties" are very much alike in these details.

He took the one detail on which men do differ and remembered them by that—he recognized them by their necktties.

Gaze around you in the railway carriage as you are reading this article and ask yourself if there is any one of your fellow passengers that you could remember well enough to recognize again in, say, an hour's time.

You will find there are very few people you could be sure of. There may be one old man with a large and conspicuous beard or a very young man with a pair of spectacles of unusual size, but nine out of ten have the same sort of hat, the same sort of clothes and the same sort of figure.

Legatees In Luck.

Rich titled people sometimes have extraordinary strokes of luck. Recently, Lord Fingall found that a Mr. Joseph F. Lynch, whom he had never seen, had bequeathed him £6,000, without giving a reason for his amazing action.

Ninety-six years ago, a Mr. George Wright, who had lived a long time in very quiet style at Pimlico, died, leaving all his landed estates to Lady Aylesbury, £80,000 to Lady Rosslyn, £20,000 to the Speaker, and $5,000 to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Wright was not personally acquainted with any of the legatees, but he cherished a hopeless passion for Lady Rosslyn, whom he had seen at the opera.

North and South America.

The area of South America is slightly greater than that of North America.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. It success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Homing Pigeons.

The average speed of a homing pigeon in calm weather is 1,210 yards a minute. With a strong wind in the direction of flight some pigeons have made 1,960 yards, or considerably more than a mile a minute.

Must Get Permission.

One of the bylaws of a cottage hospital in Wales reads thus: "No patient shall curse or swear or use any indecent or abusive language, nor shall play at cards or dice, nor smoke within the infirmary without the authority of the medical officer and at certain hours."

Stories Are Now Coming In of the Excitement Caused Throughout the World—Quebec Legislator Started For Home to Die There—Indians In the West Were Very Anxious—Expected Tidal Wave.

Toronto, May 19.—Well, old mother earth has gone through the comet's slimy appendage, and everybody's safe for another 75 years.

And what really did happen? So far as Toronto is concerned, an unusually bright aurora appeared in the northern sky.

"At about 10.40 p.m.," said Prof. Blake, astronomer for the Dominion Meteorological Department, "the aurora was most brilliant, and contained all the colors of the rainbow. There were many streamers to it, and it had the appearance of curtains and scrollwork. For nearly an hour it was quite pronounced with streamers.

"There is no doubt the peculiar greenish tinge and the glow was caused by the earth passing through the comet's tail. There were meteor flashes also to be seen last night."

People down town were not able to see the aurora owing to the electric lights and the high buildings.

Not until an hour after sunset on Saturday evening will the comet be seen at its best. Then the evening sky will be a thing of wondrous beauty, for the comet, with its brilliant tail, should be seen clearly, and the glow and reflection from its passage through the heavens will serve to light up the whole sky.

Wanted to Die at Home.

Quebec, May 19.—Halley's Comet did no damage here last night, although there was apprehension among a few. The presence of so many brilliant political stars no doubt discouraged the heavenly visitor.

Hon. M. F. Cormier of Plessisville, a member of the Legislative Council, refused to remain in the Chateau Frontenac and left on an early train for home, with the statement that if he was to die he wanted to die at home.

A group of people assembled on the Dufferin Terrace between 4 and 5 o'clock Tuesday morning and watched for the comet between prayers uttered for protection. A Bible reading was also held in the neighborhood at the same hour.

Indians Alarmed.

Winnipeg, May 19.—There is intense interest through western Canada concerning the comet. The only sections of the country which has displayed any alarm are the several reservations. For weeks the Indians have been discussing the subject, and displaying a great deal of fear. This has been allayed by their religious advisers.

Paraded With Candles.

San Juan, Porto Rico, May 19.—Fearing disastrous consequences from the comet, hundreds of Porto Ricans Tuesday night paraded the San Juan and other towns in Porto Rico, carrying candles and chanting prayers. Many of them also spent considerable time in the confessionals.

A large number of workmen failed to report yesterday at the tobacco factories and plantations and the pine apple shipments have been curtailed because the laborers have refused to work.

Took Down the Rods.

Nenah, Wis., May 19.—Fearful that the rods might attract dangerous substances that might accompany the comet yesterday, many farmers in this vicinity removed the lightning rods from their homes and barns.

Feared a Tidal Wave.

Duluth, Minn., May 19.—A temporary, general exodus took place yesterday from the Minnesota Point, a long and narrow strip of land containing the homes of several thousand people, located between the finger of Lake Superior and St. Louis Bay, reaching between Duluth and Superior, Wis.

The more timid declared that the point, situated at the apex of Lake Superior, and not more than a dozen feet above lake level, would easily be submerged should the comet, forming a vacuum on its flight, drag a tidal wave up the lake and sweep on into St. Louis bay. Therefore the timid ones came uptown yesterday and awaited developments.

Refused to Work.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 19.—A large number of miners employed by the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., near Avoca, refused to go to work yesterday, fearing that Halley's comet might strike the earth.

Caught It In Bottles.

New York, May 19.—Thousands swarmed and clustered on the high places last night to peer into the west for the incandescent tail of the receding comet. Some prayed and all watched. Nobody carried salt, but a few carried bottles into which to seal up the atmosphere for future analysis.

Spots on the Sun.

San Jose, Cal., May 19.—Prof. J. S. Rickard of Santa Clara College Meteorological Observatory informed the Associated Press that yesterday he observed two very large spots on the sun, both intensely black.

Portland, Ore., May 19.—Observers who examined the sun through powerful telescopes yesterday, report two spots on the sun.

This Man Saw Thirty.

St. Louis, May 19.—Solar eruptions were observed yesterday afternoon by Father Martin S. Brennon, professor of astronomy at the Kendrick Seminary. He saw thirty distinct spots on the sun. One of them he estimated at 150,000 miles in diameter.

Recent Inventions.

A recently invented rescue stretcher for miners has oxygen tanks at one end opening into a bag into which a man's head and shoulders may be placed.

On the principle of the slide trombone is a gas fixture invented by an Indiana man, so constructed that the burner may be slid to any point along the wall of a room where the light is most needed.

KILLED ON TRACKS.

Fearful Death of Woman at Gananoque on Railway Operated by Rathbun Company.

Gananoque, May 16.—A terrible accident occurred here at 10.30 this morning by which Mrs. Robert Johnston, of Woodburn, about five miles out of town, was run over by a freight train on the Thousand Islands Railway and killed.

She didn't notice a train being shunted, and as she drove across the tracks the buggy was caught and crushed like an egg shell against a telegraph pole standing close to the track. Mrs. Johnston was thrown under the car, both trucks of which passed over her body, which was horribly mutilated. Coroner Shaw, of Lansdowne, was notified by telephone, and he granted permission to have the remains removed. They were taken in charge by Undertaker Edwards, and an inquest will be held.

Mrs. Johnston was about forty years of age. The husband was notified of the sad occurrence, and is almost prostrated with grief. This is the first fatality on the Thousand Islands line, which is operated by the Rathbun Company, of Deseronto.

A Quick Thinker.

Dittendorf—Here come two evil looking rascals. I shouldn't wonder if we were held up. Heins—I'm afraid so. By the bye, here's that dollar you lent me this morning.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the most beautiful woman on the operatic stage, attributes her success to those old fashioned beauty doctors, sleep and rest.

Miss Mary N. Potts at her wedding in St. Johnsbury, Vt., wore the same dress that had been worn on similar occasions by her grandmother, her mother and her mother's two sisters.

The recent prominence in the suffrage discussion of Dr. Mary Walker recalls one of the cleverest remarks that the lamented Bill Nye ever uttered. He described Dr. Mary as "the only self made man in America."

Miss Helen Taft, who is a student of Bryn Mawr, has been subjected to so much annoyance by curious people trying to get a look at the president's daughter that her location has been taken out of the college directory.

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice, who is known the country over as the president of the Society For the Suppression of Noise, has two very talented daughters, Miss Muriel Rice, who is interested in keeping alive an interest in American poetry, and Miss Dorothy Rice, who has appeared as a painter of life in the sweatshops of New York city.

Church and Clergy.

The gospel is preached in thirty different languages in the United States.

At a church in England a clergyman told the congregation that, while he had not personally witnessed it, he had been told that card playing had taken place during service.

Bishop Charles E. Cheney of the Reformed Episcopal church, now in his seventy-fifth year, preached a sermon in Christ church of that denomination in Chicago on the fiftieth anniversary of his rectorship.

At a meeting of the Rodelph Sholem congregation in Pittsburg Rabbi Leon ard J. Levy was elected pastor for life at an annual salary of $15,000. He is to receive a $5,000 yearly pension if he should wish to retire after reaching the age of seventy-five, and the same amount is to be paid to Mrs. Levy in the event of her husband's death.

Science Siftings.

Experiments with ultra violet light appear to show that it is more effective for sterilizing liquids than ozone.

A carload of radium, Edison says, would have as much energy as all the millions of tons of coal mined in the United States in a year.

A French scientist says the rays from incandescent lights are beneficial to human health, destroying bacteria, stimulating circulation and cellular activity and reducing pain.

Recent experiments have proved conclusively that coal dust which has been ground to a state so fine that it will pass a 200 mesh sieve will explode from contact with either a naked flame or with the arc of an electric current.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A Call From Oregon

Opportunities in the Far West

The greatest industrial activity in this country is now centered in Oregon. Two of the biggest railroad systems in the U. S., with intense rivalry, are pushing branch lines into the remote portions of this State, and an exodus from the East is on in the occupation of this the LAST FRONTIER ON THE CONTINENT. Fortunes will be made here THIS YEAR—NEXT YEAR and EVERY YEAR for the next decade.

Our valleys are the most fertile in the world and irrigation projects are converting the bordering hillsides into gardens. Orchards lands are leaping upward in price and the advance has only started. Water from mountain streams is the purest, timber the finest and climate the most perfect in Uncle Sam's domain. Power plants are springing up along the channels of silvery torrents to develop electrical energy for mines and interburban railways. Fish aboundin the rivers, game in the forests, mills and health and joy in the atmosphere. There are no cyclones here, or pestiferous insects to endanger life, or make it a burden.

I want Eastern connections and help, financial and otherwise, to seize opportunities that surround this picturesque city of Baker. The returns will be out of all proportion to the help extended. The opportunities are along the lines of vegetable fruit, hay, grain, stock, timber, and mineral lands. There are fortunes in all these. Some mines in this vicinity have record outputs in gold, running into the millions. Yet the surface, overlying the mineral deposits of Baker County, has hardly been scratched.

On a ledge of free gold bearing quartz two miles in length I made a test of 100 tons of ore taken at a depth of only a hundred feet and got over $3000.00 out of it. The mint returns passed through the Citizen's National Bank here.

Among other things, I need money, right now, to begin the MANUFACTURE OF GOLD out of this immense ore body. The shares of the Timber Canyon Mines Company, which OWNS this property, and of which I am secretary have an intrinsic value of at least 50 cents a share based on a conservative valuation of the property and the amount of stock issued.

I will deliver on order, with draft attached, up to 50,000 shares of this stock at 25 cents a share, NET. The full amount of the purchase price will go back into dividends inside of 18 months. Take a block of this as a starter, and get in step with this Eldorado of the West. If there is anything else out here that I can do for you, or you can do for me,—WRITE ME.

Yours for business, and MONEY for both of us,

FORTUNES IN CALIFORNIA OIL

One Good Investment Worth a Life-time of Labor
Here is An Opportunity for the Man of Small Means

This advertising announcement is especially directed to such readers of this paper as are honestly interested in their future: men and women who are not living altogether for to-day, but who have before them a definite and fixed purpose, and so shape their destiny each day, by word and deed, so that at some date not far in the future they may be able to achieve the crowning event of their lives.

It is only human that we should each desire to have in our own name much of this world's goods, sufficient at least to provide for comfort and independence during old age. It is quite true that only a lucky few attain this position in the days of their youth.

Are you satisfied with your future prospects.

Do you know beyond a shadow of doubt that within three or five years' time you will amass a fortune?

Could you say to yourself, right now, that the next 18 months you will have practially made or saved from the investments which you are making today sufficient funds to provide for yourself and family a comfortable living for ten years' time?

Millions From a Few Dollars in Oil

Chanslor and Canfield were both poor prospectors. Realizing the great possibilities and future of the California oil fields they placed their savings in the oil industry, and are to-day rated as multi-millionaires.

Zed. Phelps four years ago last September alighted from the train in the Coalinga field, and was the proud possessor of $23. The magic "23" did not disturb him; he was the proud owner of a million dollars' worth of grit, nerve and energy. He worked hard, saved his money, and did things. He invested his earnings in the oil fields, and, as a result, he is now worth a quarter of a million.

It would be difficult to devote much space to such men as Doheny, O'Donnell, Chanslor, Hardison, Stewart and thousands of others who, through small investments in the great oil industry of California; became men of wealth.

Don't Sigh and Regret Do Something

We often look back and think to ourselves that, had our foresight been as good as our hindsight, we would have done differently. This looking back to disappointments that have passed is particularly interesting in connection with the California oil fields.

Others Have Made Money in Oil Why Not You?

The following is a list of "IFS" that are opening investors' eyes to the possibilities of California oil shares:

If you had purchased Pinal oil shares at 25c. per share, you could have sold at $25 per share; it pays a regular monthly dividend of 15c per share—

A MONTHLY INCOME OF 900 ON AN ORIGINAL INVESTMENT OF $100.

When the "Silver Tip" well in Coalinga oil fields came in this stock jumped in a night from 60c. to $4, and has been paying a dividend of 10c. per share ever since. This is recent history, having occurred but a short time ago.

You have the same opportunities to-day in the Coalinga oil fields, and plenty of them, but you must think, reason and analyze for yourself before you hope to acquire your share of the world's wealth; you must have the knowledge of your own convictions and act.

Advantages of Investments in Oil Securities

It is stated by the best of oil authorities that 96 per cent. of the wells drilled in the proven zone of the Coalinga, Cal., field produce oil. You must, therefore, realize that the element of risk in an oil investment is practically iliminated. Furthermore, placing your money in oil companies means quick and, in most cases, large returns, particularly so in cases where the Companies are operating in shallow territory which assures inexpensive drilling and quick action on the invested capital.

Crude oil at the present market price is being purchased from the producer at sixty-three cents per barrel at the well. Mr. Aubrey, California State Mineralogist, states that oil at $1 per barrel is cheaper fuel than coal. Two and a half barrels of oil are equal to (as fuel) a ton of coal, so that quantity of oil, at a dollar a barrel, or $2.50, is the equal of a ton of coal at $8.00.

Taking the Federal Geologistst's figures as a basis for calculation, there is at present in the entire Coalinga District oil worth $2,000,000,000

The great Comstock mines produced only $645,000,000.

The Property of the Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company Close to Great Gusher Well

The holdings of the Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company consists of eighty acres, situated in section 24, Township 21 South, Range 14 East, Fresno County, California, separated by only two sections from the famous Section 6, the home of the great "SILVER TIP" GUSHER, and of the Lucile, Amy, Pacific States Oil Companies, etc., all of whom rank foremost among the big producers of this great field. Section 18, adjoining the Coalinga Eureka property, is the scene of unequalled activity. Derricks have been built, tools hauled out, and drilling operations are being carried on with relentless energy. It is the undoubted opinion of experts and practical oil men that Sections 18 and 24 are destined to produce some of the most remarkable wells in the Coalinga field. E. W. Preston, probably the best expert in the whole of the Coalinga field, and Superintendent of the Consolidated Oil Company (which adjoins our Coalinga-Eureka property), also General Manager of the New York Coalinga and Alladin Oil Companies (all producing), writes regarding the property of the Coalinga Eureka Oil Company:

"You ask me to give an expert report on your "land in Sections 24, 21 and 14. I have just re"turned from a very careful examination of the "property. You have the same identical forma"tion that has made the entire west side of the "Coalinga field famous. You are sure to get good "wells at a medium depth.

"This property adjoins our property, and I "have been trying for some time to purchase this "same tract. While I regret that we were unable "to procure it, I cannot refrain from congratulat"ing you on securing such a desirable piece of "oil land. It means success to your Company."

Plans of the Company

It is the plan of the Company to drill and complete at least four wells during the present year. These wells, according to the output of the wells on adjacent properties, should have an average yield of 400 barrels per well, or 1,600 barrels per day, 48,000 barrels per month, which would enable the Company to pay DIVIDENDS TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF FROM 3 TO 5 P. C. PER MONTH besides holding in reserve a large sum of money for further development.

Stock and Disposition of Funds

To complete their first well, the Company is placing on the market a block of 50,000 shares of Treasury Stock, fully paid and non-assessable, at 25c. per share; when this block is disposed of, the price will be materially advanced.

The money received from the sale of this stock will be expended in developing the property, and not in fancy salaries. There are no salaried officials.

Our Officers and Directors

EDWARD MEATH, the President, holds the very responsible position of Treasurer of Pierce County, Washington. Mr. Meath is identified with one of the largest commercial and financial institutions in that State, and is considered to be one of the most forceful, energetic and successful business men in the State of Washington.

HON. W. H. KERR, the Vice-President, is an ex-Superior Judge of Fresno County, California. Judge Kerr is one of the first settlers and pioneer operators in the Coalinga field. It is the concensus of opinion that he is to-day the best informed person re local conditions in the Coalinga Oil Field, as well as the ablest oil expert and operator in the California oil fields.

Judge Kerr will take charge of all development work on the Company's property, giving it his undivided personal attention, thereby assuring good judgment and conservatism in the management of the Company's field operations.

A. ROLAND, the Secretary, is one of the early operators in the Coalinga oil field, and is prominently identified with the oil industry throughout the State of California. He is a man of unquestionable integrity and superior judgment.

E. V. GRASSETT, one of Vancouver's most prominent contractors, a native son of Ontario, well known in social and commercial circles in Toronto. Mr. Grassett has proved himself to be thoroughly conversant with all matters of finance, and, from the manner in which he has succeeded in his own business, has been elected to the Board of Directors of this Company.

Mr. Grassett is a valuable acquisition to the Board of Directors; careful in his judgments, conservative in all his business undertakings, thoroughly experienced in the control of corporations. He will render a good account of himself, and will surely act in the best interests of the shareholders of this Company.

H. S FORD, M.D.C.M., one of our leading physicians, is a graduate of McGill University, Montreal, and is a well-known practitioner. He has established a most enviable reputation as a successful business man; far-seeing in all his investments, and, possessing natural shrewdness, he has proved himself to be a master of finance, and a very capable business manager.

So promising are the holdings of this Company, so good the prospects of the same, that eminent geologists and oil experts say that the Coalinga-Eureka Oil Company will bring into existence in the very near future oil wells which will produce enormous profits for the shareholders.

Now is your opportunity to acquire a holding in this corporation, when the shares are selling at ground floor prices.

Miss Juliet Points Winner of Federation Scholarship.

MISS JULIET POINTS.

"I truly am a most insignificant personage and up to the present moment have lived a most uneventful life," said Miss Juliet Points, who has recently won the $1,500 scholarship maintained by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and providing for two years of study in England, when asked to talk about her plans for the future.

"I expect to sail in June," she went on as she walked across the campus of Barnard college, New York city, to the subway, "but I haven't made any definite plans for my work. I shall probably spend my summer partly in England and partly on the continent. You see I want to visit some of the big foreign cities and investigate their economic and sociological conditions. I also study, of course, in some English university—the examinations admit me to any—and I shall do research work in the British museum. I mean to make a thorough study of the English industrial revolution as the starting point of all present sociological and economic development, and at the same time I intend to investigate present industrial conditions in England, concentrating on the status of women in industry in that country.

"I have already done work of this kind here in America. I find it intensely interesting, and I am eager to find out just how English and continental conditions compare with ours.

"I spent my last year, you know, doing research work for the United States immigration commission and had my share of interesting experiences. I should love to tell you some of them, but the report has just been sent in to congress, and until it is accepted I am not supposed to discuss the matter with any one."

The report in question is the industrial and congestion report prepared under the direction of Professor Jeremiah Jenks of Cornell university. Miss Points' share in the work took her to all the big cities and industrial centers of the United States and brought her into close touch with immigrants of many classes.

"People paint the immigrants pretty black," she commented, "but I like them myself. They are intensely interesting."

Miss Points is at present an instructor in the history department at Barnard college, where she will continue until her departure for the other side.

Smart Parasol Handles.

Ideas from the animal and feathered kingdom abound in smart parasol handles this spring. Some of the very latest novelties are shown in the illustration.

Pert Pie In Disguise.

Delectable pork pies are made by an old housekeeper, who says that the person most averse to pork will eat the pie without recognizing the presence of the pork. Line a deep pie dish with very thin shavings of salt pork and fill the dish with apples, peeled, quartered and cored. Over them put another layer of the thin pork shavings, sweeten, season with allspice and put on a top crust.

Easy to Close.

The public entrance doors of the great building of the Bank of England are so finely balanced that a clerk by pressing a knob under his desk can close them instantly.

Cents and Nickels.

Cents, being of small value, are carelessly handled and are lost in such great numbers that the United States treasury has to work hard to maintain the supply. The profit to the government on their manufacture is large, however, inasmuch as the blanks for them are purchased for $1 a thousand from a firm that produces them by contract. Blanks for nickels are obtained in the same way, costing Uncle Sam only a cent and a half apiece.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, revitalized, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not treat the Stomach, nor even the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the nerves of these ailments—the failing, starving inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again nourished and strengthened, that is the certain end of any such ailment.

To prove it is a great satisfaction. And therefore I claim a right to say to you, in asking such proof, "If my prescription fails to benefit you, it is my request that my remedy will fail to help you, the druggist advises it so."

Can I say anything fairer? Can I make any better offer on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

Take here a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" proposition.

Doctor, you are free to prescribe me just as you would your home physician. My name and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some doubt in your mind. I have literature upon these ailments by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best efforts is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest right to say that you and to whom you owe a comfortable night for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all doubt. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

A RISKY PROPOSAL.

Number of American Manufacturers Want U.S. to Help Canada.

A number of American manufacturers want the United States to help Canada build a canal from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario. In return they would ask the free use of the new waterway, their chief object being to secure a direct and cheap route to the sea for the produce of Minnesota and other Northwestern States. As an additional compensation to Canadians they would give us the free use of the deep canal under construction across New York State to New York City. The proposal is only the tentative suggestion of an official body, but even if it took the form of a definite offer from Washington, Canadians should not hastily close with it.

Having undertaken the task of erecting a seperate nation upon our own half of the continent, having overcome many initial difficulties, and having already attained a considerable measure of success, we should avoid any foreign entanglements that would endanger our splendid enterprise. We shall always do a growing trade with the country to the youth but we would be risking our nationhood if we depend upon the Republic as our chief market for all time, or if we took it into partnership in the construction of our internal waterways. The commercial, to say nothing of the military, danger of such a policy is too obvious to require elaboration.

The canals systems and the transcontinental railways built, building, and projected at an enormous expense bind the Eastern and Western provinces together by social and commercial ties, and thus are effective instruments of nationality. It is not proposed to give another country, however, friendly, a hand in their control. These avenues of transportation were and are designed to carry Canadian produce to the British market, which availed the Dominion in the dire distress brought upon it by the national policy of the United States. Great Britain continues to take the most of our products, and it is about to take more. Why should we help the farmers of Illinois, Minnesota and the Dakotas to compete with the agriculturists of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta? We can be friendly with the United States without sacrificing our own interests.

TO AVOID OFFENCE.

King George's Character—First Indications Favorable.

So little is known, even in England, of the opinions, sentiments, mental and moral traits of King George that every sign or move he move he makes is eagerly and closely interpreted. What is the impression he has so far produced?

His public utterances have been marked by excellent taste, deep filial sentiment and a sense of great responsibility. His order to limit the period of general mourning and reopen the theaters and amusement places showed breadth of mind, dislike of empty form and a desire to prevent business depression and artificial gloom. His frankness in objecting to the anti-Catholic references in the "declaration" he has to make to parliament shows independence and sympathy with the tolerant spirit of the age. Legislation revising the declaration to avoid offence to any of the king's loyal subjects has been advocated before, and with prospects on success, but now it is certain to be rushed through without much opposition.

What of politics? Is King George a tory, as some radicals fear, and will he stand with the reactionary peers? There is nothing definite before the world whereon to found an answer to this vital question, but it must be admitted that the tory organs have gained considerable confidence, while the liberal ones seem apprehensive and admit that a truce, with postponement of the whole issue of the lords vs. the commons, will be imposed by the logic of the situation. Still, stress and delay would not necessarily argue toryism in the king. It might point to a natural desire to obtain time for study of the problem and the exerting of personal influence in favor of mutual concessions by the combatants.

King Edward has been criticised by some liberals for not asserting himself sufficiently in connection with the budget-veto crisis. King George, according to indications, means to assert himself. Time will tell on which side and in favor of what policies.

NASAL CATARRH PRODUCES DEAFNESS RELIEF IN PE-RU-NA

Mr. R. J. Arless, 401 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Quebec, is an old gentleman of wide acquaintance, having served thirty-eight years in the General Post-office of Montreal, a record which speaks for itself. Concerning his use of Peruna, see letter given below.

MR. R. J. ARLESS.

"I have been afflicted with nasal catarrh to such a degree that it affected my hearing.

"This was contracted some twenty years ago by being exposed to draughts and sudden changes of temperature.

"I have been under the treatment of specialists and have used many drugs recommended as specifics for catarrh in the head and throat—all to no purpose.

"About three years ago I was induced by a confrere in office to try Peruna.

"After some hesitation, as I had doubts as to results after so many failures, I gave Peruna a trial, and am happy to state that after using eight or ten bottles of Peruna I am much improved in hearing, and in breathing through the nostrils."

The LIME JUICE CLUB

A Long Way After the Lime Kiln Club

It having been officially announced that the right Hon. Full House Johnsing of Hastings, was in the ante room, the Reception Committee composed of Bros. Giveadam Slabs, Jamfed Jones and Whalebone Weir put on their white gloves and yellow neckties and proceeded to bring in the honorable gentleman. In appearance he somewhat resembles the Hon. Edward Blake, having the same generous feet and arch of eyebrows. As near as could be judged he was six feet two high, had two hind pockets in his pants, never smoked a cigar costing less than five cents, and was a sort of man who would fish all day and never swear if he didn't get a bite. When he mounted the platform and bowed right and left he was greeted with cheer which broke four panes of glass and awoke Bro. Croft from his first nap.

HE BEGINS.

In a voice as full of music as a buzz saw cutting through a sidewalk spike, the Hon. Johnsing began.

"Philosophers and writers of all ages have told us that the height of human ambition was to be contented. Pick up a book or a newspaper and you are confronted by the announcement that someone who is not contented and might as well be dead. We are advised and talked to and written to and urged to be contented. and it is all nonsence and has ever been so. When you get a good partner and sit down for a game of bridge against two opponents who don't know a king from jack your back sort of humps up and you fondly imagine that you are contented and happy. But you ain't. You haven't played two hands until you remember that you are to take the Conservative end of a debate in the Y.M.C.A. before a large audience and three Grit judges; that you are nearly out of coal, and will have to wait till the coal man seperates the large lumps from the small by hand; that Bro. Billy Leek might not run the Olympic trip this year, and a dozen other things come to your mind to knock your happiness higher than Gilroy's kite. It's the same when you play poker and win ten dollars. You feel happy and contented for a minute, and you dance around on one leg and chuckle over your smartness. Then comes the relaxation. You remember that you owe for a year's subscription to The Times, Peterborough's brightest best and most widely read newspaper, and that you would sooner do without your food than without your paper.

"In the second place, what's the use of being happy? Happiness don't increase the price of whitewashing. You can't charge any more for blackening stoves. (Sensation.) You can't get any more for beating a carpet. (Groans of despair.) Being happy and contented don't help our credit at the grocer's or butcher's. (Sighs.) What they want is money and not happiness. Show me a happy man who has more to eat and wear than an unhappy one. (Distressing coughs all over the hall.) It has been said that happiness is better than riches. Don't let them fool you! (Sensation). The happy man is sent to jail quite as often as the unhappy one.

"In the third place, happiness and contentment is not healthy. It runs into liver complaint, consumption, and palpitation of the heart. We are placed here on earth to bet on losing horses; to marry the wrong woman; to catch on to carloads of tribulation. Don't go around looking for a happy man. If you find one he'll be somebody so soft that they have to put him on ice. Our greatest men are the most unhappy ones. (Hard looks at Bro. Slabs.) Show me a man who has lost four wives by fever, six children by the measles, six or seven houses by fire, and has himself been sent to jail on false testimony, and I will show you a noble Roman. (Cheers.)

Thanking you for your persiminious imprecations, and predicting that the time is not far distant when the honor of being a member of the Lime Juice Club will be all that one man can lug around in cold weather, I now deliberate towards the importunity of the infringement, and bid you good night."

A GREAT GAIN.

"Gentlemen," began the president, as Bro. Snowden finished breaking out a pain of glass with his "How "I was called on last night by Bro. Anvil McCann of Douro, who is erecting a synagogue of his own, and has asked the club to give him a subscription. I know that Anvil has the idea that what he don't know ain't of much account. After we had talked about the synagogue and other matters, he squared off to me and says: 'Bro. McBride you have been been running this Lime Juice Club a great many years. The proceedings have proceeded regularly, and heaps of business has been split to pieces, but what has been gained? What good has the club done? Who has been made gooder?'.

"I could have made Anvil a speech four hours long in reply. What has this club done? A few years ago, before the club existed, the people of this town were hauling and pulling this way and that way, cutting down on the prices of stove-blacking and whitewashing. Nobody seemed to know anything. Bro. Threeply Smith of Lakefield, did not know enough to peel onions, and now he is a leader of a string band and owns an auto. Bro. Jones did not know a king from a queen, and now he can keep a king up his sleeve without any trouble. Nutmeg Graham over there, was unable to tell you how much two and two is. Now he figures to beat the band, or anyone else. Is there a happier man in town than Nutmeg. I can show you 100 men who have learned to read. I can show you that this club has paid off debts, re-united families, clothed children, helped the suffering and put pride in the low-down hearts. Isn't that enough? Is there any member who could ask for more?

HE STRONGLY OBJECTED.

Bro. John Mervin now arose to a point of order. He said he had been deeply grieved and pained at the sight of a weekly spectacle to be seen in the Hall of Wisdom ever since the warm weather set in, and he could stand it no longer!

"Mister President—Please look up and down these aisles," he added as he waived his hand. There are at least 15 members with their boots off to scratch their chilblains! Is this respectable and polite to the club? Is it courtesy towards the Hall of Wisdom? I move that each one be reprimanded and fined.

SOME OPPOSITION.

"Gentlemen," began Tiedup Garley, as he arose with a boot in his hand. "I can manage to sit through a short sermon abd keep my boots on, but when it comes to putting in two long hours in the hall, I've either got to scratch that heel or take chloroform! I can stand a headache, a toothache, a shake of the ague or a hard chill, but when it comes to chilblains, I can't stand them off."

The president was observed drawing his heel across the boards and squinting up one eye as he replied—

"The chilblain question is a serious one. It tackles every heel in America. At some future time we will give it the consideration it deserves, and in the meantime members who have to scratch will please keep their feet down and be as quiet as possible."

The Harmony Club then sang several selections. The janitor locked up the water dipper and the match box and the meeting was carefully adjourned.

The Slim Woman is Winning.

The day of the slim woman's triumph has arrived. "The thinner one is the more stylish," say the dressmakers.

This would have been sad news for the fat woman a year ago. She would have had to try dieting or exercise. Nowadays, however, the woman who is too fat for the style goes to a druggist and gets a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, one of which she takes after each meal and at bedtime and so reduces her superfluous flesh quickly.

These tablets, being made in accordance with the famous prescription, are perfectly harmless, and they are, also, the most economical preparation a person can buy, for they cost only 75 cents a large case, one of which is frequently enough to start a person to losing fat at the rate of 12 or 14 ounces a day. Pretty nearly every druggist keeps this tablet in stock, but should yours be sold out you can easily obtain a case by sending to the makers, the Marmola Company, 1192 Farmer Building, Detroit, Mich.

VOL. XXXI NO. 117 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO MONDAY MAY 23 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

FINE WEATHER, LARGE CROWD

TWO INTERESTING GAMES OF BASEBALL

MARKED OPENING OF CITY LEAGUE

SOME CLASSY BALL SERVED UP TO THE FANS.

Were Well Satisfied With the Showing Made By the Players in the Opening Game—A Splendid Outlook and Some Great Games Promised This Season.

The T.A.S. Took the First Game From the West Ends by 4—2, and the P.A.C. Defeated the Strathconas in the Second Game by 7 to 5.

Fine weather, a large crowd, and two interesting games of baseball, marked the opening of the City Baseball League at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon. The first game went to the T.A.S. by a score of 4—2, and in the second contest the P.A.C. nine gained an almost unexpected victory from the Stratheonas by a 7—5 score.

The feature of the first battle was the steady pitching of Gus Rose for the West Ends. He had the shoots and control and by allowing his opponents but two hits, deserved to win. One of the mysterious happenings of baseball, however, cropped up in the fifth innings and the T.A.S. sent three men across the plate for tallies, and practically landed the game. The West Ends were left on the bags when a hit would have helped some, but it was in this department that Quinlan showed his effectiveness and retired the side. The West Enders looked dangerous in the eighth but could not do more than send one man home. Gibson scored the first run of the game in his first time at bat in the first.

Score by innings—

	R.	H.	E.
T.A.S.	000030100	4	2
West Ends	100000010	2	6

The inability of the Straths to land on Thompson, and Jimmy Pillingers' hits brought about their downfall. The Straths, too, erred in the pinches, and the P.A.C. took every advantage that presented itself. While the south end team had six misplays they were not as costly as were the seven of the red and white outfit. Two double plays, one of which was made by Shaw unassisted, and the long hit of Jimmy Pillings with the bases full featured the game.

Score by innings—

	R.	H.	E.
P.A.C.	10030300x	7	8
Straths	001310000	5	7

Bill Snaw umpired the first contest and Len Dobson the second and were satisfactory.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

The Literary Society of the Collegiate Institute will hold an open meeting on Thursday next at 8 p. m. The main feature will be the public speaking contest. This is the last meeting of the society this year.

FLAGS WILL FLY!

Every School In Ontario to Fly Bunting on the Last Day of May.

The Times was in receipt Saturday of a communication from Hon. Mr. Pyne, Ontario Minister of Education. In this letter Mr. Pyne suggested that the Canadian flag should fly from every school in Ontario on May 31st. This is to mark the inauguration of United South Africa, the new British Dominion in that part of the world. Mr. Pyne suggested that the proposed flying of flags would be a fitting tribute to the birthday of another state in the British Empire, and the consolidation of another link in England's greatness and means of defence. It is likely that Mr. Pyne's suggestion will be unanimously adopted through out the Province.

COMMITTEE IN CHARGE.

Those Who are Getting Up Benefit to Miss Hallihan.

As very general interest is being taken in the coming benefit concert for Miss Lavinia Hallihan on May 27th, we have been asked to publish the names of the honorary committee in charge. They are as follows:

His Honor Judge Huycke, Rev. W. J. McColl, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P.; T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.; D. O'Connell, H. R. H. Kenner, R. R. Hall, John Crane, F. R. Yokome, F. Dobbin, W. H. Robertson, E. G. Patterson, W. H. Denham, Alex. Elliott, and his Worship Mayor Morrow.

The executive committee is composed of Messrs. McFarlane Wilson, Gliddon, Devey, Rudkin, McIlroy, Duffus and Kerr, with Mr. W. McIlroy as treasurer.

Municipal Government by Commission

The question of municipal government under the present system of an elective body is one that is quite properly open for discussion.

We do not mean to find fault with the methods employed by legislative bodies as at present constituted. Their composition usually calls for conducting municipal business after their own is done, and the individual members are not usually men who can give up their time and thereby their livlihood, at will, no matter how interested or conscientious they may be in the welfare of the municipality.

That this is the general state of affairs mostly everywhere everyone admits. By the same process of reasoning it is quite easy to understand the same body of men usually deal with municipal business as contingency may arise. There is often exhibited a temerity in proposing new business, and often it happens that the time is not available.

The average council does do its duty as far as it goes, and with the time and experience at its disposal. But there the system seems to end. What most towns lack is a set policy. Councils lack initiative.

It is true that the big questions in municipal business come up the same as in any other business, but it is a rare case where a municipality knows just what is to be undertaken in the way of municipal improvements from one year to another. There is the absence of the directing force felt in any private business that has been marked by growth and success.

Through the Western States and several cities in Western Canada, the government of municipalities by commission has been given a trial and has made good. The commission idea puts the reins of power in the hands of one man, with an elective advisory board as a checkmate to any over-ambition that may arise. The idea is the same principle as that which moulds the destiny of every large private enterprise. It has been found ti give vastly greater results than secured under the old regime.

Municipalities have improved physically and financially. Petty politics have been obliterated, and towns and cities have built up vast permanent improvements that will not cost in the end, any more than the former system of patchwork. There has been established a certain aim towards a concrete whole, and ideas of conducting municipal business are not changing with the incoming of every new council.

It is a step in the right direction and does not usurp the privileges any ratepayer enjoys under the present system.

Bobcaygeon Preacher at St. John's.

Yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Barber of Bobcaygeon, occupied the pulpit in St. John's church, having exchanged churches for Trinity Sunday with Rev. Canon Davidson. The Bobcaygeon divine preached an eloquent sermon, taking as his text "I believe in God the Father Almighty." The close attention paid to his almost inspired words, was most noticeable. During the service the congregation, led by the choir, sang "God Save the King." These grand old patriotic verses swelled out so as to be heard several blocks away.

The Douro Farmers' Institute meeting was held on May 19th, in St. Patrick's hall, when an interesting debate on "Resolved, Canada Should Become an Independent Nation," took place. The affirmative side led by Mr. Frank Moher won out against the negatives captained by Mr. M. Welsh. Mr. D. Sullivan very acceptably filled the chair. A musical program will enhance the interest of next month's meeting, the date of which is not yet decided.

WESTERN CROPS IN FAIR SHAPE

REPORTED BETTER THAN WAS ANTICIPATED WEEKS AGO

Winnipeg, May 20.— The Manitoba Free Press issues its second crop report for the season of 1910. After a month of variable weather, and, although not all that could be wished, the report is better in some respects than anticipated.

There has been very little damage from drifting, and only a small percentage of reseeding, and while there has been very little growth, yet the crop has not been killed by frost. Moisture was late in coming, yet not so late that any permanent damage has been done, and the general opinion is that the crop is well rooted.

The rainfall within the past few days has been general, and the crops now have sufficient moisture to carry them to the beginning of June. What is needed is warm weather and plenty of it. Granted this, there is every hope that the crop of 1910 will be a record one.

The wheat acreage has not materially increased since the April report. The oat acreage will be little, if any greater than last year, possibly slighter less. There is considerable increase in the acreage shown of barley and apparently a large amount of flax will be sown on breaking.

SIR ERNEST SHACKLETON WILL AGAIN SEEK THE SOUTH POLE

Chicago, May 10.— Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Polar explorer, will fit out another expedition to the Antaretic in the summer of 1911. The exploring party will be equipped with two steamers, and will start at two points, twenty-five hundred miles apart.

The two sections of the party will work toward each other, tracing upon the map the largest stretch of sea coasts that exists in the unexplored portions of the globe.

These plans were made out by Lieutenant Shackleton yesterday. The explorer dropped into the city quietly to rejoin Lady Shackleton, who had been detained in the East by illness.

DUKE OF NORFOLK DIRECTED TRANSFER OF KING'S BODY.

London, May 20.—At Paddington the station was banked with flowers lilies, narcissus, Pilate lilies and hyacinthes predominating.

There the Earl Marshall, the Duke of Norfolk, directed the transfer of the body from the gun carriage to the train that bore it to Windsor. The last of the 62 minute guns fired in Hyde Park, boomed as the ceremony was completed.

ROBERTS AND KITCHENER.

The carpeted station was thronged with the officials who were at the van of the procession preceding the funeral caisson. The Three Gold Sticks and the White Staves, with a host of aides de camp, the field marshals, including Roberts and Kitchener and their staffs, the admiralty lords in blue and gold, turbanned officers, and other notabilities, were gathered on the carpeted floor.

The gun carriage reached Paddington at 11.37. Twenty minbtes later the train started for Windsor.

ON A DRAPED DAIS.

The casket was placed in the saloon car, on a dais draped. By it stood a guard of honor, the non-commissioned officer of the Household Cavalry, bearing the Royal Standard, and the trumpeter who accompanied the standard behind the coffin.

While the troops of the procession stood at the salute the body of Edward was borne from London by the Royal train, creeping along at four miles an hour.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or an emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers.

Powerful Telescope Showed the Moon Encircled by a Perfectly Rainbow Colored Haze Within an Outer White Circle.

One of the Most Extraordinary of Natural Phenomena Ever Witnessed—Many Citizens Were "Moon" Gazing on Saturday Night.

On Saturday night one of the most extraordinary of natural phenomena ever witnessed by human eye was distinctly visible in Peterborough. This wonderful sight was seen by many citizens.

At exactly 8.42 p.m., around the clearly defined almost full moon was a slight haze. Exactly at 8.43½ this white haze suddenly became illuminated with the exact colors of the rainbow. Starting from the circumference of the moon, in equal breadths were clearly seen, red, orange, yellow, blue, green, violet and indigo. At 8.44 outside the colored circle appeared an absolutely white and clearly defined circle. At 8.57 the white outside circle disappeared suddenly and, gradually, the colored disk faded away. The goddess of night, until 9.01 shone in all her splendor, surrounded by a vaguely outlined white haze. At 9.02, again the colored disk appeared, enclosed in the outside white ring but not quite as intensively as before.

As these surrounding circles again faded away, just to the lower west side of the moon appeared a distinctly marked white cloud, or,, which, within, say 35 seconds, spread below the moon to the east. As quickly as thought, this sub-lunar corona disappeared

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach the children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

VOL. XXXI NO. 117 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO MONDAY MAY 23 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

FINE WEATHER, LARGE CROWD

TWO INTERESTING GAMES OF BASEBALL

MARKED OPENING OF CITY LEAGUE

SOME CLASSY BALL SERVED UP TO THE FANS.

Were Well Satisfied With the Showing Made By the Players in the Opening Game—A Splendid Outlook and Some Great Games Promised This Season.

The T.A.S. Took the First Game From the West Ends by 4—2, and the P.A.C. Defeated the Strathconas in the Second Game by 7 to 5.

Fine weather, a large crowd, and two interesting games of baseball, marked the opening of the City Baseball League at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon. The first game went to the T.A.S. by a score of 4—2, and in the second contest the P.A.C. nine gained an almost unexpected victory from the Strathconas by a 7—5 score.

The feature of the first battle was the steady pitching of Gus Rose for the West Ends. He had the shoots and control and by allowing his opponents but two hits, deserved to win. One of the mysterious happenings of baseball, however, cropped up in the fifth innings and the T.A.S. sent three men across the plate for tallies,and practically landed the game. The West Ends were left on the bags when a hit would have helped some, but it was in this department that Quinlan showed his effectiveness and retired the side. The West Enders looked dangerous in the eighth but could not do more than send one man home. Gibson scored the first run of the game in his first time at bat in the first.

Score by innings—

	R.	H.	E.
T.A.S.	000030100	4	2 2
West Ends	100000010	2	6 8

The inability of the Straths to land on Thompson, and Jimmy Pilgrims' hits brought about their downfall. The Straths, too, erred in the pinches, and the P.A.C. took every advantage that presented itself. While the south end team had six misplays they were not as costly as were the seven of the red and white outfit. Two double plays, one of which was made by Shaw unassisted, and the long hit of Jimmy Pillings with the bases full featured the game.

Score by innings—

	R.	H.	E.
P.A.C.	10030300x	7	8 6
Straths	0010100000	5	5 7

Bill Snaw umpired the first contest and Len Dobson the second and were satisfactory.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

The Literary Society of the Collegiate Institute will hold an open meeting on Thursday next at 8 p. m. The main feature will be the public speaking contest. This is the last meeting of the society this year.

FLAGS WILL FLY!

Every School In Ontario to Fly Bunting on the Last Day of May.

The Times was in receipt Saturday of a communication from Hon. Mr. Pyne, Ontario Minister of Education. In this letter Mr. Pyne suggested that the Canadian flag should fly from every school in Ontario on May 31st. This is to mark the inauguration of United South Africa, the new British Dominion in that part of the world. Mr. Pyne suggested that the proposed flying of flags would be a fitting tribute to the birthday of another state in the British Empire, and the consolidation of another link in England's greatness and means of defence. It is likely that Mr. Pyne's suggestion will be unanimously adopted throughout the Province.

The executive committee is composed of Messrs. McFarlane Wilson, Gliddon, Dewey, Rudkins, Mellroy, Duffus and Kerr, with Mr. W. Mellroy as treasurer.

Municipal Government by Commission

The question of municipal government under the present system of an elective body is one that is quite properly open for discussion.

We do not mean to find fault with the methods employed by legislative bodies as at present constituted. Their composition usually calls for conducting municipal business after their own is done, and the individual members are not usually men who can give up their time and thereby their livlihood, at will, no matter how interested or conscientious they may be in the welfare of the municipality.

That this is the general state of affairs mostly everywhere everyone admits. By the same process of reasoning it is quite easy to understand the same body of men usually deal with municipal business as contingency may arise. There is often exhibited a temerity in proposing new business, and often it happens that the time is not available.

The average council does do its duty as far as it goes, and with the time and experience at its disposal. But there the system seems to end. What most towns lack is a set policy. Councils lack initiative.

It is true that the big questions in municipal business come up the same as in any other business, but it is a rare case where a municipality knows just what is to be undertaken in the way of municipal improvements from one year to another. There is the absence of the directing force felt in any private business that has been marked by growth and success.

Through the Western States and several cities in Western Canada, the government of municipalities by commission has been given a trial and has made good. The commission idea puts the reins of power in the hands of one man, with an elective advisory board as a checkmate to any over-ambition that may arise. The idea is the same principle as that which moulds the destiny of every large private enterprise. It has been found ti give vastly greater results than secured under the old regime.

Municipalities have improved physically and financially. Petty politics have been obliterated, and towns and cities have built up vast permanent improvements that will not cost in the end, any more than the former system of patchwork. There has been established a certain aim towards a concrete whole, and ideas of conducting municipal business are not changing with the incoming of every new council.

It is a step in the right direction and does not usurp the privileges any ratepayer enjoys under the present system.

Bobcaygeon Preacher at St. John's.

Yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Barber of Bobcaygeon, occupied the pulpit in St. John's church, having exchanged churches for Trinity Sunday with Rev. Canon Davidson. The Bobcaygeon divine preached an eloquent sermon, taking as his text "I believe in God the Father Almighty." The close attention paid to his almost inspired words, was most noticeable. During the service the congregation, led by the choir, sang "God Save the King." These grand old patriotic verses swelled out so as to be heard several blocks away.

The Douro Farmers' Institute meeting was held on May 19th, in St. Patrick's hall, when an interesting debate on "Resolved, Canada Should Become an Independent Nation," took place. The affirmative side led by Mr. Frank Moher won out against the negatives captained by Mr. M. Welsh. Mr. D. Sullivan very acceptably filled the chair. A musical program will enhance the interest of next month's meeting, the date of which is not yet decided.

WESTERN CROPS IN FAIR SHAPE

REPORTED BETTER THAN WAS ANTICIPATED WEEKS AGO

Winnipeg, May 20.— The Manitoba Free Press issues its second crop report for the season of 1910. After a month of variable weather, and, although not all that could be wished, the report is better in some respects than anticipated.

There has been very little damage from drifting, and only a small percentage of reseeding, and while there has been very little growth, yet the crop has not been killed by frost. Moisture was late in coming, yet not so late that any permanent damage has been done, and the general opinion is that the crop is well rooted.

The rainfall within the past few days has been general, and the crops now have sufficient moisture to carry them to the beginning of June. What is needed is warm weather and plenty of it. Granted this, there is every hope that the crop of 1910 will be a record one.

The wheat acreage has not materially increased since the April report. The oat acreage will be little, if any greater than last year, possibly slighter less. There is considerable increase in the acreage shown of barley and apparently a large amount of flax will be sown on breaking.

SIR ERNEST SHACKLETON WILL AGAIN SEEK THE SOUTH POLE

Chicago, May—10.— Sir Ernest Shackleton, the Polar explorer, will fit out another expedition to the Antaretic in the summer of 1911. The exploring party will be equipped with two steamers, and will start at two points, twenty-five hundred miles apart.

The two sections of the party will work toward each other, tracing upon the map the largest stretch of sea coasts that exists in the unexplored portions of the globe.

These plans were made out by Lieutenant Shackleton yesterday. The explorer dropped into the city quietly to rejoin Lady Shackleton, who had been detained in the East by illness.

DUKE OF NORFOLK DIRECTED TRANSFER OF KING'S BODY.

London, May 20.—At Paddington the station was banked with flowers lilies, narcissus, Pilate lilies and hyacinths predominating.

There the Earl Marshall, the Duke of Norfolk, directed the transfer of the body from the gun carriage to the train that bore it to Windsor. The last of the 68 minute guns fired in Hyde Park, boomed as the ceremony was completed.

ROBERTS AND KITCHENER.

The carpeted station was thronged with the officials who were at the van of the procession preceding the funeral caisson. The Three Gold Sticks and the White Staves, with a host of aides de camp, the field marshals, including Roberts and Kitchener and their staffs, the admiralty lords in blue and gold, Indian turbanned officers, and other dignataries, were gathered on the richly carpeted floor.

The gun carriage reached Paddington at 11.37. Twenty minbtes later the train started for Windsor.

ON A DRAPED DAIS.

The casket was placed in the saloon car, on a dais draped. By it stood a guard of honor, the non-commissioned officer of the Household Cavalry, bearing the Royal Standard, and the trumpeter who accompanied the standard behind the coffin.

While the troops of the procession stood at the salute the body of Edward was borne from London by the Royal train, creeping along at four miles an hour.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of an accident or an emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. Dutton Sells His Home.

Mr. R. A. Dutton on Saturday sold his elegant home at 167 London street, to the local commercial traveller, Mr. McGill. It is understood that the price paid was a large one, but the purchaser has secured a most admirable home. Mr. Dutton intends removing to Toronto before the first of next month to take up his new business in the West end of that city. The genial "Bob" will be missed here by a large circle of friends.

6,000 Jews Expelled from Russian Cities

Berlin, May 21.— The German Jews' Benevolent Association issued a statement today based on what it says is "information of unquestioned reliability" that the expulsion of Jews living without the pale in Kieff, Moscow, and other large Russian cities is still being ruthless conducted on a large scale despite "official denials."

Already 6,000 Jews have been driven from Kieff, the association says, and probably a like number from Moscow. The total expulsions are estimated at forty thousand. In hundreds of cases the authorities have not molested the adult residents but have expelled their children and have even taken babies from their mothers.

This leaves the parents the choice of abandoning their children, and naturally they follow their children into exile.

Today's information is considered so authentic that the Vossiche Zeitung publishes a passionate appeal against the cruelties of the Russian authorities.

All denials of the expulsions it is now learned, comes from the Russian authorities, and are no longer given any weight.

GREAT LUNAR PHENOMENON SEEN HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

WAS VISIBLE TO THE NAKED EYE SHORTLY AFTER EIGHT O'CLOCK.

One of the Most Extraordinary of Natural Phenomena Ever Witnessed—Many Citizens Were "Moon' Gazing on Saturday Night.

On Saturday night one of the most extraordinary of natural phenomena ever witnessed by human eye was distinctly visible in Peterborough. This wonderful sight was seen by many citizens.

At exactly 8.42 p.m., around the clearly defined almost full moon was a slight haze. Exactly at 8.434 this white haze suddenly became illuminated with the exact colors of the rainbow. Starting from the circumference of the moon, in equal breadths were clearly seen, red, orange, yellow, blue, green, violet and indigo. At 8.44 outside the colored circle appeared an absolutely white and clearly defined circle. At 8.57 the white outside circle disappeared suddenly and, gradually, the colored disk faded away. The goddess of night, until 9.01 shone in all her splendor, surrounded by a vaguely outlined white haze. At 9.02, again the colored disk appeared, enclosed in the outside white ring but not quite as intensively as before.

As these surrounding circles again faded away, just to the lower west side of the moon appeared a distinctly marked white cloud, or,, which within, say 30 seconds, spread below the moon to the east. As quickly as thought, this sub-lunar corona disappeared

"WAS FARING AWAY."

A Young Woman—Scarcely Thirty—Seemed to Be Dying on Her Feet. Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured.

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach the children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, weakened in the night and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was read ingof a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

FAMOUS COLUMBIA RIVER ON TERRIFIC RAMPAGE.

No Danger to Near-by Residents, However, as Titanic Banks of World-Famed "Stream" Afford Splendid Protection.

Omaha, Nebr., May 15th.—Displaying itself with all its scenic glories multiplied a hundred-fold, the world-famous Columbia River, which winds down, through, in and out and around tge Rocky, Selkirk, and Bitter Root Mountain chains and empties into the Pacific, is to-day on a howling, yet harmful rampage.

The rushing, whirling, terrific seemingly ferocious waters of the Columbia are described by travellers just returning to this city from the far northwest, as to-day the finest scenic feature of the entire "gallery of America's prize scenery," as the wonderlands of that part of the northwest are known. Yet the rampage of the Columbia only enhances the beauties of the scenic attractions, for the river's rivings are harmless, the Titanic rock banks all along its course giving absolute protection to residents, settlers, farmers and fishermen. Thus the Columbia River's course is made the greatest of western attractions for travelers this summer, as, according to predictions, the rampages of the Columbia invariably continue for great lengths of time.

With the receipt of the news from the northwest, the issuance of the book "The Columbia River," by E. L. Lomax, G. P. A., Union Pacific R. R., is especially timely, as it gives the entire history of the notable river from the day of its discovery to the present year, along with fascinating photographs. Copies of the handsome little book will be sent free upon application to E. L. Lomax, G. P. A., Union Pacific Railroad, Omaha, Neb.

ALL THE FORCE OUT.

Five Men Suspected of Murder Arrested at the G.T.R. Station.

The whole Peterbro' police force was at the G.T.R. depot at noon on Saturday awaiting the arrival of the train from Lindsay. Acting Chief Adams had received a message from a Provincial detective to look out for and apprehend five men, suspected of being implicated in the death of an unknown man found lying by the railway tracks at Atherly Junction The men wanted arrived in due course and were at once put under arrest. They were a hard looking bunch, and wore the clothes of river drivers. One of them had a belt to which was attached a holster containing a revolver.

Rev. J. G. Potter Against Change.

Yesterday Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's church, preached an eloquent sermon during which he used strong arguments against the proposed change of the British Oath of Supremacy. The reverend gentleman handled his subject in a tactful and convincing way, speaking against the change and demonstrating the danger that might be lurking beneath the surface.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION.

Melbourne, May 21.—The age says the question is raised whether the Imperial Act dealing with the accession of the sovereign is applicable to Australia—whether the necessity may not arise, inasmuch as the new Federal Parliament has neither met nor been constituted, of reconvening the last Federal Parliament and holding, also, fresh elections. The governor-general, says the journal, has referred the question to the attorney-general.

Mr. Roy Wilson of the Royal Bank Cornwall, Ont., formerly of the Bell Telephone Co., Peterborough, is in the city.

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher, who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

LAWS, WRITTEN AND UNWRITTEN

In the United States of recent years, it has become the practice to plead "the unwritten law" in justification of those who took the written laws into their own hands and punished by death or otherwise, the assailants of women. These pleas, of course, have not been the ostensible defence put forward in the courts of law, but they have been the real defence, and juries have taken cognizance of them. The "Unwritten law" was the unwritten plea in the first Thaw trial and it has been the unwritten plea in many that have followed it.

It would be an unfortunate thing for the country if the impression were to get abroad that there is a certain class of cases in which any relative of the victim is at liberty to take upon himself the punishment of the guilty party. The law was created and exists for the protection of society. When that protection is left to individuals, order gives place to chaos, family feuds and vendettas arise, and scores of innocent parties are drawn into the maelstrom of passions which results from the exercise by individuals of the power which belongs to the people as a whole, and which find concrete form in the deliberate machinery of the law.

Since the "unwritten law," as at present understood, embodies principles which are the menace rather than the safeguard of society, it is somewhat of a surprise to find a Canadian editor urging an amplification of it, so as to include, among those who are to be shot downwith impunity, the man who assails the character of women by selling them grossly immoral books and pictures. "I would shoot him down in his boots," Dr. J. A. Macdonald told the Press Association the other day, speaking from the viewpoint of any father whose daughter might be given such a book. "Hell is too good for him," he added. One cannot but think that Dr. Macdonald said rather more than he meant. If the punishment of malefactors, whether great or small, were to be left to relatives of the wronged parties, national morals would soon reach a low ebb. The law is fallible. The guilty sometimes escape. But, with all its mistakes, the written law is much to be preferred to the unwritten, and the truest freedom is that which is coincident with the strictest recognition of the principle that to punish is the function of the State and not of the individual.

The day will come when royal kissing bees will be out of fashion. Even when monarchs meet on such historic occasions as the burial of a king, there is no reason why the manly and sanitary handshake should not be sufficient greeting.

The comet has been a great educator to those New Yorkers whose contemplation of the sky was bounded by the street-wide streak of blue or gray between skyscraper walls, until they climbed to hotel roofs to see the comet and discovered the vastness of the firmament.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The First Gold Rush.

The voyage of the argonauts, the date of which is uncertain, was professedly a rush for gold, to be collected in fleeces placed in the torrents flowing down the flanks of Mount Caucasus. But older much was the westward movement, which Chaldean records of 2800 B. C. chronicle, to the gold bearing land of Melukkha, afterward known as Midian.

Later on, but still at a very early period, there was a rush from Egypt to a spot inland from the present Suakin. Long afterward this was described by Diodorus Siculus, who left a map, still extant, showing the wells provided for the gold seekers between the Red sea and the mines.

About 1000 B. C. there seems to have been another rush of miners in search of gold into South Africa. Its numbers can only be guessed at from the extensive remains that still exist, but it has been calculated that at least $350,000,000 was secured by these early adventurers.

In modern times the first rush was that to California in 1848-9.

Sea Birds.

Taking the sea birds all round, they are far more careless in their nesting than their cousins inland. The terns, the skua, the puffins, the black throated diver, the guillemot, make no nests, properly so called. The puffin, however, usually burrows a rabbit burrow and is not particular whether its original owners have done with their home or not. If they interfere or even try to pass a peck from the puffin's great parrot shaped bill is enough to warn them against making the experiment a second time. The auks are birds of the northern seas and are perhaps the finest divers of any feathered things. Their short wings look, in fact, far more like fins than wings, and, unlike gulls, the auks catch their prey beneath the surface. The auk's selection of a spot to lay her eggs is eccentric to a degree. She chooses a bare, broken ledge of hard rock overhanging the waves. It looks as though it were a feat to balance eggs in such a place, and the marvel is that the first gale does not send them rolling over the crags.—Boston Herald.

Pepsin and Its Uses.

Pepsin is an active ferment present in the gastric juices which has the property of converting the proteid elements of the food into peptones. Pepsin is known to be one of the albuminoids or nitrogenous organic substances, but has never been satisfactorily isolated, and its presence is known only by its effects. Pepsin requires for its action the presence of an acid and moderate warmth. As used in medicine it occurs in a fine yellowish white amorphous powder or in translucent grains or scales. It is extracted from the glandular layer of the stomachs of freshly killed pigs and should be capable of digesting not less than 3,000 times its own weight of albumen. It has, however, been isolated in such a pure form as to be able to digest 25,000 times its own weight of egg albumen. The use to which it is put is to aid the gastric digestion in very old or feeble persons where the gastric juice is deficient.—New York American.

ODDLY IDENTIFIED.

Scheme Used by Doorman at Theatre In Place of "Pass-Out" Checks.

When some years ago one of the doorkeepers at a London theatre retired from his draughty calling and was pensioned off by the management it appeared that this old man in all the years of his service had never given a "pass-out" check to any one of the thousands of men who must have passed his doorway.

But he never made a mistake, says The London Mirror. No one entitled to return was ever refused and no one could pass in at the end of the interval who had not passed out at the beginning of it.

The secret of the old man's success was a curious one. He depended on his memory in a very curious way. He did not remember the men by their faces, their clothes, their hats, their boots, or by any peculiarity of gait or appearance. Manifestly such a feat would have been impossible, for ordinary "pitties" are very much alike in these details.

He took the one detail on which men do differ and remembered them by that—he recognized them by their neckties.

Gaze around you in the railway carriage as you are reading this article and ask yourself if there is any one of your fellow passengers that you could remember well enough to recognize again in, say, an hour's time.

You will find there are very few people you could be sure of. There may be one old man with a large and conspicuous beard or a very young man with a pair of spectacles of unusual size, but nine out of ten have the same sort of hat, the same sort of clothes and the same sort of figure.

Legatees in Luck.

Rich titled people sometimes have extraordinary strokes of luck. Recently, Lord Fingall found that a Mr. Joseph F. Lynch, whom he had never seen, had bequeathed him $50,000, without giving a reason for his amusing action.

Ninety-six years ago, a Mr. George Wright, who had lived a long time in very quiet style at Pimlico, died, leaving all his landed estates to Lady Allesbury, $80,000 to Lady Rosslyn, $30,000 to the Speaker, and $5,000 to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Wright was not personally acquainted with any of the legatees, but he cherished a hopeless passion for Lady Rosslyn, whom he had seen at the opera.

North and South America.

The area of South America is slightly greater than that of North America.

Stories Are Now Coming In of the Excitement Caused Throughout the World—Quebec Legislator Started For Home to Die There—Indians In the West Were Very Anxious—Expected Tidal Wave.

Toronto, May 19.—Well, old mother earth has gone through the comet's filmy appendage, and everybody's safe for another 75 years.

And what really did happen? So far as Toronto is concerned, an unusually bright aurora appeared in the northern sky.

"At about 10.40 p.m.," said Prof. Blake, astronomer for the Dominion Meteorological Department, "the aurora was most brilliant, and contained all the colors of the rainbow. There were many streamers to it, and it had the appearance of curtains and scrollwork. For nearly an hour it was quite pronounced with streamers.

"There is no doubt the peculiar greenish tinge and the glow was caused by the earth passing through the comet's tail. There were meteor flashes also to be seen last night."

People down town were not able to see the aurora owing to the electric lights and the high buildings.

Not until an hour after sunset on Saturday evening will the comet be seen at its best. Then the evening sky will be a thing of wondrous beauty, for the comet, with its brilliant tail, should be seen clearly, and the glow and reflection from its passage through the heavens will serve to light the whole sky.

Wanted to Die at Home.

Quebec, May 19.—Halley's Comet did no damage here last night, although there was apprehension among a few. The presence of so many brilliant political stars no doubt discouraged the heavenly visitor.

Hon. M. F. Cormier of Plessisville, a member of the Legislative Council, refused to remain in the Chateau Frontenac and left on an early train for home, with the statement that if he was to die he wanted to die at home.

A group of people assembled on the Dufferin Terrace between 4 and 5 o'clock Tuesday morning and watched for the comet between prayers uttered for protection. A Bible reading was also held in the neighborhood at the same hour.

Indians Alarmed.

Winnipeg, May 19.—There is intense interest through western Canada concerning the comet. The only sections of the country which has displayed any alarm are the several reservations. For weeks the Indians have been discussing the subject, and displaying a great deal of fear. This has been allayed by their religious advisers.

Paraded With Candles.

San Juan, Porto Rico, May 19.—Fearing disastrous consequences from the comet, hundreds of Porto Ricans Tuesday night paraded the San Juan and other towns in Porto Rico, carrying candles and chanting prayers. Many of them also spent considerable time in the confessionals.

A large number of workmen failed to report yesterday at the tobacco factories and plantations and the pine-apple shipments have been curtailed because the laborers have refused to work.

Took Down the Rods.

Nenah, Wis., May 19.—Fearful that the rods might attract dangerous substances that might accompany the comet yesterday, many farmers in this vicinity removed the lightning rods from their homes and barns.

Feared a Tidal Wave.

Duluth, Minn., May 19.—A temporary, general exodus took place yesterday from the Minnesota Point, a long and narrow strip of land containing the homes of several thousand people located between the finger of Lake Superior and St. Louis Bay, reaching between Duluth and Superior, Wis.

The more timid declared that the point, situated at the apex of Lake Superior, and not more than a dozen feet above lake level, would easily be submerged should the comet, forming a vacuum on its flight, drag a tidal wave up the lake and sweep on into St. Louis bay. Therefore the timid ones came uptown yesterday and awaited developments.

Refused to Work.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 19.—A large number of miners employed by the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., near Avoca, refused to go to work yesterday, fearing that Halley's comet might strike the earth.

Caught It in Bottles.

New York, May 19.—Thousands swarmed and clustered on the high places last night to peer into the west for the incandescent tail of the receding comet. Some prayed and all watched. Nobody carried salt, but a few carried bottles into which to seal up the atmosphere for future analysis.

Spots on the Sun.

San Jose, Cal., May 19.—Prof. J. S. Rickard of Santa Clara College Meteorological Observatory informed the Associated Press that yesterday he observed two very large spots on the sun, both intensely black.

Portland, Ore., May 19.—Observers who examined the sun through powerful telescopes yesterday, report two spots on the sun.

This Man Saw Thirty.

St. Louis, May 19.—Solar eruptions were observed yesterday afternoon by Father Martin S. Brennon, professor of astronomy at the Kendrick Seminary. He saw thirty distinct spots on the sun. One of them he estimated at 150,000 miles in diameter.

Recent Inventions.

A recently invented rescue stretcher for mines has oxygen tanks at one end opening into a bag into which a man's head and shoulders may be placed.

On the principle of the slide trombone is a gas fixture invented by an Indiana man, so constructed that the burner may be slid to any point along the wall of a room where the light is most needed.

A New Jersey farmer has patented a cover for milking pails that admits the milk through a strainer covered with a cloth which may be removed for cleansing and which keeps impure air from entering the pail.

Don't Risk even a penny—your health requires it. And I mean just what I say. I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you health."

For 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere.

Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and untested medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the most successful way used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. When the blood is thin and weak, or the Heart nerves fail, it now how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever.

They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

But write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. And almost all are most glad to give the test at my expense. Simply write me, and the druggist in almost every community, everywhere, is authorized to hand you the bottle, on my "no risk, no pay" guarantee to the sick.

Tell me also which book you need.

The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book are free.

Below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescriptions and personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

BIG DEAL IN OIL LANDS.

English Syndicate Have Purchased Valuable Property.

Vancouver, May 20.—The Consolidated Oil Fields of California, Limited, an English Syndicate, with offices at Albion House, 61 Oxford St., London, has purchased the entire holdings of the Ramona and Bonita Oil Companies, California, and intend developing the entire holdings of these Companies on a large scale, and to commence drilling at once.

It is learned on consulting commercial authorities that the new Company is the off-spring of one of England's foremost corporations, to wit: The International Lands & Industry Company, Ltd., of London, England, which is heavily capitalized.

The news was made public in the San Francisco papers several days ago that British capital is investing heavily in the California Oil Fields, and the fact that over $20,000,000 of English coin was invested there.

The absorption of the greater portion of the dividend-paying petroleum plants of this state, by financially strong managers; and the prospect that the system of marketing and producing will be carried on along conservative lines, will lend stability to the oil business, and will, to a great extent, place it among industrial rather than speculative enterprises.

The Californians who have become enriched by this accession of foreign capital, will invest their profits in new petroleum fields to develop thoroughly the vast area of the oil deposits along the coast ranges.

DISTANCES ON KAWARTHA LAKES.

Cut This Out and Keep It for Future Use.

Below is a useful list of distances on the Kawartha Lakes. Every motor boat enthusiast should cut it out and keep it for future use. The mileages are all authentic, having been accurately measured in the centre of the channel between the points named.

Wellington-st. bridge, Lindsay, to Upper Dock, Sturgeon Point, 9 miles.

Long cut, lighthouse to lighthouse, 6-10 miles.

Upper dock, Sturgeon Point, to the Government dock, Pleasant Point, 1 mile.

Bobcaygeon to Fenelon Falls, 14½ miles.

Fenelon Falls to Rosedale bridge, 4½ miles.

Bobcaygeon to Chemong, 18½ miles.

Bobcaygeon to Buckhorn, 16½ miles.

Buckhorn to Chemong, 13½ miles.

Buckhorn to Burleigh, 7 miles.

Burleigh to Crowe's Landing (direct) 8½ miles. (via store 9 miles.)

Crowe's Landing to Young's Point, 12 miles.

Head of Stoney Lake to Young's Point, 12 miles:

Boschimk to Young's Point 9 miles.

Burleigh to Juniper Island, 3½ miles.

Young's Point to Juniper Island, 6 miles.

Young's Point to east end Clear Lake, 4 miles.

Young's Point to Lakefield, 5 miles.

Lakefield to Peterboro, 10 miles.

Peterboro to Rice Lake 21 miles.

Hastings to Trent Bridge, 8 miles.

Trent Bridge to Healey's Falls, 6½ miles.

Lists like the above are useful in planning trips with points to stop for meals or camp at night. One can also calculate the probable time of the trip, and for those who are a little timid about starting out on exploits of such a kind, it will show that although the country may look wild and desolate they are not in reality very far from points in civilization.

NASAL CATARRH PRODUCES DEAFNESS RELIEF IN PE-RU-NA.

Mr. R. J. Arless, 401 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Quebec, is an old gentleman of wide acquaintance, having served thirty-eight years in the General Post-office of Montreal, a record which speaks for itself. Concerning his use of Peruna, see letter given below.

MR. R. J. ARLESS.

"I have been afflicted with nasal catarrh to such a degree that it affected my hearing.

"This was contracted some twenty years ago by being exposed to draughts and sudden changes of temperature.

"I have been under the treatment of specialists and have used many drugs recommended as specifics for catarrh in the head and throat—all to no purpose.

"About three years ago I was induced by a confrere in office to try Peruna.

"After some hesitation, as I had doubts as to results after so many failures, I gave Peruna a trial, and am happy to state that after using eight or ten bottles of Peruna I am much improved in hearing, and in breathing through the nostrils."

AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Tonight a meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough will be held in the lecture room of St. Andrew's church to consider the calls to two ministers who have been asked to other pulpits.

Rev. E. A. Pearson at St. Paul's

The Rev. E. A. Pearson, B.A., of George street Methodist church, exchanged pulpits with Rev. Robert Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's church yesterday. Mr. Pearson will soon be leaving his work in Peterborough to enter his new field of labor in Hamilton. The people of St. Paul's had been anxious to hear him before he leaves so that there was a large and appreciative audience present to greet him.

Orangemen and S. O. E. Attend Church.

Last night the local Orangemen together with the Sons of England, formed in procession and marched to St. James' Methodist church. There was a large turn out and one that did credit to both of these patriotic bodies. The service was heartily entered into, the visitors filling the pews reserdved for them. A patriotic sermon, eloquently delivered, and suitably chosen in text was listened to keenly.

Mr. Gibbs' Handsome New Lamp.

Mr. R. Gibbs has had a massive and handsome illuminated sign placed in front of his Water street barn. The design is simple though ornamental. An iron triangular frame suspended by a chain holds a large rotund electric globe with the name R. Gibbs. The passer-by or customer on seeing the lamp will at once recognize that he is at Mr. Robert Gibbs' barn.

was trembling violently. "Jessica?" he said in a painfully articulated whisper. "You? Where am I?"

"This is my room," she breathed. "You have been walking in your sleep. Make no sound. We shall be heard."

A low exclamation broke from his lips. He looked bewilderedly about him, his eyes returning to her face with a horrified realization. "I—came here—to your room?" The voice was scarcely audible.

"It was I who brought you here. You were in the hall. You would have been found. The house is roused."

He turned abruptly to the door, but she caught his arm. "What are you going to do? You will be seen!"

"So much the better. It will be at proper measure—as a prowler, a housebreaker, a disturber of honest people."

"No, no!" she protested in a panic. "You shall not. I will not have you ruin for what you are, not. I know that they would not know. No one must see you leave this room. Do you think of me?"

He caught his breath hard. "Think of you?" he repeated huskily. "Is there even an hour when I do not think of you? Is there a day when I would not die to serve you? Yet in my very sleep!"—

He paused, gazing at her where she stood in the half light, a misty, uncertain figure. She was curiously happy in the delicious and pangless sense of guilt, however—the guilt of the hidden and blameworthy thing—that was nestling through her was for him a shrinking and acute self reproach.

She was silent. "Forgive me," he said, "if you can. I—I can never forgive myself. How can I best go?"

For answer she moved to the window, slender and wraithlike. He followed silently. As she parted the curtain a second of bright lightning revealed the landscape, the dark hedges and clustered trees. It blackened, and she drew him back, with a hushed word, pointing where a lantern was flashing through the shrubbery.

"It is a watchman," she said. "He will be gone presently."

"God help me!" he whispered, the pent passion of his dreams rushing to utterance. "Why did I ever see you here? I was reckless and careless then. I had damned the decent side of me that now is quivering alive. I have tried to blot your face from my memory, but it is useless. I shall always love it."

On the lawn just outside the window voices were heard through the increasing rain. They passed, and after a moment he softly unlatched the window.

"Goodby," he said.

She stretched out her hand. He grasped it, then drew the window wide. As he stepped noiselessly down on to the springy turf the lightning flashed again, a pale green glow that revealed almost before her face. She drew back, and the same instant through the thunder, the electric bell on the wall rang sharply. She threw on her dressing gown, thrust her feet into slippers and hastened from the room.

The same flash that had startled Jessica lighted brightly the physician and the watchman, who stood at the corner of the building, having finished their tour of inspection. It was the latter who had found the open door and who had groused the doctor, insisting that he had seen a man in the hall. The other had poohpoohed this, but now by the lightning both saw the figure emerge from the French window and disappear in the darkness.

They run back, the physician ahead. The window was not locked, and they stepped through it into an empty room.

"To be sure!" said the doctor disgustedly. "He was here all the time, heard us searching the halls and took the first unlocked door he found. Miss Jessie, no doubt, is sitting up with Mr. Stires. Not a word of this," he added as they walked along the hall.

He barred the outer door behind the watchman and went on. As he reached David Stires' room the door opened, and Jessica came out. She spoke to him in a low, anxious voice. "I was coming for you," she said. "I am afraid he is not so well. I cannot rouse him. Will you come in and see what you can do?"

The doctor entered, and a glance at his patient alarmed him. Until dawn he sat with Jessica watching. When the early sunlight was flooding the room, however, David Stires opened his eyes and looked upon her quite naturally.

"Where is Harry Sanderson?" he asked. "I thought he was here."

She looked at him with a forced smile. "You have been dreaming," she answered.

"I suppose so," he said, with a sigh, "but it was very real. I thought he came in and spoke your name."

She stroked his hand. "It was fancy, dear."

He lay silent a moment. Then he said, "If it could only have been Harry you married instead of Hugh, for he loved you, Jessica."

She flushed as she said, "Ah, that was fancy too."

It was the first time since the day of her marriage that he had spoken Hugh's name.

Chapter 31

As Harry made his way down the mountain in the bleak and heavy dark, correcting his path by the lightning, he had faced squarely the question that in that dim room had become an imminent demand.

"What if I love her! What right have I to love her, with a wretched name like mine? She has refinement, a measure of wealth no doubt, and I am poor as poverty understood on the

Is Illegal Fishing Going On?

It is whispered around certain parts of Buckhorn and Chemong Lakes and Deer Bay that there are fish, especially bass, being taken therefrom out of season. It is further stated that during the winter, toward the head of the lake, fish could be obtained from those who illegally took them from the waters. It is high time steps were being taken to put a stop to this bold-faced breaking of the law. Let us have the law properly enforced.

A Wonderful Hen's Egg.

Mr. R. A. Bobbin of North Monaghan, last night brought into The Times office an egg that is unique. This "hen-fruit" is as large as a goose egg. The outer shell is transparent. Within is another clearly defined egg. The outer shell has a tail at the smaller end, about an inch long. It is now to be seen if the egg when hatched, will produce a Shanghai rooster or a second edition of Halley's comet.

In Memory of Queen Victoria.

All Canada to-day will join in the observance of Victoria Day, which is celebrated in memory and honor of the late Queen Victoria on the anniversary of her birth. Out of respect to the memory of the late King the celebrations generally will be of a more quiet character than usual and in many places the customary fireworks will be entirely abandoned. In this and other cities the celebrations will be confined largely to athletic and sporting events.

Looks Like Murder Up at St. Thomas

St. Thomas, May 23.—An inquest was begun on Saturday on the body of Richard Rock, a young man found dead beneath the Wabash Railway bridge on Friday morning, and an adjournment was made for a week to allow a post-mortem examination to be made, and the police to investigate the stories circulated.
Rock's cap was found on the road a quarter of a mile from where the body was found, and near the spot where residents say a row took place about midnight Thursday. Rock was seen with two and three women prior to this, and then he was wearing a ring belonging to one of the women. There was no ring on the finger when the body was found at 2 o'clock on Friday morning. Rock's companions had lunch in an uptown restaurant, but so far, no explanation has been given as to where Rock went in the meantime. The presence of numerous bruises on the body and the above circumstances rendered a post-mortem advisable.

KING GEORGE TOUCHED BY THE GRIEF OF PEOPLE—WILL CHERISH CONSTITUTION

London, May 23.—King George has issued the following:

"To my people.—

"The voice of affection and loving devotion to the memory of my dear father which has come from every part of the Empire, the outward public demonstrations, especially those in my capital during the two stages of his progress to his last resting place, and the pathetic manner in which the vast multitudes of his loving subjects patiently and reverently awaited the opportunity to pay the last tribute to his memory have profoundly touched me and my whole family. A sorrow so sudden and unlooked for might well have been overwhelming, but the sentiments evoked thereby have made me realize that it is a loss common to me and my people. They share it with me. I do not stand alone. With such thoughts I take courage and hopefully look into the future, resting in my faith in God, trusting my people, and cherishing the laws and constitution of my beloved country."

"I HAVE DONE MY BIT."

London, May 23.—There is an important error in the current version of King Edward's words on the morning of his death, when it was reported that he said, in recognizing the gravity of his peril, that he was not afraid to die, that he had done his duty. His real words, spoken with an air of tired resignation were:—

"I have done my bit."

Special Trains Run to Big Murder Trial

May's Landing, N.J., May 23.—William Seyler, charged with the murder of Miss Jane Adams, at the Million Doll Pier, in Atlantic City, on Feb. 4 last, was placed on trial before Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, here today. Never has a murder trial in this county attracted such general attention. Owing to this, the selection of a jury is expected to be difficult. District Attorney Clarence L. Goldenburg, is prosecuting while Edmund C. Gaskill, Jr., young criminal lawyer, is counsel for the accused.
Special trains, run from Atlantic City to the court house this morning, brought hundreds of interested and morbidly curious spectators.

COST NEARLY $40,000.

Dedication of Monument to South African Soldiers.

Toronto, May 24.—In the presence of a large assemblage and with the accompaniment of an elaborate military display, the magnificent monument commemorating the valor of th Canadian soldiers who fought and fell under the British flag in the South African War will be dedicated to-day by Earl Grey, assisted by General Sir John French, the famous British soldier who won fame in the relief of Kimberley and in other stirring events in the war with the Boers. For the dedication ceremonies the troops of the Toronto garrison will turn out in full force and there will also be a good representation of the veterans of the North-west Rebellion and of the Boer war, together with numerous semi-military and patriotic organizations.
The monument occupies a conspicuous site on University avenue. It was designed by W. S. Allward, the Toronto sculptor, and was erected at a cost of nearly $40,000, which amount was raised by popular subscription. The memorial bears the name of every Canadian who died while on active service in the South African war.

PRIEST FORBADE BOYS TO ENTER THE CHURCH.

Roman Catholics Among High School Cadets Did Not Attend Memorial Service.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—I take the following from Saturday's Toronto Star:

"Prescott, May 21.—A special memorial service was held in St. John's church here yesterday, attended by the mayor, the council, the veterans of 1866 and 1870, the High school cadets in their new uniforms, and the Masonic Lodge. The congregation nearly all wore black, helping to make the service very impressive.

"Father Matterson of the Roman Catholic Church, forbade the boys of his church, belonging to the cadets, to enter the Church of England, so when they came to the church they drew off to one side and waited until the service was over."

On reading the above article, doubtless every intelligent Roman Catholic will regret that Father Matterson has exhibited so much relentless bigotry at the present time.

The coronation oath is now under fierce controversy. One party maintains that the spirit of the Inquisition is still rank at the vatican, and this ill-advised utterance of the narrow minded priest Matterson, is sure to give force to that opinion.

AMITY.

LAID TO REST.

Funeral of the Ill-Fated Mrs. Gorham Held Monday.

Yesterday the last mortal remains of the ill-fated woman, Mrs. Gorham, shot by accident by her son James last Friday, were laid to rest. The funeral took place from the late residence, on Maria street, Ashburnham, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetary. It was largely attended, many sorrowing friends following in the cortege. The deceased's son, James Gorham, who fired the fatal shot was brought over to his home in the afternoon, where he had a last look at the remains of his dead parent.
At the Cathedral, mass was said by Rev. Father Meagher, and Rev. Father Casey officiated at the grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. James O'Brien, George Ball, W. Merrill, James Lynch, T. B. McGrath and Fred Cook.
A large number of beautiful floral tributes were received.

IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE.

Mr. Howson Gets Them all into Places In One Day.

It seems that Peterborough is getting its share of the crowds of English immigrants pouring into Canada. Yesterday, Mr. Howson, local immigration agent, had his hands full as no less than seventeen new arrivals from the shore of Albion arrived here. These prospective Canadian citizens came over on the steamship Manitoba and Mesantic. Mr. Howson soon placed them, and by evening all the new arrivals were in a position to earn their bread.
One married couple will leave this morning for Jubilee Point, where they will be employed for the summer months at the hotel there.

Mr. R. W. Emmerson, of Winnipeg, was a guest at the Snowden on Saturday.

TELLS THE FORTUNE OF KING GEORGE

ASTROLOGER GIVES HIM SHORT AND STORMY REIGN.

Wars and Calamities—The First Five Years, According to Daoud Will Be the Worst in History.

Washington, May 23.—His Gracious Majesty King George V. will doubtless be duly elated by the cheerful information that he has six and a half more years to live. Also, that his reign is to be a stormy one, although there is more cause for cheer in the information that the last eighteen months will be "comparatively quiet." A few wars, resulting in England being stripped of much power, some family trouble, dangerous illnesses, and the birth of European hostility to Britain, will all give the British Sovereign much cause for joy perhaps.
S. Daoud, a local astrologer, who says he foretold the death of King Edward and described the circumstances thereof accurately, has made the aforementioned predictions for the reign of King George V. Among the things which he foresees in the new King's horoscope is that his reign will last but six and a half years.
"The first five years," Daoud says, "will be among the stormiest in England's history. The last eighteen months, however, will be comparatively fortunate. The coming reign will be terminated by the King's death, which will be a natural one. He will more than once be the object of attempted assassination, but would-be murderers will be powerless to harm him.
"There will be trouble in all the British possessions during the second year, especially in India.
"In the third year of his reign there will be a conflict between England and another European power, called by a kinsman of King George, which will precipitate a great war. England will on her own part wage war with this European country. The war will be short and decisive and will result in England's being obliged to make concessions which will deprive her of much of her pow-

TO BETTER POULTRY.

Meetings to Be Held to Instruct Farmers in Handling of Eggs.

Meetings are being arranged for throughout the county with a special view to elevate the standard of local poultry and eggs. The organization having the movement in hand is styled the Co-operative Fresh Egg Circles. Farmers and poultry raisers will pay strict attention to the gathering and marketting of their eggs, and in doing so they will receive better prices.
Meetings have already been arranged for, the first to be held at Central Smith. Town Hall, on Thursday evening next. Meetings will also be held at Pine Grove, Zion, Stewart's and Monaghan, on dates to be announced later. This is a matter that should appeal to both the farming community and the local consumer.

ASTRONOMERS CORRECT.

Rev. Dr. Marsh Saw the Comet Friday in the Western Sky.

Dr. Marsh, the noted Springville astronomer, denys that his confreres were astray in their statements about the comet. Dr. Marsh received word that the comet had been seen at the Yerkes Observatory, in the western sky, on Friday evening. He saw it himself on Saturday evening. However, it was very faint. Several persons called him up during the evening and told him that they saw it quite clearly, but what they saw the doctor states, was nothing more than a bright cloud.

BASEBALL TODAY.

Cobourg and the Fast T.A.S. Team at Riverside Park.

At Riverside Park this afternoon the fast young Cobourg team will meet the T.A.S. team here. Cobourg has always been noted for its fine ball team, and the contests between them and Peterborough in the days of the old Midland League will long be remembered. These games were always noted for being stubbornly contested, and today's game will be no exception. The T.A.S. team by their win of Saturday proved that they are in good shape, and can go the route, and no doubt a bumper crowd will be on hand to see them in action again. It is the only attraction here on the holiday.

DEATH IN NORTH MONAGHAN.

Elizabeth McIntyre Passes Away at 82 Years of Age.

The death occurred at 5 o'clock last night at the residence of Mr. John Stewart, North Monaghan, near Mount St. Joseph, of Elizabeth McIntyre. The deceased lady, who was highly respected throughout the whole township was 82 years of age. She was a consistent member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.
The funeral will take place from Mr. John Stewart's residence, North Monaghan, near Mount St. Joseph, at 2.30, service at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

FIRST PICTURE RECEIVED OF KING EDWARD DEAD.

Portrait Shows That Our Departed Sovereign in Death Kept His Loved Characteristics.

Yesterday evening the first picture of our dead King, as lying on his death bed, arrived in Peterborough. This picture, issued by the London Illustrated News, shows King Edward VII. lying on his bed with the coverlets to his breast. The King looked peaceful and even in death wore the kingly, kind, intelligent but still masterful expression that characterized his face and expression in life. The picture, issued as above noted, was given publication by express approval of our esteemed Queen Mother Alexandra. The first sad but tangible reminder that Edward the Peacemaker has gone, was received by Mr. Fred Walker, lately on the staff of Mr. R. A. Dutton. Mr. Walker, a true son of Albion, of the better type, was much moved by this sad reminder that our Sovereign is dead. This picture will be on view in front of the Crystal today.

Fought Second Duel Within Three Weeks

Paris, May 23.—The usual methods of French duels were put aside today when Count Ismael de Lesseps, and Count Just de Poligny fought for the second time in three weeks. De Lesseps was wounded in the thigh. On May 3rd they first met in the Pare des Princes, following a quarrel. Rapiers were used in the beginning, but after a few minutes pistols were substituted, as de Poligny is lame. Six shots were fired without either being hit. Today's combat was the outcome of that. De Lesseps is an officer in a cavalry regiment.
The original quarrel is said to have been of slight character, but a passage of cars at the circus led to the resort to arms. The principals left the field on May 3rd without a reconciliation. The matter hung fire for a few days, and then De Lesseps demanded the new combat. The details were arranged without difficulty.

TORONTO MAN AT POINT OF DEATH POLICE LOOKING FOR HIR ASSAILANT

Toronto, May 24.—As the result of having been struck on the head by the man with whom three minutes before he had been conversing in a friendly manner, Thomas Horder, proprietor of the Saranac Hotel, at the corner of Queen and Soho streets is lying at death's door while the police are scouring the city in search of the man who struck the blow.
Last Tuesday night Mr. Horder shut up the front door of the bar at 10.55 o'clock as has been his custom for years, and then began to let the customers at the bar go out the side door.
Several of these men had been singing rather loudly earlier in the evening, and Mr. Horder had found it necessary to reprove them. With the exception of one or two, all seemed to take it in good part. As the men in the bar filed out, one of them paused in the doorway to speak to Mr. Horder.
They chatted in a friendly manner for a few minutes and then, without warning the man struck Mr. Horder a blow on the head. Horder was stunned by the blow, but soon recovered. The blow was made with some metal object, thought by the police to have been a pair of brass knuckles. Blood poisoning has set in and Mr. Horder is so low that but little hope is held out for his recovery. He gave the police the name and a description of his assailant, but although they have been on his trail since Tuesday night they have been unable to land him. Mr. Horder made his will last night and Mrs. Horder is prepared for the worst.

GEORGE ST. FLOODED.

Citizens Had to Walk Through Four Inches of Water.

During yesterday's heavy rain the George street crossings on the north side of Hunter street, were simply a disgrace to the city. The water pouring down George street simply could not begin to escape by the sewer traps. Several citizens were actually compelled to walk through fully four inches of muddy water when business or their own inclinations impelled them to cross the street. One member of the local council remarked to a Times representative as a citizen got wet to his knees. "What's the matter with the Board of Works?" The city father went on to say, "Surely with this storm plainly threatening all day something could have been done."

Wholesale Liquor Men Confer.

Cincinnati, O., May 24.—Plans to elevate the moral tone of saloons in order to stay the progress of the prohibition wave that has been sweeping the country the past few years will be exhaustively discussed at the convention of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association, which began in this city today. The Convention, which has its headquarters at the Sinton Hotel, will remain in session until Friday.

Grain of West All to be Handled by the Public

In a Year or Two Practically the Whole Crop Will be Handled by Government Commissions

Winnipeg, May 23.—When D. W. Craig, president of the Grain Growers' Association was made chairman of the Public Elevator Commission of Manitoba by the Provincial Government the first formal step toward the operation of the new scheme planned some months ago was taken. Incidentally the head of the head of the farmers' organization may be accepted as indisputable proof of the powerful political influence of the Grain Growers' Association of Manitoba, and the other Prairie Provinces. In this Province there are said to be fourteen thousand stockholders in the Grain Growers' Co. alone. As only association members are privileged to purchase stock in this grain clearing warehouse, it can never pass out of their control. The entire membership of the association throughout the Prairie Provinces is a secret, but it is said to include fourth-fifths of the men actually engaged in producing grain in Western Canada. Though this may be an exaggeration the Grain Growers' Co. handled fifteen million bushels fact remains that the Grain Growers' Co. handled fifteen million bushels of grain consigned through the Winnipeg gateway last year. It is said that they expect to handle double that quantity this year. This is ten times more than any other grain company marketed last year.

Rev. Mr. Skeene Has Accepted the Call to Havelock Church

A meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery was held in St. Andrew's church yesterday evening, when a call from Havelock to Rev. Mr. Skene, of Baltimore, and the call from Beechburg to Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville, were considered. The Springville congregation are unanimous in their desire to have Rev. Dr. Marsh remain with them.
Rev. Dr. Marsh asked for time to consider the call and will report to the clerk his decision at a later date.
Mr. John Thompson, M.P.P., and P. V. Wright on behalf of the Havelock congregation, ably supported the call to Rev. Mr. Skeene of Baltimore, and the matter was left in the hands of Mr. Skeene, who accepted. His induction will take place on Tuesday, July 5 at 1.30 p.m.

"MARVELOUS RECOVERY."

Montreal Man So Ill With Dyspepsia Thought He Would Die.

No more convincing evidence was ever put on paper than the following letter from one of Montreal's well-known citizens. Mr. D. R. Larose, of 338 Joliette street.

Festival of Empire.

London, May 24.—The Festival of Empire, which was to have opened in the Crystal Palace today and for which all preparations had been completed, has been declared off out of respect to the memory of King Edward. As originally planned the affair was to consist of elaborate festivities and pageant illustrating the history of London and its gradual growth and importance as the center of a world-wide empire. It has now been decided that the only feature of the celebration that will be carried out according to the original plans will be the colonial exhibition, which will be kept open through the greater part of the summer. The exhibition consists of an elaborate pictorial representation of the life and industries of the British over-seas dominions, including the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland, the Commonwealth of Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the Crown Colonies.

U.S. DELEGATES OFF TO THE HAGUE

HAVE GONE TO ATTEND THE NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERIES BIG DISPUTE.

Millions are Involved—Senator Root is Chief Counsel, and He Has a Big Array of Talent With Him.

New York, May 21.—The array of special counsel, assistants, secretaries and expert witnesses, who are to appear before the International Arbitration Tribunal at The Hague in Newfoundland's fisheries case, sailed today by the liner Lapland for Amsterdam. They will proceed to The Hague immediately, where the court convenes on June 1.
The American delegation is headed by Senator Root, as chief counsel, and Chandler Anderson, who prepared the case of the United States. Other counsellors are George I. Turner of Spokane, Samuel J. Elder of Boston, Jas. B. Scott, solicitor of the State Department; Chas. B. Warren of Detroit, and Robert Lansing of Watertown. Judge Gray of Delaware will act as one of the judges of the tribunal.
The counsel for Great Britain consists of the most distinguished international lawyers from England, Canada, and Newfoundland. There are three from each country, and among them are the attorney-general and former attorney-general of England.
The case, which is the first to be heard under the general treaties of arbitration negotiated by Secretary Root under the recommendation of the last Hague convention, is one of the most important arbitrations undertaken by the United States.
It entails the entire fishing industry of the North Atlantic involving millions of dollars annually. Upon the decision will depend the validity of one or another set of claims probably involving many hundreds of thousands of dollars more.

HEAVINESS AT PIT OF THE STOMACH.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a weighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINE RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS.

The above letter comes from Mrs. P.R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brockton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholster of Chester, who writes; "Let everyone with a bad stomach use "Nerviline," and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises, gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

You'll find a hundred uses for Nerviline—it's a trusty household remedy that sells to the extent of a million dollars per year—that's the best proof that it must cure and give unlimited satisfaction. THE NEWEST DOMINION.

On the last day of the present month the Dominion of South Africa will be proclaimed, and thus the third of the confederated British over-seas kingdoms will be launched. It is interesting to bear in mind that Canada was the pioneer of the policy of union in which South Africa has joined. Prior to 1867 we were a series of colonies stretching from Lake Superior to the sea. In that year the consolidation of the provinces was accomplished and since then we have progressed, and owing to our area, and increasing our prosperity. Australia followed our example a few years ago. She passed from the disunion stage and became a commonwealth.

Now South Africa joins the group. While there is general satisfaction at the development of the Federal idea, there are somewho fear that the grant to our new sister of a constitutionsimilar to that of Canada has been decided upon too soon, or at a period not sufficiently remote from the war. Mr. Kipling, who is spoken of as the poet of Empire,shares that opinion. His poem wherein he protests against the return to the Boers of the power to govern is a strong deliverance upon that phase of the question. He describes the grant of self-governing authority as another Majuba, and deplores the fact that:

"Unchallenged in the market place
Of freedom's chosen land,:
Our rulers pass our rule and race
Into the stranger's hand."

Itis quite possible that it would have been better if the concession of full constitutional rights had been delayed. Already, in anticipation of the formation of the new dominion, friction has been developed. A government has to be chosen, a premier has to be selected. The British people inSouth Africa would hail with satisfaction the appointment of Dr. Jameson to the post of honor and would place confidence in a ministry formed by that former premier of Cape Colony. But the British are in a hopless minority. They may desire a government directed by British ideals, but they cannot have it. Some of them have suggested the formation of a coalition for the moment, with the view to the creation of lines of policy that shall be other than racial. This proposition is no more welcome than that which looks to the premiership of Dr. Jameson. The Dutch will not consent to it. As a consequence we shall hear, soon after the arrival of Lord Gladstone the first governor of the new dominion, that General Botha has been called to form a cabinet. This will mean Boer ascendency, and such a situation will be tolerable only because General Botha is a very superior man and is disposed to act with a degree of justice not common to others of his race. Much will depend upon the moderation with which Botha exercises the authority that is almost certain to fall upon him. That his power will be very great is obvious from the fact that the new confederationis more like a legislative union than a federation. All the former colonies are joined into one government for all purposes, save such as are so absolutely local as to appertain under our system to the municipal councils. The central government of which General Botha will be the head will thus be absolute. As it will be supported in a House of 120 by from 70 to 80 members, it will have no reason to fear its English-speaking opposition.

There are doubts in some minds as to the wisdom of the experiment that is being made, owing to the racial situation. But it is to be hoped that the alarmists will be pleasantly disappointed and that the races thrown together under one government will, by the exercise of toleration and good judgment, live in harmony.

TRAVEL ON THE PACIFIC.

The number of passengers crossing the Pacific from both Australia and the Orient has so far this year been considerably in excess of that for a similar period in any previous year. The regular liners running between the Orient and this continent have had good passenger lists this season and the freighters and tramp steamers have also carried some passengers.

It is gratifying to find that the volume of travel to and from Australia by the Canadian route is increasing. For many years the results of the establishment of the Canadian-Australian steamship service must have been both disappointing and financially unprofitable to its promoters. With a better class of vessels, and the greater knowledge of the advantages which this route could offer over that by the Suez Canal, the passenger traffic has assumed larger proportions and with seasonable remuneration from the governments interested for the carriage of the mails, the service should be placed on a permanent basis and be largely used by travellers between Great Britain and Australia.
